Hoblitzelle's Para. Deal Is Extended

Hoblitzelle operations in Galveston and Austin, Texas, numbering about 10 houses, are made subject to the new one year operating partnership just closed by Paramount with Karl Hoblitzelle, the company stated yesterday. The partnership agreement includes an option for Paramount to repurchase from Hoblitzelle his 50 per cent stock interest in Texas Interstate circuit. Although the Galveston and Austin operations have been a part of this circuit they were not subject to the option agreement heretofore.

Master Art Leaves Accessories Field

Master Art Products, Inc., will go out of the accessory business in accordance with agreements for the withdrawal of a suit brought against National Screen Service and National Screen Accessories, Saul E. Rogers, attorney for Master Art, said yesterday.

Under the agreement, Rogers said, Master Art will turn over approximately 350 accessories accounts to National Screen Accessories, who will service them and pay a percentage of the collections to Master Art during the next year and a half while the accounts are being liquidated. In addition, Rogers said, National Screen will pay Master Art a "substantial cash consideration." E. Schwartz, head of Master Art, will engage in the production of stage plays, features and shorts, including a series of Organlogues, Rogers said.

The suit against National Screen resulted, Rogers said, from that company's recent take-over of American Display, which was regarded by Schwartz as a breach of an agreement made at the time he acquired Master Art from National Screen, under which the latter agreed not to compete in the accessories field with Master Art for a period of five years.

Herman Robbins, head of National Screen, denied that any cash consid-

"Deeds" Hits Record

Seattle, June 30.—All long run records for this city have been broken by "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." The Columbia film has entered its 12th week at Jensen-VonHerberg's Liberty.

The former record was held by "It Happened One Night" which played for 11 weeks at the same theatre at top prices of 35 cents. The current run of "Mr. Deeds" rates a charge of 40 cents top, plus state tax.

Manager Leroy V. Johnson promises "These Three" as the next attraction "if the current run ever finishes."

May Pick Briggs as Pathe's Head Today

Pathe's board of directors will meet today when it is expected O. Henry Briggs, who recently resigned as general sales manager of DuPont Film Co., will be elected president to succeed Frank F. Kolbe. The latter, it was reported yesterday, will most likely continue on the board.

Briggs is due on the coast today and is scheduled to return east in about 10 days. No successor to Briggs at DuPont has been officially named. Newton I. Steers, president, and G. A. Scanlon, vice-president, are both out of town and are not expected back until next week.

Jersey Allied Takes Up Selling Policies

Members of Allied of New Jersey yesterday held a general discussion of sales policies of the various distributors. No action was taken and the matter will come up again next Tuesday.

The New York sales tax situation was briefly taken up and put over until next week inasmuch as no official word has reached the organization by the distributors.

On July 6, Lee Newbury, president, and a committee on arrangements will go to Atlantic City to decide at what hotel the unit will hold its annual convention on Sept. 10-11.

Roth has signed a three-year contract with Republic to take over sales in the west and south. His headquarters will be in Chicago.

Possibility Warners May Rejoin Ascap

Official Circles Admit Action May Come

The possibility of Warners rejoining Ascap at almost any time in the immediate future was admitted yesterday in official quarters which, however, declined to be quoted.

Some Ascap members stated that they were opposed to the admittance of the Warner music companies to Ascap on the ground that copyright infringement suits filed by the music companies for large amounts in damages had worked an injury on the present copyright laws. However, members holding this view are reported to be in the minority and, moreover, influential Ascap officers have openly said that they would like to see the Warner companies back in the society.

It appears a certainty that the opposition within Ascap to the reinstatement of the Warner companies can be overcome at any moment that the latter apply for readmission. It appears equally certain, however, that

Skouras-RKO Action Is Believed "Dead"

The Skouras product case against the RKO 81st St. was regarded as "dead" yesterday by attorneys associated with the action when the June term of the N. Y. Supreme Court came to a close without the case being called for trial. The next term of the court does not open until October, by which time the product contracts on which the action is based will have expired, thus automatically removing the cause of complaint, according to the attorneys.

The Skouras suit was based on a

Warners Close Four In Pittsburgh Zone

Four Warner theatres in the Pittsburgh area have been closed for the summer, Harry Kalmine, zone manager, stated Monday. No negotiations are under way to expand the circuit's activities in the zone, according to Kalmine.

The quartet darkened for the warm months includes the Columbia, Warren; Columbia, Erie; Prince, Ambridge; Liberty, Donora.

Kalmine, who is here with his assistant, Ben Kalmenson, will remain in New York for about a week for product conferences with home office executives.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE cycle of good things emanating from Hollywood grows apace. That's a slightly poetical way of conveying the fact that the coast is doing one damned, swell job of it these days. Significant in that connection is the very considerable part the Warners are playing. So many matters go on there, this space, in the last few days, has had little opportunity to forsake that lot for others. This is no fault of ours. . . .

Today, for a spell, goes to the same company, the subject matter on this new occasion being "Anthony Adverse." We were not one of those who read Hervey Allen's colossus, but, like many others, we suppose, the story in its highlights is fairly familiar. To judge the picture on the basis of any faithful rendition of the novel, therefore, is something we cannot and so will not do. From what has been captured on the screen, however, it is our opinion that Mervyn Le Roy has done a notable job of direction. "Adverse" is headed for a vast popular appeal. . . .

Swinging from 18th century France to Spain, the Alps and Italy, Havana and Africa and then to Paris in the days of Napoleon's peak, this is a stirring story along the high road of adventure. It has color and, now and then, a genuinely idyllic moment. It has sweep and a broad canvas, fine performances by Fredric March, Edmund Gwenn, Claude Rains, Pedro de Cordoba and Henry O'Neill and good performances by a long cast of others. Le Roy attuned his direction in terms of motion pictures and stressed action, not dialogue. The production shows the benefits of such wise handling. . . .

How and why it came about at all may be of interest. We have it from Mervyn's own lips. On his honeymoon trip around the world with his bride, the former Doris Warner, Le Roy says he made a check of the passengers' reading proclivities. Of the approximate six hundred aboard, he reports about three hundred and fifty were reading "Anthony Adverse." That was enough for him. Subsequently, he urged Warners to go after the rights. They refused. "Everyone knows the novel couldn't be compressed into one picture," was the way it went. But Le Roy insisted and finally won out. The director, moreover, has never read the book, not to this day. He did go through a synopsis, but no further. It was the popularity of the novel, as evidenced by its huge sales, that clinched it in Le Roy's mind. The picture now amply substantiates his judgment. . . .

Hollywood, well-oiled and as thoroughly geared, turns out the world's best more frequently than any other source, of course. But not all of them. From the England toward which we are about to trim our sails lands an attraction which need take no bleacher seat for anything the west turns out. "Nine Days a Queen" is the title. It deals with king-makers in medieval England, with intrigue and the ill-fated Lady Jane Grey who ascended the British throne for nine days and then went to the executioner's block under mandate from Mary Tudor. This Gaumont British film unfolds like a sort of majestic tapestry, replete with production and set values and about it an air of something important. While the title role goes to Nova Pilbeam, completely dominant is Sir Cedric Hardwicke as the Machiavellian Earl of Warwick. Always dependable for a sterling performance, he lives up to his tradition as one of England's best actors. . . .

Comes along one L. A. Ireland, secretary of the Printers' Board of Trade of San Francisco delivering a talk before the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems with this choice one:

> "It seems the more outrageous the thing done, the more likely the actors are to prove worthy of fabulous incomes. They have only to be charged with murder, as a successful bootlegger, a naked fan dancer, kidnapped on the Mexican desert or drowned, supposedly, in the Pacific Ocean to be worth millions to the moving picture magnates."

The town's agog and the box-offices at the Capitol cracking under the strain of "San Francisco." It has been some time now since the hard-boiled boys in the trade have gone as loco over any attraction as they have over this one from Leo's lair. In its first three days along Broadway, the $30,000 run up puts the Gable-MacDonald vehicle in the same drawing power class as "Mutiny on the Bounty." And that's a class, if you remember. . . .

Stebbins Condemns Ban on "Pastures"

Rowland Stebbins, producer of the stage version of "Green Pastures," yesterday condemned the action of the Ontario Provincial Censorship Board and Premier Mitchell Hepburn in banning the film of "Green Pastures" from Ontario theatres.

Stebbins pointed out that the famous Marc Connelly play was performed twice in Toronto to packed houses and that it received the acclaim of Canadian religious and civic bodies.

Fight Film Arrest

Tampa, June 30.—It was reported here that the pictures of the Schmeling-Louis fight were ordered out at Miami and the manager of the theatre showing them was arrested under an ordinance which prohibits the showing of pictures of contests between whites and negroes. The pictures are now playing here and have been since Monday, without any protest.

HOLLYWOOD, June 30.—A special exploitation staff of six members will cover key cities in connection with the release of "The Last of the Mohicans." Dennis O'Brien of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery will leave for Hollywood today to be on hand for the annual stockholders' meeting of United Artists, scheduled for Monday. Samuel Goldwyn, who was slated to head for the coast yesterday, has put off his departure until later in the week. Goldwyn's delay in leaving may result in a postponement of the stockholders' session until he arrives.

At the meeting it is expected a president will be elected. According to the bylaws of the company, the stockholders or the board of directors can elect a president, stated O'Brien yesterday.

Maurice Silverstone, managing director for U. A. in England, and George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager, now attending the annual sales meeting at the Ambassador, Los Angeles, will stay over for the stockholders' session.

foreign sales, who described the year's progress in the foreign field. Harry D. Buckley, vice-president in charge of corporate affairs, was next introduced by Schaefer.

An ovation was accorded David O. Selznick. Abe Lehr, general manage for Samuel Goldwyn, spoke in behalf of the producer, who is in New York, and Merritt Hulburd described the new season Goldwyn plans. Received loudly were Walter Huston, Edward Arnold and a cartoonist band from the Disney studio.

A committee consisting of Arthur Kelly, Haskell Masters, Charles Stern and Harry Gold was appointed by Schaefer to draft a telegram to Samuel Goldwyn congratulating the producer on his recovery from his recent illness and expressing disappointment at his inability to attend the sessions.

One of the highlights of today's session was the presentation of leather-encased lapel watches to the delegates on behalf of the company.

Harry Buckley spoke on the subject of the 2,000-foot reel and of its economy to the U.A. organization. He described preparation for the changeover September 1.

The delegates were presented with copies of "Dodsworth" and "Come and Get It" in fiction book form. Similar copies of "The Last of the Mohicans" are expected.

Emil Jansen, of the Goldwyn office, presented delegates with autographed copies of photos of Ida Lupino, Nino Martini and Leo Carillo.

Abe Lehr was host at a cocktail party following the close of the business meeting.

Skirboll to Join Lloyd

Around L. A. with U. A.

Los Angeles, June 30.—When Max Stahl of Cincinnati looked at Estelle Goldberg in that certain peculiar way at last year's convention, something had to happen. It did. This year Mr. and Mrs. Stahl are attending the convention together.

Saul Resnick of Buffalo is new to the United Artists sales staff, but a veteran in the film business. He once worked for Haskell Masters in New Haven, then was here and there, and now is U. A. ing.

That Philadelphia brand haircut apparently is so much a part of Harry (Wild Root) Bodkin that he still sticks with it.

The diminutive physical proportions of Bert Stern of Pittsburgh seem to have no effect on that manager's ability to get places and do things. He doesn't even have to use a ladder to make his presence known.

The only reason Charlie Kranz, Washington pilot, was able to get to the convention at all was the fact that a kind-hearted, and very tired Congress gave up and went home, and the diplomatic corps went on vacation.

Fred Rohrs had to make a sudden shift of accent, when he was transferred from Kansas City to Charlotte. When in Rome——.

Harry Lotz is a sheep returned to the fold, with no reflection on his caliber. Harry was in Boston originally, went into his own business, and now again U. A. is his business, first as a salesman in Milwaukee, now as Chicago branch head.

We haven't any idea why, but up Boston way they call Manager John J. Dervin "Tomatoes." Maybe it's because he likes them so much, or because he dislikes them.

Lou Wechsler of New Haven is another of those men who found himself a "better half" since last year. Incidentally, he had his tonsils removed recently, but he hasn't revealed whether it has caused him to change his collar size.

They say A. J. Jeffery of Montreal is the real gentleman of the Canadian contingent. Coming down from way up north, Jeffery and Sam Glazer of Toronto were the long and short of the matter.

Dave Griesforf of Winnipeg has a real past. He was once a lawyer, but most people don't hold that against him, and he has almost lived it down.

Bill Feldstein, who rules the St. Louis roost, numbers among his treasured memories the days when he used to be a football star. He hasn't done much kicking lately, however.

Irving Schlank of Salt Lake City drove over from that village, with Mrs. Schlank sitting beside him and telling him every time the right turn was the wrong one—after he had made it.

One of the most irrepressible travelers in the U. A. force is Jack Goldhar, Midwest district manager, whose headquarters are in Chicago. For a man who hops around the nation as he does, this Los Angeles jaunt is just a local stop.

Today's session was enlivened by the presence of six pretty Goldwyn Girls who were invited supposedly for the edification of the delegates but who were soon annexed at the luncheon table by Monroe Greenthal, Lynn Farnol and Danny Thomas.

Rolsky and six or seven others against Fox Midwest on a conspiracy charge in connection with the 1935-36 season's clearance. Several independents bought clearance independently of the group in the suit. The effort of the majority of independents to eliminate giveaways met with some dissension in the ranks.

Legislation Theme At K. C. Convention

Kansas City, June 30.—Legislation was the theme of the 18th annual convention of the Kansas and Missouri Theatre Ass'n here today.

President John Stapel in an address stated that the association could not show exhibitors how to play pictures or buy film but that it can protect exhibition against outside competition and legislation which singles out the industry for taxes which other businesses are not forced to pay.

Harry Sharpe, secretary of Associated Industries of Kansas, said that the leaders of both Kansas houses are committed to the submission of a resolution limiting the special session to the social security amendment but both he and Stapel warned of the revenue needs of both states and of the nation at large.

Regional meetings on legislation are probable this fall in both Kansas and Missouri.

The exhibitors warmly approved the suggestion of Dave Palfreyman, of the Hays organization, that the thousands of theatre stockholders in the country should be warned that legislation aimed at films directly affects their investments.

Ed L. Kuykendall, speaking on duals, stated that double featuring drives away the finest patronage. The convention took no action on the subject but strong agreement with Kuykendall was felt.

Kuykendall predicted the elimination of the score charge by next session as a result of mutual consent between the conciliation board and distributors. Final details, he said, must be worked out to bring the board into existence after which, he believes, the industry will have less necessity for going into court where, Kuykendall added, the lawyers are the only ones who win anyway. The ten-point program, he said, provides an ethical basis of understanding between exhibitors and distributors.

Election of officers will take place tomorrow.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Down to the Sea"

(Republic)

Hollywood, June 30.—Against the fresh and interesting background of sponge fishing, this picture tells a dramatic, romantic love story. Geared to a thrill action plot in which the quality of suspense has been deftly applied, the film is both educational and entertaining. The yarn is based on the dual premise of conflict in business and love. Much of the action takes place below the surface of the ocean off the Florida keys where the rival gangs gather sponges. This is an exploitation asset which, in illustrating methods of sponge gathering, makes possible the adaptation of novel showmanship.

Boastful Ben Lyon, best of the crew that dive for sponges, and Russell Hardie, leader of those who fish with poles and hooks, are business rivals and also rivals for the hand of Ann Rutherford, daughter of Fritz Leiber, boss of the fisheries. Building up the drama of this situation, an underwater interlude illustrates a diving competition. On the killing of of poaching Irving Pichel, Lyon is suspected and warfare between the rival groups is engendered. Leiber, who follows a code of his own making, has Lyon raised too quickly from the depths to die of the "bends." With his death, warfare between the rival hookers and divers is eliminated and the dramatic triangle romance culminated with Miss Rutherford pledged to Hardie.

While motivating story is acceptable, real entertainment and commercial worth of picture are confined to the drama of sponge fishing episodes. In telling the story Lyon, Hardie, Miss Rutherford, Pichel and Leiber give convincing performances. Meager comedy contrast is in hands of Vince Barnett and Vic Potel. The story is an original by Eustace L. Adams, Wellyn Totman and William A. Ulman with screenplay by Totman and R. L. Johnson. Lewis D. Collins directed.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,283. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Ungdom Av I Dag" ("Youth of Today")

(Paramount)

A slight, but rather engaging romantic film of young love and its accustomed difficult course, this Swedish talking picture offers little out of the ordinary with the exception of an extremely attractive and highly competent actress named Anne-Marie Brunius, who is blonde and effective.

There are sufficient superimposed English subtitles and a few striking shots of the Swedish air force in action, but aside from that the film has nothing for the American audience lacking a knowledge of the language. It is, briefly, just another picture, but one which should be found entertaining for those of Swedish extraction who can appreciate what apparently were a number of amusing bits of dialogue.

The girl's mother gets herself into debt; the girl would like to marry the young aviator with whom she has fallen in love, but it becomes necessary to save her mother from impending disgrace. A kindly uncle comes to the rescue of mother and romance.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 81 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Normandy and Mont St. Michel"

(Harold Auten)

A charming vignette of travel in the northern section of France. The camera takes the audience on a genuinely entertaining tour of Rouen, showing brief glimpses of the historical places connected with Joan of Arc and William the Conqueror. The camera work is an artistic treat. It shows fine, medieval architecture and the present day life, still fashioned somewhat after old customs. The last part covers Mont St. Michel, an island fortress of historical note. It covers the town, high spots and shows how a famous local omelet is made. Opening shots are superb camera compositions. The film is tastefully narrated and should please highly where a better grade offering is appreciated. Production Code Seal, No. 01,100. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Confer in England On Australia Quota

London, June 19.—During the current visit to London of B. S. D. Stevens, Prime Minister of New South Wales, he is likely to go into conference with a delegation from the Film Group of the Federation of British Industries in regard to modification of the existing quota law in that state of Australia. Informal discussions have already taken place between Stevens and Neville Kearney, secretary of the Film Group.

Existing quota regulations in N. S. W. class British and American films alike as "imported" and demand that they be covered by Australian made films. British interests want British made films to rank as Australian, in line with the present classification of Australian films as British for purpose of quota in England.

Recently Ernest Turnbull of British Dominions Films of Australia suggested an "Empire" quota; out of a total quota of 25 per cent, five per cent would be Australian and 20 per cent made in any British territory.

Possibility Warners May Rejoin Asca

no concessions will be made by Asca in order to regain the Warner com panies. A consensus of official opinio among Ascap membership is that th return of those companies would b in accordance with existing condi tions within the society and that non of the demands on the part of th Warner companies which led up t their withdrawal from Ascap last Jan 1 would be met now as a condition o their return to membership.

Thus the situation appears to b that the Warner companies will b reinstated at any moment that the make the request, but that no inducements to regain their membership ar being proffered by the society.

That the society has not suffere financially by the loss of the Warne membership during the first six month of the current year is emphasized b Ascap members. The organization i scheduled to declare a dividend i about 10 days and it will be one o the largest in the organization's history, it is stated.

BARNEY BALABAN

Election Scheduled for Today; Zukor to Head All Production

Barney Balaban of B. & K. Theatres, Chicago, is scheduled to be elected to the presidency of Paramount when the company's board meets today for the annual election of officers.

Adolph Zukor, who had been regarded for the past few weeks as the leading candidate for the Paramount presidency, is understood to have expressed a preference yesterday for remaining as chairman of the board, a post he has occupied for the past year, and, in addition, will be placed in executive charge of production. In this capacity, it is understood, Zukor will become president of Paramount Prod., Inc., the producing company subsidiary, of which he has also been chairman of the board heretofore.

John E. Otterson, whose one-year term as president of Paramount, expired yesterday is reported to be leaving the company without a settlement of his contract having been made. It was authoritatively indicated that Otterson's pay was stopped by the company yesterday on advice of Paramount counsel and indications are that a legal action based on Otterson's five-year contract will be filed by his attorneys in the near future.

Balaban, who only recently was Minors Film Bill Signed By LaGuardia

He Warns Theatres Must Comply with Law

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia yesterday morning fulfilled a promise made to New York theatre men at the time of his election, when he signed the Stand Bill, permitting the admission to theatres of unaccompanied children under 16 under certain specified restrictions.

The new local law supplants the long unpopular state law prohibiting the admission of unaccompanied children, and opens the way for considerably enhanced child business by theatres in the city with the beginning this week of the two-month school vacation period.

The Mayor signed the bill following a hearing at City Hall, but at the time emphatically warned that if there is any "cheating" by theatres on the new law, he will see to it that no children will be admitted to theatres under any circumstances. He declared, "I'll invoke the old law to the extent that they'll wish they'd never heard of it."

The new law, enacted to be effective immediately, is expected to be

Erpi Details Slash in Its Royalty Rates

Erpi yesterday made known the details on its price cuts for the United States which went into effect yesterday. At the same time word was sent out to licensees about an equipment credit plan by which modifications of present studio recording equipment as well as other recording devices and services can be secured without further investment.

Under the new plan a single royalty charge will be made for recording and distribution throughout the world, except Canada. Royalties for features will be on the basis of the cost of the film and running time and royalties for serials will be based on running time. For features with a negative cost of more than $50,000 the charge will be $54 per minute. For features costing less than this and for shorts the royalty will be $27 per minute. For serials it will be $13.50 per minute.

Original foreign-language films will pay at a rate half that for those in English. No royalties will be charged for trailers and dubbed versions if Erpi has received a royalty for the original version.

No increase in the minimum annual royalties will be made regardless of the amount of W. E. recording equipment used by the licensee. A separate

New Season Buying Will Be ITOA Topic

Film buying for next season's product will be the topic of discussion at the I.T.O.A. board of directors meeting next Wednesday. Although complaints have been registered within the organization of alleged malpractices by distributors, a committee appointed some time ago to take the matter to Washington has not yet done anything about it.

All queries on the Washington conferences are being turned over to Milton C. Weisman of Weisman, Quinn, Allen & Spett, attorneys for the unit. Weisman states the matter has not been dropped, but cannot specifically tell when the committee will make the trip.

154 Years of Loew's Service At Celebration for Friedman

Leopold Friedman, head of the Loew legal department, yesterday celebrated a quarter of a century's service with the company. The occasion was topped off with a luncheon tendered him at the Tavern by a number of other veterans in the company's ranks. All in all, the men joining with Friedman represented a total of 154 years of Loew manpower.

David M. Bernstein headed the list with 31 years to his credit. Charles C. Moskowitz has 24 years chalked up, E. A. Schiller, 21; Judge I. Frey, 17; Louis K. Sidney, 15; Eugene Picker, 14; Oscar Doob, the baby in point of time, seven years.

Not present for one reason or another, but nevertheless veterans of repute were Nicholas M. Schenck with 30 years of service behind him; Fred Mitchell, 29; Joseph R. Vogel, 26.

"White Angel" Tips Business at Strand

Business perked up at the Strand last week with "The White Angel" getting approximately $35,000 for the first seven days. It is being held for a second week and will be followed by "Public Enemy's Wife."

"Poppy" in its second Paramount week stood up well enough to be held for an additional seven days. The take for the week ending Tuesday night was slightly under $34,000. "Dancing Pirate" at the Rivoli in its second and last week didn't hit the $4,000 mark, but came pretty close to it.

The Music Hall today starts a second week's run on "Poor Little Rich Girl."

Appeal to Be Taken On "Zombies" Award

Fitelson & Mayers, attorneys for Academy Pictures, will file an appeal within the next few days from a recent decision by Referee Herman Hoffman, who granted Amusement Securities a permanent injunction and damages totaling $10,878 in connection with the production and distribution of "Return of the Zombies," Bert Mayers stated yesterday. The motion will be filed with the Appellate Division of the N. Y. Supreme Court.

A judgment for the $10,878 was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday on behalf of Amusement Securities by Al Krellberg.

"Ziegfeld" Reaches $147,000, Chicago

CHICAGO, July 1.—"The Great Ziegfeld," now in its 12th week at the Erlanger at two-a-day, chalked up a total gross of $147,000 up to last night's closing take. It is expected that M-G-M will hold the musical for one more week.

"The Great Ziegfeld" tally sets something of a record here for the distributor which boasted about the $114,000 gross when "Grand Hotel" wound up an 11-week run at the Woods. During the days of the Woods showings, the tariff was scaled to $2 top, while the current Erlanger attraction sells for $1.65 top.

now in its second S.R.O. week at the N. Y. Strand, seems destined to become one of the year's greatest successes. Unanimously hailed by press and public as 'better than "Pasteur" ', the avalanche of critical acclaim for its lovely star's 'inspired, superb portrayal', the 'magnificent' support of Ian Hunter, Donald Woods, Nigel Bruce, Donald Crisp, Henry O'Neill, Billy Mauch, and the 'masterful, flawless direction' of William Dieterle, unquestionably stamps it 'one of the screen's finest and most distinguished achievements'. Balaban to Be Named as Head Of Paramount elected to the Paramount board and the company's executive committee, was first singled out by influential factors on the board for the post of vice-president and general manager of the company, in which capacity he was to have been in general executive charge of home office affairs, including all branches of the company's activities with the exception of production. Under this proposal, Zukor would have been elected president, but would have remained in charge of production and spent a large part of his time in Hollywood.

The change in plans is understood to have come last week-end when Balaban gathered with John D. Hertz of Lehman Bros. and Edwin L. Weisl of Atlas Corp. at Hertz's country home at Cary, Ill. Urged to accept the presidency, it is reported, Balaban made the one condition that the move have the approval of Zukor. When the latter arrived from the coast Monday discussions were begun which ended in general agreement yesterday.

Keough Seen as V. P.

Further indications are that Austin Keough, secretary of Paramount, will be elevated to a vice-presidency at today's meeting, succeeding R. E. Anderson, former treasurer of Erpi, whose one-year term has expired. According to report, Anderson has been asked to remain at Paramount in a financial capacity but indications are that he will resign. H. M. Wilcox, who also went to Paramount from Erpi a year ago, is also reported to be resigning.

Walter B. Cokell, treasurer; Keough, secretary; Neil F. Agnew, John Hicks, Jr., and Y. Frank Freeman, vice-presidents, and Norman Collyer, assistant secretary, all appear to be slated for reelection. Stanton Griffis is chairman of the executive committee.

Indications are that the board will take no action on the Joseph P. Kennedy report submitted to it several weeks ago. The report may be either "buried" by the committee to which it has been referred or else indefinitely tabled by the board if reported on at all by the committee.

Barney Balaban, scheduled to be elected president of Paramount Pictures, Inc., today, is one of the foremost exhibitors in the country and comes from an organization which, directly and indirectly, has contributed much influential manpower to the Paramount organization in the past.

One of the founders of the Balaban & Katz circuit, Chicago, he has been a ranking officer in that premier middle western theatre organization since 1917, and its president for the past four years. The B. & K. theatres completely dominate the Chicago Loop, neighborhood and suburban sections, and the circuit's management has been responsible for the expansion and successful operation of Paramount theatre interests in downstate Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. The circuit has been for years one of the largest and most consistent money makers in the Paramount theatre empire.

Balaban's B. & K. organization contributed Sam Katz, among others, to Paramount officialdom. Under Katz the former Publix Theatres reached their greatest expansion. Katz later became interested in production and was a power for a time at the Paramount studio, bringing the late John Balaban into the home office theatre department to assist Sam Dembow, Jr., in the operation of the Paramount theatre enterprises. When Paramount's financial problems increased in number and magnitude in 1931, Katz was largely responsible for bringing John D. Hertz, a former B. & K. director and Chicago financier, into the parent company as chairman of the Paramount Publix finance committee. When Hertz decided on a policy of decentralized theatre operation for Paramount, Katz resigned from the company. He is now an M-G-M producer.

Hertz, a Paramount director and member of the company's executive committee now, is credited with inducing Balaban to become a candidate for the Paramount presidency.

A. J. Balaban, a brother of Barney's, was associated with Paramount production in the east before going into voluntary retirement, during which he resided in Switzerland, until recently. He was signed as an RKO producer last month.

Barney Balaban is 50 years old. He is married and has two sons and one daughter. He was active in the reorganization of Paramount as a member of the stockholders' protective committee from 1932 to 1935. He was elected to the board of the company at the last annual stockholders' meeting, June 16, and to the executive committee of Paramount a week later.

Para. Shifts in France

Several promotions in the foreign department of Paramount have been made by John W. Hicks, Jr., vice-president.

Maurice Poirier, branch manager in Paris, has been made general manager in France, Belgium and Northern Africa. Robert Lenglet, branch manager at Marseilles, has been made Paris branch manager. Edmond Langnann, Bordeaux branch manager, has been transferred to Marseilles, and Marcel Collin, Strasbourg branch manager, has gone to Bordeaux. Nicolas Francois, salesman at Strasbourg, has been promoted to branch manager there.

Bruno Legrand has been advanced from special representative to sales supervisor of the Paris exchange.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sworn Enemy"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, July 1.—Aptly titled, this gangster-atmosphered, melodramatic romance stacks up as acceptable average entertainment. The substantial, believable story is well put together, intelligently directed and convincingly acted. The dialogue and situations are effectively balanced to keep the show moving at an attention-holding, fast pace.

Highlighted by thrill-action the story has a revenge motivation. In it four characters combine to wreak vengeance on a racketeering mob. Robert Young is driven to avenge his brother's murder, Lewis Stone and his daughter, Florence Rice, want to square the account that had Stone framed into a jail sentence. Nat Pendleton, a daffy pug, lives to avenge the murder of his manager.

Following a standard pattern, but endowing the same with fresh novelty, the group catches up with Joseph Calleia, master mind of the mob. Young, Stone, Miss Rice and Pendleton give graphic performances. The quality of their work is ably matched by that of Edward Pawley, Leslie Fenton and Robert Gleckler, with Calleia outstanding as the menacing gangster.

The melodramatic realism is the keynote of the story by Richard Wormser, a quality which the screenplay by Wells Root, and the direction of Edwin L. Marin continually keep dominant. The production by Lucian Hubbard concentrates on gripping situations.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 78 minutes. "G."

"Bengal Tiger"

(Warners)

Hollywood, July 1.—This is a thrill-action melodrama with romance, told against a circus background. While the familiar plot is interesting, Barton MacLane does a nicely pointed characterization as a roistering, drunken lion tamer, with a heart of gold.

In a tipsy moment of bravado he attempts to work a dangerous cat and is saved by his faithful assistant who is killed. Scarred and minus a leg, MacLane searches for his assistant's daughter, June Travis, whom he regards as his responsibility. He visits her twice in jail and she is so grateful that she marries him, just like that, and immediately falls to weeping and wailing with love for his best friend, Warren Hull. MacLane first tosses Hull into the arena with the tigers and then suffers a change of heart and loses his own life rescuing him so the lovers can get married.

A fire in the winter quarters of the circus, with the terrified animals frantic in their cages, is realistic.

Paul Graetz, Joseph King, Don Barclay, Gordon Hart, and Carlyle Moore, Jr., count in the supporting cast under the direction of Louis King. The story and screenplay by Roy Chanslor and Earl Felton is a close parallel to "Tiger Shark" and other more recent films. Bryan Foy produced.

"I Stand Condemned," now current at the Rivoli, was reviewed by cable from London under the title of "Moscow Nights" on Nov. 22, 1935.

Mexico Houses Closed

Mexico City, July 1.—Three large local neighborhood houses here have been closed by striking employes who are demanding higher wages under the new collective work contracts which afford them numerous concessions and which operators say they cannot grant owing to slow business. and Victor Saville now grossing more than $400,000 per picture in England as concrete examples of what the foreign market has to offer.

Kelly said that United Artists wishes to encourage production on an international scale because some films have only local appeal and that the future calls for films aimed at the foreign market as well. He explained that there is little difference whether the picture is made in Hollywood or England as long as it is produced with the universal market in view and uses international personalities.

In closing his talk, Kelly thanked the delegates for their cooperation prior to the time when George Schaefer joined the company and also thanked the home office men for the gift of a tea set presented to him recently in New York.

Maurice Silverstone arrived today in time for the latter part of the morning session.

Following luncheon the delegates viewed trailers of "The Last of the Mohicans," "Garden of Allah" and early footage of the Nino Martini film "The World Is Mine" and a Mickey Mouse Technicolor cartoon "Alpine Climbers." Mary Pickford and Jesse L. Lasky attended the trailer showings and the afternoon session.

Resolutions denouncing radio appearances of screen stars were passed, one of which called upon exhibitors everywhere to protest to the studios by wire and letter against the practice, which, it was resolved, "kills their popularity, destroys their prestige and cheapens themselves."

Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, in an address to the meeting, deplored exhibitors' use of Screeno, Bank Night and "similar rackets which represent the most dangerous development in exhibition today."

Wanger Due Monday; To Produce in Italy

Walter Wanger left England yesterday on the Queen Mary, and is due to arrive in New York on Monday. He will go to Hollywood after a week in the east. He will decide on his arrival on the coast whether his first film for United Artists' new season will be "Three Time Loser" or "Wuthering Heights."

He will see his new schedule fully under way before taking any further steps in the production of films in Italy, for which he will form Walter Wanger Prod. Co. of Italy, under a plan he discussed with Premier Mussolini at Rome. Production in Italy, he said at Southhampton before sailing, will begin next June, with Sylvia Sidney as the star. She is under contract to Wanger.

"I hope to produce several films in Rome," he said, "and for that purpose I propose to return to Italy in the spring. After my conference with Mussolini I gave him a definite promise that I would produce pictures in Rome."

Minors Film Bill Signed by Mayor

put actively into effect in about a week, following the setting up of the necessary machinery. The measure, which was introduced by Alderman Murray Stand, was passed recently by the Board of Aldermen and the Board of Estimate.

The law in general structure follows the outline of the Joseph law, passed by the state legislature shortly before its adjournment, and which was an enabling act providing for local option on the matter. The Stand law covers the theatres in Greater New York.

Under the terms of the law, theatres wishing to take advantage of its provisions must obtain a license from Licence Commission Paul Moss, at a fee of $10. A special section of the theatre is to be set aside for the use of children, and no adults are to be permitted in that section. A matron must be in charge of the children's section, and she must qualify before the Board of Health relative to her physical condition.

According to the provisions, children may be admitted unaccompanied on weekdays from opening to 6 P.M. provided the child's school hours have been completed. During July and August, the summer recess period, they will be admitted from opening to 7 P.M. On Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, children will be admitted from opening to 6 P.M..

Children accompanied by an adult may be admitted to the theatre at any time.

Last fall Brynes MacDonald, director of the Juvenile Aid Bureau of the Police Dep't., staged a series of raids on theatres for violation of the old law, and declared at the time that the best way of bringing about the abolition of an unpopular law was by strict enforcement.

Exhibitors to Map Plans

Members of the I.T.O.A. yesterday discussed at the Astor the Stand law, which will allow children under 16 into theatres without guardians. A committee of the unit and other exhibitor heads will meet this afternoon at Leopold Friedman's office at Loew's to map out cooperative plans with License Commissioner Paul Moss.

royalty will be made to cover Canadian distribution, but the new rate will be substantially below that which has been in effect for Canada in the past.

Complete overhaul of recording equipment, together with supplementary new studio equiment, special recording services and spare parts will be furnished on open account to the licensee as it requires them. The open account will be liquidated by credits applied to it by Erpi based on the amount of royalties the licensee pays each year. During the term of the contract, such credits can be accumulated by any licensee in sufficient volume to cover any recording equipment program the licensee could reasonably require.

Extension of Legion Asked By the Pope

Encyclical Asks World Use of Review Boards

Vatican City, July 2.—Extension of the Legion of Decency activities throughout the world, with annually renewed pledges not to see objectionable films and formation of reviewing committees, is urged in an encyclical entitled "Vigilant Care" which has just been issued by Pope Pius.

The encyclical calls for establishment of reviewing offices in all countries under supervision of bishops with laymen participating, and an exchange of information between the various national offices in order to secure unity in judgments and communications appearing in the Catholic press of the world.

The document indicates the Pontiff realizes varying conditions prevail in different countries and that these will have to be taken into consideration in the operations.

An appeal is made to Catholics connected with film production for cooperation and the encyclical says the

Circuit Men Seek Elastic Child Ruling

Point Out Difficulties Of Special Sections

Major and independent circuit heads, meeting at the Loew office yesterday, expressed a desire for an elastic clause governing sections in theatres limited to children under the Stand law.

The theatre men held that although it is possible to set aside a particular section for minors, the rule could not hold generally, particularly when a Shirley Temple or Bobby Breen picture was showing.

A committee composed of Louis Frisch, Marvin Schenck, Senator Henry J. Walters, John Manheimer and Frank Burns conferred with Dep't. of Health authorities yesterday after the Loew session. According to the law, the licensing of matrons will come under the Dep't. of Health.

Attending the conclave in the Loew Bldg. were Charles C. Moskowitz and Schenck, Loew's; Walters and Charles B. McDonald, RKO; Burns, Century circuit; Frisch and Sam Rinzler, Randforce; William White, Skouras Theatres; Manheimer, the I.T.O.A.

No date has been set when the law becomes effective.

BALABAN CHOSEN PARAMOUNT HEAD

All Other Officers Are Renamed; Zukor Head Of Production

Barney Balaban, head of B. & K. Theatres, Chicago, was elected president of Paramount yesterday at a special meeting of the company's board of directors. Adolph Zukor, who had been a leading candidate for the presidency until declining the proffered post several days ago, was reelected chairman of the board and will continue in charge of production, devoting his entire time to the studio in accordance with his expressed preference.

Austin Keough, who was reelected secretary of Paramount, was also elevated to a vice-presidency of the company. All other officers of the company were reelected. They are Neil F. Agnew, R. E. Anderson, Y. Frank Freeman and John Hicks, Jr., vice-presidents; Walter B. Cokell, treasurer; Fred Mohrhardt, comptroller, and Norman Collyer, assistant secretary.

Anderson, former treasurer of Erpi, had been reported as resigning, but, as stated in Motion Picture Daily yesterday, he had been asked to remain with the company. Anderson's work in his financial capacity at Paramount during the past year has met with marked approval among the company's directors, all of whom were anxious to have him continue in his post.

As an officer of B. & K. since its organization in 1908, Balaban is an industry man of long experience and has been an important factor in the

Producer Split on British Quota Seen

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, July 2.—The resignation of Associated British Pictures from the Federation of British Industries film group is seen here as perhaps leading to a definite split among British producers on the question of quota recommendations to the Films Act advisory committee.

A.B.P. and Gaumont British dissented from the group's recommendations. It is understood A.B.P. objects to the whole principle of an increased quota and minimum cost proposals. The same view may be shared by other producers, who fear the suggested new act would force American interests to devise large scale British production through subsidiaries, which would use British finances and capture playdates at the expense of British producers.

It is understood the F.B.I. will send a deputation to John Maxwell, head of A.B.P., on his return from Scotland, to ask him to reconsider the resignation. The belief is held here

Warners Are Named In Conspiracy Suit

Initial papers were filed yesterday and summonses issued in an action charging conspiracy in restraint of trade by Franklin Theatrical Enterprises, Inc., of Hawaii, against Warners, according to Charles Franklin, attorney for the complainant. The action will be brought in the Federal court here. Franklin declared the action against Warners will be brought separately, with a combined suit of a similar nature against all major distributors except Paramount to be filed later.

Franklin declared a contract had been signed in Los Angeles for Warner product in the six Hawaiian theatres and that the Warner home office later advised the circuit the contract would not be carried out, after another deal had been closed with Consolidated Amusement Co. of Hawaii. The contract situation, Franklin declared, will be used as evidence in the conspiracy action against Warners.

At the Warner office late yesterday, a member of the legal staff declared he had no knowledge of such an action, and that no papers had been served.

Bette Davis Suspension Confirmed

HOLLYWOOD, July 2.—Jack Warner, confirming the suspension of Bette Davis for her refusal to work in "God's Country and the Woman," today said, "The dispute is based on something more than the question of salary; it involves the principle of whether or not a player can ignore legal and moral obligations to the studio. It is high time to make people under contract realize that the contract is not a mere scrap of paper to be thrown aside simply because the player happens to make a good picture or two."

Ohio ITO Warned on Use of Word "Bank"

COLUMBUS, July 2.—Exhibitor members of the I. T. O. of Ohio have been warned by P. J. Wood, secretary, that they should be guided by advice of their attorneys on the use of the term Bank Night in this state. It seems that "bank," under the law, is limited to actual bankers.

The I. T. O. has already sought legal advice on the subject and has been informed by counsel that anyone using the word "bank" unlawfully is subject to a fine of $100 for each day of use.

Official Hits Bank Night

PORTLAND, July 2.—Terming Bank Night "dangerous, for it attracts persons who are financially unable to attend, but who are drawn solely by the gambling inducement," Attorney General Clyde R. Chapman has renewed his fight against the giveaway.

Orders Examination Of Eureka Officers

Justice John F. Carew in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday ordered an examination before trial of the officers of Eureka Prod., Inc., which was asked for by counsel for Intimate Theatres, Inc., and other defendants.

This is in connection with an injunction suit brought by Eureka Prod. over the title of "Ecstacy." The plaintiffs charge that the defendant exhibited and distributed a picture entitled "Ecstasy of Young Love" which is alleged to be an infringement of the plaintiff's title. The plaintiff is also seeking $250,000. On May 7, Justice Collins denied a motion for a temporary injunction asked by the plaintiffs. Other defendants in the suit are Max A. Goldberg, William Goldberg, Metropolis Film Exchange and Martin J. Lewis.

Elect Balaban As President Of Paramount

Paramount organization since B. & K.'s affiliation with Paramount 10 years ago. He is described by the company as one of its oldest and largest security holders. Balaban, between 1921 and 1927, also was one of the owners of First National Prod.

Following the election Balaban said: "I am very proud and happy at the confidence placed in me by the board of directors in electing me to the presidency of the company. I regard the Paramount organization as one of the finest in the industry and I am confident that with the cooperation and help of the executives and loyal employes throughout the world, Paramount will be able to successfully solve all its problems and go forward steadily in playing a distinguished part in the industry. It is a source of comfort and confidence to find the stockholders and the board of directors giving due recognition to the necessity of having experienced men in the industry and from the organization upon the board and in important positions in the management."

Zukor Pleased

Balaban leaves for Chicago today to spend the week-end with his family there and will return here early next week. He will make his permanent residence here in the future. Indications are that he will be succeeded as president of B. & K. either by his brother, John Balaban, or by Walter Immerman, general manager of B. & K. and former operator of the Paramount theatres in Detroit.

Zukor, who will remain here over the week-end, returning to the coast early next week, made the following statement following the election: "I am very happy over the selection of officers of the corporation made by the board of directors at today's meeting. It augurs well for the future of the company that the board has selected as the president of the company a man who has been so long and intimately associated with the organization and is so well and favorably known within the industry itself.

Enthusiastic About Future

"I intend to devote the major portion of my time to the production activities of the company and will continue in active charge over our Hollywood studio. The problems involved in creating a successful program of pictures are many and intricate, but I feel confident that the groundwork has been thoroughly laid for the solution of those problems and that important progress has already been made toward the successful administration of the studio. The organization is experienced, loyal and effective. I contemplate making no changes in personnel at the studio, but I intend to build upon the solid structure which is now there. I am personally enthusiastic about the company's future."

The Paramount executive committee, of which Stanton Griffis is chairman, held a brief meeting on routine matters following the board session yesterday. Griffis is a partner in Hemphill, Noyes & Co., and chairman of the board of Madison Square Garden, which is controlled by Atlas Corp. Griffis has also been financially associated with Katharine Cornell and Guthrie McClintic in the production of Katharine Cornell's plays.

Official indications that Joseph P. Kennedy has terminated his Paramount association, as reported in Motion Picture Daily two weeks ago, and that his report will be sidetracked without board action was given in a terse reference to it in the company's statement yesterday. The board merely acknowledged the completion of Kennedy's study and said that it "has expressed to Mr. Kennedy its deep appreciation of his valuable services."

Kennedy, who was in town from his Cape Cod summer home yesterday, did not attend the meeting and could not be reached for additional comment.

Rolsky are E. S. Young; Charles E. Esterly, Frank T. Mountjoy, H. F. Pautz and H. C. Rhode, Abe and Rosa Baier, C. H. Potter and H. H. Barrett.

Later eight exhibitors filed a motion to intervene, contending that any decision of the court in the original suit would affect their business. This motion to intervene also has to be ruled on by Judge Otis. Intervening exhibitors are Rube Finkelstein, Clarence A. Schultz, J. W. Cotter, Jay Means, J. F. Rigney, William Parsons and Ed Dubinsky.

Fox Midwest and the major distributors filed answers to the suit some time ago. When Fox Midwest filed its answer, it was determined to try the case on its merits.

A temporary injunction was denied independents. The trial July 24 will be to determine the application for a permanent injunction against Fox Midwest and distributors.

influence of these Catholics "has not always been in accordance with their faith and ideals."

"People who, in time of repose, give themselves diversions which violate decency, honor, or morality, and to recreations which, especially to the young, constitute occasions of sin, are in grave danger of losing their greatness and even national power," the document continues.

"Cinema producers of America themselves became concerned over evil films in 1930 and issued a code according to which they promised to abstain from production of films calculated to demoralize or bring discredit to natural or human law.

"However, in point of fact, they proved themselves scarcely able to put it into effect. For this reason American bishops felt themselves called on to interfere and organize the faithful under their charge into a Legion of Decency which had as its object a public promise renewed every year to abstain from attending exhibition of immoral films.

Calls Moral Uplift Profitable

"This campaign succeeded in raising the moral level of films and in the process has in no wise inflicted damage on the industry because many Catholics who had abstained from the cinema resumed patronage when assured of its moral improvement."

The problem would be solved if only good films were produced, the Pontiff said, but he indicated his belief that pressure must be brought to bear to obviate all risks.

"It is necessary for pastors," he said, "to be ever on guard lest their charges should be exposed to corruption during the hours devoted to recreation."

A. plans to follow other companies by increasing its exploitation and publicity budget 50 per cent to $1,500,000 for the coming season. Under a new plan first, second and third class cities will receive exploitation service commensurate with their status.

Individual sales sessions followed a brief general meeting this morning. Delegates will return home tomorrow with the exception of Maurice Silverstone, Harry D. Buckley, Schaefer and Arthur W. Kelly, who will remain for the U. A. producer-owner meeting July 6.

The resignation is regarded as important and likely to affect greatly the committee's attitude on the F.B.I. case, which is beginning to appear to represent chiefly the views of studio owners with space to rent and of smaller producers.

Pettengill to Re-introduce Booking Bill

So Promises in "Report" In the Record

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The re-introduction of the block booking bill which bears his name in the next Congress has been promised by Representative Samuel B. Pettengill of Indiana. In a "report" on the legislation released in the second post-session issue of the Congressional Record, Pettengill expressed disappointment over the failure of the measure in the last days of Congress, declaring that "the resistance to the bill was formidable."

The testimony taken during the March hearings comprised a volume of 526 pages, he revealed, in outlining the history of the legislation.

"Thereafter the sub-committee went into executive sessions on the bill and reported it favorably to the full com-

"San Francisco" at $65,000 in Capitol

"San Francisco" at the Capitol last week grossed $65,000 for the first seven days. There's no end to the talk of what the picture is doing in other spots, according to M-G-M executives. The picture is dated in for three weeks on Broadway with the possibility it may hold for four or five.

At the Music Hall, Shirley Temple in "Poor Little Rich Girl" garnered $83,500. It's now in its second stanza. The Roxy didn't fare so well with "Parole" on the screen and Edgar Kennedy on the stage. The take for the week was $23,300 which barely covers expenses. The Louis-Schmeling fight pictures, held over at the Palace with a new dual bill consisting of "Bullets or Ballots" and "Bunker Bean," were disappointing, the gross being slightly over $6,000. The Rialto, with "Lawless Nineties,"

Charles Rosenzweig In U. A. Sales Post

LOS ANGELES, July 5. — Charles Rosenzweig, whose experience in the industry includes periods as vice-president and sales manager of RKO, general sales manager of Columbia and independent producer, has joined United Artists.

While Rosenzweig will act in a sales capacity, the exact character of his activities has not as yet been stated.

U.S. Film Gains Praised In the Pope's Encyclical

Industry leaders who studied the full text of the encyclical on films were convinced that the desire of Pope Pius for world extension of Legion of Decency activities was due to their success in this country.

The Pope specifically points out that the American industry has cooperated wholeheartedly, although the Production Code Administration under Joseph I. Breen's direction is not mentioned.

In the early paragraphs of the encyclical the Pope writes: "It (the Legion of Decency) is an excellent experiment that now offers us a most welcome opportunity of manifesting more fully our thought in regard to a matter which touches intimately the moral and religious life of the entire Christian people."

It then goes on to express the Pontiff's gratitude to the hierarchy of the United States and to all those who have cooperated.

Later in the encyclical is another reference to a success of the American campaign. It reads:

"It is an exceedingly great comfort

America Cited

In one paragraph of the encyclical the Pope calls attention definitely to the fact that the industry in the United States has "recognized and accepted its responsibility."

This paragraph reads:

"In particular you, venerable brethren of the United States, will be able to insist with justice that the industry in your country has recognized and accepted its responsibility before society."

See Warner-F. & M. Deal Set Tomorrow

The final closing date of the F. & M.-Warner theatre and product deal for St. Louis is scheduled for tomorrow when Harry C. Arthur, Jr., returns from a week's visit in the Mound City.

While in St. Louis, Arthur has been conferring with his associates there on the details of the deal and also reorganization plans for the St. Louis Amusement Co.

Ernest L. Wilkinson, Washington attorney for F. & M., is due here today to work on the contracts with Robert W. Perkins of Warners' legal staff. In the event the pacts are signed tomorrow, F. & M. will take over the Shubert-Rialto, Orpheum and Hi-Pointe in St. Louis Thursday.

Columbia List Has 14 in "A' Division

Columbia's lineup of 58 next season will be headed by a group of 14 "A" pictures, to be divided into three divisions, two, six and six. The second group will call for 16 "B" features to be divided into two lists of eight. The balance of the output will be program pictures, of which 16 will be westerns. The westerns will be divided into two series of eight.

The names of the pictures for each classification have not been completed. This also applies to the sales policy.

U.A. to Take Sale Tax Case to Albany

New York distributors have decided not to apply for a rehearing in the Appellate Division of the state court of their opposition to the city's ruling that the two per cent sales tax is applicable to film rentals, but will appeal directly to the Court of Appeals at Albany from the Appellate Division's recent ruling that rentals from theatres within the city limits may be taxed.

A hearing of the distributors' appeal can not be had before October, as the Court of Appeals has adjourned until Sept. 28. A notice of appeal will be filed by the United Artists exchange in the near future and the record of the case on appeal will be filed at Albany during the summer, preparatory to the appeal hearing.

M-G-M Closes Deal With M. & P. Circuit

After several weeks of negotiations, M-G-M has closed with M. & P. for next season's product in the circuit's 70 New England theatres. New Bedford, Mass., and Portland, Me., are the only two spots where the distributor has sold away from M. & P.

William F. Rodgers, general sales manager for the distributor, and Martin Mullin and Sam Pinanski, for the circuit, signed the contracts. Rodgers returned last Friday from Boston after closing the deal.

Balaban Will Take Over New Post Today

Paramount has extended the operating contracts for the Wilby-Kincey and Lucas & Jenkins circuits, thus closing agreements for the last of its important theatre operations which were subject to change at this time.

The Wilby-Kincey operating contract was extended for one year from July 1 and the Lucas & Jenkins contract for three years from July 1. No changes were made in any of the terms of the existing operating contracts at the time of their renewal, it was stated at Paramount. The partnership operating agreement with Karl Hoblitzelle was extended earlier for one year from July 1, as the only other Paramount theatre agreement expiring on that date.

Barney Balaban, newly elected president of Paramount, is due back today from a week-end at his Chicago home and will take over formally the reins of his new office today.

Marked approval of the results of the Paramount election is apparent throughout the trade as well as within

Downtown, Detroit, Is Given Up by RKO

RKO has relinquished the Downtown, Detroit, with the expiration July 1 of an option it had held to renew its lease on the house at a reduced rental. Inability to secure product for the house is reported to be the reason for its abandonment by RKO.

The move leaves RKO with only one Detroit spot, the Uptown, which is held by the B. F. Keith Corp. Present indications are that RKO will make no additional new leases in Detroit for the present.

$788,627 Tax Lien Filed Against Fox

An income tax lien for $788,627 was filed in Federal court here on Friday against William Fox by Joseph T. Higgins, Collector of Internal Revenue.

The amount represents taxes allegedly due on Fox's 1932 income and includes penalties. Fox's address was given as 130 S. Delancy Ave., Atlantic City.

S. & C. Gets Judgment

A judgment for $81 was filed in N. Y. Supreme Court Friday on behalf of Springer & Cocalis as a result of an unsuccessful suit against them by Fox Film Corp. which originally sued the circuit for $9,598 allegedly due on a group of pictures under a contract dated Oct. 24, 1934. The complaint was dismissed last April 13 and subsequently the Appellate Division affirmed the dismissal, awarding the costs and disbursements to S. & C.

"U" Offering 34 in Spain Next Season

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

Barcelona, June 23.—Of a total of 34 features to be released in Spain by Universal during the coming season, six will be westerns. Among the features will be "Show Boat," "Sutter's Gold" and "The Invisible Power." At least 12 of the 34 will be dubbed in Spanish.

The annual convention of Hispano-American Films, Spanish unit of Universal, will be held shortly, following the return here of Enrique Aguilar, general manager from a trip to Paris and London.

Columbia will release 38 features here during the coming season, of which 10 will be westerns. One of the features will be an original Spanish film, "La Familia Dressel," made in Mexico. Seventeen of the features will be dubbed in Spanish. A total of 50 shorts also will be released here by the company.

Joseph Seidelman, Columbia general foreign manager, from New York, and Joseph Friedman, general European manager, from London, are due here for the Columbia Spanish convention at the local headquarters, which will be held shortly.

Spanish language dubbing of Columbia product is done at La Voz de Espana studios here.

The film editor of La Vanguardia, one of the leading local papers, recently launched a violent attack on "foreign film distributor interests," which very obviously was aimed at American and British units here.

The attack was provoked by an article published locally which sharply criticized Spanish production and urged the importation of foreign technicians to instruct Spanish technical men.

Jacques Edelstein, M-G-M head here, tried an experiment by showing "A Night at the Opera" in the dubbed Spanish version instead of the original English, as is generally done. After the initial surprise reaction, the experiment was pronounced a success, but a less favorable result was recorded with the same experiment in Madrid, where it is expected the usual original English versions will be used in the future.

"Mutiny on the Bounty" ("Rebelion Abordo") has proved one of the biggest money makers ever imported into Spain.

Court Permits Theatre

Justice John F. Carew in N. Y. Supreme Court Friday granted a motion to permit the construction of a theatre on Madison Ave. at 62nd St. The application was made on behalf of the estate of Henry Phipps and was opposed by License Commissioner Moss and a group of neighborhood residents. The court, after making a personal inspection, held the section of Madison Ave. to be of a commercial nature.

Loew Acquires 353 Shares in Company

Washington, July 5.—Acquisition by Arthur Loew's holding company in May of 353 shares of Loew's common stock, bringing its holdings to 3,530 shares, is shown by the semi-monthly report of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The summary also shows the receipt of reports from Leopold Friedman, New York, reporting the disposition of 400 shares of Loew's common in July and of 2,400 shares in December, 1935, his holdings at the end of the year being 812 shares.

Reports of January and February operations were filed with the commission last month by Sidney R. Kent's Berkshire Finance Co. showing the disposition in January of 100 shares of Twentieth Century-Fox common, wiping out its holdings, and of 500 shares of $1.50 cumulative preferred, and in February of another 300 shares of $1.50 preferred, its holdings at the end of the month being 5,084 shares.

Acquisition in May of 10 shares of Keith-Albee-Orpheum seven per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock was reported by Leon Goldberg, New York, his holdings at the close of the month being 210 shares.

Bay State Decision Upholds Bank Night

Boston, July 5.—Bank Night has been ruled not a lottery by the Supreme Court. The winning of the lengthy case by Attorney George S. Ryan follows similar victories by the same lawyer in Maine and New Hampshire. Today's decision stated, in part:

"The essence of a lottery is a chance for a prize for a price. One may give away his money by chance, and if the winner pays no price there is no lottery. We are of the opinion that the price must come from the participants in the game in part at least as payment for their chance and that the indirect advantage to the theatre of larger attendance is not in itself a price paid by the participants."

This clears up a situation that has been confusing Massachusetts exhibitors for some time. Following a recent police crusade, practically no houses in Boston have been using the plan, although one or two spots in surrounding towns have taken chances.

It is believed the giveaway will now spread rapidly in this territory.

Restraining Order Is Signed by Court

On the petition of Jack Cohn, vice-president of Columbia, Federal Judge Bondy on Friday signed an order restraining Crelian Amusement Corp. and Gemma Amusement Corp. from paying $16,728 to a number of firms. The move was in connection with an involuntary bankruptcy procedure against Jaydo, Inc., operating theatres in the Bronx.

The ruling enjoined the parties from turning over the money until an adjudication can be had on the validity of the sale of all the assets of Jaydo to Crelian and Gemma. The largest amount was $10,991, allegedly due to National Theatre Supply Co. Jaydo filed the petition in bankruptcy on June 10, sought by Columbia, United Artists and Warners.

Paramount. Hundreds of congratulatory wires poured in to both Balaban and Adolph Zukor, who was reelected chairman of the board and given full charge of production. Trade opinion regards the combination of Balaban in the top home office post and Zukor at the studio as a highly effective one and certain to furnish the answers to Paramount's greatest problems in due time.

Apprised of this widespread trade sentiment by a Motion Picture Daily reporter before leaving for Chicago on Friday, Balaban remarked earnestly, "We'll all give our best and I hope we won't disappoint anyone."

Zukor Sees Cooperation

Commenting on the congratulatory messages received following the election, Zukor said, "The entire industry is obviously in accord with the election. As for myself, I can only repeat that it was my personal wish that Balaban assume this post and I look forward to a long future of wholehearted cooperation between the east and west coast branches of our organization.

"Planning as I am to devote my time and energies to the production end, I feel I can continue these duties with a feeling of confidence and security that the affairs of the corporation are in the hands of a capable showman and a loyal Paramount executive. With the confidence within the organization which the selection of Balaban has already inspired," Zukor said, "the leadership which the company has consistently maintained in the industry is immeasurably strengthened."

Balaban said he would remain as president of B. & K. for the time being, at least, supervising the subsidiary's operations from here.

Executive Committee Strong

A closer working contact between the management and the board than was apparent in Paramount administration during the past year is also augured by the presence on the company's executive committee of Balaban, Zukor and Neil F. Agnew, the latter having been reelected vice-president in charge of distribution. The committee is a potent factor in board policy and action and is regarded within Paramount as the steering committee for the board. With the company heads of production and distribution as well as the new Paramount president, who is one of the highest ranking exhibitors in the country, among its members, all three operating branches have authoritative voices within the committee. This is regarded as a distinct aid to the Balaban regime.

Indications are that Paramount henceforth will not have a finance committee, and that the work of that body will be absorbed by the executive committee to expedite action on expenditures. Stanton Griffis of Hemphill, Noyes & Co. is chairman of the executive committee.

Zukor plans to leave for the coast today or tomorrow.

to us to note the outstanding success of the crusade. Because of your vigilance and because of the pressure which has been brought to bear by public opinion, the motion picture has shown improvement from the moral standpoint; crime and vice are portrayed less frequently and no longer are so openly approved or acclaimed; false ideals of life no longer are presented in so flagrant a manner to the impressionable minds of youth."

Cooperation of Catholics within the industry is to be sought, it is indicated. This paragraph reads:

"As to the motion picture industry itself, we exhort bishops of all countries, but in particular you, venerable brethren, to address your appeal to those Catholics who hold important positions in this industry. Let them take serious thought of their duties and the responsibilities which they have as children of the church to use their influence and authority for the promotion of the principles of sound morality in the films which they produce or aid in producing."

The Pope points out that church halls are in themselves large users of films and that by using the right type of films a demand can be created for them. After pointing out the need for national offices to centralize the reviewing of films, the encyclical continues:

"The above-mentioned office likewise will look after organization of the existing motion picture theatres belonging to Catholic associations so they may be guaranteed reviewed approval of films. Through organization of these halls, which often represent a considerable clientele for the industry, it will be possible to advance a new demand, namely, that the industry produce motion pictures which correspond entirely to our principles. Such films then may readily be shown not only in Catholic halls but also in others as well."

The document closes with instructions on the necessity of unity of judgment so far as different national conditions will permit and predicts that the results will win the approval of the world, Catholic and non-Catholic.

Few Condemned, Hays Says

Hollywood, July 5.—Will H. Hays declined to be quoted in advance of a study of the text of the encyclical of Pope Pius, but he did point out that since the establishment of the Production Code Administration under Joseph I. Breen only four features had been condemned by the Legion of Decency. Of these, he said, none was produced by a member of the M.P.P.D.A. Two were foreign-made and two were produced by independents.

About 60 features have been held to be objectionable in part, he said, and 15 of these have been made outside the M..P.P.D.A. ranks.

Press Committee Planned

Vatican City, July 5.—Plans for the formation of a Catholic press committee for the purpose of holding a Catholic motion picture congress in Rome were approved today by Pope Pius. The congress, which would be held in September, has for its purpose the putting into effective operation of the provisions contained in the Pope's encyclical on films.

Hierarchy to Meet

Kansas City, July 5.—The American hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church will meet in Washington in November to discuss the film situation, it was stated here by Bishop Thomas F. Lillis of the Kansas City Diocese.

The Bishop said he did not believe the Legion of Decency campaign had been as "successful as expected."

and the fight films, ended with an indifferent $7,000.

Loew's State, Newark; Loew's, Jersey City, and the Metropolitan, Brooklyn, opened with "San Francisco" last Friday as a single feature attraction.

On that same date, Loew's State, Memphis, began a second week with the picture after it had tallied $3,000 more than on the run with "Mutiny on the Bounty." At Loew's, St. Louis, the picture went into the second week Friday after the gross on the first seven days had reached about $4,000 more than "Mutiny on the Bounty."

At the Century, Baltimore, where "San Francisco" is another holdover, the picture took in the largest gross since Oct., 1931.

mittee, with the exception that the paragraph on blind selling was not recommended," he said.

"A majority of the subcommittee felt that with block booking prohibited, so that exhibitors would not be compelled to buy films in a block before they were produced, the paragraph on blind selling could be omitted on the theory that exhibitors would then have an opportunity, in many instances, to see a preview of films before becoming bound to exhibit them," he explained. "I did not favor the elimination of the blind selling feature."

A somewhat similar report was made about the Neely Bill in the Senate, which was favorably reported there but was pushed aside in the rush to adjourn.

"I wish a better report could be made," Pettengill commented. "However, the resistance to the bill was formidable. It might be said also that important legislation seldom is enacted the first session it is introduced."

"The battle will go on," he declared. He expressed disappointment at the situation, but said the mere introduction of the bill "and the battle that was made for it have unquestionably had a good effect on the industry. That is apparent from common observation, and it is testified to in private conversation by men prominent in the industry—even among those who fought the bill's passage. The properties forbid me to state names, but this is the fact."

ruled that rentals from theatres outside the city limits are not subject to the tax, but those from theatres within the city are. "Shake Mr. Shakespeare"

(Vitaphone)

A film producer assigns his assistant to read all of the Bard's works in one night and report to him in the morning. The reader falls asleep and has a nightmare of Shakespearean rigamarole. The characters come to life and enact a highly modernized version of juxtaposed interpretations. The theme of the piece concerns their going to Hollywood. Henry VIII, in the Roman Forum, tells his audience what to expect on the coast and there are other wild flights of fancy. It all ends up with Cleopatra doing an adagio dance with two huskies, and a duel resulting from a quarrel over a girl. This brings the assistant back to consciousness. At its best it is mildly entertaining. Production Code Seal, No. 0707. Running time, 20 min- "G."

"Emil Coleman and His Band"

(Vitaphone)

Fine orchestrations and good choral effects for novelty make this short a pleasing bit. The band plays popular numbers, a Coleman original composition and finally a Strauss waltz, which is also interpreted by ballroom dancers. It is melodious and entertaining. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 23"

(Universal)

Mass marriage in China, an old fire engine still functioning after 84 years, the Diogenistic Utopia of Juarez, testing stockings at the Bureau of Standards, making sand blast pictures and others make up the facts that provide novelty for this short. Interesting. Production Code Seal, No. 01,102. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 24"

(Universal)

The usual collection of the strange and obscure makes an interesting few minutes of educational entertainment. Among the items shown are the Reno divorce mill, Jo Ann Anderson, something of a muscular female marvel, backyard gold mining, and the inland port of Phoenix, Ariz., among others. Production Code Seal, No. 01,003. Running time, 9 2/3 minutes. "G."

"The Lyin' Tamer"

(Vitaphone)

George Jessel is made to impersonate an English explorer who is scheduled to speak at a dinner, but fails to attend. In the Jessel style he begins a story, rich in exaggeration, about his experiences with lions in Africa. He is interrupted by a 'phone call from his mother and there follows the usual conversation about his family life, etc. Taking up with his talk again, he tells of an attack by six lions. Queried as to what happened, he replies that they killed him. His hearers promptly throw down their napkins and walk out. The familiar style of comedy delivery and exposition should be reliably entertaining to the Jessel enthusiasts. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Going Places No. 23"

(Universal)

The audience goes to "The Land of the Pharaohs" in this number of the series. The short is an excellent collection of well photographed views of Cairo, ancient Memphis, Karnak and Luxor, places made familiar by archeological stories. There is a particularly exciting shot of the Sphinx from atop the pyramid of Cheops. In addition, the piece is of an educational nature, tracing ancient history, well illustrated with scenes of the actual places. Lowell Thomas' narration is up to the minute. He gives insights to the Italo-Ethiopian-British quarrels while showing the Nile and the Assuan dam. Genuinely entertaining and instructive material of definitely pleasing nature. Production Code Seal, No. 0997. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Devil Doll"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, July 5.—The responsibility for the success or failure of this film rests with exhibitors, since much depends on the way the advance exploitation is handled. Certainly the film offers an opportunity for ingenious campaigns and stunts, for it is strikingly out of the ordinary.

Lionel Barrymore, as a banker falsely imprisoned for 17 years, escapes with Henry B. Walthall, a mad scientist who has discovered the secret of reducing humans to doll size. Walthall dies before solving the secret of preserving the brain in the tiny humans, but his equally insane wife, Rafaela Ottiano, carries on.

Barrymore, disguised as an old woman, opens a toy shop in Paris, captures one of his double-crossing partners, reduces him to doll size and sends him on errands of death and destruction. Striking scenes show Grace Ford and Arthur Hohl, in the miniature, climbing over huge furniture in obedience to the will of the vengeful Barrymore. Tiny dogs gambol on the vast expanse of a table top and a little pony uses a desk as a race track in a superb photographic achievement by Leonard Smith.

Splendid acting is contributed by Barrymore and Miss Ottiano. Frank Lawton and Maureen O'Sullivan handle the slight love interest with restraint. Robert Greig and Pedro de Cordoba are excellent as the terrified bankers and good support is supplied by Lucy Beaumont, Juanita Quigley, Claire de Brey, Rollo Lloyd and Alyn Warren. Tod Browning's direction emphasizes the macabre in the story he wrote, based on "Burn, Witch, Burn," by Abraham Merritt. The screen play was by Garrett Ford, Guy Endore and Eric Von Stroheim.

"Seven Sinners"

(G. B.)

LONDON, June 27.—Real action drama with three sensational train wrecks, masterfully directed by Albert de Courville and featuring Edmund Lowe and Constance Cummings, with an excellent supporting cast. Suspense, comedy and action are combined to make satisfactory entertainment to lovers of thrillers.

It opens with beautifully photographed scenes of the carnival at Nice, where Lowe, an American detective, discovers a murdered man in his room during the carnival ball. The body mysteriously disappears and Lowe, determining to track the guilty person, enlists the aid of Constance Cummings. Following a railway smash, the missing body is found in the wreckage. Wagering a French prefect of police that he will first find the person responsible obviously for both the murder and wreck, Lowe and his aide follow clues which lead them through many adventures to Paris and London. There is an interesting and comic sequence in London Guildhall. The clues lead to a little English village and a local whist drive followed by an automobile chase and a second railway wreck. Then back to London to a peace pilgrims' meeting where chaos is let loose. Chasing the suspects on a train en route to their peace voyage, they find the wrecker on the train. He escapes and engineers a third wreck from which only Lowe and Cummings escape.

The final capture of the wrecker in a G.B. news theatre where he is watching his handiwork on the screen makes a thrilling finish to an all-round entertaining, amusing and exciting picture.

Running time, 70 minutes. "A." ALLAN

Few Theatres Going Up In Egypt, Panama

Practically no theatre building is going on in Egypt, Panama and South America, according to Louis Lober, Jack Neal and William Melniker, M-G-M representatives who are in New York for conferences with Arthur M. Loew.

Arriving to take over his new post as foreign theatre head for the company, Melniker asserted that M-G-M is building a 1,100-seat house at Montevideo and a 1,500-seat theatre at Rio de Janeiro, both to be ready for opening in September. One new theatre, not M-G-M's, opened in Rio de Janeiro last month, he added. Outside of this there is no new theatre activity.

Business in general in South America is in good shape Melniker added. After about two months in New York, he will leave for a tour of the theatres under his supervision.

Our Films Strong in Egypt

Despite the lack of new construction, Lober stated there is a marked increase in American and British films over French in Egypt. He held the fact that the British fleet is in Alexandria Bay has meant an additional 50,000 patrons.

About 10 pictures in Arabic were produced in Egypt last year by local companies, he said. French-made films have a difficult time finding an outlet in Egypt, notwithstanding the natives' knowledge of the language.

The attitude of Egyptians to American films is very cordial, he said. "Our stars are well known and Laurel and Hardy in particular are in great demand."

Lober cited an instance of the popularity of American stars when a foreigner crosses the desert on a camel. He said the owner of the camel names the animal after an American star. If a woman is riding the beast, the animal may be called Garbo, Harlow or any other female star. If the passenger is a male, the camel may be called Gable, Colman or some such name.

Egyptians have an appreciation of American humor and respond to it readily. They prefer it to drama, Lober stated.

"The word "okay" is now commonly used by Egyptians," the M-G-M representative asserted.

American Tourists Welcome

The natives of Egypt are frank and fair in business dealings and like the methods of Americans, he said. Wherever an American travels, he gets a cordial reception.

All Egypt has about 75 theatres, mostly in Cairo and Alexandria. Censorship is normal and there are no laws affecting distribution, Lober declared.

Approximately 35 M-G-M pictures are released annually in Egypt. They are shown with superimposed French titles and in most theatres there is a side screen translating the French into Arabic and Greek. There are no permanent legitimate theatres in the country, but in the winter French, Italian and English stock companies play several days a week. When the cotton crops are good, the gain is immediately reflected in the theatres. Lober has been in Egypt with M-G-M since Jan. 1, 1930.

The Panama situation presents a different angle, according to Neal. He declared there are 40 theatres in the republic, including the Canal Zone. A theatre which is being remodeled, the El Dorado in Panama City, will be a first run when reopened and marks the only activity current in that territory.

In the Canal Zone, English films as shown in the United States is the rule, while in the Republic all pictures are shown with superimposed Spanish titles. Every M-G-M picture is released in Panama, Neal holds. There is no production locally.

Business has increased due to the steady growth of the Army forces, according to Neal. Of the 40 theatres, the Army operates 12 and the Bureau of Clubs and Playhouses has nine, five of which are for white and four for negroes.

La Empresa Barrios has control of Colon City, which has three theatres. He recently bought out his opposition, giving him a clear field. The city has 35,000 inhabitants. Panama City with 79,000 has seven theatres. The rest of the theatres are in the interior, which has a population of 496,991. Aside from theatres there are only a few cabarets and beer gardens for entertainment.

Neal views the dog races as real competition and there is no indication that the Government, which put an end to them a few years ago, will permit them again, although there have been several unsuccessful attempts to reinstate them.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Final Hour"

(Columbia)

The story of the regeneration of a lawyer, after a divorce nearly wrecks his life, and the manner in which he saves from the chair the girl who had befriended him, this film is active and entertaining fare. Rather routine in its conception and background, it contrives to be fast moving and holds the attention. In the lesser spots it should be found satisfactory.

Ralph Bellamy and Marguerite Churchill share the leading roles. Bellamy goes to pieces when his wife gets a divorce, and when a girl, sought by the police, hides in his apartment, he saves her. Later, a wandering drunkard, she sees him in a cafe in which she works, and helps him. The cafe owner, in love with her, aids in putting Bellamy back on his feet.

When a released convict, formerly a partner of the cafe owner, threatens him, he seeks the lawyer's advice, and through him the kidnaping gang is captured, with the exception of the leader. When the latter shoots down the owner, the crime is pinned on Miss Churchill. By organizing the help of the beggars and others he had assisted, after the girl is convicted, Bellamy forces a confession from the gangster, freeing Miss Churchill, and the film ends on the romantic note. D. Ross Lederman directed from the story and screenplay by Harold Shumate.

"La Porteuse de Pain"

("The Bread Bearer")

(Lenauer International)

Inconspicuously performed, routine in plot structure, this French importation offers little except to those who, with a knowledge of French, enjoy the occasional film shown in this country in that language. English subtitles make for ready understanding of the film by those lacking a knowledge of French.

Taken from a story by Xavier de Montepin and Jules Dornay, and directed by A. Rene Sti, the picture concerns an elderly woman, who, escaping from prison and a life sentence for a crime she did not commit, finally succeeds in finding the son and daughter she had left behind 20 years earlier.

Interwoven is the complication provided by the effort of a wealthy man, himself guilty of the crime, to get rid of the woman, her son's discovery of information proving her innocence, and the romance of her daughter, who had befriended her without realizing her identity. That the film ends in a burst of general happiness for the leaders of the cast is a foregone conclusion to a trite plot.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

No Mass. Anti-Film Bill

BOSTON, July 5.—With the adjournment of the Massachusetts legislature it has been noted that during its tenure no bill unfavorable to the film industry was passed.

Job Insurance Law Starts in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, July 5.—Wisconsin's unemployment insurance law became effective today. All employers of eight or more persons for 18 weeks, including theatre owners, are subject to its provisions. The maximum amount per employe for which they are liable is $15 a week for eight and two-thirds weeks or a total of $130 in any one year. The minimum benefit is $5 a week, which may, however, continue for 13 weeks.

Generally, the weekly benefit rate for complete unemployment is about 50 per cent of the weekly wage. The periods for which benefits must be paid are calculated as a proportion of the weeks of employment put in by a worker. The Wisconsin program includes a system of job finding under which there will be "waiting periods" before benefits become payable.

A basic feature of the Wisconsin law which was passed by the 1932 legislature is the requirement that each employer build up his own unemployment reserve fund for the protection of his workers only. Employer contributions, totalling about $11,000,000 to date, are not pooled, but are kept separately on the state's books, making each employer directly accountable for unemployment in his own business. The law, under which employers must pay two per cent of their "defined payroll," is the first of its kind in operation in America.

Grand Jury Strike Probe Up in Camden

CAMDEN, July 5.—A Grand Jury investigation into recent rioting and disturbances in the vicinity of the RCA Mfg. Co. plant as a result of the strike has been determined upon.

Justice Lloyd of the Supreme Court declared that "we will have anarchy if the rights of persons to safety and the rights of property to protection" were not given.

Adopt SMPE Standard

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The standard 16 millimeter sound film, as developed by the S.M.P.E. has been adopted for South Africa by the South African Standards Institution, according to a report received by the U. S. Dep't. of Commerce from its Johannesburg office.

The decision to adopt the American S.M.P.E. standard in preference to the German, the report points out, was based on the fact that the British Standards Institution, with which the South African body is affiliated, has decided that the British standard will follow the American.

Benefit Big Success

HOLLYWOOD, July 5.—This film town is still talking about the benefit for the Actors' Fund of America. It turned out to be the biggest thing of its kind ever held here. The program lasted four hours, had 52 acts, and raised $20,000.

Practically all the stars in the film colony appeared.

Warner-Ascap Negotiations Near Decision

Matter Reported Placed Before H. M. Warner

Conferences looking to Warners renewing their music company membership in Ascap were carried to Harry M. Warner in Hollywood recently, it was reported here yesterday. While no decisive action has been taken by the Warner companies yet, as a result, indications are that a definite move may be made almost daily.

Officials of Ascap admit that they would like to see the Warner companies back in the fold, but assert at the same time that there is no possibility of the society making any of the changes in broadcasting licenses sought by the Warner companies prior to their resignation from Ascap. The officials state that they are interested in giving the maximum amount of

Perkins Now Heads Warner Legal Staff

Robert W. Perkins, for many years a member of the Warner legal staff, yesterday was named by Harry M. Warner, president, as general counsel and head of Warners legal department. He succeeds Abel Carey Thomas, who has resigned as general counsel because of ill health.

Perkins has been associated with the Warner legal forces since 1928, the year Warners took over First National. Prior to that year Perkins was general counsel and secretary for the latter company, the legal staff of which he joined in 1925. Perkins spent more than a year on the defense of the anti-trust cases against Warners, Paramount and RKO which ended with a settlement in New York.

Suit Settled; Way Clear for N. E. Theatres

Last of Para. Units Now Can Be Reorganized

The settlement of suits for damages totaling $5,000,000 which were filed against Paramount Publix in its bankruptcy proceedings was authorized in an order signed yesterday by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe, making possible a quick reorganization of the Olympia circuit, last of the large Paramount theatre properties to remain in bankruptcy.

The suits were brought by Boston Metropolitan Buildings, Inc., which controlled numerous theatres which had been a part of Olympia, and were based on breaches of contract in connection with the disaffirmance of leases by the Olympia receiver during the circuit's rehabilitation proceedings. Both Paramount Publix and Olympia

Fox Records Baffle Bankruptcy Lawyers

Atlantic City, July 6.—A battery of lawyers spent most of today struggling through piles of books, ledgers and check books of William Fox in an effort to trace his millions and emerged tonight largely baffled.

The hearing goes on tomorrow afternoon with Herbert Leitsteen, Fox's bookkeeper since 1909, apparently due to resume the witness stand. It is part of the preliminaries to settling the more than $9,000,000 claims against Fox, who filed a bankruptcy petition May 9. Robert E. Steedle, Federal referee in bankruptcy, is in charge.

At the opening this morning counsel for Fox and for several creditors

That Earthquake

San Francisco, July 6.—Accusing the film industry of libeling this city, because of the earthquate sequence in "San Francisco," Supervisor Adolph Uhl demanded a formal resolution to Will Hays asking deletion of the 'quake scenes. His demand was voted down amid hearty guffaws from his fellow-legislators. A resolution was passed, however, authorizing a member of the body to "officially view and report on the picture."

Quick Moves Seen On Otterson Pact

Final action on John E. Otterson's Paramount contract may be taken this week, it was learned yesterday, and will probably be in the form of the bringing of a breach of contract suit by Otterson against the company. While an undisclosed alternative was stated on good authority to be a possibility, financial interests identified with Paramount discount all reports of a settlement being made by the company.

Otterson, whose contract carrying a $150,000 annual salary, has four years to go, continues to occupy the Paramount offices which were his as president of the company during the past year. It has been stated officially within Paramount that Otterson's pay was discontinued as of July 1. Max D. Steuer and Charles Schwartz, attorneys for Otterson, are both out of town at this time. Steuer sailed recently on a European vacation and Schwartz is attending United Artists meetings on the coast. With Paramount stockholders already having

Report Kennedy Is Voted $50,000 Fee

Reports that Joseph P. Kennedy was voted $50,000 for his recent Paramount study, with an additional amount for his assistants, at a recent meeting of the Paramount board were in circulation throughout the trade yesterday. No official comment on the reports could be obtained within the company.

Kennedy received $150,000 recently from R. C. A. for his plan of recapitalization for that company. His Paramount association lasted about two months and indications are that his report has been tabled by the company's board and will not be made public. He was assisted in his Paramount work by C. Protest Filed On Cuba's New N. Y. Censors

Majors Refuse to Submit Film for Licensings

Establishment of a Cuban censorship office in New York with the requirement that all films intended for Cuban distribution shall be approved here before being presented to Havana censors has drawn a protest from distributor members of the M. P. P. D. A.

The Hays office protest followed rejection of a shipment of American film at Havana late last week.

Distributors are refusing to submit film and Major Frederick L. Herron has sent a protest to the State Dep't. In the meantime a committee of distributors in Havana has submitted a formal protest to the Cuban Government.

Effects of the refusal to submit film here and also a decision not to ship film to Cuba until the situation is straightened out will not become ap-

Van Beuren-Pathe Case Before Court

A report by a special arbitrator, Theodore Kiendl, on the Pathe claim against the Van Beuren Corp., filed in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday held that the Van Beuren Corp. must pay $240,000 to Pathe as money due on a series of notes. The report also held that under an agreement made in 1924 between the two parties, Pathe was not required to advance money to Van Beuren in order to extend the maturity dates of the notes which were to have been paid up on Dec. 31, 1935.

The arbitrator also reported that Pathe is entitled to the chattel mortgage which has been delivered to it by Van Beuren. He also redelivered to Pathe release and cancellation of the chattel mortgage covering 1935-36 product. The agreement stipulated that Pathe's laboratory process Van Beuren film and advance money to Van Beuren. At the time of the execution of the agreement, the referee reported, Van Beuren was indebted to Pathe to the amount of $145,000 because of prior transactions. On Dec. 26, 1935, the total amounted to $240,000 and Van Beuren at that time requested the $240,000 necessary to retire the notes. Van Beuren insisted that Pathe was obligated to finance the company from Jan. 1, 1936, to Jan. 31, 1937, and, consequently, should be compelled to advance the $240,000. The arbitrator disagreed with this contention. Under an agreement entered into Feb. 26, 1936, Van Beuren and Pathe agreed to permit an arbitrator to settle their difficulties.

Towell Back Silent About British Deal

Describing his trip as routine, Sydney Towell, treasurer of Twentieth Century-Fox, yesterday denied his month's visit to England had anything to do with reports linking the company with a deal to purchase the Ostrers' interest in G. B. or to sell to them. Towell arrived on the Queen Mary. He stated this was his first trip in two years and he went abroad "to look around."

Accompanying Towell was R. Sutton Dawes, director of sales in England for Twentieth Century-Fox. He likewise denied any knowledge of a G. B. deal. He stated his visit was to check up on new product. Dawes will remain in New York for about a week and then go to Hollywood to see a number of the new pictures in work. He added he expected to spend about three weeks in the United States. It's his first junket in four years.

He also plans to appear in a play here in the autumn. Hardwicke is under contract to Gilbert Miller for legitimate stage productions, but does film work on a free-lance basis.

Noticing the thorough inspection the customs men were giving his baggage yesterday, Hardwicke told reporters: "I must have been born a bad actor. They must think I'm a smuggler. They're going through everything I've got."

The British actor was last here about 18 months ago when he appeared in "Becky Sharpe" and "Les Miserables."

Bank Night Attack Is Refuted in Ohio

Cleveland, July 6.—William E. Minshall, attorney for Affiliated Enterprises, which controls Bank Night, brands as "silly and an attempt to stir up a controversy and confuse theatre owners" a recent bulletin of the I. T. O. of Ohio, which questions the right of exhibitors to use the word "bank" in Bank Night.

The I. T. O. based its point on the state law prohibiting the use of the word "bank" or any similar word as a designation or name under which business is conducted in the state. Minshall contends that there is nothing in the statute to govern the use of the word as Affiliated Enterprises uses it in Bank Night, since it is used neither as a corporate name nor as a designation.

Acquit Milwaukee Manager

Milwaukee, Wis., July 6.—Bank Night in a theatre was again upheld as no violation of the lottery law, by a jury in District Judge Howard Haberle's court here when Milton Harman, manager of Saxe's Garfield, was acquitted by three men and three women. He was charged with operating a lottery. It is the second decision of its kind. Eugene Van Norman, manager of the circuit's Uptown, recently was found not guilty on a similar charge.

Theatre men were ordered to so arrange the attendance that crowding of theatres is ended or drastic action will be taken.

Loew's Astor Lease Extended 2 Months

The City Investing Co., owners of the Astor property, has given Loew's a two-month extension of the lease on the theatre. Under the terms of the new arrangements, Loew's will continue to operate the house until Aug. 31.

For the 13th week of "The Great Ziegfeld" on a two-a-day policy, the take was $16,500, or $880 less than previous week. This is the second time during the run that the seven-day figure has dropped below $17,000.

"Poppy," which ends a third week tonight at the Paramount, will wind up with approximately $26,000 for the stanza. It is being held for a fourth week.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Heart of the West"

(Sherman-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, July 6.—A formula western, introducing nothing that is new or novel, this provides only average secondary entertainment. Merely repeating the old story of honest ranchers at war with cattle rustlers, the only change in the standard brand of thrill action is the idea of using dynamite to halt a cattle stampede.

Loosely put together, the story has William Boyd and Jimmy Ellison in their familiar roles. Working for Sidney Blackmer, they become suspicious that he is a cattle rustler. With George Hayes, they join up with Charles Martin, tenderfoot rancher, who is the particular objective of Blackmer's gang's depredations. Following a familiar pattern, with a side line of romance involving Ellison and Lynn Gabriel rung in, the story builds to a climax of ranch-rustler conflicts. In that, Boyd saves Ellison from being ground to death under the hoofs of thundering herd by a dynamite blast that turns the maddened cattle into narrow mountain pass to wipe out the rustlers.

It is meager in entertainment value. The outstanding acting performance is contributed by Blackmer as the villain. Based on the Clarence Mulford stories, the screen play is by Doris Schroeder and direction is by Howard Bretherton.

Production Code Seal, 2,278. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Fiat Voluntas Dei"
("Your Troubles Are Mine")

(Nuovo Mondo)

It is evident from audience reaction that there is considerable lively good humor in this Italian importation. The good comedy, it is equally evident, is attributable entirely to the work of the excellent Italian comedian, Angelo Musco. It is completely his picture, and he makes the most of it.

However, the film is adaptable only to theatres whose patrons are familiar with the Italian language, since there are no English subtitles and the backbone of the picture's entertainment lies in the amusing dialogue of the comedian.

Musco plays an elderly, kindly and timid pastor of a little village church, who is focal point for the burdens of the entire community. Lovers, mothers, wives all come to him and he makes every effort to clear the difficulty, although he often gets into embarrassing situations as a result. The slight plot entangles him in innumerable complications of a romantic and marital nature, but through it all he brings happiness—in highly amusing fashion—for those who are able to understand the dialogue.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 74 minutes. "G."

Application Blanks Issued for Matrons

With the issuance of mimeographed forms of applications for matrons in theatres yesterday, the Dep't. of Health plans to start distributing licenses next Monday or Tuesday to all theatres, large or small, desiring to admit children under 16 in accordance with the Stand Law.

The I.T.O.A., upon receipt of the forms yesterday, sent them out to all its members. Each matron securing a license will have to undergo a mental and physical test by the Dep't. of Health and only those recommended by exhibitors will be considered. The cost of a matron's license will be $2.

Special licenses to theatres will be issued by License Commissioner Paul Moss, it was stated, and each theatre will be charged $10. With more than 500 theatres being operated in the local area, it is figured the Stand Law will benefit the city an extra revenue of more than $5,000 annually.

After an exhibitor committee conferred with Dep't. of Health officials, special sections designated for children in theatres can be increased or decreased at the discretion of the theatre owner.

Warner-Ascap Negotiations Near Decision

service to their licensees and this aim can be only partially realized without the membership of the Warner companies, and cite that as their principal reason for wanting Warners back.

Ascap asserts that its revenues have not been affected by the withdrawal of the Warner companies and the music catalogues and declare that the next quarterly dividend of the society, which will be voted on Friday, will be the largest in the organization's history. The second quarter dividend is estimated at $1,200,000, as compared with $930,000 for the first quarter of this year, the largest up to now.

Some opposition to the reinstatement of the Warner companies is in evidence within Ascap membership ranks. One member said that if Warners moved to return to the society he would head a movement to have their applications treated like those of new members and made subject to the approval of the membership committee.

Stockholders Take Over Penn Control

Pittsburgh, July 6.—Control of the de luxe Penn here has passed from Loew's to the Penn Federal Corp., a local group of preferred stockholders headed by Roland A. McGrady. The group actually took over the house two years ago when interest payments were defaulted, but permitted Loew's to handle the operation and booking.

The inability of Loew's to negotiate with tenants in the theatre building was given as the reason for the Pittsburgh group assuming charge, according to McGrady. M. J. Cullen, granted an indefinite leave by Loew's, will remain as manager under the new setup and no changes in personnel are contemplated. It is expected the house will sign a new pooling deal with Warners when the present agreement expires Sept. 1. The Penn's 10-year contract with United Artists expired June 21 and has not yet been renewed.

Wanger to Do One To Three in Italy

first picture will be "Three Times Loser" with Sylvia Sidney and Henry Fonda. Either Gregory LaCava or William Howard will direct. Wanger said LaCava will go abroad to look the situation over and he hopes LaCava will accept the assignment. If not, Howard will direct, according to the producer. The initial film will get under way June 15.

Wanger looks upon production in Italy as ideal in many respects. He said that climatic conditions there are as good as Hollywood and the historic cities lend themselves to colorful backgrounds.

The producer added that while in Italy he had an audience with Premier Mussolini who is anxious to revive film production to a top position it held many years ago.

"Italy is the greatest place in the world for color," Wanger added. Special tax arrangements have been concluded with the Government whereby production can proceed on a money saving basis, he said.

Carlo Ronoeornoni is building the studios in Cinema City, Wanger stated.

United Artists and Wanger will finance all the pictures the producer makes in Cinema City, Wanger declared. According to his 10-year pact with the distributing company, U. A. finances 50 per cent of his pictures and Wanger puts up the other half.

Wanger will rent space at Cinema City just as he does on the coast, he stated. He plans to stay in New York four or five days and then leave for Hollywood. Gene Towne and Graham Baker, writers for Wanger, are in town from the coast to confer on the new program. Joan Bennett, who returned from England yesterday on the Europa, has been cast for "Wuthering Heights." She also will discuss her next picture with Wanger while in town.

A new company, which has been formed in Rome for the purpose, is named Societe Anonyme Companie Cintematographie Italiano Walter Wanger, with Wanger as president, Count Parlo de Frasso, vice-president; Dr. A. H. Giannini and Loyd Wright, directors, and Mario Luprino, general manager. Offices already have been opened in Rome, Wanger stated.

Fox Records Baffle Bankruptcy Counsel

asked Referee Steedle to delay the examination "until the claims are properly established and we know who are the creditors." Steedle has already said that that point would not be reached for several months. He refused to grant a postponement, but delayed the start of the examination until afternoon so creditors could appeal to Judge John Boyd Davis in Camden.

This afternoon, Leitsteen, who, like Fox, has moved to Atlantic City and whose $200 a week now comes from Mrs. Eva Fox and her All-Continent Corp., insisted that "when we were moved out of our offices at 10th Ave. and 55th St., New York, in 1930, someone got the correspondence and books out of the storeroom there. I haven't the slightest idea who they were. Joseph Hart, my assistant for the last 20 years, went up there and picked out what he thought was ours. We don't know where the books for 1926, 1927 and 1929 are."

Leitsteen admitted he could not tell from his books what the assets and liabilities of Fox were at any one date. He identified records of Fox's stock transactions conducted through Loeb, Alsberg Co. under the names of Ben Leo, a brother-in-law, and Bessie Livingston, a sister, in 1929, but entered in a 1930 ledger. He admitted the Fox stock market transactions "ran into millions in any given year." He conceded that on Aril 7, 1930, Fox received a $15,000,000 check, but apparently could not trace what was done with it.

Leitsteen's testimony from the ledgers was similarly vague on the exchanges of millions between Fox and All-Continent Corp., which ended last fall when the latter "sold him out."

were named as defendants in the actions.

Under the settlement authorized by the court here yesterday, Paramount and Olympia agree to carry out the provisions of the original leases, to aid in a speedy reorganization of the theatres and to pay $25,000 in further settlement.

A reorganization plan for Olympia was brought nearly to completion a year ago, but its presentation to the Federal court at Boston was prevented at that time by the failure of the principals to effect a complete settlement of the Boston Metropolitan Buildings' suits. It is now believed that with these actions out of the way the original plan may be revived for presentation to the Federal court.

Court Issues Order On Prudence Setup

Federal Judge Grover M. Moscowitz in Brooklyn yesterday filed an order to show cause why a date should not be set for the filing of a plan of reorganization by the Prudence Co. The Prudence Co. and its affiliates, Prudence Bond Corp. and Allied Owners Corp., were identified with the financing and construction of a number of theatres for Paramount, some of which were subsequently taken over by Loew's. Prudence Co., Inc., was petitioned into reorganization under Section 77-B of the Bankruptcy Act on Feb. 1, 1935, and since that time no plan of reorganization has been offered.

Recently Judge Moscowitz denied a motion by a holder of a small block of particiaption certificates to oust two of the three reorganization trustees.

Protest Filed On Cuba's New N. Y. Censors

parent for several days, it is predicted, as there is sufficient film on hand in Cuba to keep theatres supplied with American product for a short time.

One of the principal objections of distributors to the New York censorship, which is in charge of Roberto Hernandez with offices at 1775 Broadway, they say, is that it costs $10 per reel, and furthermore, that the local censorship is not final.

Hernandez, in a statement to MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday, emphasized that the New York approval is final. He stated that the Havana board of censors has been stripped of any authority over American films which have received the approval of the New York board. He maintains that the new ruling, when put fully into effect, will actually facilitate the shipment of films to Cuba and result in a saving to American distributors who will have the product accepted or rejected in New York.

Regarding the charge of $10 per reel, Henandez stated that if this is proved to be exorbitant the Cuban authorities are ready to deal with American distributors to the end that a fair and reasonable charge may be established.

Arthur L. Pratchett, Paramount general manager in Mexico and Cuba, is here for conferences with John W. Hicks, Jr., vice-president.

For the first six months of this year the censors reviewed a total of 3,148 reels, and ordered 165 eliminations.

Kirchwey in Defense Of Board of Review

charge that the Board is financed from Hollywood by declaring that the fee of $6.25, which the Board charges per reel for reviewing of product, has not been changed since it was established in 1919, and that the fee has been widely publicized since that time. He said Harris was fully aware of the fee when he joined the executive committee.

The chairman's statement said the committee noted Harris' reasons for resigning "with pained regret," and cited the fact that Harris had attended only nine of the 24 regular luncheon meetings of the committee in the past year. Harris had given as one reason for his resignation the fact that the Board was "not doing anything significant, dynamic or progressive to give effect to its oft-expressed ideals," and that the committee "concerned themselves with stereotyped details."

Dr. Kirchwey replied with the assertion that men such as himself certainly would not devote valuable hours of their time constantly to the meetings if there were any foundation for the Harris statement.

Kirchwey cited the work of the hundreds of volunteer workers connected with the Board, and stressed the important effect of the Board's work in educating the public to appreciate and look for the better product of the film industry, which he noted as the original purpose of the organization. He emphasized the board's independence.

Carl E. Milliken, secretary of the M. P. P. D. A., declared on Monday that the reviewing by the National Board was optional with the producing companies, and that the reviewing fee is at present what it always has been.

Theatre Group Hits Roadshowing By U.A.

DENVER, July 6.—The roadshowing of films by United Artists in towns where exhibitors have not purchased them, has been condemned in resolutions passed by the Theatre Owners and Managers of the Rocky Mountain Region, Inc.

Three Samuel Goldwyn films, "These Three," "Splendor" and "Strike Me Pink," were not taken by Fox theatres. These films are being shown with portable equipment in Fox towns of the territory in lodge halls, town halls, school auditoriums, and theatres where available. Fox is exclusive in all their towns in the Denver territory with the exception of Denver. Plans of United Artists, with Warren Slee as advance man, include the showing of the films in at least all the Fox towns in the Denver territory.

Fight Film Dual Big in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, July 6. — The Louis-Schmeling fight pictures with "Things to Come" and "Counterfeit," at Loew's State had them standing for all shows. The fight film was held three additional days. The gross easily topped $7,400, $1,900 over the line.

The Brown was the only house with the exception of Loew's State, to show a profit. "The House of a Thousand Candles" with a five-act lineup of vaudeville, succeeded in taking $2,900, over average by $100.

Other first runs felt the opposition. The evenings continued to be cool.

The recently enacted state tax on admissions is hurting business, not only for theatres, but also for night clubs and road houses, which are obliged to turn over to the state tax commission 25 per cent of their gross receipts.

Total first run business was $20,400. Average is $21,200.

KRS to Attack Cuts Made by Exhibitors

LONDON, June 26.—The possibility is seen of drastic action by the Kinematograph Renters' Society to cope with the evil of film mutilation by exhibitors. The widespread practice of eliminating footage in order to fit a top-heavy two-feature program into schedule was first prominently attacked in a trade paper, the Cinema, but the general press now promises to make a news story of it as a public grievance.

With patrons writing in to the papers complaining of discrepancies between the same film as seen in the West End and in the neighborhoods, and with assertions made that as much as 2,500 feet have been cut from a feature, distributors see a serious danger to their good will.

Contract conditions prohibit the cutting of films and the K. R. S. has an easy means of discovering offending exhibitors through the theatre inspection department which it maintains for the purpose of keeping tab on receipts.

Majors Assert Censorship Is Up to Havana

Declare Films There Are Handled by Agents

Spokesmen for major distributors yesterday declared that the new Cuban proposal for New York censorship of American films destined for exhibition in Cuba would be a problem for Cuban film distributors, rather than the American companies.

It was stated that major distributors do not maintain their own branches in Havana, but that distribution there is by local agents who have their own established businesses, and that the imposition of a $10 per reel reviewing charge in New York would have to be borne by those agents. The Cuban Film Board of Trade has been apprised of the current situation, it was stated, and is expected to act at once in presenting its case to the Cuban Government. American officials, meanwhile, are marking time, although it was apparent that many are greatly concerned over what they regard as the precedent involved in the Cuban proposal. Several ex-

High Production Tax Is Planned by L. A.

Los Angeles, July 7.—Basing figures on calculated production costs totaling $93,480,000 this year, the Ways and Means Committee of the Los Angeles city council today prepared to set up a new schedule of city license fees that will tax film companies an estimated $15,050.

The committee announced that it would seek the elimination of the present business license ordinance asking a flat $400 annually from both major and independent producers.

The committee's plan, as proposed, would adjust the tax on annual production from $50 annually for studios showing production costs of less than $25,000 to $700 annually for studios exceeding $500,000 yearly.

Among his duties at Warners, Starr has charge of the music and broadcasting departments. He is due back from the Chicago convention on Friday.

Kuykendall Hints at New Policy on Legislation And Litigation

The intimation that the M.P.T.O.A. will not oppose future legislation designed to regulate film trade practices, or refrain from a policy of litigation to correct trade abuses, in the event the exhibitor organization's 10-point program of trade reform is not adopted by distributors this season is contained in a bulletin to M.P.T.O.A. members from Ed Kuykendall, president, which was released here yesterday.

The bulletin states that M.P.T.O.A. has done all that it can to attain its program "to remedy and reduce unfair trade practices and abuses in the business operation of the distribution and exhibition of motion pictures" and emphasizes that from this point on "the responsibility is squarely on the distributors as to whether any sort of self-regulation is now possible in this business."

The indication that M.P.T.O.A. might not lend producers and distributors the aid next year which played so important a part during the past session of Congress in the industry's opposition to the Pettengill and Neely Bills, if the industry's re-

Amended Claim Filed In Fox Detroit Case

An amended proof of claim for $4,437,366 against Fox Theatres Corp. was filed in Federal Court here yesterday by the Union Guardian Trust Co. of Detroit as trustee of the first mortgage bonds of the Colwood Co., owner of the Fox Theatre Bldg. in Detroit. The amendment was filed in connection with a suit brought by the Chicago Title & Trust Co. against Fox Theatres.

The Colwood Co. leased the Fox Theatre Bldg. to Fox Theatres Nov. 2, 1931, and the lease was broken in July, 1932, it was stated. The claim covers the period from 1932 to the end of 1936.

Two other actions involving Fox Theatres were up yesterday. Judge William Bondy referred to Judge Martin T. Manton the protest of the Philadelphia Company for Guaranteeing Mortgages against the reduction of its claim of $389,436 against Fox Theatres to $30,134 by a special master. It seeks the full amount.

Judge Manton allowed Milton C. Weissman, as trustee of Fox Theatres, to donate to the William Fox Isis Investment Co., a subsidiary, 1,000 shares of stock at a par value of $100 a share. In explaining the transaction the order pointed out that in 1935 the Isis Investment Co. earned $33,000, but this was subject to a 20½ per cent federal income tax in 1936 and that the Isis Investment Co. has a previous deficit of $67,070 and by donating this stock the deficit is covered and the company will be enabled to declare a dividend.

Education Road to Better Films—Lewin

Portland, July 7.—Education rather than legislation can solve the question of film improvement declared William Lewin of Newark, chairman of the film committee of the Department of Secondary Education of the N.E.A., here.

"We have found," he said, "that an aroused public opinion, as exemplified in the Legion of Decency drive, is more effective than such measures as the Neely and Pettengill bills introduced in Congress with a view to securing better pictures through the devious methods of artificial legislation. We cannot legislate good taste."

Dr. Lewin is also opposed to double bills and is urging the N.E.A. to fight them.

20th-Fox Australia Deal Clears Rumors

By CLIFF HOLT

Melbourne, June 16 (via air mail).—The completion of negotiations by which Twentieth Century-Fox will handle Gaumont British distribution in Australia clears the air of persistent rumors that the product would be handled by Stuart F. Doyle and Associated Distributors. Through Associated, Doyle handles the C. M. Woolf General Film output.

Under the setup, Dominion Film Distributors will release G.B., Twickenham, British Lion and probably Twentieth Century-Fox's British product in Australia. Heading Dominion are Stanley C. Crick, Twentieth Century-Fox head here, as chairman; Ernest Turnbull, managing director, and Alan Williamson, G.B. local representative, as a director.

Although mentioned during the course of the negotiations. Hoyts is not expected to be directly connected with the Dominion organization, but because of its Fox connection, is expected to provide the chief releasing outlet.

Put forward as an argument for allowing theatre improvements to be classed as a deductible item for tax purposes, the House of Representatives here heard figures from Hoyts Theatres, Ltd., for the six years to June 30, 1935. In that period the company's net profit was £173,313, yet in direct Federal and state taxes the company paid a total of £149,196. In addition the company collected £450,000 in Federal and state entertainment taxes, making a total of £599,197. In the same period the preference shareholders contributed nearly £1,000,000 in capital and received only £96,407. The ordinary shareholders received nothing.

The aggregate attendance during 1935 at theatres controlled by General Theatres Corp. and Hoyts reached a total of 25,152,986, more than four times the population.

Attendance at Hoyts' houses increased by 379,812 over 1934 and by 127,000 at General's theatres.

Films Amusement Leader in Mexico

By JAMES LOCKHART

Mexico City, July 2. — The National Statistics Dep't. has released figures showing that attendance at local film houses last year far exceeded that at any other type of amusement. The paid film attendance in 1935 in the Federal district here was 21,861,831. The district population is about 1,300,000.

Despite the protracted strike against major companies here, exhibitors enjoyed a record year. The attendance in 1934 was 21,138,358, and 18,123,748 in 1933. There were 58 film houses operating in the district last year, 55 in 1934 and 52 in 1933. Currently 63 houses are operating. The only opposition came from the stage and bullfights, neither of which was serious. Legitimate houses gave 3,712 shows last year and bullfights 120, which compares with 29,111 film performances.

The national irrigation commission is making two sound pictures. The Ministry of Public Education will exhibit the films without charge at agricultural fairs this summer.

American major distributors see more labor trouble brewing. Their employes have complained to the Federal labor department that the distributors have violated collective work contracts signed as part of the settlement of last year's strike. Negotiations are being held in an effort to stave off another walkout.

Local exhibitors expect an increase in business this summer as a result of the tourist traffic from the United States on the new international highway, which was opened on July 1. Cyrus O. Lee, president of the Lee Film Co., San Antonio, Tex., has made 10 reels of film of the highway, which extends from the U. S. border to Mexico City. He will exhibit the films in the U. S.

The Liberty, has a new $15,000 60-foot marquee, improved ventilation, new drapes and high intensity arc equipment on projectors.

Looking 'Em Over

"Blackmailer"

(Columbia)

A comedy mystery, this has a real element of the latter ingredient, but it is almost completely overshadowed by the predominant comedy, as a stupid detective and his equally unintelligent assistant attempt to unravel the knot of a murder.

The title gives no indication whatever of the character of the production, which appears suitable for the smaller situations chiefly. William Gargan, Florence Rice and H. B. Warner have the leading roles.

The screen play by Joseph Krumgold, Lee Loeb and Harold Buchman concentrates to a far greater extent on comedy than mystery, as a race-track blackmailer of Warner's wife is murdered at a dinner party in the Warner home. Suspect are his daughter, Miss Rice; her fiance, Gargan; a bookmaker, the butler and Warner and his wife. The detective appears on the scene and from that point the mystery is almost forgotten as comedy, which at times descends to the point of downright nonsense, holds sway. Eventually Gargan clears up the problem, despite the detective, following a second murder during the course of a re-enactment of the first. Gordon Wiles directed.

"Roaring Guns"

(Puritan)

An average western which should prove exciting enough to the outdoor clients. The story at times is disconnected and wobbles but nevertheless manages to be coherent.

It is a tale of the doings of a cattle combine as they attempt to close out small ranch holders. Wheeler Oakman, in his usual role as ringleader of the desperadoes, plots to get Rosalinda Price's ranch. However, Tim McCoy is sent for and he foils Oakman. McCoy, on his arrival, is slated to be shot by Rex Lease, but he is quicker on the draw and knocks off Lease first. In the last sequences he also shoots Oakman and a confederate. The required action, riding and tense situations should make the film acceptable.

Sam Newfield directed from the story and screen play by Joseph O'Donnell. Jack Greenhalgh's photography is effective. The picture should do well on a double bill.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,919. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Native Films Show Gains in Argentina

Washington, July 7.—Argentina's domestic film industry is steadily expanding, according to a report to the U. S. Dep't. of Commerce from Buenos Aires.

During 1935, the report points out, three or four production companies released approximately 10 features. This year the number of companies has increased to seven or eight, and they have released eight features to date, with 25 expected by the end of the year. It is predicted that 50 pictures will be released in 1937.

The success of domestic features, according to the report, is indicative of the growing preference in Argentina for Spanish-speaking pictures. They are even more successful outside of Buenos Aires, where a relatively large proportion of the patrons are unable to read. It is not unusual for such films to earn 10 times as much as an average American film, the report states. There are approximately 1,200 film houses in the country. The average cost of an Argentine feature is approximately 60,000 pesos (about $20,000).

New Cameramen Pact Sets $100 Minimum

Provisions for an increase in minimum salaries from $90 to $100, a 40-hour week and the right to hire apprentice cameramen are contained in the new two-year pact signed by Local 644 and the newsreel companies. The agreement went into effect Monday.

During the NRA, the newsreel companies have been operating under regulations agreed upon at the time, but since then the companies and cameramen have been working without an agreement.

Inclusion of the apprentice cameramen clause for the training of new men is regarded by newsreel companies as a necessity for the development of new talent. The $10 increase doesn't affect any of the newsreel companies to a great extent, as it is held most of the cameramen were getting this amount.

MPTOA Calls For Speed on Sales Reform

form program is not placed in work with the opening of the new season, is contained in the following significant statement in Kuykendall's bulletin.

"Distributors must decide whether the theatre owners of this country can hope to have their complaints and grievances taken care of to a reasonable extent within the business, or must look to the courts and the legislatures for a hearing and for any sort of regulation of unfair competitive practices."

After reviewing the work accomplished by the M.P.T.O.A. trade practice committee in a series of recent meetings with the sales heads of nine national distribution companies, Kuykendall's bulletin asserts that "nothing further can be done by us to advance the trade practice proposals until the distributors definitely decide and announce whether or not they will cooperate with us." Calling upon the companies for immediate action, Kuykendall intimates that a failure to act may result in an industry drift toward "litigation, legislation and Governmental regulation" and that the responsibility for that "is squarely up to the distributors."

Exhibition Contract Drafted

The M.P.T.O.A. president reports that a "simple, unconditional" cancellation clause has been drafted by the exhibitor committee and submitted to sales companies, together with a short form of exhibition contract. He writes that the adoption of these and other parts of the exhibitor program, including the elimination of score charges, correction of designated playdate complaints and the forcing of shorts "require nothing more than a definite modification of any distributor's own sales policies and practices to immediately solve."

He also places responsibility on distributors for a decision on whether or not any effort is to be made to correct overbuying, unfair clearance, nontheatrical competition and other matters which require distributor participation in the proposed setup of local conciliation boards.

Warns of Lawsuits

"M.P.T.O.A. members," the bulletin concludes, "have steadfastly fought for these reforms within the business for many years, frequently at great personal sacrifices and for things in which they could gain no personal advantage. They are ready and willing to put these proposals into practical operation immediately, insofar as exhibitor cooperation is necessary. But it is now up to the distributors to make the next move. In the meantime, watch the unnecessary lawsuits pile up."

Kuykendall's bulletin also calls the attention of exhibitors to the need for increased showmanship effort and definite planning to offset the competition for public attention during the national political campaign next fall. He states that the trend in political campaigning is toward showmanship and the use of professional entertainment in radio and films, and states that the fall campaign will be "real competition" for theatres. The bulletin also cautions exhibitors against lending their screens to political propaganda during the coming campaign.

Kuykendall, who is now at his home at Columbus, Miss., plans to return here in about two weeks, at which time, indications are, he will seek final decisions from distributors on their willingness to adopt the M.P.T.O.A. trade practice program for next season.

Fur Coats No Draw

Kansas City, July 7.—Barney Joffee and Bill Reinke, operators of the Tower, say they have proved to their own satisfaction that "give-aways don't mean a thing."

The theatre gave away seven fur coats during the week ending June 25, one each night in connection with the stage show, Joffee reports. After giving the promotion a two-week build-up, business remained on a par with preceding weeks.

"It didn't affect business a particle," Joffee commented.

Flareups Numerous In Wm. Fox Hearing affairs will be greatly hampered, if not stopped. We believe those records are in existence."

Leitsteen has stoutly maintained they were lost. Referring particularly to Murray C. Becker, who frequently objected to the manner of Leitsteen, Pride added that "Fox's counsel should be most delighted to help secure those records; I cannot understand his objections. Later in the day Walter Hanstein, Atlantic City attorney for several creditors, told Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle that "I shall seek to show that All-Continent Corp. is the alter ego of Fox."

All-Continent, owned by Fox's wife and daughters, is listed as one of his largest creditors and according to Leitsteen, "sold him out" last fall. Several times protests were made to Steedle about Leitsteen's lack of memory, and Steedle reminded the bookkeeper that "'I don't remember' if it is not true, is just as much perjury under oath as an outright false statement."

The testimony Fox gave before a Senate committee was used at one point, but Leitsteen stuck to his story. He volunteered an explanation at one point that "all those happenings in my life I want to forget and forget very quickly; I have nothing to treasure there."

Leitsteen will resume the stand tomorrow.

NSS to Have K. C. Branch

Kansas City, July 7.—National Screen Service will establish a branch office here sometime in August to handle direct shipments of all items the company offers to exhibitors in the Western Missouri and Kansas territory. Heretofore the company has had only a sales office here, with Charles Gregory in charge. The branch office, ninth for the country, will employ around 40 persons.

Majors Assert Censorship Is Up to Havana

pressed the belief that it would result in similar moves by other foreign governments. All expressed satisfaction with the Cuban censor system as operated heretofore.

Roberto Hernandez, in charge of the Cuban censor bureau established here, said yesterday that approval of films in Havana in the past carried no definite charge such as the $10 fee being established here. In defense of the new arrangement he said that distributors were formerly subjected to expenses which it was difficult to see on the surface. These were, he said, transportation, importation and storage charges on films which had been rejected; the difficulty of making changes in films in Havana on which revisions had been asked by the censors, and expensive red tape manufactured by small-time Latin-American politicians with whom exhibitors there were forced to deal.

Hernandez also stated that no double censorship of American films would result from the new arrangement. He cited the July 4 report of Clayton Lane, chief of the Division of Foreign Tariffs of the U. S. Dep't. of Commerce, which published the Cuban decree, and pointed out that the Havana censor board would not review American films in the future, but would confine itself to films originating in countries other than the United States. The New York and Havana boards would operate independently, being subject only to the higher authority of the Cuban Secretary of the Interior, he said.

Spain Moves Censor Center to Barcelona

Barcelona, July 7.—Mutua, the organization of distributors in Spain, with headquarters here, has succeeded in obtaining a Government decree restoring the film censorship center to Barcelona. As a result of the move, distributors in the country are expected to realize substantial savings.

The Government arbitration board, acting in the mercantile strike, has denied the demand of theatre operators that they be relieved of all other work, but has granted them a 10 per cent wage increase. Film interests will appeal the grant, it is understood, when the increase is officially decreed. The appeal is expected to postpone a settlement by six months.

The National Cinematographic Week Committee has awarded first prize to Cifesa, for its production, "Morena Clara."

Columbia has contracted for the distribution here of the product of Actualites of France, which is maintaining a sound truck here and will film at least 25 per cent of its newsreel material in Spain.

M-G-M bookings for the new season in Spain and Portugal are so nearly complete that the company has abandoned its scheduled sales convention.

“Francisco” Pittsburgh's Hit, $24,000

PITTSBURGH, July 7.—The earthquake in “San Francisco” was nothing compared to the one that hit the Penn box-office last week and that house soared to its biggest take in more than a year. The gross was sensational at $24,000, so good, in fact, that the picture was moved a couple of blocks away to the Warner to continue its first run at the same scale.

The effect of the Penn's boom trade was favorably reflected elsewhere in downtown sector. At the Stanley, the combination of “Trouble for Two” on the screen and “Folies Comique” on the stage accounted for a nice $17,900, while “Private Number” held up satisfactorily in its second week at the Alvin, getting $6,800 on the holdover session. Even the Warner jumped back into the profit column, “Early to Bed,” on a double bill with “Boulder Dam,” accounting principally for the first-rate $4,100.

“Fury,” standing alone as the screen attraction at the Palace, was good for $9,500, compared with an average of $11,000, and “Let's Sing Again,” topping the double bill at the Capitol, registered $8,000 largely on the strength of Bobby Breen's former local residence.

The second week of the Schmeling-Louis fight pictures at the Princess, accompanied by two features, brought $5,000 as against $12,000 for the first week.

Cuban Censor Ready to Talk Over Problem

Suggests Majors Present Objections to Fees

Herron of the M.P.P.D.A., which was made public yesterday by Roberto Hernandez, commissioner of the Cuban censor board.

The letter also offers to take up with American distributors "in a spirit of cooperation" any other objections they may have to the new plan for censoring in New York American films designed for exhibition in Cuba. Hernandez states in the letter that "the purpose of the law as set forth in the preamble of the Presidential decree is to save American producers expense, difficulties, delays, as well as inconveniences, and the new board was created for the benefit of the American film producers."

Spokesmen for American distributors observed that if their con-

Lawyers Want to Study All-Continent Moves

Atlantic City, July 8.—Mrs. Eva Fox is to decide before tomorrow at 10 o'clock whether creditors of her husband, William Fox, may study the books of her All-Continent Corp. If her answer is "yes," the scheduled examination of Fox, Mrs. Fox and their two daughters in his bankruptcy action will be postponed at least a month.

That was the situation tonight after a session that came close to hilarity as creditors' lawyers, trying to trace the dispersing of more than $20,000,000 which Fox had in 1930, followed the course of a borrowed million "'round and 'round."

Herbert Leitsteen, Fox family bookkeeper since 1909, was on the witness stand again before Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle. For more than an hour, under questioning, he went through the records showing Fox losses in stocks after the 1929 crash, and the assets which Fox possessed in that year. Almost all were sold to All-Continent Corp., it was testified.

Walter Hanstein, spokesmen for the attorneys, asked him to tell how All-Continent was formed. Leitsteen re-

Swiss Group Urges Domestic Producing

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The Swiss Government committee, which has been studying the possibility of establishing a domestic film industry, has reported that such a development is desirable, according to a report from the American Consulate-General in Zurich to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce.

An independent organization, which undertook the establishment of a domestic film industry in Italian-speaking Switzerland, the report continues, met with failure, owing to opposition by Swiss exhibitors.

In its preliminary report, the Government committee recommended the establishment of a Swiss Film Chamber, a central organization with supervisory functions over the industry. The Federal Government and the cantons, as well as cultural and economic groups, are to be represented in this chamber.

Suit Is Started on Bank Night Policy

KANSAS CITY, July 8.—Dorothy Wyatt has filed suit in Circuit Court at St. Joseph, Mo., against Abe Slusky and Louis Slusky, alleging that the two declined to pay her $300 on a Bank Night "insurance policy."

The night of June 24, the plaintiff alleges, she won a Bank Night award of $300 at the Electric, and was paid the award by the theatre. However, she had bought a "policy" from the Sluskys which contained a clause providing she would be paid $300 by the "underwriters" even if she also won the theatre award.

Dorothy Wyatt's name was the third one drawn. Defendants claim the "insurance policy" covered only the first name drawn.

The object of the cut is to afford jobs for vaudeville and revue players who were thrown out of work when the film houses dropped orchestras and stage shows. Under the terms of the reduction order, theatres not using stage shows will continue to pay the 13 per cent tax, and those dropping them later must resume payment of the higher rate.

Short Subject

"March of Time No. 7"

(RKO)

In three dynamic, swift-moving episodes, the latest issue of the March of Time, is significant picturization. Keen verbal observation throws its camera lens and sound track at three interesting situations. Analyzed as to purport, background and current status, and withal in a fashion to grasp and hold the attention, are U. S. horse racing, the dictatorship of the Dominican Republic, and the political and social unrest in France.

Perhaps less important, but certainly most interesting to the average American screen audience is the work of the all-powerful Jockey Club of America, composed of 50 members, which is the firm guiding hand of racing in this country. The chief interest in racing from the standpoint of the club is the breeding of fine horses, and keeping racing as straight as possible. The chief interest of the public is the billion dollars a year which is bet on the horses. Highlighting the episode is a dramatically told tale of an attempt to fix a race through the substitute horse method, and its undoing—to the benefit of racing in the country.

With expert use of the camera, there is told the basic elements underlying the current unrest in France, and emphasized is the predominant place which the peasants, owning most of the land, and tilling it as free men, will exercise in the final analysis, as they have done before. With the threat of Fascism on the one hand and Communism on the other, the French peasant takes neither. Still a controlling voice in the future of France, while strikes, peaceful and otherwise, sweep the country, the peasant watches.

Interestingly, and with a measure of drama, the final episode recounts the meteoric rise of Rafael Leonidas Trujillo from a youthful jail term, through the command of the Dominican army as a result of diligent service and a sharp ear to the ground during the eight-year tenure of the U.S . Marines in the country, to complete dictatorship, as "president." But Time points to signs of waning power, unrest in the country, steam up on the dictatorial yacht in the harbor, perhaps leading to a dictator's deposition.

"Charlie Chan at the Racetrack"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 8.—Skullduggery at the races, with millions to win or lose keeps the resourceful Charlie Chan busy in this close knit comedy thriller, which will be rated high by the Chan addicts.

The speedy opening has Frankie Darro, a crooked jockey, throwing the race while on the favorite, with its owner being killed shortly after. During a voyage of horses and owners from Australia to an American track, Chan gets to work with the aid of the enthusiastic amateur sleuthing of his son, Keye Luke, who is fast becoming a favorite player. Fire in the hold, mysterious letters, plenty of comic and serious chases and the switching of the horses are well handled for continuous interest by Director Bruce Humberstone.

The finale at the track centers on the escape of the Chans from the clutches of desperate, gambling ringleaders and a deadly dart which is shot at the winner from a camera eye at the stretch, with Chan bagging all the villains.

The good cast features Helen Wood, Thomas Beck, Alan Dinehart, Gavin Muir, Gloria Roy, Jonathan Hale, G. P. Huntley, Jr., George Irving, Frank Coughlan, Jr., John Rogers, John Allen and Harry Jans in the story by Lou Breslow and Saul Elkins and the screen play by Robert Ellis, Helen Logan and Edward T. Lowe. John Stone produced.

Plug the racing background and the comedy of the younger Chan.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,353. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Down the Stretch"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, July 8.—Here is an interestingly developed racetrack comedy which unfolds at a swift pace with maximum humor and pathos. It should be adequate in all spots.

Mickey Rooney stars as the wayward offspring of a once-famous jockey. He dodges the reformatory by being placed under the surveillance of Patricia Ellis and Dennis Moore, stable owners. The story has the usual racetrack twists, with Rooney being involved in track politics and gambling with the result that he is subsequently outlawed. He later goes to England on contract and in the big race climaxes the film by holding back his mount to let the horse of Miss Ellis and Moore, who are now broke, win the race.

The cast performances are very satisfactory, with William Best, as a colored stable boy, providing the comedy high spot. The direction of William Clemens keeps the film moving at a fast and interesting clip. William Jacobs penned the story and screen play that provides diverting entertainment. The picture should show profitable results in both first run and neighborhood houses.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

San Francisco Fire Rules Are Relaxed

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Regulations limiting standees, which have been the source of considerable irritation to exhibitors, have been relaxed by the Board of Aldermen.

Under the new ordinance theatres will be permitted to allow as many standees as the fire department considers proper in various types of buildings.

Ostrer, Schenck to Meet in New York

trol nor a share in the operation of either the 350 G.B. theatres or production in England.

Reports are current that if the deal now under discussion does not materialize, another important group in England is ready to negotiate a deal with Joseph M. Schenck for Twentieth Century-Fox's shares in G.B. Schenck already has been contacted on a deal, it is said, and it is believed that G. B. executives are anxious to get control of the stock so it will go to outside interests.

Jeffrey Bernerd, head of all sales for G.B., told the sales force at the company's annual convention held a few weeks ago at the Warwick that G. B. was not for sale. He added that the Ostrers had placed a prohibitive price on their stock holdings and the major companies reported dickering for control did not have enough money to buy.

G.B. executives in New York are at a loss to explain what is going on in Hollywood between Ostrer and Schenck. Further than the knowledge that some sort of a deal is being negotiated whereby the Ostrers will continue with the company nothing could be learned from them.

G. B. Unit at Revelstoke

TORONTO, July 8.—The G.B. unit for "The Great Barrier," based on a Canadian story dealing with the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has arrived at Revelstoke, B. C., for two months' location work after a 6,000-mile journey from London. The trip across the Dominion was next to a triumphant tour with big crowds turning out at railroad stations to greet members of the cast, Richard Arlen, Lilli Palmer, Barry Mackay, Ben Welden and Roy Emerton.

Probe of Fox Books Put Up To Mrs. Fox

lated that 69,400 shares of preferred and 1,000 shares of common were issued to Fox, "for which he paid $6,100,000 cash and turned over brokerage accounts for $841,844.61."

"Mr. Fox," he said, "gave us a $100,000 check; then another for $1,000,000."

"What did you do with that million?" he was asked.

"We bought stock."

"From whom?"

"From Loeb, Alsberg on the same day."

"And Loeb, Alsberg thus got back $990,000 of that $1,000,000 loan?"

"Yes."

The following day, Leitsteen said, Loeb, Alsberg loaned another million which Fox again paid to All-Continent, which again used it to buy Fox's stocks through Loeb, Alsberg, the money finally being "credited on Mr. Fox's loan."

Leitsteen said this process went on until the total was around $6,000,000, and that "all this money was used to buy stock from Fox, and when it was over Fox had his money back. He started with stock and finished with All-Continent stock." He insisted that this all came out of the $15,000,000 Fox had received on April 7, 1930, and that, as I understand it, this was done to establish a stock loss and create a trust for his wife and children."

Referring to All-Continent, which is listed as a major creditor of Fox, but which Hanstein declares is the "alter ego" of Fox, Referee Steedle remarked that "the All-Continent books are to a certain extent the crux of the case, if there is a case. If they could be turned over for examination by the trustee that would simplify matters, but it is the right and privilege of Mrs. Fox to refuse."

Murry C. Becker, Fox counsel, objected, and maintained that the Fox books and records will suffice to show all the transactions disposing of "more than $20,000,000."

Comments Lacking On Sales Reforms

was lacking because of the absence from the city of the sales heads of most major companies. Those who could not be reached for this reason were W. F. Rodgers, M-G-M; Neil F. Agnew, Paramount; J. R. Grainger, Universal; George J. Schaefer, United Artists, and John D. Clark, Twentieth Century-Fox. Officials of Columbia and RKO were not available for comment. Warners did not participate in the trade practice conferences with the exhibitor committee.

In a bulletin to M. P. T. O. A. members, Ed Kuykendall, president, indicated that if the trade practice program failed for lack of distributor cooperation his organization might abandon its policy of round-table discussions of industry problems for one of legislation and litigation to obtain relief from trade practice abuses.

venience was the sole issue they preferred having the Havana censor board continue to review their films as has been done heretofore.

The major companies estimate that the reviewing charge of the new Cuban board would amount to $50,000 annually and that, if it became established, other foreign countries might be inclined to follow suit, with the result that some $500,000 or more annually might be involved eventually. The Cuban move is regarded as a dangerous precedent in other respects, as well, distributors say.

The exhibition of American films in Cuba has not been affected as yet by the new arrangement as a sufficient supply had received permits from the Havana censor board prior to July 1, when the New York board became operative, to service Cuban theatres for some weeks to come. Likewise, film shipments to Cuban distribution representatives are continuing, foreign department executives of major companies said yesterday. They declared that their Havana agents are bound by their contracts to pay for their film commitments and that they are accepting film rather than pay for it and not pick it up. No films have been submitted to the New York Cuban censor board by major companies yet, hence Havana distribution agents appear to be dependent upon an adjustment of the present situation before the film shipments they are now said to be accepting can be exhibited.

American companies pointed out that while the cost of the New York reviewing of pictures destined for Cuba would have to be borne by the Cuban distribution agents, who are said to be free-lance business men not a part of the American companies, the cost would have to be born by the American distributors if other countries in which they had distributing subsidiaries were to follow Cuba's censoring example.

Thos. Meighan Dies at Home In Great Neck

and developed acting ambitions while at St. Mary's College. His first professional appearance on the stage was in his home town in a small role in "Miss Nell." Later he spent three years in David Warfield's company and a season in stock in Pittsburgh.

Tall—he stood six feet, one inch—straight as a West Point cadet, he made a striking figure on and off the stage, but never was regarded as a matinee idol. His friends knew him as a forceful individual with considerable personal charm and a successful business man as well, but he was apt to seem shy among strangers. More than a decade ago he, with Mrs. Meighan, who was Frances Ring, developed an estate at Great Neck adjoining that of Nicholas M. Schenck. There Meighan spent most of his time when not on the coast making films or at his winter home in Florida.

His stage career ran back so far that most of the present day theatregoers might have difficulty remembering it. He played a season with Grace George at the Manhattan Theatre in 1900. In 1904 he was in the all-star cast of "The Two Orphans." In 1907 he was star in "The College Widow," playing both in this country and in London.

Entered Films in '16

In 1916 Meighan turned to the developing field of films and reached stardom along with most of the rest of the cast of "The Miracle Man." The list of his film successes after that is impressive. Booth Tarkington and George Ade were among his close friends and he appeared in many of their stories, often working with them in developing the screen adaptations. During this period he held a contract with Paramount which called for $1,000,000 for 10 films. Cecil B. De Mille's "Manslaughter" was one of the big ones.

He served two terms as Shepherd of the Lambs

Many of the younger players and a long list of veterans have kindly remembrances of Meighan's help during his long stardom, for he had great freedom in picking his casts.

The decline of his popularity followed the advent of sound. The new technique disturbed him at first and he preferred to spend more and more of his time at his Great Neck home rather than on the coast after Paramount's Astoria studio closed, about eight years ago. This, in spite of the fact that he had a splendid speaking voice.

His last picture was "Peck's Bad Boy" for Sol Lesser.

Several months ago he was stricken with pneumonia following an attack of influenza, from which his recovery was never complete. His family urged him to go west, but he refused.

He is survived by Mrs. Meighan and several brothers and sisters, who live in Pittsburgh. Charles Winninger, radio star, is a brother-in-law. Edward Sutherland, director, is a nephew.

"Francisco" Tops Louisville Peaks

Louisville, July 8.—"San Francisco," good enough to run single at Loew's State, took top honors this week. "Frisco" had a terrific $15,000, breaking all summer records and crowding closely the gross pulled by "Mutiny on the Bounty" last winter.

"Poppy" at the Rialto did splendid business, taking $7,000, over par by $2,500. "Frisco" was held over and "Poppy" was moved over to the Strand for another seven-day stanza.

Five acts of vaudeville plus the feature are bringing in fair returns at the Brown, although the 20-30 cents admission is not conducive to heavy grosses. "Border Patrolman," and vaudeville, headed by Raynor Lehr made a fair getaway, but built steadily and finished the week with $200 over the average $3,000 take.

Other houses were away below average.

Total first run business was $30,200. Average is $21,200.

Estimated takings for the week ending July 2:

Japanese Hit At Copyright Session Delay

Say Postponement Hurts Native Production

By TETSUYA MORI

TOKYO, June 23.—At a recent meeting at the Home Office the delegates to the international conference on revision of the Berne Copyright Convention, scheduled for Brussels, Belgium, but since indefinitely postponed, determined to launch a vigorous protest at the postponement.

The group declared that the delay inevitably will impede the progress of the Japanese film industry, viewing the provision which gives the composer rights on sound pictures as working a decided inconvenience on various producing companies here.

They pointed out also the necessity

Heat Hits Grosses In Broadway Houses

Broadway theatres were hit by the heat during the last seven days, grosses wilting in practically all of the houses. The Capitol and the Astor are among the exceptions.

Shirley Temple at the Music Hall in "Poor Little Rich Girl" ended a second week with about $50,000. The third week of "Poppy" at the Paramount tallied close to $26,000. "Private Number" and "Big Noise" at the Palace were weak at $6,000. The Rivoli fared poorly with $8,000 on the first week of "I Stand Condemned."

The Rialto wound up a second week of "Lawless Nineties" with about $6,000. "The Harvester" at the Roxy garnered $23,500.

Westinghouse Sues RCA on Television

WILMINGTON, July 9.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. today filed suit in the U. S. District Court against RCA seeking exclusive rights to television inventions perfected by Vladimir K. Zworykin.

The plaintiff asks the court to direct the U. S. Commissioner of Patents to issue patents on television systems for which Westinghouse has made application. The bill alleges the commissioner had not issued patents to Zworykin because several inventors had filed applications on the same principles after Zworykin had applied.

Westinghouse says it holds full rights to Zworykin's inventions and asks that he be declared the original inventor. The court is asked to assign the entire rights to the inventions to Westinghouse and to direct the commissioner to issue the patents.

Red Kann Cables Ostrers Sell 25% Interest in Coast Deal

By RED KANN

LONDON, July 9.—Nicholas M. Schenck, acting for Loew's, Inc., and M-G-M, is understood here to have closed a deal with Isidore Ostrer in Hollywood for purchase of a 25 per cent interest in Gaumont British out of the Ostrers' approximately 48 per cent, thereby placing control of England's largest film company in American hands.

The impression is widespread here that Twentieth Century-Fox, which for years has controlled about 48 per cent, will cooperate with Loew's, with the result that their joint interest will total 73 per cent.

The deal was closed in Hollywood last Tuesday, according to the understanding here, with Nicholas M. Schenck, Joseph M. Schenck and Isidore Ostrer acting as principals.

It is understood that the price for the Ostrer holdings is $12,500,000, the deal calling for the purchase through the Metropolitan & Bradford Trust, Ltd. The 48 per cent share of Twentieth Century-Fox was purchased by William Fox for Fox Film Corp.

The deal will place Twentieth Cen-

St. Louis Transfer Made; Long Fight Comes to End

Climaxing more than two months of negotiations, following the out-of-court settlement on April 30 of the Government's civil anti-trust suit against Warners, Paramount and RKO in New York, F. & M. at 12:01 this morning took possession of the Orpheum, Shubert-Rialto and Hi-Pointe in St. Louis. With the change in management, Warners step out of the Mound City theatre field after a period of years.

Most of the papers in the deal were signed Wednesday night with the final three documents being delivered yesterday afternoon.

In addition to the three theatres, F. & M. has acquired Warners 42 per cent interest in the St. Louis Amusement Co. and a 10-year franchise for Warner product. Negotiations are under way for a 10-year deal for RKO's output and a term arrangement for Paramount's pictures.

Ecuador Film Problems Told By Arosemena

"When I told my friends I was go-ng into the motion picture business hey were amazed. They said, 'Why, you can't do that. Movies aren't a gentleman's business.'"

Thus Jaime Puig Arosemena described the state of the film industry in Ecuador at the time he first turned his attention to it about 12 years ago.

"I told them I would make it a gentleman's business or else become he most notorious bandit they had ver known because I had made up my mind to be a film man."

Arosemena represents Universal, M-G-M and Warners in Ecuador and also handles Universal product in Col-mbia, Venezuela, Curacao, Porto Rico, Santo Domingo and Aruba. He s here for conferences with N. L. Manheim and other Universal officials n new season contracts. He recent-y relinquished representation in Ecu-dor of two other major American ompanies, believing that a limited, but ot single representation, produces the est results for both the producer and he representatives in his territory. In his connection, Arosemena said he elieved that American companies would do better in South and Central America if two or three of them ar-anged to have their product handled y the same representative, instead of eeking a representative who would andle one company's product exclus-vely. An agent in Arosemena's ter-itory, he said, has a much better hance to make advantageous deals all round if he is in a position to offer n exhibitor several lineups than if he an offer the product of only a single ompany.

Film Business Very Stable

Theatre business in South America s in a healthy state, Arosemena re-orted. It is the least affected of any usiness by economic or political up-eavals, he said. Admissions in Ecu-dor range from $1.50 to $2.00. About 0 per cent of the distributor's busi-ess done in that country is on per-entage, with first runs commanding 0 per cent and second runs 40 per ent. Ecuador has 29 theatres.

Arosemena said that English ver-ons with Spanish superimposed titles re noticeably more popular in his ter-tory than those with Spanish dia-gue or casts. City audiences there refer musicals and comedies while ural patrons turn out for action and ystery pictures, he said.

Arosemena has never engaged in heatre operation himself, believing hat when a distributor does so he acrifices something of both pursuits nd ends up by "working against him-elf." He has, however, been respon-ble for inducing friends to leave ewspaper and financial work for the-tre operation, aided them in obtaining nancing for their theatres and ended p by getting his product about 75 per ent of their playing time.

Arosemena leaves in about 10 days r Puerto Rico, en route to his home Guayaquil, where his interests also nclude representation of British in-rance companies, railroad and steam-ip lines.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Suzy"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, July 9.—The theatrical storehouse was ransacked to make this film. Based on one novel, with four writers collaborating on the screen play, it tells six stories. It runs the scale from hokum comedy to exciting thrill. It hops from one theme to another with alacrity, but not much finesse. Episodic in character, it concentrates on the adventures of three people to bring some coherence out of the great variety of theatrical material used.

In London, Jean Harlow, a title hunting show girl, marries Franchot Tone. He is shot by a woman on their wedding day. Fearing a murder charge, Miss Harlow flees to France as the war starts. An entertainer in a cafe, she meets Cary Grant, ace flier, and following a war-menaced romance, they marry. Grant goes to the front and Miss Harlow is left alone with her father-in-law, Lewis Stone, who has more tolerance than regard for her. Grant is a romantic backslider and gets mixed up with another woman.

It is revealed that Tone is not dead, and when he shows up as Grant's pal, Miss Harlow finds herself in the predicament of being married to two men. The trio get together but the situation is not as dramatic as might be expected. Grant's flame of the moment is Benita Hume. Tone dimly recognizes her. Miss Harlow, seeing her picture, knows it is the woman who shot Tone. As it is revealed that Miss Hume is a spy, Grant is killed. Then Tone takes off in Grant's plane to indulge in a thrill-packed dog-fight with a German squadron. The plane crashes and Miss Harlow places Grant's body in the wreckage so that it will look as though he died honorably. The finale is one of those all's-well that-ends-well affairs, long in footage.

The real punch of the film is centered in the last three or four reels, when the legitimate drama of the situation to which much time has been given, makes up for much of the previous meandering.

The most effective selling angle seems to be one that combines the appeal of war and spy-menaced romance, backed by the pulling power of the names of Miss Harlow, Tone and Grant in characteristic roles.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,383. Running time, 95 minutes. "G."

"Pepper"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

Hollywood, July 9.—A rousing roughhouse in farce spirit is this fast and furious comedy, heavily overplayed for the purpose of building laughs.

Jane Withers, a slum toughie, gathers her gang to raise the rent for an evicted widow and demands the money from a dyspeptic millionaire, which is played energetically by Irvin S. Cobb. After battles with cops and butlers, Cobb and Miss Withers escape for a day of stolen delights at Coney Island. With many old and some new gags they return in time for Jane to round up a gang of hundreds of children and stop the wedding of Cobb's daughter to a fake foreign count.

The cast includes Slim Summerville, Dean Jagger, Muriel Robert, Ivan Lebedeff, George Humbert, Maurice Cass, Romaine Callender, Tommy Bupp, Reginald Simpson and Carey Harrison under the direction of James Tinling. John Stone produced. The screen play is by Lamar Trotti.

The fast, slapstick comedy angles are its best appeal.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,334. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Fox Hearing Off To Next Tuesday

be resumed, with William and Mrs. Fox and their two daughters, Mrs. Mona Tauszig and Mrs. Belle Schwartz, scheduled for cross-examination.

The Fox side maintains that All-Continent is a corporation owned and controlled by Mrs. Fox and the daughters, entirely separate from Fox, who originally created it as a trust for them; that Fox owes it considerable money, and that All-Continent is a legitimate major creditor of the bankrupt.

The creditors' attorneys plan to insist that in reality All-Continent is a William Fox enterprise and asset. At today's hearing, William Leitsteen, veteran Fox family bookkeeper, detailed, under questioning, a long list of corporations formerly owned by Fox, most of them either defunct or taken over by All-Continent. At one point, however, he admitted that All-Continent transferred $445,000 to Fox in 1932, not recorded in the Fox ledger.

It also was brought out that in 1932 All-Continent credited $450,000 to Aronberg-Fried Co. of New York, which in turn loaned Fox $250,000 that has not been repaid. William Fried, a partner in the company, is a brother-in-law of Fox.

Japanese Hit Delay Of Copyright Meet of finally settling the status of scenario writers, and of clarifying the copyright laws on music used in films and the limit of obligation binding the distributors who handle such films.

Trade paper reports here indicate that Ichizo Kobayashi, theatre magnate and importer of films, shortly will launch a large scale production venture, which has been rumored in film circles for some time. He returned recently from a tour of Europe and the United States, during which he studied film methods.

He has just completed plans for a new distributing organization, in association with P.C.L. and J.O. Talkie, which will handle the distribution of Japanese films. A joint investment of 1,000,000 yen has been made in the new company, it is said. The plans call for six productions monthly from P.C.L. and J.O. Talkie.

Indication of the intention of Japanese producers to impart a more universal appeal to their product is seen in the fact that the Shochiku Cinema Co. sent a unit to location in Tibet to film "Male vs. Female."

A second production of the same character is in work by the Yokohama Cinema Co., which has sent an expedition to South America for six months.

Conn. Entries Pour In

New Haven, July 9.—Entries are pouring in for the annual golf tournament of the Connecticut M. P. T. O. to be held at the Race Brook Country Club July 14, according to Edward G. Levy, secretary. It is expected that there will be at least 30 foursome competing.

St. Louis Transfer Made; Long Fight Comes to End

proximately $4,500 will be made Sept. 15. The entire deal amounts to $385,000, plus interest, to be paid monthly over a period of 10 years.

Robert W. Perkins, general counsel and secretary of Warners, acted for the company, while Ernest L. Wilkinson of Washington and Lambert Walther of St. Louis represented F. & M. Wilkinson returns to Washington today, while Walther will leave for St. Louis in a day or so.

With the arrival from St. Louis Wednesday of Clarence M. Turley and Joseph H. Grand, representing the bondholders' committee of Central Properties Corp., the Ambassador Theatre Bldg. and the Missouri Theatre Bldg., negotiations have been started for a two-year extension of F. & M.'s lease on the Ambassador, Missouri and New Grand Central.

F. & M. Wants Lease Extension

Two years ago F. & M. entered into a 10-year lease for the three theatres. Because of the 10-year product franchises, F. & M. is anxious to have the leases extended to the term of the film deals. F. & M. owes the landlords certain sums in back rentals, but these, in addition to the two-year extensions, are expected to be cleared up by tomorrow or Sunday when Turley and Grand will leave for St. Louis.

According to Grand, "a harmonious and satisfactory arrangement will be made when we get through," he stated yesterday.

Central Properties Corp. is the largest creditor of Skouras Bros. Enterprises, which controls 52 per cent of the stock in St. Louis Amusement Co., a circuit of 22 neighborhood houses, of which two are closed. The Central Properties' claim amounts to 80 per cent of the outstanding obligations in Skouras Bros. Enterprises, whose assets are listed at $269,000.

The Skouras company will be liquidated at a public sale late this month in Federal Judge Charles B. Davis' court in St. Louis. Nelson Cunliff, trustee, will set the date.

Stock to Be Auctioned

Competitive bidding for the 52 per cent stock of the St. Louis Amusement Co. is expected at public aution. Central Properties' committee will try to buy the stock with its 80 per cent claim. F. & M. also is expected to make an offer. While there is a possibility of outsiders entering into the bidding, no such interests have come to light, it was stated.

In the event Central Properties is successful, a management deal with F. & M. for a term of years is expected to be made. Spyros, Charles and George Skouras, who formed Skouras Bros. Enterprises, have not been identified with the circuit since they sold out to Warners in 1928 for a block of Warner stock which then had a market value of $3,100,000.

Leto Hill, supervisor of the St. Louis Amusement Co. for Cunliff, will definitely continue in that post after liquidation of Skouras Bros. Enterprises. He has been reported planning to resign to form his own neighborhood circuit.

All theatres operated by F. & M. in St. Louis will be under individual corporations. There will be no holding company.

With the Missouri, New Grand Central, Shubert-Rialto and St. Louis closed, Harry C. Arthur, vice-president of F. & M., plans to darken the Ambassador in the next few days for remodeling purposes. Alterations are being made at the three closed houses which will approximate $170,000. All are expected to be reopened by Labor Day.

Another change in the proposed operating setup of first and second runs has been made by Arthur. Starting Labor Day, the Fox, St. Louis, Ambassador, Orpheum and Missouri will be first runs, while the Shubert-Rialto and Hi-Pointe will be second runs.

The New Grand Central will undergo a change in name. It will be called the Guild Cinema and specialize in foreign and "unusual" films.

Duals Will Be Eliminated

Single features will replace dual bill policies in all first run downtown houses. Arthur has been advocating this plan for some time and will crystalize it when he begins the new season in September. Stage shows, which have been in and out of the Ambassador, will be revived, according to Arthur. He hasn't decided which of three houses, the Fox, St. Louis or Missouri, will feature this policy.

With nine St. Louis theatres now in the fold and prospects of the 22 St. Louis Amusement Co. units coming under the circuit's management, F. & M. will add seven neighborhood houses in the next six months. The circuit will build two of the seven and lease the other five from builders.

Arthur, with John Eberson, architect, and a draughtsman, will leave by plane for the Mound City Monday night. While in St. Louis Eberson will discuss with Arthur plans for the seven new theatres and alterations for the downtown units. Arthur will make his home in the Missouri City in September and after that visit New York every other week on film deals and other matters which will arise from time to time. Jack Partington, president of F. & M., will be in charge of the New York office, while Marco Wolff will head the company's coast activities.

Lengthy Case Now Closed

Transfer of the Warner houses marks finis to 18 months of litigation over the St. Louis situation. On complaint of F. & M., the Government was successful in having a grand jury hand down indictments in Jan., 1935, against Harry M. Warner, Abel Cary Thomas, Herman Starr, Gradwell L. Sears, Ned E. Depinet and George J. Schaefer. After a six weeks' jury trial, the criminal action ended on Nov. 11 in an acquittal of all defendants except Thomas, who was not tried because of illness. Early this week the indictment against Thomas was dismissed by the Federal Court in St. Louis on an application by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. On the same day, Thomas resigned as general counsel and secretary of Warners. He retains his interest in Thomas & Friedman, legal firm representing Warners.

On Jan. 6 hearings were started in St. Louis before Federal Judge Joseph West Molyneaux of Minneapolis on the civil anti-trust action. Russell Hardy, assistant to the attorney general, withdrew the action on Jan. 29, when the court refused to permit certain parts of Arthur's testimony to be read into the record. On Feb. 25 Hardy again filed the equity suit, this time in New York. This action was never reached, a settlement having been effected by the Government and the defendants on April 30. Sol A. Rosenblatt, former NRA administrator, acted as intermediary in the negotiations.

$6,600,000 and June operations are known to have ended well above those for the same month last year. RKO's June theatre business was unusually good for the month and distribution receipts, in addition, are believed to be ahead of those for June, 1935.

Even with the possibility of certain reserves being set up out of earnings for the first half of this year the six months' net, it is believed, will exceed $600,000. RKO's net profit for the first half of 1935 was $245,000.

The improving financial position of the company is regarded as increasing the likelihood of a plan of reorganization for the company being concluded by next winter, as predicted by Leo Spitz, RKO president, at the company's recent annual sales convention here.

Schine Men Promoted

Fox Theatres Claims Pared By 18 Million

claim for $1,074,028 was filed for rent on the Fox Theatre and Office Bldg., St. Louis, making a total of $9,711,206 in claims still pending against Fox Theatres Corp. The company estimates its own claim against William Fox at $17,000,000.

The receiver's report indicates that Fox Theatres neither gained nor lost anything as a result of a recent report made by Referee Sol Stroock after hearings lasting more than a year on the liability involved in defaults on Roxy Theatre stock which had been guaranteed up to $1,000,000 by William Fox. Commenting on the Stroock report, the Fox Theatres' receiver says "the referee found that Fox Theatres was entitled to judgment against William Fox in the sum of $1,000,000, interest and costs, and that William Fox was entitled to a judgment over against Fox Theatres for such sums as he should pay to it pursuant to its judgment. Accordingly, the judgment against Fox Theatres was provisional only and not collectible until William Fox should have paid the company, and then collectible only to the extent of such payments as he might make."

The receiver reports consolidated cash on hand of $767,248 as of June 30, a decrease of about $13,000 in the cash position of the receivership estate since Jan. 1. Receipts during the six-month period amounted to $107,998 and disbursements, $164,792.

Judge Manton approved an extension of the receivership for another six months.

Rosenzweig to Add Three in Brooklyn

Dave Rosenzweig, who is associated with Springer & Cocalis in the Melba and Alpine, Bronx, plans to build three Brooklyn theatres, two to seat 600 each and the third 1,000, he stated.

Interested with Sam Cocalis in the Mineola and Williston at Mineola, Rosenzweig also plans to expand the Long Island circuit with Cocalis the next few months. The expansion will take form in building and acquisitions.

Julius Gulkas, builder, who is interested with Rosenzweig in the Mineola properties, will be a partner in the three Brooklyn projects.

Cocalis is expected to buy an interest in the Rugby and Taft, Brooklyn, now operated by Rosenzweig. So far, Cocalis has made no moves to become a partner in the three Brooklyn projects but a deal is expected to be made before the buildings are completed.

To Build Bogota House

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Bogota, Colombia, will soon have a new theatre, according to a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from Assistant Trade Commissioner Jack B. Neathery. It will be constructed by the Colombian Insurance Co. According to present plans, the house will be the largest in the capital city.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Crash Donovan"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, July 9.—A punch-laden action picture of the duties, dangers and drama of life in the California motorcycle highway police patrol, this should find a ready and highly pleased audience among those who like their films with plenty of speed and action. There has been included an excellent lesson for motorists on the dangers of fast and careless driving, emphasized with one startling automobile crash.

The cast leader, Jack Holt, indicates the type of film this is. In support are Nan Grey, John King and Ward Bond. William Nigh directed from an original story by Harold Shumate and a screen play by Eugene Solow, Charles Grayson and Karl Detzer.

Holt, daredevil motorcycle trick rider in a carnival, meets two old friends, both highway patrolmen, and King's fiancee, Miss Grey. At a holdup in a tavern, King is wounded and Holt spectacularly brings in the gang. He joins the patrol, which affords an opportunity for interesting shots of training methods.

Holt falls in love with Miss Grey, but, realizing she loves King, gives up the thought of her. There follow daring chases, and a world of excitement which should stand the youngsters in their seats, until the climactic capture of a smuggling gang, after which Holt returns to the carnival.

"The Three Maxims"

(Wilcox-G.F.D., London)

LONDON, July 1.—Big virtue of this personally directed Herbert Wilcox production is that it has the punch in the right place. The final scenes picture the climax of a triangular drama of jealousy and revenge in which the actors are three trapeze artists. Playing their act, without a net, high over a packed theatre auditorium, the three acrobats also play out their personal tragedy. Exceptionally clever matching of close-ups with actual shots of a trapeze act create an outstanding atmosphere of suspense, culminating in the girl member of the trio fainting and one of the men, about to let his fellow performer fall to death, swinging him instead to her rescue from her precarious swinging perch.

This is good stuff, well directed, well played and altogether convincing. Good audience material, it is also first class exploitation subject matter. And for the showman are the names of Tullio Carminati and Leslie Banks, with that of Anna Neagle for places where she is known. Certainly it is her best performance.

The story is just one of those usual things. Both the men acrobats love the girl member of the troupe. The unsuccessful lover plans to let fall his rival, and changes his mind when the girl's life is in danger. Backstage atmosphere is well presented, with the customary comedy relief. Carminati, in acrobat's fleshlings, is a woman patron's dream and Banks acts well under the handicap of a Scot's accent. Miss Neagle looks good and acts intelligently. The circus stuff makes it box-office.

Running time, 87 minutes. "G." ALLAN

Relax Boston Censor Law

BOSTON, July 9.—The rigid Boston censorship laws have finally been changed, after more than 20 years, so that it is now impossible to revoke the license of a theatre without first giving the parties concerned their day in court. Formerly, licenses could be taken away on public morality or decency grounds by either the Mayor, police commissioner, or chief justice of the Municipal Court without the theatre man having any appeal.

The new law, signed by Governor Curley, also turns the license board into a committee which may act only by majority vote. A member of the art commission replaces the chief justice.

Giannini, Friend of Films Assumes Presidency of U. A.

Hollywood, July 10.—Dr. A. H. Giannini actively assumed his new post as president and chairman of the board of directors of United Artists Corp. at a meeting of the board here today.

Dr. Giannini, a friendly and greatly respected personality, for years has been one of the foremost figures of the industry. Never a seeker of publicity, he has steadfastly remained in the background.

To the general public he is most widely known as one of the nation's leading bankers, most recently in his position as chairman of the general executive committee of the Bank of America, National Ass'n. Resigning that position to assume the leadership of United Artists, he will continue as a director of the banking organization.

The place of esteem he long has enjoyed in the world of the motion picture was attested by the flood of telegrams and congratulatory messages which poured in upon him at his new headquarters at the United Artists studio here immediately his election became generally known in the industry. Home office executives in New York added their felicitations to those coming from the top-ranking executives in the film colony.

For years a friend and adviser of the industry at large, he has often expressed himself as being "interested" in the business, but his interest went far deeper than a casual attention, or financial opportunity. Throughout the industry it always has been an accepted fact that Dr. Giannini has the best interests of the business of the screen at heart, and that interest has

Otterson Pact Settlement Up To Conferees

A committee of three Paramount directors has been appointed to discuss a settlement of John E. Otterson's contract with the company, lessening, for the time being, at least, the likelihood of a legal contest between the company and its former president, it was learned yesterday.

The directorial committee consists of Stanton Griffis, Harry O. King and Harvey T. Gibson. A meeting of the committee with Louis Frohlich, of Schwartz & Frohlich, Otterson's attorneys, is reported to have been held yesterday. Nothing decisive in connection with a settlement or the abandonment of efforts to settle has developed yet, however, it was learned authoritatively yesterday. Otterson continues to make his headquarters in the same offices at Paramount which he occupied as president of the organization.

Cubans to Use Censor Funds For Producing

Surplus funds collected here by the new Cuban censor board, which major companies estimate would be about $50,000 per year, are designed for use in the production of propaganda films for Cuban consumption, it was admitted yesterday by Roberto Hernandez, head of the Cuban censor board in New York.

The disclosure resulted from reporters' queries as to why the Cuban representatives insisted upon establishing a New York censor board as "a convenience" to American distributors in spite of the assertion of distributors that they could not regard it as a convenience and preferred to have their pictures passed upon by the Havana censor board as has been done heretofore. Hernandez said that all funds over and above the cost of maintaining the censor board here would be

Move Believed Made for Tax Economies

Wilmington, July 10.—Stockholders of First National Pictures, Inc., voted to dissolve the corporation and distribute its assets among stockholders, at a special meeting held here today in the offices of the Corporation Trust Co. The concern is a wholly owned subsidiary of Warner Brothers Pictures.

The action in dissolving the company is in line with the new Federal tax law which provides for tax-free con-consolidations and it will result in substantial tax economies in the conduct of the business of the two companies. Ivan Culbertson, Wilmington counsel for Warners, presided at the meeting.

First National was founded early in 1917 by the late J. D. Williams and Thomas L. Tally through a coalition of exhibitors throughout the country who planned their own production facilities to avoid the increasing severity of distributors' terms. The new organization was quick to sign such stars as Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford, the Talmadges and Producer Thomas H. Ince. It expanded rapidly, attracting many of the top-notch executives of the industry to its ranks

"Give Me Your Heart"

(Warners)

Hollywood, July 10.—This is a fine class picture. It is a serious dramatic problem play. Based on a delicate, intimate theme, it is carefully prepared and directed with intelligent good taste and impressively acted. Essentially an adult attraction, its appeal is aimed directly at feminine patronage. Yet, blending distinctive drama with engaging comedy, it is of a character almost certain to make a forceful impression upon general mature audiences.

Related in sincere, dignified fashion, the story is keyed to an emotion-stirring human interest pitch. The dialogue is the dominating interpretative medium. Kay Francis is the mother of a child born out of wedlock. Influenced by Roland Young, she surrenders the infant to its father's family. Later, married to George Brent, and given everything to live for, her life is a tragic torment of heartache and heartbreak. On the verge of a mental crackup which would wreck her hopes for happiness, Young brings her and Brent together with Patrick Knowles, the child's father, and his wife, Frieda Inescourt. In a tensely dramatic sequence Miss Francis and Miss Inescourt visit the sleeping youngster. In the chamber a miracle is worked. At peace with Miss Inescourt, for whom she previously had had nothing but vicious hate, and sure that the suffering she has undergone has atoned for her sin, she dedicates her life to being Brent's true wife.

Miss Francis' performance is an accomplished demonstration of understanding of how to make a difficult role understandable, believable and sympathy-winning. Matching her pace, Brent, Miss Inescourt, Henry Stephenson, Halliwell Hobbes, Knowles and Young, who, with Helen Flint accounting for the lightening comedy contrast, constitute an effective supporting cast.

Case Robinson's screen play of the Jay Mallory play is always discreet and creates situations which, under Archie Mayo's expert direction, make for penetrating but honest human drama.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,291. Running time, 88 minutes. "G."

"Our Relations"

(Roach-M-G-M)

Hollywood, July 10.—Supplied with one of the best comedy ideas yet devised for Laurel and Hardy, the team appears here as a double set of twins. At the preview the film drew more laughs than any of their recent pictures, and it should prove satisfactory entertainment wherever the pair are a good attraction.

The comedy situations revolve around the team as sailors and marital martrys. The laughs abound when the exchanging of wives begins, and one set of twins suffers in hilarious fashion for the indulgences and mistakes of the other brothers. The audience was kept busy sometimes trying to figure which was which.

The best laugh sequences occur with Laurel, Hardy and the inebriate, Arthur Housman, in a telephone booth, and when gangsters cement the comedians' feet in concrete bowls on the edge of a dock. The usual cake and pie-slinging characteristics prevail.

James Finlayson as the sailor who takes the pair over for their entire salary does a good job. Daphne Pollard and Betty Healy turn in good supporting work as the wives, and Sidney Toler is good as the irate ship's captain. Harry Lachman has directed with good judgment of pace and spacing of laughs. Richard Connell and Felix Adler did the screen play from W. W. Jacobs' story, "The Money Box." Charles Rogers and Jack Jevne did the adaptation.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,128. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"The Bride Walks Out," now current at the Radio City Music Hall, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on June 29.

and for many years was a dominant factor in the industry, a formidable rival of the largest companies of its day. First National, Famous Players-Lasky and M-G-M were known throughout the industry as "The Big Three." Its Broadway "show window" was the Strand and this, with the large Stanley circuit in Philadelphia, and other strategic circuits, was acquired by Warners when it gained control of First National in 1929.

Warners have maintained First National as an active subsidiary since. The company had its own star list and the brand name was preserved on all its releases. As the sole owner of First National stock, the company's assets will, of course, be consolidated within Warners.

Cubans to Use Censor Funds For Producing applied to the propaganda films, the production of which he would be in charge of personally. He said that a representative of Paramount News had estimated that the type of one and two-reel films desired could be produced for $2,500 to $3,000 apiece.

Hernandez discussed the aims of the censorship project with reporters at the N. Y. Athletic Club in complete frankness. He denied that the project was a Cuban political "plum," as had been suggested in local distributor circles. He said that the reviewing fee of $10 per reel is not an arbitrary one and would be subject to adjustment if the distributors or their representatives met with him and convinced him that the fee was unreasonable. He said the same applied to the establishment of the board in New York.

"Frederick Herron of the M. P. P. D. A. has refused to receive me or discuss the matter at all," Hernandez said. "I am willing to 'play ball' with him if he will be reasonable and if he could convince me that Havana is the proper place for the censor board, I could stop the whole thing in 24 hours."

Silent on Cost Difference

Asked how much, if any, more costly the new arrangement might be for American distributors, Hernandez replied that he was unable to say because he did not know how much American companies paid members of the Havana censor board formerly. That payments were made to members of the old board, although not required under the law, Hernandez said he was certain. He is leaving for Havana Monday or Tuesday to receive further instructions from Carlos Pelaez, Cuban Secretary of the Interior, and said that one of the first things he would do on his arrival would be to "clean out" the old Havana censor board. He plans to appoint five women to replace the five male members of the board, he said. The Havana board, under the new Cuban decree, reviews only foreign product.

Hernandez has obtained the appointment of Senorita Maria Garrido and I. M. Benoliel to the New York board and will ask that Pablo Suarez and Joze Bosch be appointed while he is in Havana next week. He said that Secretary Pelaez had informed the Cuban Film Board of Trade in replying to their protest to the new decree that "everything would be settled in New York."

Munro Proposes Tribunal To Settle Problems

By CLIFF HOLT

SYDNEY (Via Airmail), June 26.—Charles E. Munro, managing director of General Theatres Corp., is advocating the creation of arbitration machinery to settle trade differences. He contends the industry should settle its own affairs, instead of taking every dispute to the Government.

Munro proposes the establishment of a tribunal of six members, three representing exhibitors and three for the distributors, with decisions dependent upon a majority decision. He declares that such a tribunal could handle the present deadlock on low admissions, rejections and theatre licensing restrictions, and to arrive at a standard contract acceptable to all.

Meanwhile the committee named to

Circuit Chills Big Night Trade in Chi

CHICAGO, July 12. — Twenty-four Essaness theatres remained open all Friday night to accommodate Chicagoans seeking escape from the heat. The refrigerated air plants and the films were kept going all night, as long as patrons came in. Emil Stern, general manager, made an announcement in the press and people poured in until the early hours of the morning. Rules of silence were suspended. The patrons were permitted to bring lunches and move around freely. The circuit plans to continue the innovation as long as there is heat and public response.

Heat Helps K. C.

Kansas City, July 12.—The prediction of Barney Joffee, Tower maestro, six weeks ago that business would improve after July 4, when the heat became persistent and excessive, has been borne out. Circuits report one of their biggest weeks last week, whereas a few weeks ago their grosses had been the lowest in years.

Embassy Protests Cuban Censorship

HAVANA, July 12.—The U. S. Embassy here has formally protested the plan of the Cuban Government to establish a New York office for the censoring of American product destined for Cuba, the Cuban State Dep't. revealed yesterday.

The protest declared that such an office would be in violation of the Cuban - American reciprocity trade treaty and would result in discrimination against American films. It was further pointed out in the protest that no such censorship has been established by Cuba in any other country.

It was generally understood here, although not officially declared, that the Cuban Government will abandon its New York plan.

At the office of Roberto Hernandez, head of the Cuban censor board here, it was said on Saturday no word relative to the censor office's status had been received from Havana.

Hernandez will leave today or tomorrow for Havana to confer with Carlos Pelaez, Cuban Secretary of the Interior.

American distributors had launched a vigorous protest against the establishment of a censor office in New York, preferring to have product censored in Havana.

Paramount to Dissolve Its Studio Firm

Corporate Structure to Be Simplified

Paramount Prod., Inc., the producing subsidiary of Paramount Pictures, Inc., will be dissolved and its operations and assets consolidated with the parent company under plans for further simplification of Paramount's corporate structure, it was learned over the week-end.

With Adolph Zukor having been placed in charge of Paramount production, he will administer executive authority in that field of the company's operations while continuing as chairman of the board of the parent company. It had been planned prior to the decision to dissolve the producing subsidiary, to elect Zukor president of Paramount Prod.

A possibility exists that other subsidiaries of the company, such as Famous Theatres Corp. and Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp., may also be dissolved and their operations, too, consolidated under the parent company. In addition to the simplification of the Paramount corporate setup, the procedure would also effect appreciable tax economies for the company. It would be in line with the new Federal tax law which provides for tax-free consolidations of corporate structures.

Warners availed themselves of the new tax law late last week when stockholders of First National Pictures voted to dissolve that Warner subsidiary to gain the benefits of the new tax-free consolidation provisions.

In the event that other subsidiaries of Paramount are dissolved and their functions consolidated with those of the parent company, it is believed likely that the heads of the subsidiaries, who are already vice-presidents of the parent company, would be elected to that company's board as vacancies occur. Neil F. Agnew, vice-president of Paramount Pictures in charge of distribution, is already a member of the parent company's board. Y. Frank Freeman is vice-president in charge of theatre operations, but is not a member of the parent company's board.

Paramount began the simplification of its corporate setup last fall when five subsidiary companies were dissolved and their functions absorbed by the parent company or other subsidiaries. The largest of the subsidiaries dissolved at that time was Paramount International Corp., which embraced the company's foreign operations. John Hicks, Jr., head of International, was elected a vice-president of the parent company shortly thereafter.

Associated Distributors, handling the C. M. Woolf product with headquarters in Melbourne, has sold to 33 independent neighborhood houses in opposition to the Hoyts circuit. The significance of the deal lies in the fact that Stuart F. Doyle, head of Associated and co-managing director of General Theatres Corp. with C. E. Munro, has sold away from Munro's company, Hoyts.

Indications are that Hoyts lacked sufficient playing time to use the product. Film circles in Melbourne are wondering how the independents are going to play the newly acquired British films, since they all are tied up with M-G-M and Paramount for 52 weeks.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Glory Trail"

(Crescent)

Hollywood, July 12.—An outdoor action picture combining much that is novel with standby elements, this picture produced by E. B. Derr is an auspicious inaugural effort for Crescent Picture Corp. Motivating the story is a romance-tinged drama told against a semi-historic background. Production values surpass in class and effect those generally found in limited budget attractions. The picture should appeal to those who like to see their entertainment move.

Tom Keene, leader of a band of Confederate soldiers too proud to surrender, seeks to found a new colony in the west. Brought into the menace of conflict with a Union cavalry troop led by Frank Melton, the situation takes an engaging romantic dramatic twist with the appearance in a wagon train of Joan Barclay. As the romance, handicapped by several incidents appearing to make Keene a renegade, grows, the danger of attack by Indians also increases. The duplicity of a Union scout, Walter Long, causes Keene to execute his friend, James Bush. The wagon train brings families of Southern soldiers to the new colony and both forces join to drive off raiders. The finale is a romantic mass marriage in which Barclay is united with Keene as he weds his people.

The original screen play by John T. Neville is logical and believable, providing an agreeable balance of romance, love interest and action. Capable direction by Lynn Shores concentrates attention continually on these qualities, mixing the personal conflict and exciting skirmishes with Indians.

Looking 'Em Over

"Winds of the Wasteland"

(Republic)

Typical routine, straight western fare, but withal good, active entertainment of its kind, designed for the purpose of pleasing the youngsters and their elders who like westerns, this fills that purpose quite satisfactorily.

John Wayne, who has a following, is in the lead, with Phillis Fraser for the romance and such standbys as Yakima Canutt, Lane Chandler and Robert Kortman in the support.

When the pony express gives way to the telegraph, Wayne and Chandler are sold a dud stage line to a ghost city, but through their efforts and the skill with fist and gun of Wayne, they make the stage line pay and arrange to have the telegraph line run through the town. To do it they first have to outwit the henchmen of Douglas Cosgrove, who dominates the other town. This they do in the time-honored fashion, with a stage coach race thrown in for thrill and excitement, and a touch of romance as Wayne and the old doctor's daughter find a mutual attraction.

Northwestern Drouth Blow For Theatres

the summer, one in St. Paul, the other in Mankato. The Mankato house, the State, will reopen late in July, after remodeling and reconditioning. It's an 800-seater.

Reports received by Stanley P. Kane, secretary of Allied Theatre Owners of the Northwest, indicate severely depressed summer business and a dark outlook for fall. "If we get no crop in this territory—and that seems almost a foregone conclusion—theatres will suffer great hardships, not only out in the country, but in the larger towns as well."

Kane said several exhibitors in grain territories have expressed doubt they could keep their houses open, unless drastic relief measures are taken by the Government.

Government to Sell Drouth Film Abroad

WASHINGTON, July 12. — Resettlement Administration officials today announced that bids would be invited in the near future for the purchase of international rights on "The Plow that Broke the Plains."

Determination to sell the foreign rights was reached as a result of worldwide interest in the midwestern drouth and applications from a number of parties, both in this country and abroad, for permission to show the film in foreign countries.

Southwest Has Best Wheat Crop in Years

KANSAS CITY, July 12.—Drouth and grasshoppers, which are plaguing Kansas, Missouri and other states in the southwest, were too late to hurt the wheat crop much, and this area had its biggest crop of the yellow grain since 1931. Another encouraging factor is the sharp climb in prices during the past month—in time for early marketing. The price per bushel has gone up 17 cents since early June, adding millions to the value of the crop for farmers.

Kansas should have about 140,000,000 bushels where it had 60 million last year. Other states in the area will have more and get more for wheat than last year.

Produces Safety Film

BALTIMORE, July 12. — Walter Rudy, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for Maryland, has turned producer and several reels of films, one in colors, showing the work of safety patrols and safety devices in operation to protect children on the streets were shown last night, before the Welcome Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star.

There has never been a picture from Hollywood due to start more violent arguments than "The Informer." Many—the majority, we hope—will hail it for the magnificent artistic triumph it is. There are others, however, who will cry that it has no "box-office."

The amount of box-office it has is nearly entirely up to YOU. "The Informer," with its courageous, strong theme and treatment, is actually a challenge to your showmanship.

Cooling Plants Credited As Broadway Houses Beat Heat

Air cooling plants in Broadway's leading film theatres proved their worth at the box-offices last week, holding grosses at or close to the normal in almost all houses, despite a searing heat which sent the mercury in the thermometers soaring above the 100-degree mark.

The cooling waves of chilled air, thrown out of lobbies to the sidewalk in front of the theatres, made of those spots oases in a desert of burning streets, and in many cases, drew pedestrians to the box-offices and into the theatres, a check by MOTION PICTURE DAILY indicated.

Although business slipped a bit over the week-end, due to a slight moderation in the temperature and the call of the beaches and other resorts, grosses stood up well during Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the three days which marked the peak of the hot spell.

Other cities in the country for the most part were seriously affected by the heat, only outstanding pictures having sufficient strength to come up with respectable figures despite the temperature.

The notable exception to the severe blow suffered by theatre grosses in most of the leading cities in the path of the heat wave was "San Francisco," which in almost every case, according to MOTION PICTURE DAILY box-office records, did outstanding business. Providence, Boston, Kansas City, Washington, Philadelphia, Denver,

New Moves Impend On Setup for Roxy

Indications that a reorganization plan for the Roxy is anticipated in the near future were disclosed yesterday with the filing by Howard S. Cullman, Roxy trustee, of a petition for leave to continue the retention of a firm of accountants in order that they might be of general assistance in the consummation of any reorganization plan that may be promulgated.

Federal Judge Francis G. Gaffey authorized the employment of the firm of Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co. and set the compensation at $2,000 for the period requested.

A new protective committee for holders of the first mortgage bonds of the Roxy, outstanding in the amount of $3,598,208, has been formed with Chester H. Tipton, president of the C. H. Tipton Securities Co., as chairman. The committee proposes to seek an early termination of the Roxy's court proceedings under a plan of reorganization which will permit the current earnings of the theatre to be used for payment of interest on the first mortgage bonds, and may advance such a plan itself.

Adams Now Republic Publicity, Ad Head

Al Adams, who has been assisting Ed Finney, publicity and advertising director of Republic, yesterday was promoted to take over Finney's duties. Finney resigned late last week and will wind up his activities tomorrow when he leaves for the coast.

Prior to his joining Republic several months ago, Adams was with United Artists for a number of years.

Ostrer Is Delayed; G.B. Talks Held Up

Final conferences on the purchase by Loew's-M-G-M of a 25 per cent interest in Gaumont British were delayed again yesterday when Isidore Ostrer was delayed in his arrival here from the coast by a Chicago stopover.

Ostrer may arrive here today although local associates said that it was possible his arrival might be delayed until tomorrow. It is expected that the final conferences between Nicholas M. Schenck, Joseph M. Schenck and Ostrer will begin immediately upon the latter's arrival in New York.

Loew's 25 per cent interest in Gaumont British would be acquired from the Ostrers with the reported cooperation of Twentieth Century-Fox, which already owns a 48 per cent interest in the British organization. Preliminary conferences on the deal were held by Joseph M. and Nicholas Schenck at the latter's home over the week-end.

Hernandez to Leave For Talks in Havana

Roberto Hernandez, in charge of the Cuban censor bureau here, will leave for Havana tonight to confer with Carlos Pelaez, Cuban Secretary of the Interior, on probable new procedure in connection with the censorship of American films destined for exhibition in Cuba.

Hernandez said he has received no official word from authorities in Havana concerning the possibility of Cuba abandoning its censor bureau here as a result of the protest made late last week by the American Embassy in Havana.

New Theatres In N. Y. Reach All-Time High

Fourteen Opened, 13 Now Building, 8 Planned

Hitting an all-time high for theatre activity in the Greater New York area, 14 new structures have been opened during the last year, 13 are in various stages of construction and eight more are planned within the near future, according to a checkup made yesterday. In the 12-month period preceding the year incorporated in the survey, which ended July 10, new theatre building virtually was at a standstill, many exhibitors concentrating on refurbishing and altering their properties.

Not one theatre was erected by a major circuit during the past year, the activity being conducted by several of the leading independent circuits and unaffiliated exhibitors. Consolidated Amusements took the lead with four new 600-seat theatres added to its circuits in the Bronx.

Approximately 6,330 chairs were installed in the 14 theatres and indications are that when the new buildings about to be completed are opened about 10,000 seats will be added. While complete figures are lacking because some of the theatre men haven't de-

KANSAS CITY, July 13.—The Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Paul upheld the right of Judge Albert L. Reeves of the Federal District Court at Kansas City to decline to assume jurisdiction of the suit of Jacob Smith and other General Theatres Equipment bondholders against the Chase National Bank, Fox Film, Fox Rocky Mountain, Fox Midland and others.

Shortly before the court approved the sale to National Theatres Corp. of the bankrupt theatre properties of

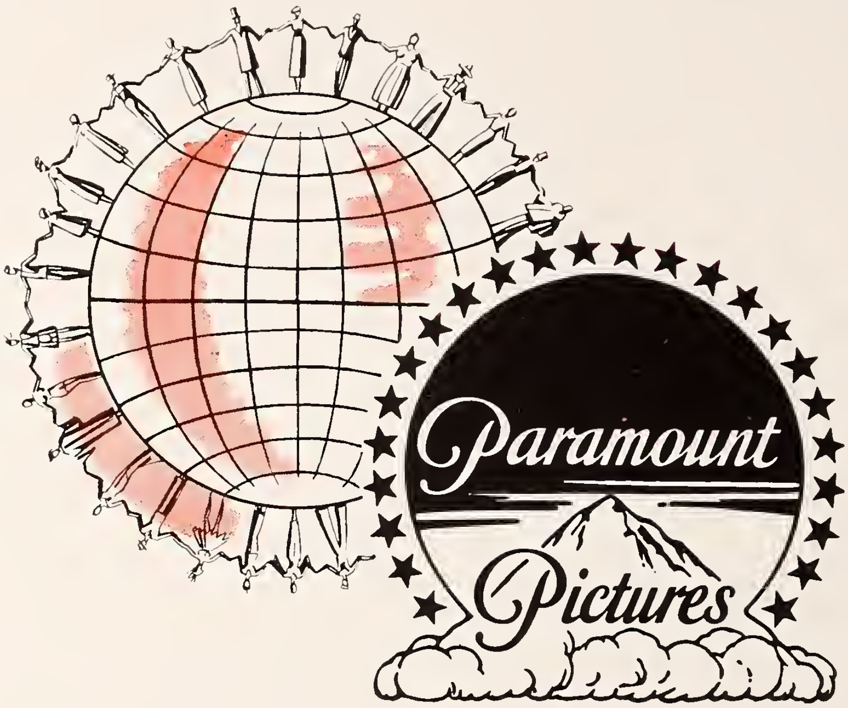
PARAMOUNT PICTURES 1936-37

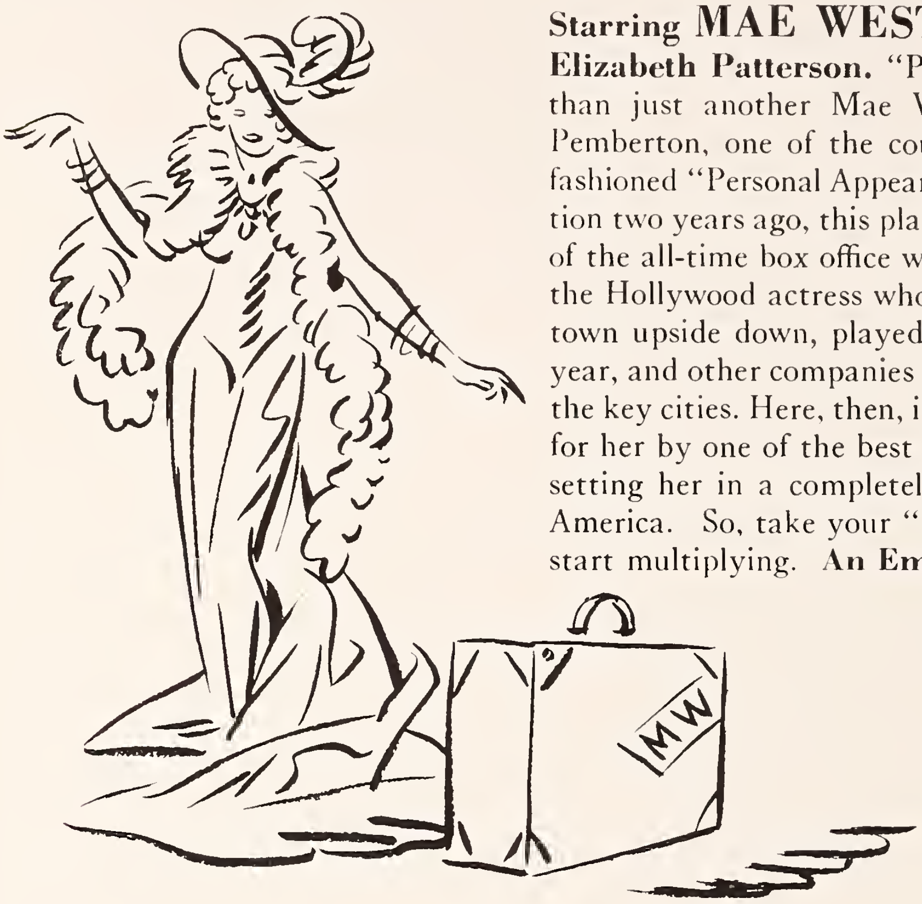


It takes all kinds of people to make a world... It takes all kinds of people to fill a theatre... It takes all kinds of entertainment to make a successful box-office season. That's why Paramount offers you, for 1936-1937, the biggest and most diversified program of down-to-earth pictures in motion picture history...

INCLUDING AT LEAST TWO PICTURES OF MAJOR IMPORTANCE EVERY MONTH

Make 'em
Laugh!

"Personal Appearance"



Starring MAE WEST, with Lynne Overman, Elizabeth Patterson. "Personal Appearance" is more than just another Mae West picture. Since Brock Pemberton, one of the country's leading playwrights, fashioned "Personal Appearance" for Broadway production two years ago, this play has established itself as one of the all-time box office wonder-workers. This story of the Hollywood actress who turns a small Pennsylvania town upside down, played New York for more than a year, and other companies enjoyed triumphal runs in all the key cities. Here, then, is a Mae West picture tailored for her by one of the best brains in show business, and setting her in a completely new locale . . . small town America. So, take your "Klondike Annie" figures and start multiplying. An Emanuel Cohen Production.

Harold Lloyd

in another Big Time Comedy Hit . . .

With everyone still talking about "The Milky Way" as one of the biggest comedy successes of the past season, news that Harold Lloyd will do another picture of the same calibre entertainment for Paramount this year is Good News for the 1936-1937 Box-Office. Although Harold has yet to select the story, he's already collected a group of top comedies from which to choose "The Milky Way's" successor. And he promises that this new picture will have a supporting cast even stronger than the big name cast which helped him put over the story of the fighting milkman.

"Don't Look Now"

W. C. FIELDS in a picture that Bill has been wanting to do for years—it's his own idea of the real A No. 1 Fields vehicle . . . so you can guess what kind of show America's Grand Old Man of Comedy will put on for you. What's the story? It's Fields' own version of one of the real classics of American Humor—Julian Street's famous "Need of Change". . . In it Fields is a retired gadget manufacturer and when he goes nuts in the stuffed-shirt, tea-with-the-vicar life of British aristocracy you can bet it's just one more "Fields' Day" for the box office.

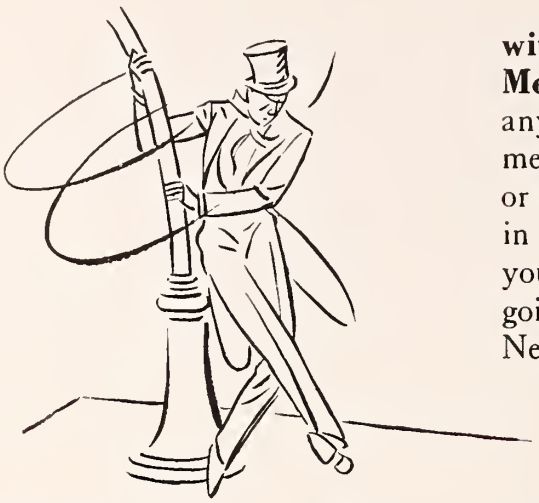
"Hotel Haywire" with Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland, George Burns and Gracie Allen, the "International House" of 1936-37 combines two pairs of zanies either of which could put over a big picture. The Ruggles-Boland combine are definitely tops in domestic comedy, as "Early to Bed" is proving right now . . . and Burns and Allen have had America wading knee deep in soup—and gags, all winter.

"The Tightwad"

Charlie Ruggles and a cast of featured players in the Paul Gallico Saturday Evening Post story of the little penny pinching auditor in the business office of a newspaper who gets mixed up with the kind of story he has always thought too expensive. How he turns himself into one of the biggest spenders in the newspaper game is the stuff box office is made of. "The Tightwad" is just the kind of picture Charlie Ruggles can make into an hilarious success.

"Wives Never Know"



with Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland, Adolphe Menjou, Veree Teasdale. What a foursome! When any movie fan thinks of hard-hitting, fast paced domestic comedy, he thinks of either the Ruggles-Boland or the Menjou-Teasdale combination. Here they all are in one picture, directed by Elliott Nugent who gave you "She Loves Me Not". Mr. and Mrs. America are going to laugh themselves into the aisles at "Wives Never Know". Directed by Elliott Nugent.

"Three Married Men"

with Lynne Overman, Roscoe Karns, William Frawley, George Barbier, Gail Sheridan, Elizabeth Patterson, Bennie Bartlett, Virginia Weidler. Arthur Hornblow, Jr., who produced "The Princess Comes Across" got such a kick out of Bill Frawley's performance as the beret bonnetted boldster with the cream puff heart that he decided Bill rated top billing in a comedy of his own. Then he got thinking about those other two lads who've put laughs into Paramount pictures every time they've landed a good part, Lynne Overman and Roscoe Karns. This picture then is the once-in-a-lifetime chance for all three to go to town together. Directed by Eddie Buzzell.

"My American Wife"

Francis Lederer, Ann Sothern, Fred Stone, Billie Burke, Ketti Gallian in that ace Saturday Evening Post yarn, "The Old Timer", the story about the foreign count who marries the grand-daughter of a rough and ready old Western multi-millionaire. The old lad doesn't think much of the business, having a pretty sour opinion of "furriners", until the count turns out to be as swell an egg as the old man himself. . . .The story has the same background, the same characters, the same appeal as "Ruggles of Red Gap". Directed by Harold Young.

Romance !

"The General Died at Dawn"

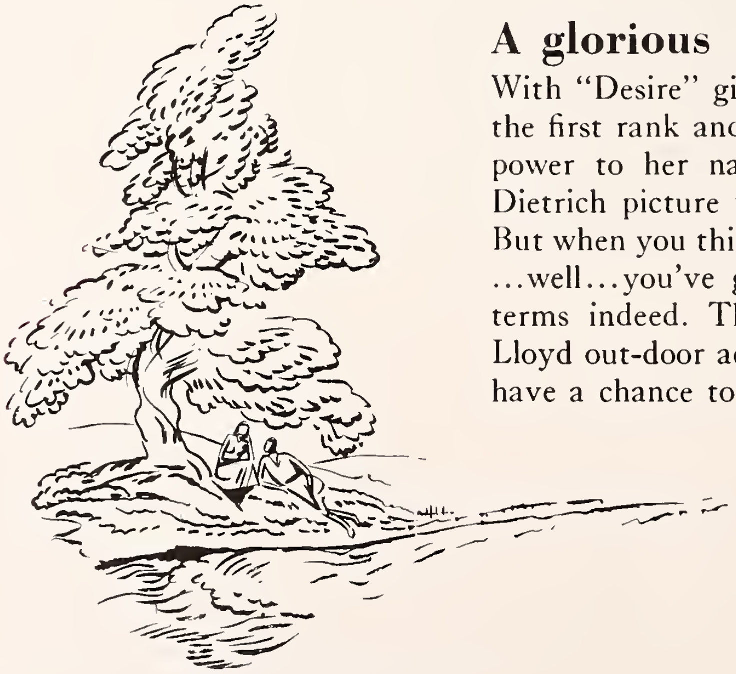
Starring

GARY COOPER and MADELEINE CARROLL with Akim Tamiroff, Porter Hall, Dudley Digges, J. M. Kerrigan and William Frawley. The same setting that made "Shanghai Express" a box office smash! The thrilling tale of a brash Irish-American adventurer and a lovely adventuress caught in the backwash of Chinese revolution, fighting for their lives against the gold lust of a Chinese war lord. With Gary Cooper at the very peak of his popularity after "Desire" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town", and Madeleine Carroll, the beautiful English star. Written by Clifford Odets, the great new playwright whose hard hitting dialogue is the talk of Broadway! Directed by Lewis Milestone.

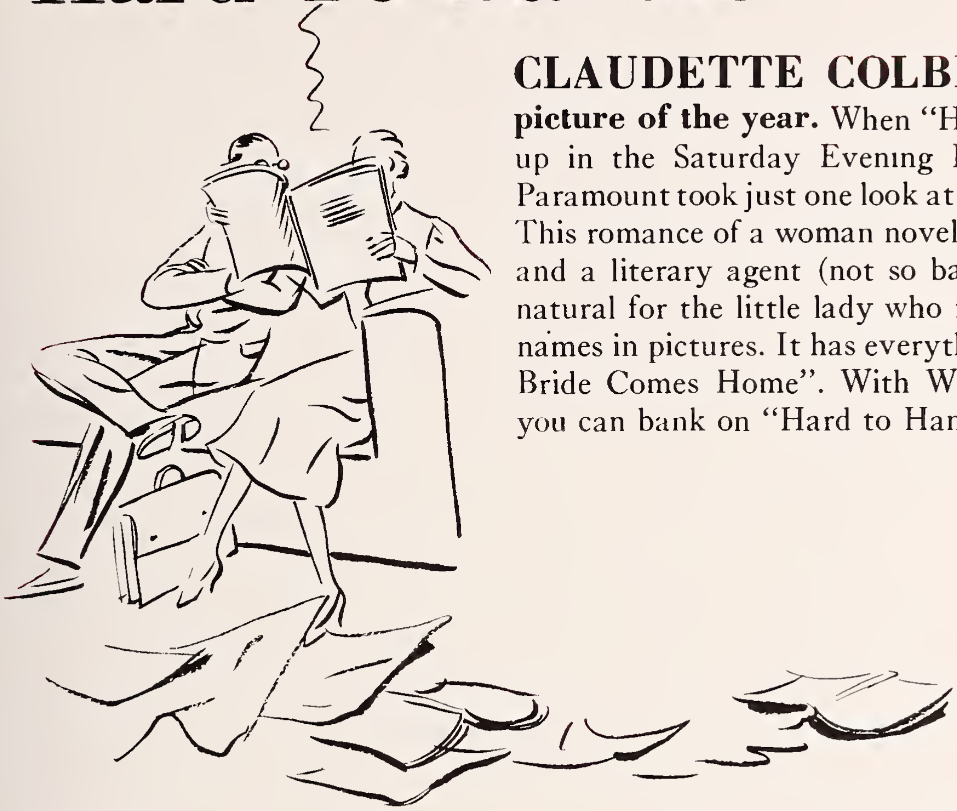
Marlene Dietrich

A glorious Frank Lloyd production.

With "Desire" giving her new laurels as an actress of the first rank and "The Garden of Allah" adding new power to her name at the box office any Marlene Dietrich picture for 1936-1937 means coin at the till. But when you think of her in a Frank Lloyd production ...well...you've got to think in pretty big box-office terms indeed. This picture will be a typical Frank Lloyd out-door action picture. And Miss Dietrich will have a chance to go to town in one of her great roles.



"Hard To Handle"



CLAUDETTE COLBERT'S second big picture of the year. When "Hard to Handle" showed up in the Saturday Evening Post a few weeks ago, Paramount took just one look at it and said—"Colbert". This romance of a woman novelist (a good looking one) and a literary agent (not so bad looking himself) is a natural for the little lady who rates one of the biggest names in pictures. It has everything that put over "The Bride Comes Home". With Wesley Ruggles directing you can bank on "Hard to Handle" to get you results.

"Panama Gal"

Fred MacMurray and Carole Lombard now rate as one of the top romantic comedy pairs in pictures. "Hands Across the Table" sent them off to a flying start, and now "The Princess Comes Across" has recently shown that, for modern, fast-stepping romance, these two need take their hats off to no one. "Panama Gal" is right up their alley. It seems Fred is a hard-boiled son of trouble who's doing sentry-go for Uncle Sam alongside the Panama Canal. Carole is a pretty little manicurist on a cruise liner. When the cruise liner goes through the Canal, Carole happens to poke her head out a porthole just in time to meet Fred ...and a series of adventures which end up with the two of them running the ace night club of Central America.

P. S. There will be music in the picture with Fred stepping out as a swing cornet player.

"Wedding Present"

JOAN BENNETT, CARY GRANT and GEORGE BANCROFT Starring in a B. P. Schulberg Production. "Big Brown Eyes" with Joan and Cary in it was one of the year's "sleepers". Starting off without much fanfare, it did plenty at the box-office wherever it played. Here are the two leads in a far better story, Paul Gallico's Saturday Evening Post yarn of the newspaper lad who gave his best gal a four alarm fire for a wedding present. B. P. Schulberg who gave you such Paramount smashes as "Morocco" starts out his new series of Paramount productions with "Wedding Present"... nuff said. Directed by Richard Wallace.

"That's What Girls are Made of"

Starring SYLVIA SIDNEY and FRED MacMURRAY, a B. P. Schulberg Production. Here's the winning combination that sent "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" into the top money-making class of last year. This time these box-office stars will be under the capable production guidance of B. P. Schulberg, and the story will give Sylvia Sidney, one of the screen's finest dramatic actresses, a chance to turn in another of her glorious performances—the kind which made "Mary Burns, Fugitive" one of the highlights of the screen year. Fred will have another of those hard-boiled romantic roles which set the gals' hearts aflame.

"Hideaway Girl"

Frances Farmer and a cast of featured players in one of those fast moving thrill-a-minute adventure stories with plenty of class . . . plus what the box-office fondly labels . . . love.

Please their Ears!

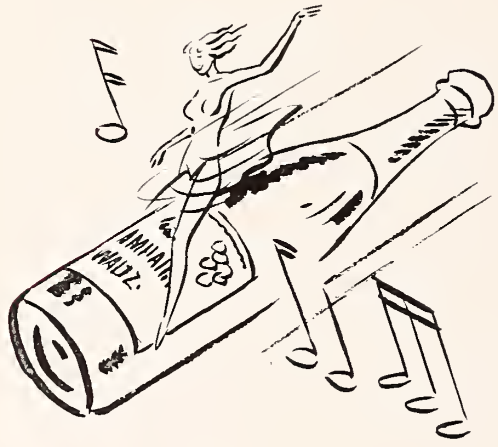
"The Big Broadcast of 1937"

Starring JACK BENNY with George Burns and Gracie Allen, Randolph Scott, Jane Froman, Martha Raye, Sam Schlepperman, Ray Milland, Frank Forest, Benny Baker. Specialties by Leopold Stokowski, Bob Burns, Benny Fields, Larry Adler, Stan Kavanagh, Benny Goodman's Orchestra, and other celebrities of Stage, Screen and Radio. Jack Benny, the highest paid star of radio . . . George Burns and Gracie Allen even higher in the Crosley radio popularity rating than last year . . . and a whole lineup of Big Timers. Lew Gensler, builder of a dozen Broadway musical hits, will produce the show . . . Mitchell Leisen, director of "Hands Across the Table" and "13 Hours by Air", will direct. Directed by Mitchell Leisen.

"Champagne Waltz"



Starring GLADYS SWARTHOUT, FRED MacMURRAY and Jack Oakie, Veloz and Yolanda (the biggest-drawing dance team in the business), Lyda Roberti, Frank Forest. What happens when promoter Jack Oakie takes an American "swing" band to Vienna to compete against Europe's finest waltz orchestra? The "swing" band is about to put the orchestra on the skids until the "swing" band leader, Fred MacMurray, takes a gander at the beautiful singing daughter (Gladys Swarthout) of the Viennese waltz king. From then on it's . . . love. Directed by Eddie Sutherland.

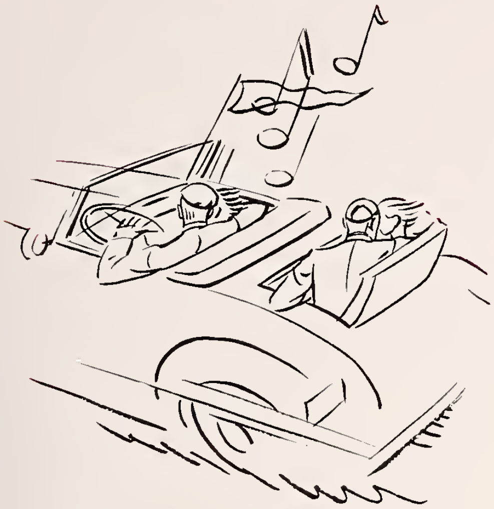
"The Count of Luxembourg" with IRENE DUNNE, JOHN BOLES, W. C. FIELDS, Frank Forest. Franz Lehar's world famous operetta, with the star of "Show Boat" in the glorious role of the Paris prima donna who was married to the Count of Luxembourg (a rich man's trick to get her for himself) and who found being married to this dashing gentleman so delightful she left the old lad holding the bag (a part ripe to the genius of one W. C. Fields). The glorious Lehar music will be supplemented by a typical list of Paramount song successes.

"College Holiday"



Starring JACK BENNY with Frances Farmer, Louis DaPron, Robert Cummings, Johnny Downs, Eleanore Whitney, Martha Raye. Here's the annual Paramount Christmas gift to Old Man box-office . . . the yearly holiday special for the youngsters . . . the successor to those big box-office hits, "College Humor", "College Rhythm" and "Collegiate"! We don't need to describe 'em to you . . . you know 'em too well . . . the big music show with the college background, the show with plenty of laughs . . . plenty of songs, plenty of swing and plenty of gals! An exploitation natural, the most timely picture of the year

"Follow the Sun"

Starring

BING CROSBY with George Burns and Gracie Allen, Lynne Overman. Made to the measure of that Crosby smash "We're Not Dressing", "Follow the Sun" shows Bing as the son of a big shot ship owner of the Northwest who leaves one of his old man's ships in the Orient to become the proprietor of the swingiest night club from Manhattan to Mandalay. With Bing at the top of his popularity, an ace cast, an ace script, and a bunch of ace tunes, you can check the date "Follow the Sun" hits town as one of the biggest in the 1936-37 box-office calendar. Directed by Norman Taurog.

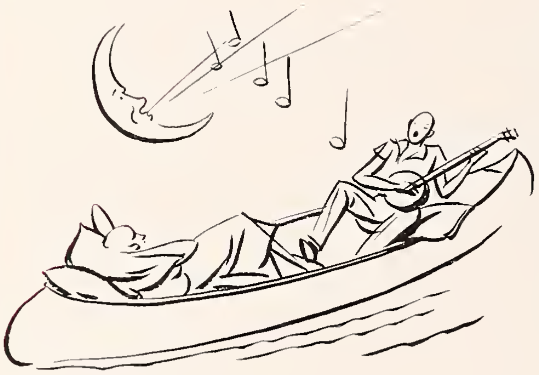
"High, Wide and Handsome" with IRENE DUNNE and FRED MacMURRAY, Randolph Scott. Here's another "Show Boat". Music and lyrics by those two celebrated writers who wrote the never-to-be-forgotten score of "Show Boat", Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II . . . two names which from coast to coast mean box-office wherever they're billed. And then, playing the lead, the girl who has just succeeded in making the newest version of "Show Boat" one of the all-time box-office successes, Irene Dunne. With her will be Fred MacMurray in the kind of role he can do best . . . how's that for a lineup? And a strong supporting cast.

"Artists and Models"

One of the most lavish pictures of the year—a big flashing musical set in the studios of the leading artists of the country, featuring the world's most beautiful women, the year's leading song hits. The three major roles will be played by the three leading stars in the business. Katherine Brush, S. J. and Laura Perelman and Keene Thompson collaborated on the script and it will be a picture unique among picture hits.

"It Happened in Paradise"



BING CROSBY and IDA LUPINO starring in a typical Crosby winner. This particular Paradise happens to be a mountain lake where a couple of summer camps, one full of lads and one full of gals, hold forth. And the one and only Bing Crosby is the leading lad in Camp No. 1. A big time song and dance show, this picture is planned to catch the late spring trade with a real summer camp musical . . . and with Ida Lupino, one of the smoothest gals in pictures, to step it along . . . it's sure to be a winner.

"Lady Be Careful" with Lew Ayres, Mary Carlisle, Larry Crabbe, Benny Baker, Grant Withers, Jack Chapin, Wilma Francis, Irving Bacon. Paramount's group of youngsters in another of their fast stepping musicals, with the same punch and pace as "Millions in the Air". Robert Cummings is one of the most popular juveniles in the business and John Howard is going to be way up in the big star class this year, according to Frank Capra, who claims Howard shows real greatness in Capra's "Lost Horizon", a picture which will precede "Lady Be Careful". Eleanore Whitney is the fastest tap dancer in the world. Directed by Ted Reed.

Thrills !

"The Texas Rangers"

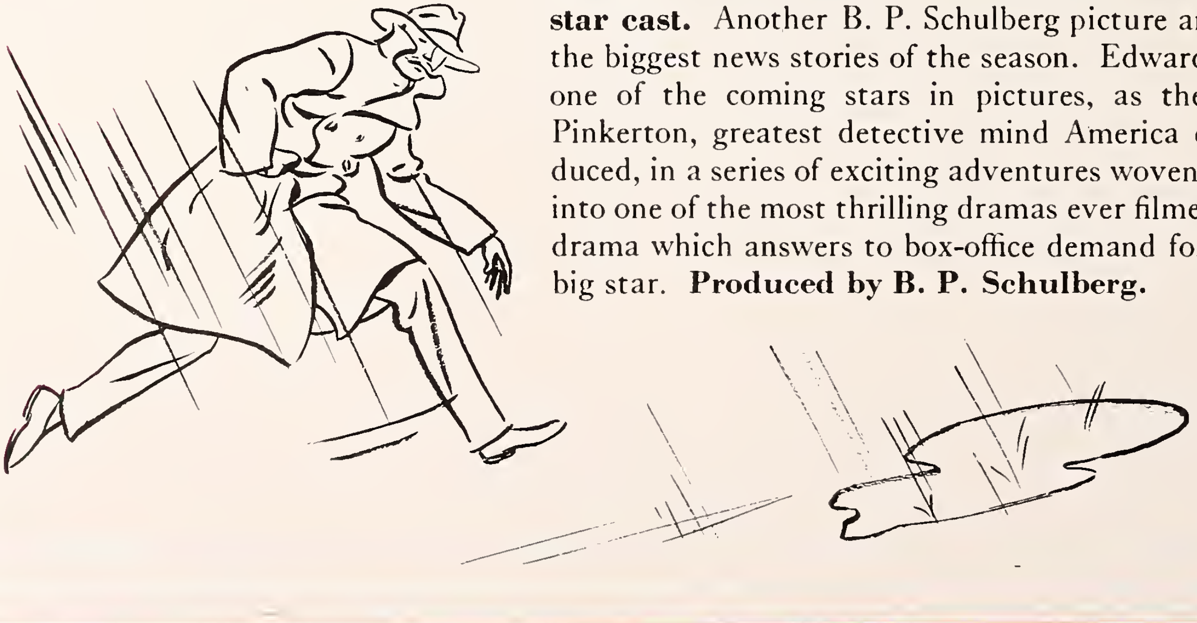
FRED MacMURRAY, JACK OAKIE, JEAN PARKER, Lloyd Nolan, Bennie Bartlett. All the sweep, the drive, the appeal of "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" plus a powerful love story! The first picture ever to bring to the screen the thrilling history of that famous band of Americans—"The Texas Rangers"; the drama of three comrades in arms whose unspoken bond of brotherhood leads one to sacrifice his life for the others. Told against the old glorious background of the old West (remember the box-office appeal of "Cimarron"). Directed by King Vidor.

"Pinkerton, the Detective"



Starring EDWARD ARNOLD with an all-star cast. Another B. P. Schulberg picture and one of the biggest news stories of the season. Edward Arnold, one of the coming stars in pictures, as the famous Pinkerton, greatest detective mind America ever produced, in a series of exciting adventures woven together into one of the most thrilling dramas ever filmed . . . the drama which answers to box-office demand for a really big star. Produced by B. P. Schulberg.

"Queen of the Jungle" with Ray Milland, Sir Guy Standing, Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman. Show business . . . that's our job . . . and here's one that is sure-fire show business stuff . . . the same kind of ballyhoo buster that "King of the Jungle" was . . . wild animals —"Chang" style, wild tribesmen . . . in fierce, death-at-your-throat battle . . . plus the hottest box-office seller there is . . . jungle romance . . . a lithe and lovely lass of the jungle going for a continental playboy and snaring him! With E. Lloyd Sheldon who produced "King of the Jungle" at the producing helm, you can be sure this is one more to rate up with good money makers of the year. Directed by Max Marcin.

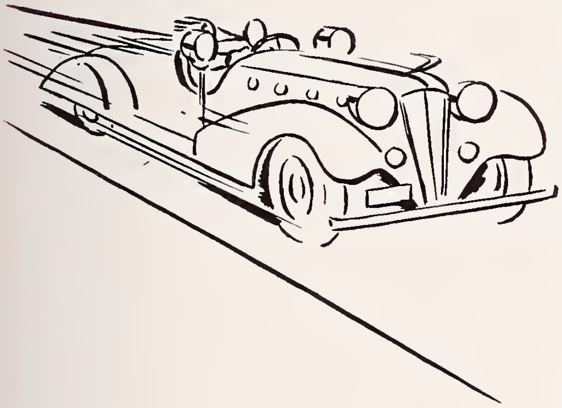
"Hollywood Boulevard"



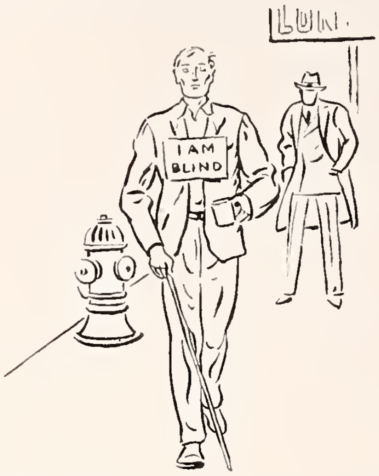
with John Halliday, Robert Cummings, Marsha Hunt, Esther Ralston, Frieda Inescort, Betty Compson, Maurice Costello, C. Henry Gordon, Bryant Washburn, Sr., Francis X. Bushman, Charles Ray, Roy Darcy, Creighton Hale, Frank Mayo. The glamour, the heart throbs of the picture business told in the story of a Hollywood star of yesterday, who, broke, but still stage struck, writes his memoirs for a New York publisher. Directed by Robert Florey.

In addition to that, there will be shots of many of the big time stars and directors on location, making all told one of the big star pictures of the year.

"Murder with Pictures"

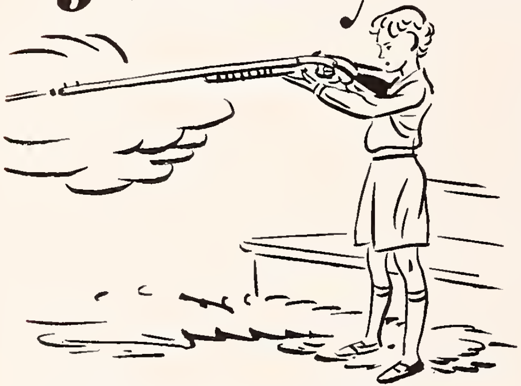
with Gail Patrick, Grace Bradley, Benny Baker, Porter Hall, Ernest Cossart, Irving Bacon. "Murder with Pictures" is a murder-mystery told in the hard-boiled lingo of "The Thin Man" and it has a love story with the same punch. When the ace news cameraman of a Los Angeles paper gets mixed up in a sensational murder of the town's leading criminal lawyer, mouthpiece for a big time racketeer, and finds himself in love with the gal who he thinks has done the shooting, there's plenty of plot to work with.

"Broadway Afternoon"



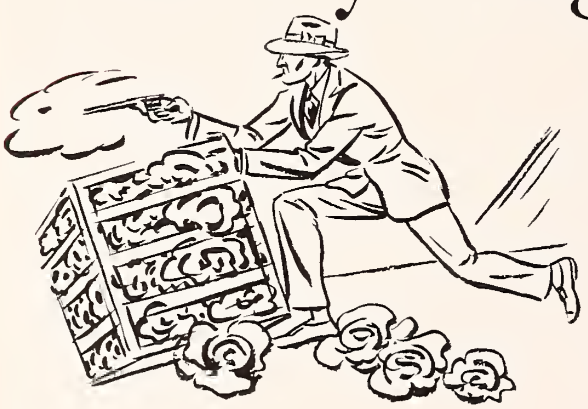
with a cast of Paramount featured players. This is the Saturday Evening Post yarn, that took prizes as one of the trickiest mystery stories of 1935. Speck Darrow, a killer whom the police have just about in their grasp, trades places with his brother, a famous Broadway character, a professional beggar who does a blindman turn every day on the main stem, in an attempt to get by the police net. He almost gets away with it. But Mallory, headquarters dick, happens to have too kind a heart.

"Johnny Gets His Gun"



with Ralph Bellamy, Katherine Locke, David Holt, Onslow Stevens, Purnell Pratt. Johnny, being an American lad with a lot of old-fashioned do or die in him, isn't content to let a bunch of bad men make a monkey or a corpse out of his father...a swell American yarn, taken from a Saturday Evening Post Story by one of America's favorite writers, Lucian Cary.

"Everything for Sale"



with a selected cast of players. Here is a long awaited yarn made from the great dramatic story of the great produce rackets which have been headline news in the big cities of the country for the past few years. A New York plug-ugly and his stooge make plenty of trouble for the independent fruit growers of the West coast until the plug-ugly falls for a lovely lady and then in a terrific thrill-a-second action sequence beats up the racketeers and wins her love.

"A Gun for Hire"

with a cast of featured players. A thrilling melodrama...the story of a murderer, whose flaming gun ends the life of a great statesman and is about to bring war to the world...and of the beautiful young actress who dares his fury and his trickery to capture him and bring peace to Europe.

Wow 'em!

Give 'em

MARLENE DIETRICH

in an

production!

CLAUDETTE
COLBERT
Frank Lloyd
production!

"Maid of Salem"

FRANK LLOYD directs CLAUDETTE COLBERT in a picture of tremendous scope with an all-star cast. Frank Lloyd's first picture for Paramount is a typical Frank Lloyd story, and, by that, we mean a subject as new to pictures as "Cavalcade" and "Sea Hawk". It is the story of a beautiful English girl, the daughter of a woman burned at the stake for witchcraft, who is herself caught in the evil tide of hysteria, the witchcraft persecutions, which swept New England after Cotton Mather's fanatical condemnation of this Puritan-invented crime. The story has depth and greatness, providing the greatest dramatic role Claudette Colbert has ever had. The background has all the sweep and power—huge mob scenes—driving action — which a Frank Lloyd production demands. Here's a picture made to the box-office measure of Frank Lloyd.

Marlene Dietrich

ERNST LUBITSCH directs DIETRICH in a grand romance with music. Ever since "Desire" marked a new high for that famous combination Ernst Lubitsch and Marlene Dietrich, you have been asking when you were going to have another Dietrich picture with the "Lubitsch" touch. Here's your answer. Ernst Lubitsch right now is reading scripts to select the ideal romantic-comedy role for the heroine of "Desire" and this year you will have another picture with all the elements of high comedy and box-office that made "Desire" the hit picture it was. In addition to this, Miss Dietrich will sing a group of songs like her famous "Falling in Love Again". In other words, this picture will be a 1936-37 "Blue Angel" plus.

Give 'em
Excitement !

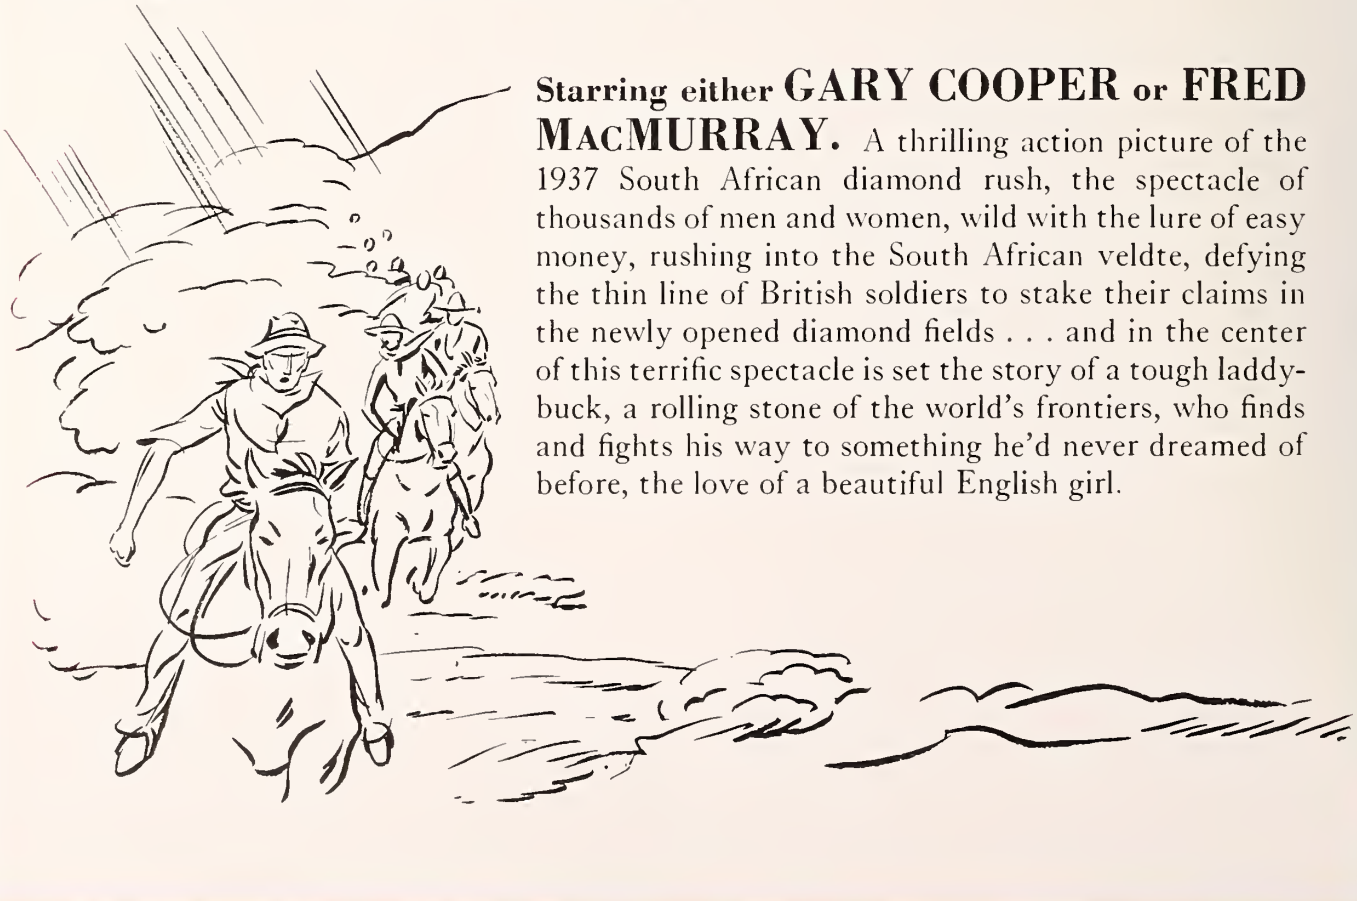
"The Plainsman"

Starring GARY COOPER and JEAN ARTHUR. Think of Gary Cooper as "Wild Bill Hickok". Think of Jean Arthur, Gary's running mate in "Mr. Deeds", as "Calamity Jane". Think of the business Cooper in "The Virginian" did, even as a re-issue . Think of the grosses rolled up by Gary and Jean in "Mr. Deeds". Put these things together and you will get a true picture of the stature of "The Plainsman", the box-office giant DeMille is making for you . . . This is no "western" spectacle, but the intimate, personalized story of "Calamity Jane," the Lady Wildcat, toughest but most sought-after girl in the Golden West, and hard-to-get Wild Bill, who shot faster, thought quicker, looked quieter than any man on that far flung frontier. "The Plainsman" is a smash!

A CECIL B. DEMILLE Production

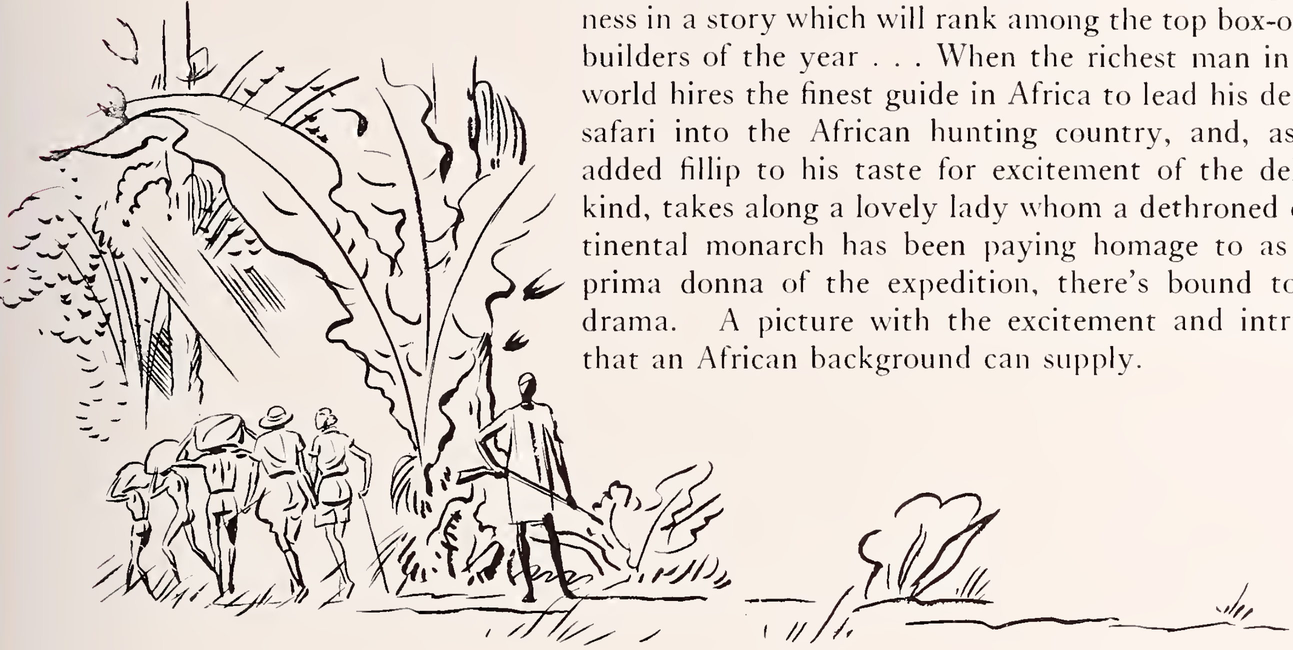
"Diamond Rush"

Starring either GARY COOPER or FRED MACMURRAY. A thrilling action picture of the 1937 South African diamond rush, the spectacle of thousands of men and women, wild with the lure of easy money, rushing into the South African veldte, defying the thin line of British soldiers to stake their claims in the newly opened diamond fields . . . and in the center of this terrific spectacle is set the story of a tough laddy-buck, a rolling stone of the world's frontiers, who finds and fights his way to something he'd never dreamed of before, the love of a beautiful English girl.



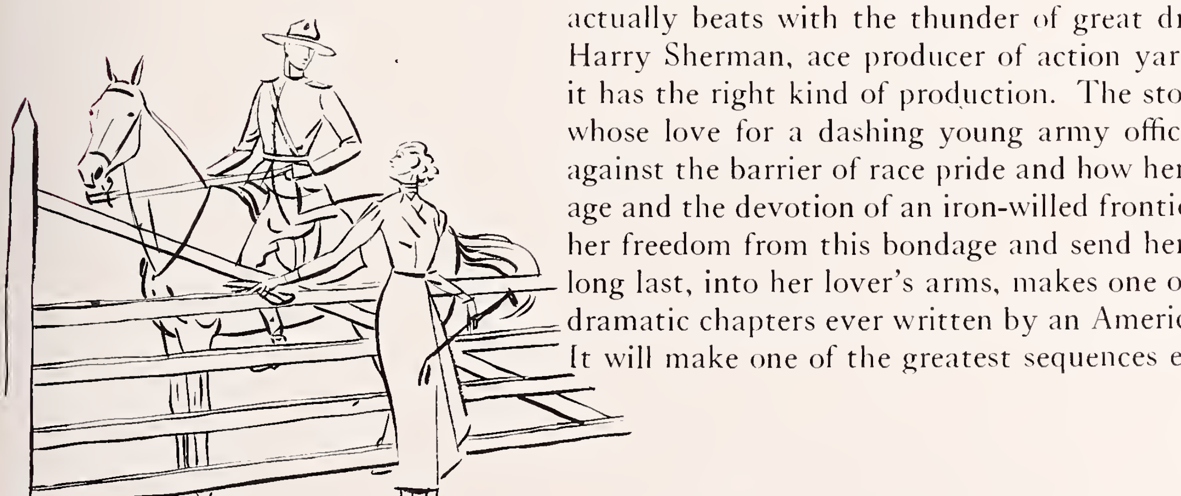
"Safari"

with EDWARD ARNOLD and an all-star cast. Edward Arnold and a female star of equal greatness in a story which will rank among the top box-office builders of the year . . . When the richest man in the world hires the finest guide in Africa to lead his deluxe safari into the African hunting country, and, as an added fillip to his taste for excitement of the deluxe kind, takes along a lovely lady whom a dethroned continental monarch has been paying homage to as the prima donna of the expedition, there's bound to be drama. A picture with the excitement and intrigue that an African background can supply.

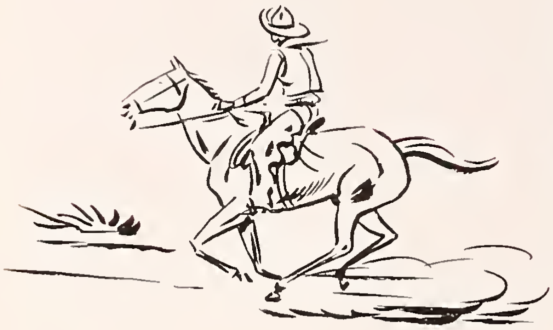


"The Barrier"

by Rex Beach. Of all Rex Beach's novels, probably the most widely read, the best liked by the masses of Beach readers is "The Barrier". For "The Barrier" actually beats with the thunder of great drama. And Harry Sherman, ace producer of action yarns, will see it has the right kind of production. The story of a girl whose love for a dashing young army officer smashes against the barrier of race pride and how her own courage and the devotion of an iron-willed frontiersman win her freedom from this bondage and send her, happy at long last, into her lover's arms, makes one of the finest dramatic chapters ever written by an American author. It will make one of the greatest sequences ever filmed.



"Stairs of Sand"



a Zane Grey Picture with Larry Crabbe, Marsha Hunt, Raymond Hatton, Leif Erikson. Westerns may come and Westerns may go...but Zane Grey's popularity as the writer of big-time "boots and saddle" sagas goes on forever. Wherever Westerns are box-office, a Zane Grey yarn means business. And "Stairs of Sand" is a typical Zane Grey done in the big production manner that has made Paramount the top ranker in the Western field during the past year.

3 "Hopalong Cassidys" with William Boyd in the saddle "The Return of Hopalong Cassidy," "Trail Dust," "Cottonwood Gulch." Bill Boyd, in his first year as a Western star, has ridden right into the hearts of the great Western picture public. And the supporting cast always maintaining a high level of box-office value, has done plenty to push the Cassidy yarns into the top bracket. The new Cassidy series will have even bigger productions, for we are all set to build even bigger money-makers out of the Cassidy series than we did last year. These pictures will be equally spaced in release date during the first six months of 1936-37.

"Rose Bowl"

with Frances Farmer, John Howard, Larry Crabbe, Nick Lukats (All-American football star), Benny Baker. Just at the time the papers are full of it —The Biggest Sports Story of the Year...two big teams, the ace pigskin thumpers of the nation lined up to fight for the title of America's football champions in the annual Rose Bowl game in California's great football stadium, here's Paramount stepping right in to grab box-office for you from the Rose Bowl game with A Smash Action Romance based on the big event. So get right up there in the announcer's box and tell the world "Rose Bowl" is a sure choice for all-American laurels as The Football Picture of the 1936-37 Season.

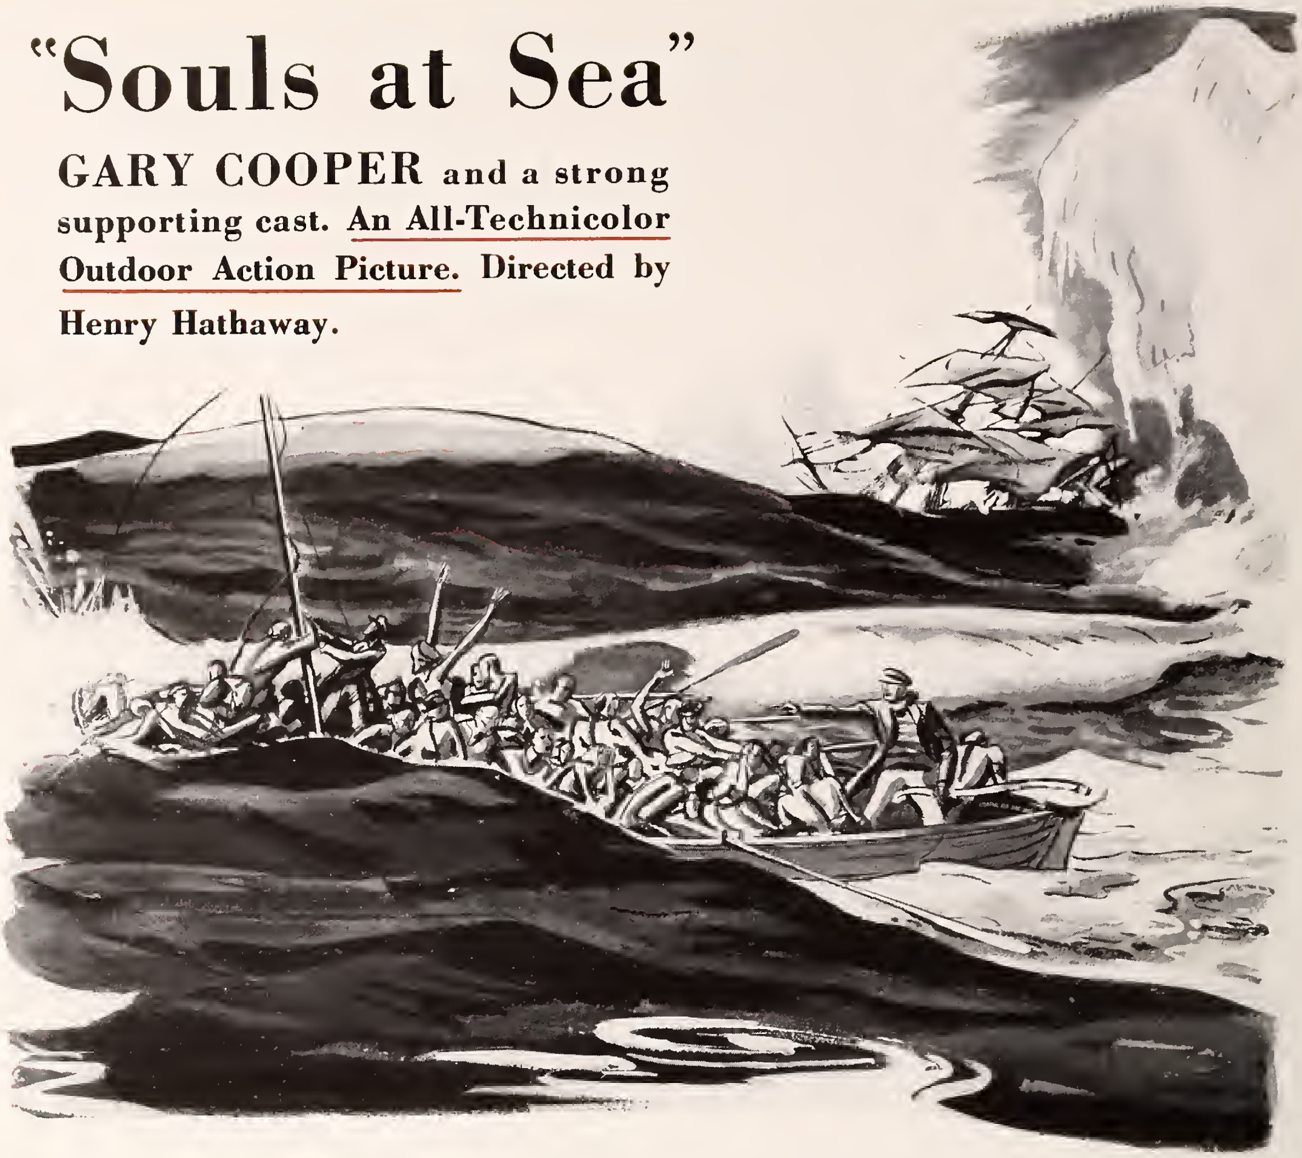
Breathless !

"Souls at Sea"

GARY COOPER and a strong supporting cast. An All-Technicolor Outdoor Action Picture. Directed by Henry Hathaway.

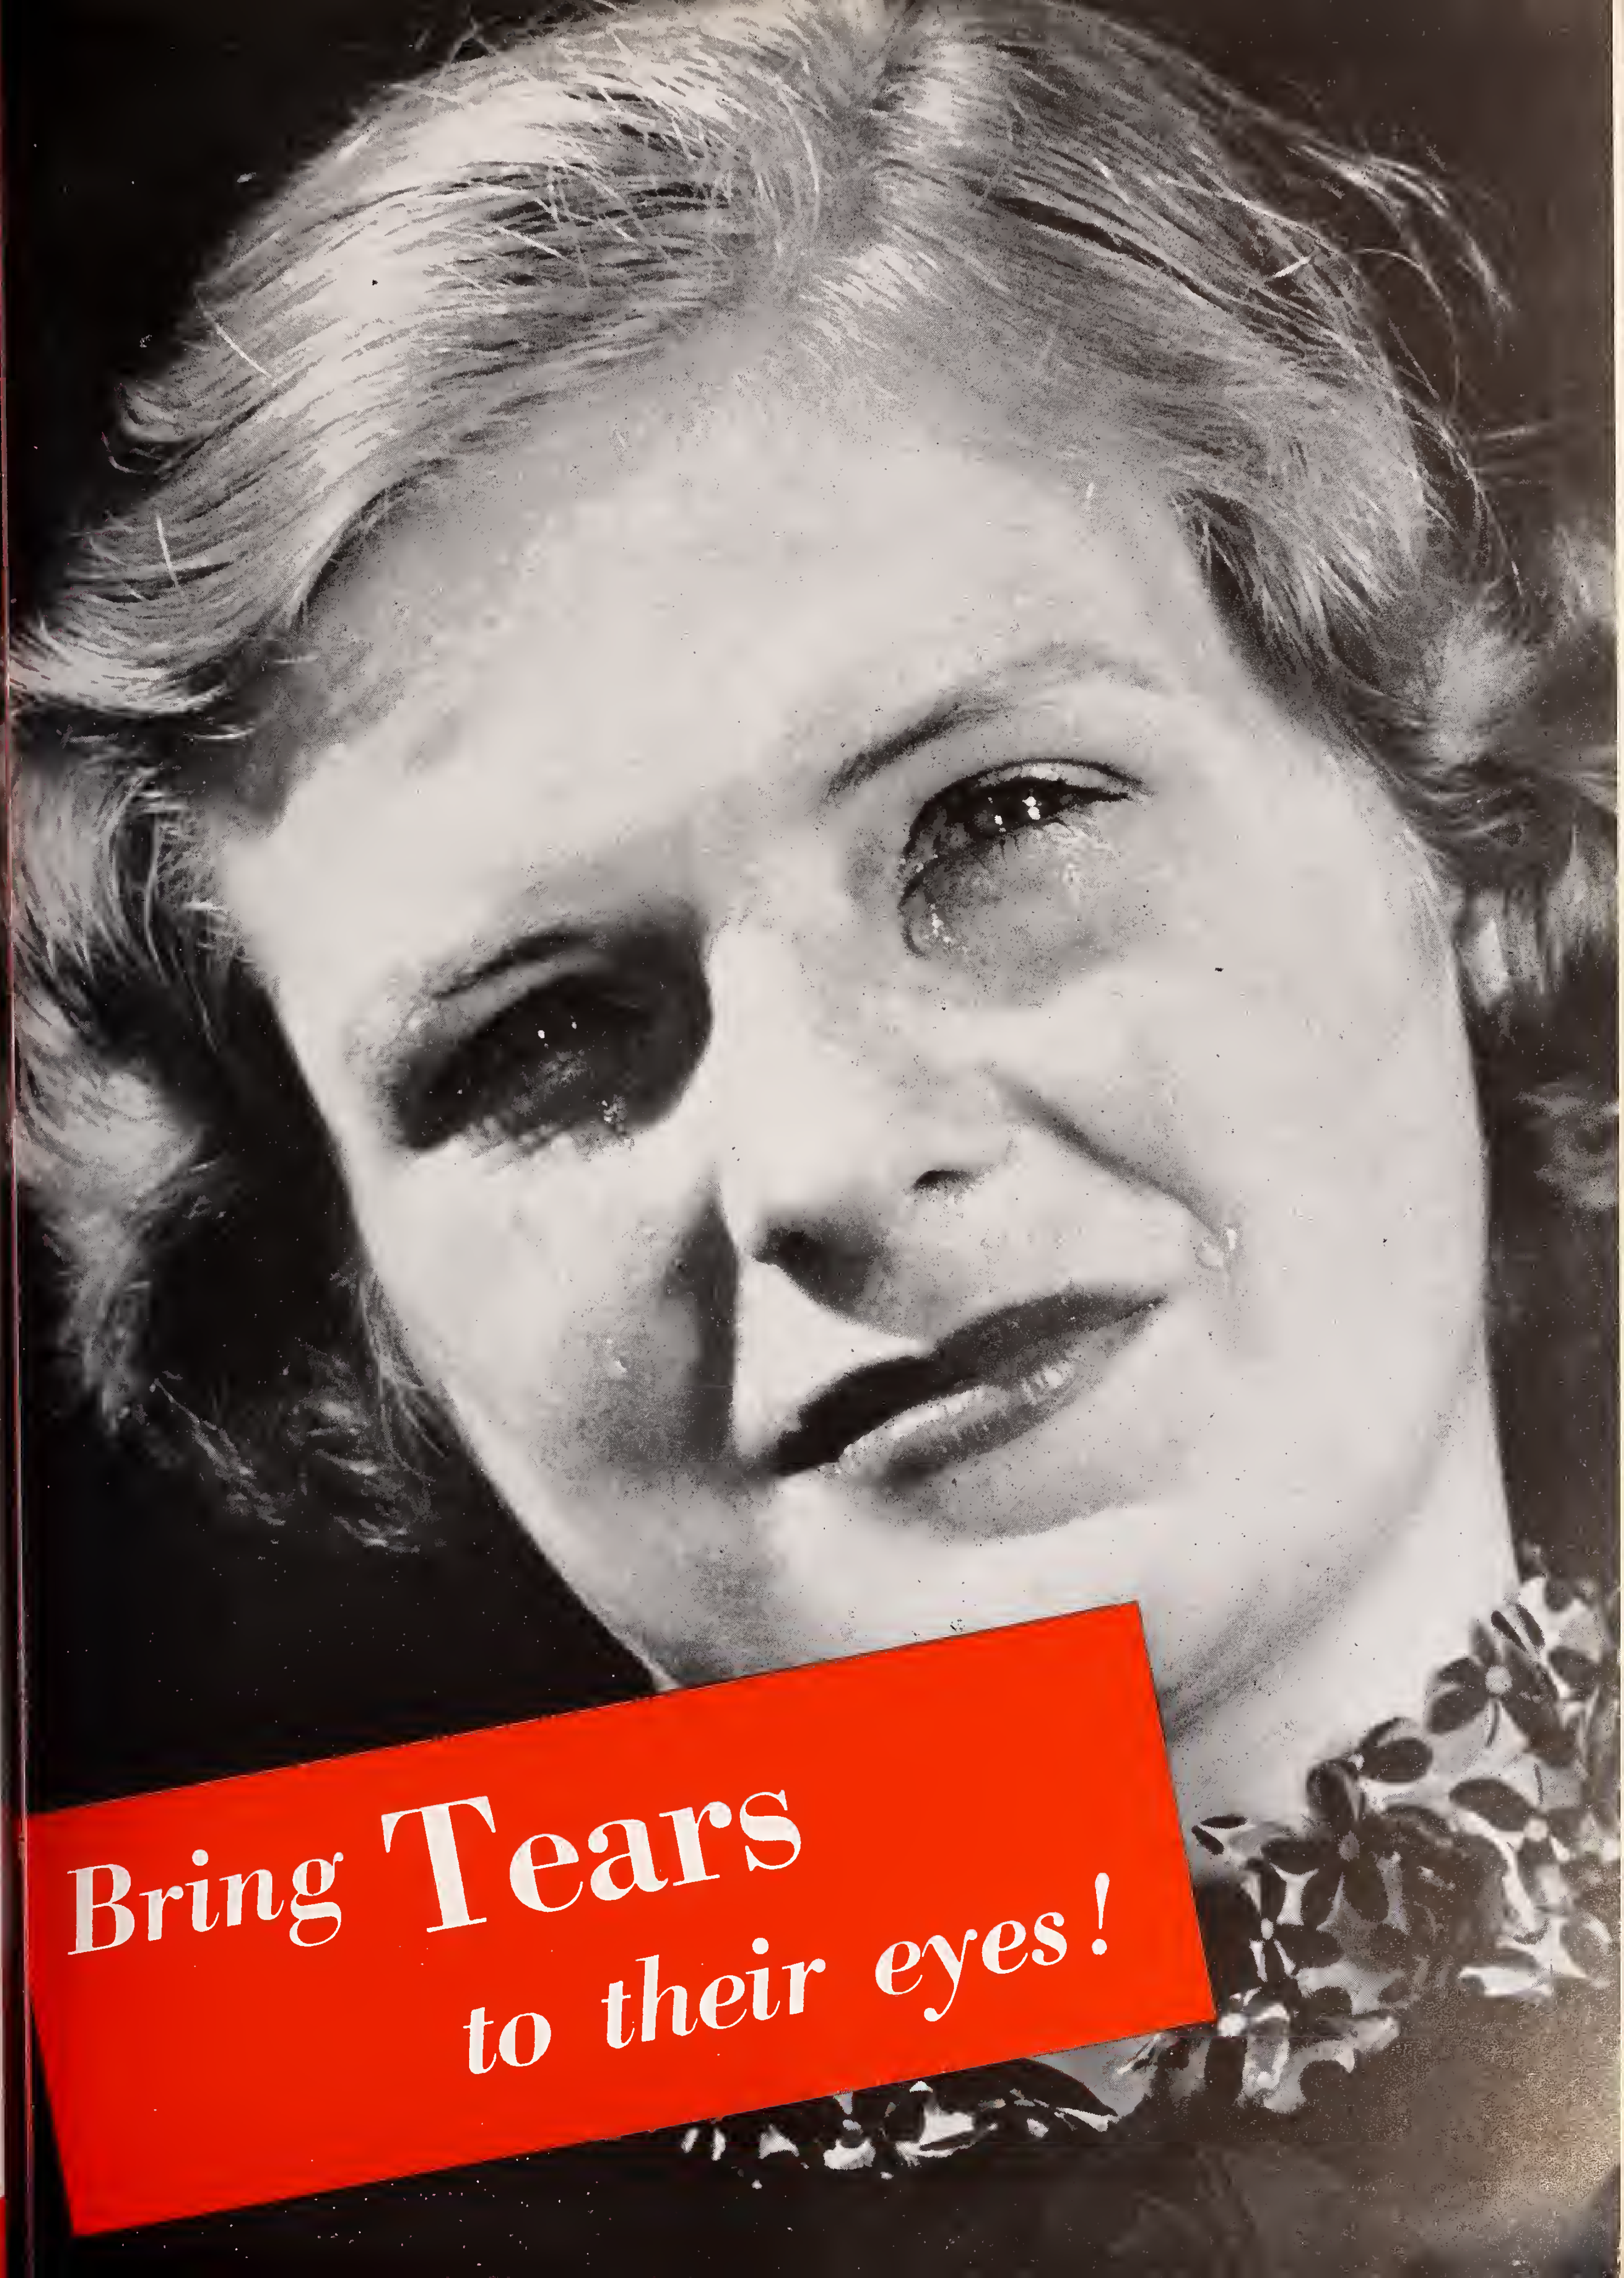


HERE is a box-office find of the year! An American "Mutiny on the Bounty", the most amazing story in the history of our merchant marine. A ship load of immigrants, Liverpool to Philadelphia, is rammed by a huge iceberg. The ship has only two life boats. One swamps. The second mate sets out in the smaller boat with two sailors and forty passengers.

As they start off, the second mate asks each passenger to search his heart in the sight of God. If he has been guilty of sinful living, he must jump overboard. Forty search their souls. Twenty jump. When, after a grueling passage, the little boat makes port, the second mate is clapped into prison and tried for the murder of the twenty. Every single person he has saved testifies against him. He is sentenced to life imprisonment. Yet public opinion sides with him, and after a struggle which roused the feeling of the entire nation, his sentence is at last commuted to five years.

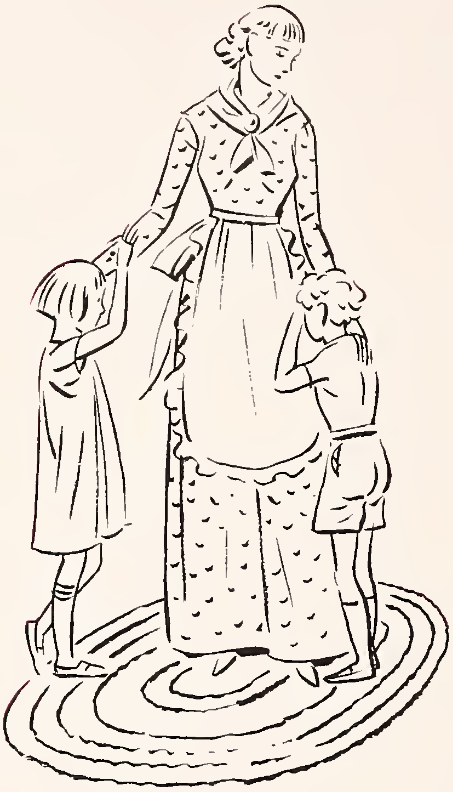
With Gary Cooper in the lead, with Henry Hathaway, who gave you "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" directing. With Grover Jones scripting the story by Edward Hale, you can be sure that "Souls at Sea" will be one of the most exciting pictures of this or any year, and another tremendous advance for the motion picture, completely filmed in natural color.

THIS PICTURE WILL REPLACE "SPAWN OF THE NORTH" WHICH IS TEMPORARILY CANCELLED



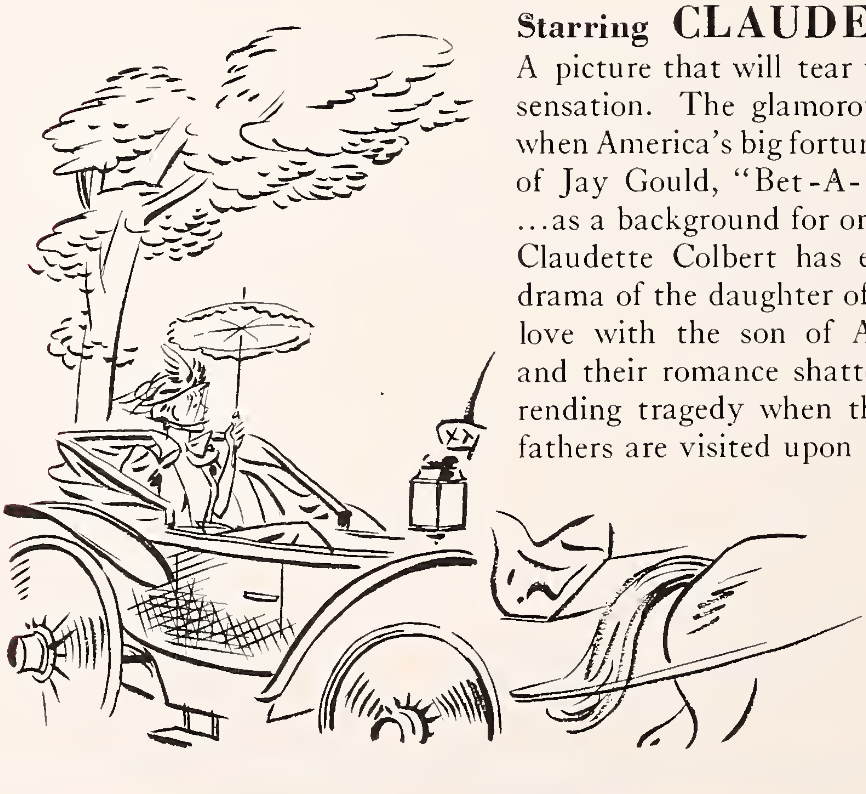
Bring Tears
to their eyes!

"Valiant Is the Word for Carrie"



Starring GLADYS GEORGE with Arline Judge, John Howard, Dudley Digges, Isabel Jewell, Harry Carey. Gladys George, who made "Personal Appearance" one of the longest runs Broadway has ever known . . . the gal all the companies have been fighting for . . . has been captured by Paramount. How did we pull the trick, get you the actress who is going to be a sure-fire No. 1 picture star the minute the fans get a glimpse of her first screen job? Wesley Ruggles just climbed into a plane and headed for 'Frisco, Miss George's home town, with the script of "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie" under one arm. A single reading of this yarn and Miss George said "okay". And no wonder . . . for Bennefield's best-selling novel has enough drama, enough woman interest (and 85% of your fans are women) to make another "Madame X". The story of a great woman, who, bowed by an early life of degradation and shame, rises to true glory through her devotion to a pair of youngsters whose fate is left in her hands. "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie" is great box-office. Directed by Wesley Ruggles.

"Golden Era"



Starring CLAUDETTE COLBERT... A picture that will tear their hearts out...a box-office sensation. The glamorous days of the early century when America's big fortunes were being made...the days of Jay Gould, "Bet-A-Million" Gates, and Canfield ...as a background for one of the most dramatic stories Claudette Colbert has ever starred in...the powerful drama of the daughter of one of these great fortunes in love with the son of America's richest financiers... and their romance shattered, turned into stark, heart-rending tragedy when the sins of their gold-grabbing fathers are visited upon the children.

Union Heads Are Sued

Cincinnati, July 13.—An aftermath of the operators strike in 1932, which lasted 11 months, is the filing of damage suits totaling $54,000 in Common Pleas Court by former officials and members of the old Operators' Local 165 against William C. Elliott, then president of the I. A. T. S. E., 18 members and their counsel.

The petition recites that charges growing out of personal animosity precipitated by internal political strife, were brought against the plaintiffs, which resulted in revocation of the charter without reason, impeachment of the officers and the subsequent formation of the present Local 327 from which the plaintiffs were excluded. They have since been unable to obtain union affiliation or recognition, and have for four years been deprived of their earnings as operators, it is claimed.

The plaintiffs and the damages asked are: Harry Schwartz, former president, $14,000; William Hahn, former business agent, $16,000; John King, $12,000 and James Curtis, $12,000. The salaries at the time were fixed at $3,500, $4,000 and $3,000, respectively.

M. & P. Men Shifted After Smith Resigns

Boston, July 13.—As a result of the resignation of Edward A. Smith, managing director of the Metropolitan and District Manager Charles G. Branham, numerous changes have been made throughout the M. & P. Circuit.

Henry Taylor, manager of the Paramount, will take Smith's post at the Metropolitan. Taylor managed the Met during 1932 and 1933.

John Carroll, present manager of the Capitol, Allston, Mass., will become manager of the Paramount. Thomas Wall, manager of the Paramount, Needham, goes to the Capitol, Allston, effective Aug. 1. Donald Mitchell, now serving as assistant manager to Marquis at the Egyptian, Brighton, will become manager of the Paramount, Needham, replacing Wall.

In addition to the above, the M. & P. district office executives in the Shawmut, Roxbury, will become under the supervision of Harry Wasserman and will then be part of district B for M. & P. At the same time the Capitol and the Crown in New London will come under the supervision of Hy Fine, and will then become part of the Connecticut district. This last change was made as the result of the resignation of Charles C. Branham, district manager.

While there was no official notice from the Boston offices, it was rumored that there will be a change in picture policy in the Metropolitan effective Sept. 1. This new policy is expected to be a straight picture with an occasional feature stage show or unit.

At present the Metropolitan is the only theatre in Greater Boston that has stage attractions, the RKO Boston running a double feature policy for the summer with a contemplated change to vaudeville on Labor Day.

stein stated that he had been given this information by Maurice Y. Cole who, with his father, former Circuit Judge Clarence L. Cole, is counsel for Mrs. Fox.

The younger Cole, when reached on a double check here tonight, refused to commit himself but agreed to a resumption of the hearing tomorrow. Judge Cole could not be reached.

The understanding has been that if Mrs. Fox permitted the inspection of her books the hearing would have been postponed for at least a month.

Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle will preside again when the questioning of witnesses is resumed. After some further examination of Robert Leitsteen and Joseph Hart Fox, Fox family bookkeepers, the members of the Fox family will be called to the witness stand for grilling.

Virginia's Censor Receipts Rise 11%

Richmond, July 13.—An increase of 11 per cent in receipts of the censor board for the year ending in June is regarded here as a reflection of the general improvement in business. It was the largest gain in the 14 years of the board's operation.

The total was $33,051.50. Expenses were $18,158. The state received $14,866.50, above last year by $1,633.28. More than 5,000,000 feet of film were screened.

Deletions were under previous years. Four or five pictures were rejected.

As a result of a reversal of the board's ban on the Schmeling-Louis fight films by the City Circuit Court, it is understood fight films will be admitted hereafter when not considered too brutal.

Demurrers Filed in 2 Bank Night Suits

Tampa, July 13.—Attorneys for the Tampa Theatre have filed demurrers in Circuit Court on the two Bank Night suits. In each suit the plaintiffs claimed damages because the theatre allegedly refused to pay the prize money. In the demurrers the attorneys declare the plaintiffs have no right to go to court to collect the prizes as they paid nothing for their chances to win.

The first suit was filed by Mrs. Hazel Greene. The second suit was filed by W. A. Rice, who, he charged, had been refused a prize of $1,550 because he had taken three minutes to answer to his name, while the time limit allowed by the theatre was two minutes.

New Theatres In N. Y. Reach All-Time High

cided on the size of the structures planned, more than 5,000 seats will be included in the eight new projects.

The Bronx took first place for new openings. Consolidated built the only four houses in this borough. Upstate New York and Manhattan were tied with three each. Long Island saw two new theatres and one each was listed for Brooklyn and New Jersey.

Long Island and the Bronx have three theatres under construction. Brooklyn has four, Manhattan, two, and New Jersey, one. Brooklyn and Long Island will see an additional three houses provided plans filed materialize. Manhattan and New Jersey are down for one each.

The figures do not include the rebuilt Rialto, the seating capacity of which was reduced to 600, and the new Criterion, which will have more than 1,000 seats when it is opened next month.

Upstate Also Busy

Opened upstate within the past few months were the Strand, Lock Sheldrake, seating 500; Central, Yonkers, 700; Storm King, Cornwall, 500.

The quartet Consolidated added to its string were the Earle, Kent, Ascot and Surrey, all in the Bronx, and each with 600 seats.

Ben Knoble built the Greenwich, a 600-seater, in Greenwich Village; Steve Brodie the Miami, a 500-seat grind house on 6th Ave., and the Town, a 300-seat theatre at 82nd St. and 3rd Ave., was opened and closed within a short time. The Town and Miami formerly were stores.

Brooklyn's only theatre in last year was the Rogers, at 385 Broadway, with 580 chairs. Tomorrow, another Rogers house will be opened at 333 Rogers Ave. This unit will have 600 seats. Sam Silver is building a 600-seater at Washington Ave., near Lincoln Place. Century circuit is constructing two houses, one to seat 900, at 17th and Ave. M., the second a 500-seater at Quentin Rd. and 14th Street. Both will be ready by Thanksgiving. Dave Rosenzweig stated recently he will put up two 600-seat and a 1,000-seat theatre in association with his building partner.

Circuits Backing Many

Three prominent circuits are behind new projects going up in various parts of the city. Sam Cocalis is erecting a 1,000-seat de luxe unit at 166th St. and Ogden Ave. Jack Springer is building a 600-seat structure at 82nd St. and Columbus Ave. Arthur Mayer has started work on the new 600-seat addition to his interests at 23rd St. and Lexington Ave. Abe Leff and Louis Meyers, who recently lopped the Radio from their circuit, are behind the new 800-seat house now in the process of construction at 170th Street and Jerome Ave. Plans have been filed for a 1,000-seat theatre at 238th St. and Broadway. It is reported Springer is backing this enterprise.

The Drake, Rego Park, with 600 seats, and the Ditmars, Astoria, another 600-seater, are the latest Long Island additions. In September two more 600-seat houses will be opened. One is being built at Woodside and the other at Kew Gardens. Century circuit plans to have the new 1,000-seat structure at Manhasset ready by Thanksgiving. Dave Rosenzweig and Sam Cocalis may build two theatres in this area in line with their expansion plans.

The Clinton Point, Clinton Point, is the only new house for northern New Jersey. It seats 450. RKO and Walter Reade have a 1,000-seat project under way at New Brunswick. Warners have plans for a big theatre at Paterson, but nothing could be learned when construction will begin.

Milwaukee, all recorded high, and in some cases record grosses for the film. The fight films stood up well in Detroit, despite the heat. At the Poli in New Haven "San Francisco" established a new summer record, with $11,000, while other theatres fell off.

In New York, Loew executives decided to hold "San Francisco" at the Capitol for a fourth week, after it recorded $48,000 in its second period. At the Metropolitan in Brooklyn the film is to be held a third week, the first time in the history of that Loew house that a picture has been held for that length of time.

The Capitol recorded sell-out business Sunday afternoon and Sunday evening, with theatre heads attributing part of the success to the cooling system. Many people, according to the reports of ushers, remained to see the film a second or third time, others cluttered the lounges. Strong business likewise was reported for the three previous days.

At the Music Hall, where "The Bride Walks Out" opened on Thursday, the house reported very good business Thursday and Friday, and a slight falling off Saturday and Sunday. Here again the cooling system was credited with bringing in a large number of patrons.

The Paramount, with the fourth week of "Poppy," did normal business for a fourth week despite the heat. There, too, no drop in business was blamed on the temperature. The theatre reported that many people who stood in the lobby for a short respite from the sun, eventually drifted into the house drawn hence by the inviting coolness of the interior.

The Roxy, an exception, reported business off as much as 50 per cent over the week-end. Thursday, the last day of "The Harvester," was weak, as was Friday, when "Fatal Lady" opened its week's run. The theatre declared there was no gain in grosses due to the cooling system.

At the Strand, playing "Public Enemy's Wife," which opened on Wednesday, business was reported nearly normal despite the weather, the cooling plant held responsible for overcoming the effect of the heat. Week-end business about equaled that of the corresponding week-end a year ago, the film then being "Front Page Woman." The Strand will hold "Public Enemy's Wife" for a second week, beginning tomorrow.

Although business was off at the Palace, the fact that it held anywhere near normal was attributed to the operation of the cooling plant. The management declared its use unquestionably brought many people into the house from the street.

At Loew's State it was said that that the heat actually helped, rather than hindered, grosses, with business 18 per cent better than last year at the same time, again the cool condition of the house getting the credit. It was pointed out that the public is becoming educated to the fact that the modern film theatre offers relief in hot weather.

The Astor recorded its lowest week since "The Great Ziegfeld" opened there. In its 13th week, the film drew $13,100, the first time it has drawn less than $16,000.

"Angel" for Dietrich

Hollywood, July 13.—Marlene Dietrich's first Paramount film under her new contract will be "The Angel." Ernst Lubitsch will be producer and director, the film getting under way in October, when the actress returns from a European vacation.

Sustains Decision in G.T.E. Action

Fox Midland and Fox Rocky Mountain last spring, Smith, Lee Hamlin and William Snower filed in Judge Reeves's court a suit dependent on the bankruptcy proceedings. They asked that the adjudications of bankruptcy be vacated, charged fraud, and sought a lien on the properties of the bankrupts in favor of themselves as General Theatres Equipment bondholders. Later Ray D. Jones, Anna Kupper and Katherine K. Mosher joined them in the action. Reeves declined to assume jurisdiction in his bankruptcy court, and bondholders appealed.

However, the appeals court did not pass on the merits of the bondholders' petition. It simply stated that the fraud alleged to have been perpetrated by Chase National on the appellants did not and could not deprive the court of its jurisdiction of these estates or of its right to terminate the bankruptcy proceedings in the regular way if it saw fit.

The opinion left the way open for the bondholders to proceed against Chase National, et al., in some other court when it said the Federal District Court did not authorize the sale of the assets of the bankrupts free of liens, but authorized only the sale of the interest of the bankrupts in the assets, "which the purchaser takes, subject to any rights, equities, or liens the appellants may have."

C. A. Randolph, one of the attorneys for the bondholders, said that they had not determined their next step.

Canada Music Deal Enforced by Ascap

the Dominion were insignificant and that the passage of the new restrictive rate legislation did not make it worthwhile for the American society to continue doing business there. Indications are that Ascap will retire from the Canadian Performing Rights Society as soon as its licenses with that organization expire in the near future. Ascap, thereafter, will act in Canada only as a "policing" agency for its American members, obtaining data and evidence on the unauthorized performance of any copyrighted music owned by its members and turning over this data to the music owners who may proceed from there as they see fit.

San Francisco, July 13.—Some of the native sons may object to the earthquake scenes in "San Francisco" on the ground that there was never any such thing here—only a big fire—but they turned out in droves to see the film. The take at the Paramount hit $23,000 in the second week, which is more than 100 per cent over a first week average.

Denver Tips "Francisco" Big $14,500

Denver, July 13.—"San Francisco," on a dual with "Three Godfathers" at the Orpheum, was something of a sensation at $14,500. This is $8,500 over normal and is regarded as remarkable business for any time of the year. At this season it is extraordinary. It was held.

"It's Love Again" was a close second for box-office honors, the $14,000 take at the Denver being nearly double par. Major Bowes' amateurs were responsible for part of the draw.

"Frisco" Best as Providence Slumps

PROVIDENCE, July 13.—Loew's State with "San Francisco" in its second week, took the other stands over the hurdles and garnered most of the coin in these parts as the terrific heat, series of Tercentenary fetes and Olympic tryouts cut deeply into box-office takes. Loew's came out slightly under the average with $10,000.

Bad business closed the RKO Albee for the summer as its last week's take took a nosedive to $3,500. "Palm Springs" and "Girl of Ozarks" at the Strand proved a disappointment at the box-office and went under the usual gross with $4,500. "Border Patrolman" and vaudeville at Fay's were under average with $5,000. "Crime of Dr. Forbes" and "Hot Money" at the Majestic also disappointed with $4,500.

On Tuesday night an automobile was given away. Wednesday was Sweepstakes Night, while "The Bride Comes Home" was shown as an encore feature at the 9 P. M. show on Friday in addition to the regular feature and shorts.

Night admissions recently were reduced from 40 to 35 cents.

"Francisco," "Rich Girl" Phila. Hits

PHILADELPHIA, July 13. — Smash business was scored this week by "San Francisco" and "Poor Little Rich Girl" at the Stanley and Fox, respectively. Neither film felt the effects of the huge Fourth of July week-end rush to the shore and both are probably set for three weeks each.

"San Francisco" grabbed $30,000 on its first week, with building trade reported. It went into its second week on the hottest day of the summer without getting a severe setback.

The Temple film knocked down $24,000 at the Fox on its first week.

These two attractions took not only the cream of the trade, but the whole bottle. The rest of the lineup looked weak in comparison. "White Angel" dwindled to $8,000 for its second Boyd week and "Palm Springs" was low at the Karlton. "Counterfeit," with $5,800, showed strength later in the week at the Stanton, but lost out because of a poor opening over the week-end.

Total first run business was $85,600. Average is $71,800.

MILWAUKEE, July 13.—Despite four days of the season's hottest weather which blistered business badly, "San Francisco" came through on a solo bill at Fox's Wisconsin for a $10,000 take, just $2,000 above par, for eight days.

The weather, a three-day American Legion celebration at State Fair Park and the season's first free operetta at one of the city's parks, which drew between 25,000 and 30,000 people, helped to put a severe dent in the week's business.

Joseph P. Kennedy has requested ıe Paramount board of directors to stribute copies of his reports to all curity holders of the company, he ated yesterday, "in order to correct ı impression" that recommendations ntained in the reports "may be the ısis of Paramount policies."

Kennedy refers to the statement as ınintentionally misleading in that it ıplies some sort of continuing parcipation in the affairs of Paraount."

Cancellation Change and End of Score Charges Seen as Unlikely

Few, if any, outright concessions on the basis sought by the M. P. T. O. A. in its 10-point trade practice program will be made by distribution companies in their new season contract, it was learned yesterday.

Even the three major points of the exhibitor organization's industry "self-regulation" program—score charges, cancellations and local conciliation boards—appear destined at this time to be slighted by the large sales concerns.

The M. P. T. O. A. has sought the complete elimination of the score charge, but the contracts of most, if not all, companies will retain their provisions for the collection of that charge. Whatever relief from the score charge levy exhibitors will be able to get appears now to be dependent to a large degree on their bargaining ability in making new season deals. In this respect the score charge situation remains as it has been for the past several years.

Where the M. P. T. O. A. sought an outright cancellation of 10 to 20 per cent of the number of pictures contracted for, most or all of the major distributors will offer only a 10 per cent cancellation and that will

By RED KANN

Aboard the Normandie

LOU BLUMENTHAL missed his wife and farewells in the crush and made for the smoking room to explain how and why in a note brought ashore by the pilot's boat off Ambrose. Others told the same story later, but what some thousands of New Yorkers who braved the dawn's early light to see this sailing of the Normandie thought will have to be filled in at your terminus.

The lightning decision of this voyage probably goes to Mrs. William Morris, Jr. She decided to embark on this very elaborate ferry as late as four o'clock on the day of departure—it was determined at a party—and to her own surprise got a cabin. Billy, the big agency man, was there, of course, to bid husbandly and fond adieus, promising to come over the end of the month and making the to-shore gangplank among the final dozen. . . .

Ship-to-dock conversation, while hawsers were being made loose, as usual consisted of facial and lip contortions and this time, in keeping with the current vogue, an assortment of that finger and grimace concoction known as "handies." "Go to bed," was Mrs. Morris' lip movement to her on-pier spouse. We suggested that if Bill got it at all he might figure it as "Go to hell" which is no way for a European traveler to rub it. She quit. . . .

On the other hand, and by all calculations, the early leaving was a boon for us. A day before over at "21" questions were being fired at an embarrassing clip. "What's this all about, any way?" asked Herman Robbins and Sam Dembow with Joe Moskowitz, Jimmy Grainger and two of the Goetzes—Harry and Jack—quick on the follow up. "There's a growing industry in England and the time has come to submit it to some scrutiny," was the lamest and the best we could muster. Nate Blumberg, Joe Pincus and Lou Irwin combined into a trio, north of the Harlem style. . . .

Martin Quigley wasn't much help, either. Conceding readily that he should, he voiced general suspicion with the others. Colvin Brown knew little about it; Terry Ramsaye implied he did but would not tell, his neighborly spirit dictating and perhaps suggesting we might do the same for him one of these minutes. Jimmy Cron merely kept on eating his cold cuts. Ned Depinet, Herb Yates and Phil Reisman passed by with a handshake and a "Bon Voyage" and "Deac" Aylesworth called a cheery "Good Luck" from a doorway hard by. Later, Eddie Golden, Jeff Bernerd, Arthur Lee, Tom Drew, Paul Benjamin, Jules Levy and Arthur Housman were among those on the telephone; Jack Connolly wrote to see M. Villar, the chief purser, and Phil Cochrane hoped it was a good trip. The time had come for a quick getaway. . . .

It's a trip of commitments. Bernerd said, "Give them all my love in London and tell them things are all right in America." Lee: "Remember me to everyone." Bob Cochrane: "Tell S. F. Ditcham we are thinking of him constantly in New York and depending upon him heavily in England." Joel Swenson of the Hays office: "Remember me to Sanger, editor of British Movietone News, and Charles de Grandcourt of Gaumont British if you encounter them." Tom Drew: "Tell Percy Phillipson we're busy here, that we are happy and optimistic." Pat Garyn earlier: "A handshake for Sam Eckman." Doug Leishman: "A hello for the gang in London." Jack Barnstyn, who is on the Statendam: "We'll have dinner at the Savoy." . . .

Up at 6:20 and in from the Rockaways for a friendly and parting handshake was Jimmy Grainger. Herman Robbins was there; Nate Blumberg, Milton Schwarzwald, Joe Gersheson, Abe Waxman, Don Mersereau, Hortense and Jose Schorr and Herb Berg among others and Jimmy Sileo with his Graflex, insisting upon pictures to what practical purpose was not quite clear. Then the Normandie slipped her lines and headed down stream. . . .

"Ziegfeld" Stay Denied

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Patterson in White Plains yesterday refused to grant an injunction to William S. Coffey, administrator of the Ziegfeld estate, to halt showing of "The Great Ziegfeld." Coffey contended the Ziegfeld name belonged to the estate, but the court pointed out that the estate had sold the name "Ziegfeld Follies" to Billie Burke, and that any good will attached to the name went with it.

Short Subjects

"Master Will Shakespeare"

(M-G-M)

A serious yet entertaining short in which a small portion of the Bard's life is portrayed, this is an effort of unusual appeal. It is tasteful and sober. Shown are scenes which depict how Shakespeare came to be the greatest of playwrights. Anthony Kemble Cooper plays the title role and the piece closes with a comparison of an original production of "Romeo and Juliet" and the as yet unreleased film version. Altogether it will please the multitude of the Bard's admirers. Production Code Seal, No. 2,164. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Hill Tillies"

(Roach-M-G-M)

This is an amusing comedy by that hair-brained trio, Lyda Roberti, Patsy Kelly and Toby Wing, which has some clever lines and funny situations. The three girls are job hunting and are not meeting with luck. With the aid of a press agent, they put over a female Tarzan gag which attracts the press. However, the Misses Kelly and Roberti, after going through some wracking experiences while in the woods, emerge, but they are not the same mentally. It has some fresh twists. Entertaining. Production Code Seal, No. 2,236. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Rio de Janeiro—City of Splendor"

(FitzPatrick-M-G-M)

Another travel gem from the color cameras of James FitzPatrick. The Brazilian city is shown to be a charming place, colorful and interesting. The pictorial compositions are a delight to the eye and the film should prove a stimulant to all programs. In addition to the fine views of the city here is shown a little known industry making beautiful trinkets from the myriad colors of butterfly wings. It should be found thoroughly pleasing. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

'On the Wrong Trek"

(Roach-M-G-M)

Charley Chase recounts his unhappily spent vacation to his fellow office workers. What evolves is a pleasantly amusing comedy. He is a victim of his mother-in-law, is held up and robbed, car and all. when he stops at a fake accident. They make the best of it, and after some new comedy twists are worked and Chase does a song and dance in a hobo jungle with Rosina Lawrence for their supper, they arrive back home. There is a trick ending. After the Chase fashion, it is good comedy. Production Code Seal, No. 2,221. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

'Two Little Pups"

(Harman-Ising-M-G-M)

Where other films end this begins. The chase sequence which usually terminates a cartoon is the whole theme and is carried from start to finish. Two young pups chase a hen which has been pecking at corn plantings in a truck garden. In dramatic coloring and spectacular action they just about run their legs off in pursuit. Clever invention and novelties are interwoven. Finally, after they tear up the place and chase the hen over a fence they retire to the doghouse. It is pleasant and amusing. Production Code Seal, No. 2,269. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Riding Avenger"

(Diversion)

A good western with the smiling and recklessly wisecracking Hoot Gibson doing all the exciting situations in fine style. When the action lags it soon is given a fresh start, and the thrills begin again. It has what it takes to make pleasant entertainment—if the audience does not take it too seriously.

Gibson is made special deputy, a job which he had given up. He goes to the ranch of Ruth Mix's father, where there has been cattle rustling, but arrives a little late after rescuing Miss Mix from the gang and finds her father has been shot. He goes to investigate and Miss Mix is spirited away in his absence. He is found with the dead man by the cowhands, and to vindicate himself he tricks Buzz Barton, who is his captor, and gets away, later locating the real culprits. He gains their confidence, but the next morning at breakfast is found out. He and Miss Mix get away. The ending has plenty of action with Gibson and Miss Mix coming out for the usual romantic clinch.

Capable performances are also delivered by June Gale, Stanley Blystone, Ed Cassidy and Roger Williams. Harry Fraser directed, from a story by Wilton West. The screen play is by Norman Houston. Paul Ivano's photography captures the scenic beauty of outdoor locations.

Production Code Seal, No. 3,216. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Calling the Tune"

(Phoenix-A.B.F.D., London)

London, July 7.—Melodrama against a background of gramophone trade development. Beginning in the days of crude mechanical recording it finishes, 20 years later, with electrical recording and with television peeping over the horizon. Incidental is a reconstruction of the making of the first Melba record, and individual performances by George Robey, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, and the Queen's Hall orchestra conducted by Sir Henry Wood.

The story, picturing the theft of a formula for an indestructible record and the punishment of the criminals many years later by the son of the victims, is pretty crude stuff and the acting is mostly undistinguished. Its appeal rests on its vocal and musical items.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G." ALLAN

Hampden Set for Films

Walter Hampden, one of the foremost actors on the American stage, said yesterday he had signed a contract with Maxson F. Judell of Hollywood. The pact permits Judell either to produce features starring Hampden or to contract him for roles with other producers.

Hampden's best known stage role is that of "Cyrano de Bergerac," which he probably will do for the films. His work in a number of the Shapespearean classics has also been outstanding.

Protests Poultry Firm

Bridgeport, July 14.—Legal steps are being taken by Louis Anger to prevent the opening of a poultry slaughter house behind the Barnum, ace house in his neighborhood circuit. Anger says the ventilating system will bring in offensive odors. His efforts to prevent the issuing of a license to the poultry firm were fruitless.

Business Outlook Bad in Omaha Area

Omaha, July 14.—The immediate future prospects for theatre business in this territory are anything but bright, a study of crop conditions in Nebraska and western Iowa indicates.

Although the drouth has not struck in Nebraska and Iowa nearly as severely as in the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming, it is gradually taking its toll. Corn is shriveling, and that which has not been ruined by the sun has been destroyed by the grasshoppers. As the crops go in these states, so goes business.

Theatres are most seriously affected and entertainment is usually the first item to be cut from the family budget. Evert R. Cummings, district manager with supervision over 16 A. H. Blank houses, said all plans for experimentation with the raising of prices have been dropped because of the poor crop conditions. The price increases had been scheduled for the fall.

Push Cagney Plans; Litigation Impends

Superior Court at Los Angeles enjoined Warners from interfering with Cagney's attempts to secure employment and, while Warners have appealed the decision, they do not contend, according to Neil S. McCarthy, prominent Los Angeles attorney, that the appeal has the effect of staying the lower court's injunction. Warners, he said, take the position that they cannot interfere at present with any contract Cagney secures, but are of the opinion that, if the appellate court reverses the lower court, persons with whom Cagney may contract in the meantime would be liable to Warners.

A Warner official here said that McCarthy's statement "was substantially accurate" from the company's point of view. Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, Grand National's attorneys, said that they did not agree that a reversal of the lower court's decision would make Grand National liable to Warners on the basis of the contract made with Cagney.

Cagney plans to leave for the coast in about a week. He was guest of honor at a cocktail party given for him yesterday at the N. Y. Athletic Club by Grand National.

have been set on either, hence the sales force is leaving Chaplin out of the talks with exhibitors. Alexander Korda may contribute two or three more than scheduled.

The list, as being sold, has Samuel Goldwyn down for seven; Selznick International, six; Korda, six; Reliance, one; Elisabeth Bergner, one; Criterion, two; Walter Wanger, seven.

A flexible policy will be continued. Exhibitors can buy straight percentage, a flat rental or a flat guarantee against percentage.

Within the next two weeks negotiations will get under way with Warners. George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager, and Harry Gold, his assistant, will return the latter part of the week from New Orleans. Schaefer will stop at New Orleans en route from Dallas. Gold is awaiting Schaefer, having completed his regional sales talk to the southern selling forces over the weekend.

be available solely to exhibitors who buy a company's entire lineup and who are in good standing on their contracts at the time a cancellation is sought. No cancellation will be offered by any large company to an exhibitor who buys only a fractional part of the company's picture output. Moreover, where the M. P. T. O. A. sought an unqualified cancellation clause, few, if any, companies are making any change in the phraseology of the cancellation clause which they have used heretofore.

The subject of local conciliation boards, through the establishment of which the M. P. T. O. A. hoped to bring about the solution of such problems as overbuying, unfair clearance, the forcing of shorts with features, designated play dates and unfair and non-theatrical competition, appears to be still in doubt. Most large distribution companies favor the boards theoretically but their establishment calls for united distributor support as the cost of maintaining them would have to be borne by the distributors. Thus, speaking individually, no company can say with certainty that the boards will be established. It seems reasonable to believe, however, that distributors may meet jointly, probably during August, to decide whether or not the boards should be established and if so on what basis. A limited number of the boards might be established in the larger cities, such as New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, on an experimental basis next fall, with the results of their operations serving to decide their further extension or their discontinuance.

Litigation as Substitute

In a recent bulletin to M. P. T. O. A. members, Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, indicated that if the organization's trade practice program was rejected for the new season by distributors the M. P. T. O. A. might abandon its policy of round table discussions of industry problems for one of legislation and litigation. Kuykendall is now at his Columbus, Miss., home and is not expected back here before August at the earliest.

The London Branch is negotiating with A. W. Jarratt of Gaumont British and John Maxwell of Associated British Pictures to obtain an exact definition of a "West End" theatre, entitled to run London pre-release. The extension of the number of advance runs is an old grievance of London exhibitors.

The Ass'n of Cine Technicians has registered a formal protest against the statements of Lord Tyrrell of Avon, president of the British Board of Film Censors, in regard to the undesirability of political material being included in films. In his discussion of the matter at the Eastbourne summer conference of the C. E. A. Lord Tyrrell said such subjects are unsuitable for pictures. Other exhibitor speakers supported his statement.

However, the A. C. T. protested, declaring: "The elimination of every controversial question deprives the cinema of the possibility of playing any useful part in the life of the nation. . . . The underlying assumption that British audiences are incapable of witnessing material with which they disagree, without riot, is an insult to the British people."

All-Continent Corp. Is Called "Fiction"

Eva Fox, refused to open the All-Continent books to inspection except on the basis of what Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle called a barter. Judge Cole asked that Steedle first decide on the validity of the various claims. Steedle refused, declaring, "The course you suggest would delay administration of the estate a year." He added that "It takes no fortune teller to tell that my decision either way will be appealed and reviewed."

During the afternoon creditors' lawyers dug out bits of All-Continent records by a piecemeal process, by having Bookkeeper Herbert Leitsteen read and interpret entries dealing with William Fox affairs. Frederick W. Pride of Hughes, Schurman and Dwight, New York, argued to open to questioning all All-Continent books, and submitted legal precedents.

He said, "Here we have a corporation that received all its assets from the bankrupt, and we have a right to inquire into all the corporation transactions with these funds. It will be earnestly contended that the transfer of securities to All-Continent was a fraudulent conveyance." Steedle considered this, stuck for the present to his original refusal, but consented to hear arguments on the point tomorrow.

Tomorrow also the books of Consolidated Biological Products and Transient Garage, New York, which are All-Continent subsidiaries, are to be produced, with photostats of certain entries selected today in the All-Continent ledger.

William Fox has been subpoenaed to appear tomorrow for questioning.

Under the arrangement Brandt will get 21-year leases on theatres to which Belle holds the fee. Where Belle operates houses under leases, Brandt will take over the leases.

In addition to this circuit, Brandt is reported practically set to acquire Sam Silver's Sutton, Edison and Dykman. However, this deal may be held up until the Belle transaction is out of the way.

Two theatres will be built by Brandt within the next few months. One will be a 1,000-seat house at Teaneck, the other will seat 1,400 and will be located at University Ave. in the Bronx.

"Francisco" Hits Record In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, July 14.—"San Francisco" grossed $27,000 last week at Loew's State, thereby setting up a new gross record for straight pictures and an attendance record of 72,000 people in spite of continued excessive heat. Average weekly business at the State is $12,000. The picture was held a second week, thereby breaking a policy record of 15 years' standing.

"The King Steps Out" made an excellent showing at the Alvin, going to $9,500, up by $5,000. "Let's Sing Again" pulled an excellent $17,500 at the Stanley, helped by a stage show.

LOUISVILLE, July 14.—"San Francisco" at Loew's State continued to be a winner for a second week, the gross hitting $7,000, above normal by $1,500.

"White Angel," the only single feature among the first-runs, had a profitable week at the Mary Anderson, the take going to $4,000, over average by $500. It was held over. Norris Again Heads Quebec Association

MONTREAL, July 14.—B. E. Norris, president of Associated Screen News, Ltd., has been elected president of the Quebec Allied Theatrical Industries. D. A. Burpee was reelected secretary at the annual meeting.

A large representation of exhibitors at the session discussed taxation, following the disclosure that levies from Federal, provincial and municipal sources absorbed as high as 35 per cent of gross receipts. A further campaign against increasing taxes will be pursued, it was decided.

Regret was expressed that no progress had been made during the past year in the securing of any revision in the provincial law which prohibits the admission of any child under 16 years of age from any place of amusement where a film is presented. It was pointed out that the standard of films had been raised in recent years, that there were many productions suited to children's tastes and educational as well, yet no juvenile can attend a screening. The effort to secure a reduction in the age restriction will be renewed in view of the fact that a new cabinet will be in power following the provincial elections in August which are a sequel to the retirement of L. A. Taschereau as Government leader after many years.

It belongs to JOHN P. EXHIBITOR and it's headed for M-G-M's DOTTED LINE!

Even without "SAN FRANCISCO" it was a foregone conclusion that M-G-M in 1936-37 was the intelligent buy. "SAN FRANCISCO", in midsummer actually outgrossing "Mutiny On The Bounty," settles the matter definitely for thousands of showmen. There is no secret in the trade about the success of M-G-M productions. M-G-M makes BIG HITS because it shoots the bankroll, takes chances, puts heavy dough on big-winning possibilities. The M-G-M Studio is clicking with a success-stride unprecedented in history! BIG current-season productions are still to follow "San Francisco" this hot summer! Many of the BIG BUDGET HITS of the NEW SEASON are completed. A landslide for M-G-M in 1936-37! We think so. And we feel, with pardonable pride, that it's justified!

"Romeo and Juliet"

An Outstanding Film

Hollywood, July 15.—Analyzed from any standpoint, this M-G-M production of "Romeo and Juliet" emerges as one of the outstanding entertainment and exploitation values ever to come to the screen.

Shareholders To See Report From Kennedy

Griffis Is Opposed to Its Publication

Paramount will comply with Joseph P. Kennedy's request that his reports on the company be made available to Paramount security holders, it was stated yesterday by Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee.

The reports may be inspected by interested stockholders at the company's offices, but will not be made public through the press, Griffis said. He explained that because the reports referred to the internal affairs of the company the board did not favor publicizing them.

"However," Griffis remarked, "there is nothing of much interest in them. In fact, they are quite dull."

In a letter made public on Tuesday Kennedy asked the board to distribute copies of his report to security holders of the company "in order to correct an impression that recommendations contained in the reports may be the basis of Paramount policies."

A similar letter was sent by Kennedy to the Paramount board and contained, in addition to the request to make the reports available, a reference to the compensation which has

Benas Gives a Talk On M-G-M Policies

John Benas, film buyer for the Rosenblatt-Welt circuit, yesterday discussed M-G-M's flexible sales policy before the I. T. O. A. membership at the Astor. The product analysis followed the announcement of the merger of the unit with the T. O. C. C.

Benas said: "William F. Rodgers, general sales manager of M-G-M, has guaranteed that in case the 30 specials are not as big as expected individual pictures as well as contracts will be readjusted."

The independent circuit buyer further told the exhibitors that of the 30 specials, theatre owners will have the choice of buying them on one of two plans. The first plan provides a percentage arrangement for the entire group with the balance of 14-22 on a flat basis. The second arrangement calls for a minimum of four pictures at 40 per cent and the balance of 36-48 on flat contracts.

The 30 percentage pictures are broken down into four groups. In the first list, four pictures at 40 per cent, six at 35 per cent, six at 30 per cent and 14 at 25 per cent.

Belle Theatres Not To Be Sold—Steiner

"Nobody is buying the Belle Theatre circuit and any stories to the contrary are untrue," Charles Steiner, vice-president of the 12 East Side houses, stated yesterday in denying reports Harry Brandt, head of the I. T. O. A., had concluded arrangements to take over the circuit on Aug. 1.

Referring to the reported agreement Brandt would advance $55,000 toward the payment of Max Steuer's fee in the recent RKO case, Steiner said that a judgment had never been handed down. He added that the payment of $100,000 to Steuer as a fee was only a referee's report to the court which had not confirmed the recommendation.

Stay Is Denied Cahler

Justice Louis A. Valente in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday denied a motion for a temporary injunction made by Wood Cahler, novelist and playwright, in connection with his suit against Paramount Pictures, Inc., in which it is charged that the defendant infringed upon his 1927 copyright of a novel, "Early to Bed." Paramount denies the charges and claims the title "Early to Bed" has not attained a significance whereby it has become exclusively associated with the plaintiff's work.

Where Heat Is Heat

Kansas City, July 15.—The Motion Picture Daily story July 11 about heat closing several New York exchanges after two or three days of hot weather drew a laugh from people on Film Row here.

"Can't they take it in New York?" exchangemen asked after 20 days of 100 to 110-degree temperatures.

Claim Fox Got Back All-Continent Fund

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 15.—Testimony today of Herbert Leitsteen, veteran Fox family bookkeeper, in the William Fox bankruptcy hearing in progress here showed that more than $6,000,000 of securities formerly owned by Fox and sold in December, 1930, to All-Continent Corp. by the swift rotation of a borrowed million dollars, came right back to his vault within a few days.

The testimony showed also that only Fox had access to that vault for at least the next two years, the vault being in his name until April 11, 1935, after which the rent for it was paid by All-Continent Corp. Final cancellation of the vault on April 11, 1936, was by a letter from William Fox to the Chemical National Bank.

Murry C. Becker, of New York, of counsel for Fox, conceded for the record today that the securities "were never transferred to Mrs. Fox as trustee on the stock books of All-Continent Corp." but insisted that while "they still stand in the name of William Fox on the record, she holds the certificates."

Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle, in ruling on various objections, twice today said that "it may develop" that the securities actually continued to belong to Fox.

While creditors' counsel established that the $6,000,000 was returned to the William Fox vault after its supposed sale to All-Continent Corp., they did not today reach the point of showing how long the fortune then stayed there, or whether it is still in the possession of Fox himself. The questioning tomorrow is expected to attack that point.

Fox, personally, has been excused from appearing for questioning until next Tuesday.

Pick Groups For Merging TOCC-ITOA

New York and if not for these things the unaffiliated theatre man could not exist.

"I have always looked upon him," Brandt added, "as the saviour of the independent exhibitor. He has always given to the business more than he has received."

"This week I celebrate my 20th anniversary of activity in exhibitor organization work," O'Reilly said as he took the floor. "The great exhibitor interest in the metropolitan territory cannot survive the repeated attacks if there is a division of exhibitor organization," he said.

"Today, we no longer fight with individuals, or as individuals, but we are fighting with well organized groups. If you do not have a well-knit organization in this territory, no matter how financially situated you are, it will prove costly in the end."

Referring to the NRA and the close cooperation of independent exhibitor members of the Code Authority, O'Reilly asserted: "Both Nathan Yamins and myself never differed once on any question, either as to case or principal. Yamins is as straight and as far-seeing a man as I have ever met.

Calls for Single Group

"The time has come," O'Reilly continued, "for setting up one solidified organization in this territory. The organizations, meaning the I. T. O. A. and T. O. C. C., have not done so badly for you in warding off inimical legislation and getting changes in the law for the betterment of theatre operation." The T. O. C. C. head pointed to the passage of the Stand Law, providing for the admission of children under 16 without guardians. He stated that the major circuits also played an important part in getting the law passed.

Taking issue with Brandt on the latter's statement that he, O'Reilly, had not received as much as he had put into organization work, the T. O. C. C. president asserted that while this is true in a monetary sense, "I have made more friends than money can buy."

Will Accept Director Post

O'Reilly added that because of the time required for his candy business he would not be able to serve on any committee, although he would accept a post on the board of directors. He left last night for Fort Worth, Tex., and may return to New York in 10 days.

"If our long acquaintainceship means anything, give this new effort everything you've got," O'Reilly urged. Don't let little matters stand in the way of the work that it is to be done, he urged. "You are the exhibitor capital of the world," he said, "and what you do will be reflected in every independent exhibitor organization in the world.

"When I come back, I hope there will be one organization, one head and one headquarters."

Another paean of praise was showered on the T. O. C. C. after he concluded his talk by Brandt. "If I know O'Reilly as I think I do, he will never quit organization work.

"You are as free from independent organization as I am from my theatres, your glasses, your wife and your candy business," Brandt stated. "I look forward to the future when I can count on your counsel."

Brandt predicted great things for the combined units and emphasized the need for fighting forces outside of the industry and not within.

About 60 attended the session, among whom were Laurence Bolognino, Leon Rosenblatt, John Benas, Leo Brecher, Lesser, Max Cohen, Geller, Edmund Mantell, Barr, John Manheimer, Melvin Albert, Edward Rugoff, Herman Becker, Hyman Rachmil, Fleischman, Louis Shiffman, Jack Hattem, Tom Murray and Dave Weinstock.

Cagney No Flyer

James Cagney, who contributed a fine performance in the role of an aviator in "Ceiling Zero," admits he's never been up in a plane in his life. Cagney will leave for Hollywood next week to start work in his first Grand National picture and refuses to take the sky trip.

erties for the former Warner star. A decision on the first Grand National vehicle will be made in a week, when Cagney leaves the east for the local studios.

Lindsley Parsons is expected to join Grand National as western publicity head. Edward Finney, who is due from New York tomorrow, is understood to be coming here to sign Parsons. Finney, Alperson and Leserman will return east next week.

Winn Lines Up Staff For Grand National

James Winn, midwest division head for Grand National, is lining up a number of exchanges and designating branch heads in his territories. This is in line with the company's plans to organize a nationwide distribution setup before Labor Day.

William Sharten, who has been on the Universal sales force in Minneapolis, is now Detroit exchange head for Grand National.

Lou Levy, who, during the past few years, served as a salesman for M-G-M, has been made local exchange head for Grand National and Gilley Welles has been made a salesman.

Davidson Gets New Post

Des Moines, July 15.—Evert R. Cummings, Nebraska district manager for Tri-States, has appointed Lloyd E. Davidson, formerly manager of the Capitol in Sioux City, as city manager of the eight Tri-States theatres in Sioux City.

Don Shane will be house manager of the Capitol.

Otterson Vacates Paramount Office

lich, on whose counsel the former Paramount president has continued to report daily at his offices despite the fact that he was not reelected to the company's board of directors at the annual meeting June 16, that his salary was discontinued as of July 1 and that Barney Balaban was elected to the Paramount presidency July 2. Otterson's procedure, obviously, was to comply with his contract until a final breach had been committed by the company.

Despite the termination of the contract and Otterson's vacating of his Paramount offices no legal action is being taken by Otterson's attorneys pending the outcome of negotiations for the settlement of the remaining four-year portion of his contract. Although no agreement on a settlement appears to be imminent at the moment, the discussions are being continued and until they have been definitely abandoned no legal action will be instituted. The Paramount board recently designated Stanton Griffis, Harvey D. Gibson and Harry O. King, directors, to attempt to effect a settlement of Otterson's pact and the three have met several times with Otterson's attorneys during the past few days.

Charles Schwartz, of counsel to Otterson, returned from the coast yesterday where he attended a series of United Artists sales and board meetings. On his arrival here Schwartz conferred with Otterson at once and stated later that he regarded the former Paramount's president's contract as "a valid one" and said that he was confident it would be "fully upheld in any court." Schwartz said that he has advised Otterson to "stand on the merits of the contract."

on the amount of money taken in during the drive. Circuit heads also took into consideration the efforts of the individual managers, cleanliness of theatres, advertising, exploitation, benefits and other tieups.

Another drive will be held in the fall. It will last 13 weeks, starting the first in September and winding up Dec. 4.

Appelgate and the nine other managers yesterday were presented the cash awards at the quarterly meeting of the circuit men at the Astor. Edward L. Hyman, general manager, presided. Fred Schwartz, son of A. H., and Charles Moses, film buyer, also attended. About 35 managers and assistants were on hand.

"Francisco" Ohio Smash

Columbus, July 15.—"San Francisco," now in its second week at Loew's Ohio, where holdovers are a rarity, not only broke attendance records for the first week, but also reached a new high for the first four days of the holdover.

At Dayton, O. the picture is in its third week at Loew's, where the attendance record likewise has been shattered.

Shareholders To See Report From Kennedy

been authorized for Kennedy's work as special adviser to Paramount.

Griffis indicated that discussion of the letter was unwelcome and discouraged further questioning concerning it with the declaration that "Paramount is back in an unusual business for it—the motion picture business. The company is out of politics now."

Kennedy's own position on making public his reports has been that they are the property of Paramount and their contents can be divulged only by the company.

It is understood that Kennedy's letter, which arrived at Paramount too late on Tuesday for the board to consider fully, will be given further consideration at a special board meeting to be called in advance of the regular monthly meeting of July 30.

May Decline Compensation

Griffis confirmed the fact that a $50,000 fee, plus $5,000 expenses, had been authorized for Kennedy for his two months' services and that compensation amounting to $25,000 had been authorized for his assistants, as reported in Motion Picture Daily of July 7. It was learned authoritatively, however, that while Kennedy has accepted the $5,000 for expenses, he has not yet accepted the $50,000 fee. It has been reported in circles close to Kennedy that the former S. E. C. head, for various reasons, both diplomatic and ethical, might deem it advisable to decline any compensation for his Paramount work. It is believed that some suggestion of this may have been contained in his letter of Tuesday to the company's board. Kennedy is now at his Cape Cod summer home, but is expected here some time next week when, it is believed, his final decision on accepting or declining compensation will be made known to Paramount.

Associates Paid

Kennedy's associates have accepted their remuneration. They and the amounts paid to each are C. J. Scollard, $3,500; John J. Ford, $1,500; Arthur B. Poole, $3,500; Isidore J. Kresel, attorney, $2,000; James A. Fayne, $10,000; Joseph R. Sheehan, $2,000, and L. P. Ordway, $2,000.

Scollard and Poole were former associates of Kennedy in Pathe. Scollard reported on Paramount's domestic and foreign distribution, eastern and foreign production and the newsreel. Poole aided on financial aspects of the reports. Ford, who is general manager of the Maine & New Hampshire Circuit, which has operating affiliations with Paramount theatre subsidiaries, reported on Paramount theatre operations. Fayne and Sheehan were former S. E. C. associates of Kennedy and, with Ordway, assisted with the financial phases of the reports. Kennedy himself devoted most of his time to a survey of Paramount production in Hollywood.

The Kennedy reports were referred to a special committee, but no action on them has been taken.

American Pictures Gain 50% in Greece

shown, making the 1935-36 screenings 20.5 per cent greater.

Seventy-two per cent of all films exhibited in Greece during the past season were American, compared with 58 per cent for the 1934-35 season. German participation declined from 21 per cent (57 films) in the 1934-35 season to 13 per cent (43 films) during the 1935-36 season.

A decline also was shown by French films which dropped from a 14 per cent share of total billings (37 films) in 1934-35 to a little over 10 per cent (32 films) in 1935-36.

Most of the American features exhibited during the past season were French versions dubbed in the European studios of the larger producers. A majority of action and western pictures, released through the so-called popular theatres, were original prints in English. In both cases a resume of the French or English dialogue is projected in Greek on a small separate screen close to that of the picture.

The increase in showings in Greece during the past season was chiefly due to the absence of any import quota or exchange restrictions on films from abroad. On the other hand, the increase in the number of American films is attributed by exhibitors to the paucity of good productions in Europe and to a closer adaptation of American films to the European standards of taste.

"Romeo and Juliet"

above the juvenile audience level. For the erudite audience it offers that beauty of fine artistry which should be found wholly charming, while for that average segment of the screen public which ordinarily turns from anything which savors of the highly artistic, there has been concocted much which is stirring, and occasionally thrilling, action.

The picture has been magnificently produced, the settings and effects complete and authentic in every respect, and appearing as masterpieces of the art of scenic creation. The musical background is notable for the manner in which it is at all times wholly appropriate to the changing moods of the picture's dramatic and romantic subject matter.

The dialogue throughout as well as the action give every indication of the time, effort and expense which obviously went into a sincere endeavor to make the picture an intriguing piece of screen fare for every theatre-goer. There is apparent in the production the high standard which was set for it, and that standard has been reached.

Basically romantic melodrama with the sheen of what is probably the world's most notable piece of writing of a love story surrounding it, the film tells its poignant story, holding faithfully to the tradition of its immortal original. It is intimate, but done with dignity, its quality calculated to appeal to the sympathetic emotions of the audience. The story is human and real.

The famous characers are brilliantly interpreted by Norma Shearer, Leslie Howard and the entire cast, who bring the maximum in appealing performance to the story.

Of the many outstanding romantic sequences, five are especially notable: the first meeting in an atmosphere of elaborate pageantry, the famous balcony scene, the marriage chamber episode, Juliet's soliloquy as she contemplates the sleeping potion on learning of Romeo's exile, and the memorable incident in the tomb.

The drama is based on the menacing hatred of each other borne by two powerful families, which contrasts sharply with the beauty of the love story. The thrill action is highlighted by wild gang fights and rapier duels. John Barrymore as the roistering but heroic Mercutio, and Basil Rathbone as the ruthless and proud Tybalt bring to the film a tension which should satisfy the most avid seeker after thrill. The death of Mercutio by the sword of Tybalt, which is in turn avenged by Romeo, develop sequences in which the melodramatic action reaches its peak. Outstanding is the scene of Romeo's death duel with Paris, played by Ralph Forbes, in the lovers' tomb.

The pathos and drama of the story are most ably portrayed by Miss Shearer and Howard; C. Aubrey Smith and Violet Kemble Cooper, as Juliet's parents; Edna May Oliver as the nurse, and Henry Kolker as the Friar Laurence.

From the standpoint of the showman in selling the picture, there is the obvious strength of the story, than which there are few so universally known. For centuries it has been one of the most vital properties of the legitimate stage.

The present screen play seems destined to add new significance to the tradition. In the important roles it presents players of unquestioned prestige and name value. The film inevitably will benefit by discussion in the press and elsewhere in advance of and immediately following its initial showings.

Showmanship should take into account that the picture, although based on a work of Shakespeare, with its implications, has nonetheless, in its film form, much to appeal to the average audience. Its basic ingredients are universal in their appeal, and that fact should be capitalized by the exhibitor.

which completely prevents any possibility of getting even a part of the money out of the country, it was said. has so reduced the supply of pictures that leading first run theatres in Berlin are showing inferior films and other houses are reviving old ones.

Reports to the department from its Berlin office stated that there is a possibility that some of the large first run houses will be forced to close in the near future, and the view was expressed that such a situation might lead to a relaxation in the restrictive policy now being pursued toward American films.

The Warner legal department which filed the suits following the withdrawal of the Warner music companies from Ascap last January declined to comment on the reasons for the discontinuance of the suits of the number of actions involved. It also declined to state whether or not the development had anything to do with current discussions concerning the return of the Warner companies to the Ascap fold.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Rhythm on the Range"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, July 15.—Here is probably Bing Crosby's best work to date; certainly his fans will like it better than anything he has done in a long time and should also go for the two new screen personalities introduced in handsome style for the film's comedy.

Frances Farmer, an heiress who wishes to avoid a loveless wedding, hears some straight talk on the subject from Lucille Gleason, who is staging a rodeo at Madison Square Garden. Miss Farmer escapes the nuptials by running away and, in a box car, meets Crosby, who is transporting a prize bull which he has bought with money earned by his singing and steer busting. Crosby thinks she is in some trouble and helps her on her way. True love is blighted momentarily when the proud Bing discovers that his escort is an heiress, but the pioneer spirit prevails after a couple of songs.

Bob Burns, with his bazooka, scores heavily in his first screen role. Martha Raye introduces a new individual style of rowdy clowning which marks her as a favorite in the cast from her first appearance. Crosby has good routine in seven songs with clever lyrics contributed by an accomplished group of songwriters. The cast also includes such competent players as Samuel Hinds, Warren Hymer, George E. Stone, James Burke, Martha Sleeper, Clem Bevans, Leonid Kinsky and Charles Williams.

Norman Taurog directed and Benjamin Glazer produced. The screen play is the joint work of Walter DeLeon, Francis Martin, John C. Moffitt and Sidney Salkow, who adapted an original story by Mervin J. Houser.

The best exploitation features are the new comics and the different type of Bing Crosby role. The radio popularity of the player should also draw audiences.

Looking 'Em Over

"Meet Nero Wolfe"

(Schulberg-Columbia)

From the fictional concoction of Rex Stout has been developed a new and delightful detective character for the screen, Nero Wolfe. If the title of this film indicates that others featuring him are to follow, an interested and eager film public would seem to be assured.

As Nero Wolfe, the crime sleuth, portrayed by Edward Arnold, he emerges as an entertaining, beer-imbibing, orchid-cultivating stay-at-home, who solves his mysteries entirely with his brain. His feet, his hands, his legs, his eyes are personified in Lionel Stander, whose performance wakens memories of the job he did in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," and whose screen stature will increase as a result of this portrayal. Wolfe is interested primarily in fees, and his amused and chuckling reactions to the anxiety of the suspects is in itself genuine entertainment.

A wealthy college president is killed mysteriously on the golf links, his death followed by that of a young man. The police think both were heart failure, until Wolfe, without leaving his home, and with Stander for the footwork, proves it is murder. At least six suspects and plenty of motivation hold the interest throughout, while the picture is dominated entirely by Arnold and Stander. Serious romance involves Victor Jory and Joan Perry, while Stander and Dennis Moore provide considerable amusement, with her insistent cry for a marriage date and his enthusiasm for his detective assisting. It is popular, entertaining fare throughout.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,212. Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

Film Quality at New Top, Allport Tells Institute

Charlottesville, Va., July 15.—Motion pictures today are of a higher quality, socially, morally and artistically than at any time in the history of the industry, it was said by F. W. Allport of the M.P.P.D.A., in the course of an address on "Motion Pictures and Public Opinion," delivered today at the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Virginia here.

Allport is head of the title registration bureau of the M.P.P.D.A., and spent a number of years previously in the U. S. Foreign Commerce Service as a trade commissioner and as commercial attache at Paris, Berlin, Brussels and the Hague.

All films, Allport declared, are divided into two great groups, those which influence public opinion deliberately, and those which influence it unintentionally, if at all.

Under the first classification, he grouped all films whose object is the imparting of information, such as educational films, using that word in its broad sense, and including the training of employes and the demonstration of improved technique in medicine, surgery or science, vocational films and the like.

Informational films, such as are used in commercial advertising, political campaigns and other propaganda pictures, Allport pointed out, are not ordinarily distributed through the routine channels of the film industry, and for the most part, classified as non-theatrical pictures, are not shown in the film theatres.

Entertainment Type Called Best

The pictures in the second group, Allport declared are designed primarily "to entertain—not to edify. Other considerations are subordinated to that of legitimate enjoyment."

The speaker outlined the methods of distribution of the industry product, and pointed out that however strong may be the influential ingredients of the informational type of film, the strictly entertainment picture probably will wield a greater influence on popular thought, "solely by virtue of mass impact."

Allport described the formation of the M.P.P.D.A. in 1922, emphasizing that the fundamental principle of the organization was—and is—self-regulation.

He pointed to the stress laid on the basic ingredient of films in the report of Will H. Hays at the conclusion of 10 years of the M.P.P.D.A., when he declared: "The function of motion pictures is to entertain. This we must keep before us at all times and we must realize constantly the futility of ever permitting our concern with social values to lead us into the realm of propaganda."

Alluding to that quotation from the Hays report, and referring to the basic principle of the organization, Allport declared: "The two statements may be said to epitomize the philosophy of the industry with respect to the bearing of motion picture entertainment on public opinion. It might be paraphrased as follows: To keep the entertainment screen open at all times to constructive social values and at all times closed to proselytism and prejudice."

"The screen as a whole," Allport said, "cannot desert mass for class entertainment. The average quality of the product is necessarily conditioned by the quality of the audience demand."

He pointed out that one of the principle objectives of the organized industry has been to persuade community leadership throughout the country to share the responsibility of raising the level of the demand.

Discusses Reviewing

Allport described the methods of review in Hollywood which have been devised and sponsored by representatives of leading civic, social and educational groups, and the manner in which their opinions and recommendations are distributed throughout the country to branches of the various organizations.

He gave credit to these and similar methods for enabling producers to adjust their output from year to year to a steadily rising level of popular taste and appreciation. He described and emphasized the importance of the work of the Production Code Administration and the Advertising Advisory Council.

The speaker pointed out the efforts to maintain complete impartiality in the product of the newsreels, with their large mass audience, and in all pictures, to guard against the danger of creating adverse opinions abroad.

He quoted Professor Moley who concluded that "there are more factors in the film situation that tend to the repression and elimination of crime than to the other side."

Allport declared that the solution to the social problems of the screen lies primarily in the continuing effort to make popular entertainment and quality entertainment synonymous.

In conclusion he declared that the industry "is receiving an increasing measure of support from those who have wisely turned their energies from fault-finding to active participation."

Marshall will direct and the musical numbers will be staged by Sammy Lee.

"Romeo" Roadshows Scheduled in Fall

M-G-M will roadshow "Romeo and Juliet" in the fall. A number of key cities already have been lined up. It is figured by home office executives that the Shakespearean play cost more than $2,000,000 to produce.

The Broadway premiere has not been set because M-G-M's lease on the Astor runs until the end of August. If the company can get an extension on the lease, it is likely the picture will open in New York around Sept. 1.

English Trade Board Studies Deal for G. B.

LONDON, July 16.—The Government declared today in the House of Commons that the Board of Trade has taken note of the suggestions that steps should be taken to prevent the acquisition by American interests of Gaumont British. The declaration was in reply to a question from the floor.

The Government spokesman referred to films as "a powerful means of propaganda."

Neither Joseph M. nor Nicholas M. Schenck could be reached for comment yesterday on the declaration in the House of Commons that the Board of Trade is taking note of the suggestion that steps be taken on the Gaumont British deal.

It is understood the deal for acquisition of Gaumont British control by Loew's and Twentieth Century-Fox has not yet been closed.

New World Staying At Pinewood Plant

LONDON, July 9.—Contradicting statements that future features of New World Prod. would be located at Pinewood studios at Iver, it is understood that New World's second British feature for Twentieth Century-Fox release, "Under the Red Robe," will be staged at Denham, where its first, "Wings of the Morning," is being made.

Stockholder Spends All Day Before Seeing an "Expurgated" Copy

The battle of Wall St. that has been waged behind the scenes of the Paramount situation resulted yesterday in the publication in the Wall Street Journal of the "secret" preliminary and final reports on the company made to the Paramount board by Joseph P. Kennedy.

The reports in substance, as forecast, are found to recommend the delivery of Paramount control from financiers and Wall St. to motion picture makers and showmen. Coincidentally with delivery of copies of the reports to the financial publication, but not necessarily significantly, Paramount preferred stock sold off three and one-half points on the N. Y. Stock Exchange on Wednesday and another one-half point yesterday.

The much-discussed $80,000 document on Paramount affairs includes the labors and findings of a group of investigators who served as assistants to Kennedy. They are Arthur B. Poole, former Pathe treasurer under Kennedy; Clinton J. Scollard, executive vice-president of Pathe

Ledger Changes Up At Hearing on Fox

ATLANTIC CITY, July 16.—An entire page of an All-Continent Corp. ledger devoted to the account of Mrs. Belle Schwartz was admitted in evidence here today in the bankruptcy hearing of her father, William Fox.

Creditors' attorneys considered this important in their task of tracing All-Continent transactions by extraction of scattered items.

Mrs. Fox and her two daughters, for whom Fox created and financed the corporation six years ago as a trust, have refused to allow inspection of its books while creditors are fighting to establish the contention that All-Continent is not a separate organization, but really a disguised Fox asset.

Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle ruled that "if ever a page in a third

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Aboard the Normandie

THE election of Barney Balaban to the presidency of Paramount, succeeding John E. Otterson, was relayed to Fred Lange, a passenger, by John W. Hicks, vice-president of Paramount International. It came as a surprise to us. With Adolph Zukor as board chairman, two practical film men now pilot the company's future course. New York is somewhere far behind the foaming wake, but, whether in mid-ocean or in mid-Gotham, this observation holds: That the financial interests in the company, having passed through plenty, but not nearly as much as the men who make up Paramount, can do no better than allow operation to stay with men who know the pitfalls and the ways out. . . .

Detail is lacking, but common sense deduction need not be. While we frankly surmise, the conclusion stacks up as obvious—certainly it should be at any rate—that Balaban's selection has the approval and, therefore, the support of the others of Paramount's theatre partners. Zukor in Hollywood gives the sorely buffeted organization an old-line film executive who knows the Mayers, the Thalbergs, the Schencks and the Zanucks on intimate terms and suggests very strongly the possibility, as well as the feasibility, of working out with them talent deals in criss-cross which should redound to Paramount's benefit. It is an old chestnut to point out again from a vantage point sufficiently removed to dodge rotten eggs that Paramount's troubles end when the product out of Hollywood begins to show power. Zukor, with an authoritative and free hand, can do the job. But the hand must be free. Balaban now takes on new and grave responsibilities on a larger plane than hitherto has been his. His record in Chicago demonstrates he has perspicacity and good judgment—vital attributes. . . .

Lange, general manager of the Continent for Paramount, will be back in Paris by the time this is printed. His trip to New York, the first in eighteen months, was for general conferences with Hicks. His post must be something. Operations confined to any one European country today with nationalism running in high, tax program and economic unrest, general dislike of Americans and, of course, their films, except that Hollywood is necessary to the conduct of the international show business are trying enough. Yet Lange has them all in Europe, aside from Great Britain. Perhaps, it's because he recognizes the complexities and the foibles of the various nationals with whom he deals that he takes his post in its stride. He knows his Frenchmen and their wines and that helped on this boat. . . .

In the glittering dining salon, as tiny as Grand Central Station, we spied Courtland Smith. Paris, Berlin and London beckon him on Pathe News business. There will also be a holiday in Sweden. When the Europa docks in New York early in September, Smith will be on board, the summer by that time behind him. Up on the boat deck later, his thoughts perhaps plucked from a slightly billowing sea and a cloud-flecked sky, Courtland, reminding himself that David Sarnoff's family is making this crossing, unburdened himself on television as have many others. . . .

"The greatest feeder the industry has ever known. The public will never sit through feature-length television programs and that, of course, means their appetite for motion pictures will be further whetted. It will also mean, I think, the application of real color, for obviously the industry will have to step one step beyond black and white television. When I was a boy, geographies were predominantly text and not illustration. Today, it is the reverse and the percentage appears to be growing. Think of what that alone means in further making children picture-conscious and how that will have its effect on the further enhanced power of motion pictures." . . .

This pride and joy of La Belle France with its General Electric turbines, Eureka vacuum cleaners, Frigidaires and British propellers, also has a theatre. A very handsome affair with Music Hall type seats and good projection, its daily programs have varied between Hollywood and Paris. We saw "Poor Little Rich Girl" one afternoon. That is, we saw all we could take, then left for the broad decks and sea air reflecting that Darryl Zanuck ought to do something about the vehicles the quite miraculous Shirley Temple is assigned. It would be difficult, we recognize, to easily match Shirley's talents and her unaffected charm. Yet, her huge box-office draw should be safeguarded at all costs and protected against any danger of premature dissipation. "Poor Little Rich Girl" fails to help her. . . .

Business along Broadway durin the last seven days was about norma for this time of the year. "The Brid Walks Out" at the Music Hal garnered $65,000. "The Green Pastures" opened there yesterday for a minimum two-week run.

"Fata Lady" at the Roxy fared indifferently winding up the week's booking las night with less than $20,000. Th Rivoli, on the second stanza of " Stand Condemned," tallied $4,500.

"High Tension" and "Two Agains the World" at the Palace were weal at $5,000. The Rialto with "Forgotten Faces" ended with $5,500. Th Strand grossed around $15,000 for th first week of "Public Enemy's Wife."

Wall Street Gets Kennedy Para. Report

under Kennedy; John J. Ford, general manager of Maine & New Hampshire Circuit; James A. Fayne and Joseph R. Sheehan, former associates of Kennedy in the Securities and Exchange Commission; Lucius P. Ordway, investment banker, and Isidore J. Kresel, financial attorney.

Kennedy's preliminary document on the affairs of Paramount was submitted to the company's board on June 12 and his final report on July 2, and was ostensibly condemned to die in obscurity. On July 14 Kennedy, as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY, requested the Paramount board to make public the report, which directors and high officials of the company appeared reluctant to do. Stanton Griffis, of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., investment bankers, who is chairman of the Paramount executive committee, declared that the report would not be released to the press, but that it would be available to stockholders for examination at the company's offices.

Stockholder Seeks Inspection

A stockholder who asked that his name be withheld spent the better part of Thursday in an effort to examine the report at the Paramount offices after reading Griffis's statement in the press. The stockholder went first to the office of Norman Collyer, assistant secretary, with his request, and was referred to the general counsel and secretary, Austin C. Keough. At the latter's office he was told that Keough was "out" and it was uncertain when he would return, but it was suggested to the stockholder that he call again in the afternoon. He called about 2:30 o'clock, waited 30 minutes to present his request to Keough and was told to return at 4 o'clock when an expurgated version of the report would be shown him.

"There are some things in it," Keough told the stockholder, "that we wouldn't disclose to any outsider. No, they are not in the version of the report printed in the Wall Street Journal. There are two or three subjects which we regard as important which are not in that story," the stockholder quoted Keough as saying.

"Come Back at Five O'clock"

Returning at 4 o'clock, the persistent stockholder's quest was again deferred. He was asked to return at 5 o'clock, at which time he would be permitted to read the expurgated versions of the two reports.

Meanwhile, the caller visited Griffis' office and repeated his request there. He was told that Griffis was "out on his boat," hadn't been in all day and wasn't expected, also that he had left no authorization for anyone in his office to furnish copies of the reports.

Finally, when the stockholder was given a copy of the report at Keough's office a little after 5:00, careful scrutiny revealed it to be not the complete document but substantially what had been published in the Wall Street Journal that morning.

In addition to that published, however, the following was found in the report offered by the company:

"Deplorable as the situation is, I believe Paramount's problems can be solved, provided only that the management directorate will face facts. Paramount's problem is one of manpower and morale. Lack of confidence in those now directing the affairs of your company makes it impossible to obtain suitable manpower and destroys the morale of those working for it. I am not so much concerned with the question of whether this lack of confidence is justified as I am in the knowledge that it exists. While it does exist no progress can be made toward establishing operations on a profitable basis.

Ask Power for Auditor

"Certain activities carried on in the home office are subject to comment. The News accountant, the Astoria laboratory accountant and the domestic branch auditor appear to be less under the direction of the respective operating officials. Here, also, if accounting is desired which is free from possible bias, the authority of the general auditor should be strengthened and clarified.

"It is felt that operating expenses as a whole should be studied and a careful control be put into effect. It is impossible to suggest any direct method of reducing expenses without a completed study with the thought in mind of revamping various situations to attain the necessary results in a more economical way."

Discussing the newsreel situation in his supplemental report, Kennedy adds:

"Because the foreign reels were established for the foreign department sales purposes, because the foreign department is willing to assume the burden of operating them, because the recent study has convinced the foreign department that the foreign reels can be produced and distributed without loss, and because the foreign department is well equipped in personnel to direct the reels, it would seem that the entire foreign newsreel operation should be placed in the foreign department."

Recommends Newsreel Cut

Kennedy recommends a cut in the number of newsreel prints in the domestic market, stating that recent efforts in Boston and New York have effected annual savings of $16,000. He also suggests placing the newsreel under a short subject sales manager whose sole duty is to watch and control bookings.

The branch managers are not overpaid, Kennedy says in commenting on exchange operations. He also holds that the newsreel staff is doing a good job and he is in favor of keeping the reel in competition to the other companies without the formation of an Associated Press of newsreels.

The mimeographed report runs 25 pages. The supplemental report of July 2 contains about six pages and encompasses the theatre situation, foreign surveys and newsreel surveys.

In commenting on the three paragraphs omitted, Austin C. Keough, general counsel of Paramount, stated that the figures contained therein are "purely confidential" and that the "contracts referred to are personal and private."

In addition to hitting at the domination of Paramount by non-industry men, the Kennedy reports as published in Wall Street Journal score the company's studio operations at some length; costly production mistakes are enumerated; notice is taken of the political factions which existed on the company's board of directors and resignations of the "irreconcilables" on that body are recommended; "drastic and courageous revision of management is called for"; the election to the presidency of the company of a man of outstanding reputation in the industry is recommended and the appointment of a chief of production "who is in sympathy with the president" to headquarter in Hollywood and be free of New York interference is asked.

Criticism Throughout

Sharp criticism or outright pessimism runs in a steady stream through the entire document with a single interruption only during Kennedy's comment on theatre operations. Leading off with observations on non-showman control of the company, the report follows:

"With quality business men at the helm and on the directorate for a year, starting with $20,000,000 cash and no current obligations pressing, the company is at a crisis," says Kennedy. "So that it would seem that Paramount's present problems cannot be solved by merely condemning the practices of picture industry and calling in big business.

"The fact is that Paramount's problem must be solved outside of New York. It must be solved in 'production' unhampered by New York. That is where the overcosts arise—that is whence 'big money' pictures must come. Other companies derive profits consistently from production and therefore the task is not insuperable, even if the trick is not easy.

"Finest Producers Needed"

"'Thalbergs' and 'Zanucks' cannot be bought or manufactured. Such artists are 'born' few and far between. If lucky, Paramount may discover a sure-fire money making producer, but while waiting for such a miracle, some ordinary methods of improving conditions may be profitably considered."

A summary of Kennedy's findings follows:

(a) Major failure in recent studio operations are: (1) Loss on 1935-36 feature pictures; (2) Lack of progress on the 1936-37 feature pictures program.

(b) Causes of these failures are: (1) Adding to the original 1935-36 studio production program without due consideration of the result. (2) Large expenditures on stories, scenarios and artists' salaries subsequently written off. (3) Extravagance in completing acceptable scenarios. (4) Failure to prepare scripts, final cost estimates and shooting schedules on time. (5)

Kennedy Asks Long List of Para. Reforms

Failure to keep shooting schedules; extravagance in "takes." (6) Excessive charge for combined New York production department and New York administrative expense. (7) Excessive total studio overhead expense. (8) Unfortunate experience with producers and directors. (9) Ineptitude in dealing with stars and production problems. (10) Defects in organization. (11) Influence of board of directors on studio operation.

(c) Other studio items calling for comment: (1) "Back Lot" and accounting departments are functioning well. (2) General studio reputation and artists' contract list have strength. (3) There is no trend toward improvement of the conditions noted under "b" above. (4) Forward commitments on personnel.

(d) Conclusion: Drastic and courageous revision of management is called for.

Discusses Financial Statement

The report continues:

"The Paramount's earnings statement for the first quarter of 1936 furnishes a convenient starting point of discussions since it is comparable with the statements of the other major units.

"It shows a nominal 'bookkeeping' profit figure. Earnings of approximately $781,000 are shown before interest and administrative charges, plus a small contingency reserve. After such charges, which are necessary charges against income, a deficit of $81,078 results, which deficit is avoided in the final showing by transferring to profit and loss surplus account $800,000 out of a special inventory reserve of $2,500,000 appropriated by the directors as of December 28, 1935. This transfer, minus the $81,000 deficit above referred to, makes possible the addition to profit and loss of $718,000, the amount actually reported as net income.

Points to Operating Profit

"Incidentally, it is interesting to note that this operating deficit resulted in spite of the fact that the theatres division earned, after interest, taxes, depreciation and subsidiary dividend charges, a net profit of $1,073,000.

"The showing makes inevitable the conclusion that Paramount's management which took over the affairs of the reorganized company less than a year ago has never succeeded in getting started during a period when other companies have made ample profits. In consequence, the rigid charges incident to a large scale business operation, threaten to eat into Paramount's capital before earning power can be re-established.

"Fortunately the record shows that we can count upon prosperity in our industry whenever there is prosperity in general business. The fortunes of the film business have varied in the

Management of Studio Criticized

Para. Can Be Made Strong, Says Kennedy

same degree and direction as the fortunes of general business.

"The highest average weekly attendance in the moving picture theatres of the country was 110,000,000 reached during the fourth quarter of 1929, with receipts estimated at about $21,000,000.

"Motion picture attendance fell off steadily from late 1929 until the fourth quarter of 1933 from 110,000,000 weekly average to 60,000,000, with receipts declining from approximately $21,000,000 to $11,000,000.

"Thus, while general business was declining 44 per cent during the depression, gross business of the moving picture industry, as measured by attendance at theatres, declined 45 per cent, and receipts fell off 47½ per cent. Similarly, as to recovery; general business is up 58 per cent from the low, and movie attendance is up over 51 per cent, although receipts, due to lower admission prices, have been limited in recovery to 40 per cent.

Asks Operating Improvements

"Altering operating conditions is suggested with a view to bettering the ratio of operating expenses to gross receipts as a necessary precedent to increased future profits. Certainly there is ample room for improvement because results could hardly be worse, and experimenting cannot do much harm. Meanwhile, the fact that less than half the expenses of the picture industry is represented by 'fixed' items, leaves a long list of items in which some real reductions seem possible.

"It is estimated that 18¾ cents of every dollar spent is for rent and like charges; another 28 cents for repairs, lighting maintenance, etc. The remaining 63 cents is used in actual cost of film production and distribution. Salaries of actors, directors and cameramen constitute 40 per cent of production cost. Studio overhead is the next largest item, averaging 20 per cent to 35 per cent of production expense. Cost of distribution is relatively small and offers little chance of savings.

Treats Subject of Salaries

"Salaries and studio overhead, then, offer the only real hope of savings on picture costs and while everyone begins by saying these cannot be cut, the chief reason usually given is that acttors will not stand for cuts and that the industry is being strangled by the death hand clutch which the actors' agents have upon the producer. This matter, however, is also one affecting every unit alike and is not the particular problem of any one unit. But when every allowance for agents is made, it still remains true that 19 cents out of every dollar of expense now goes to executives for salaries—to people not directly engaged in the actual work of production and distribution, a factor which brings studio overhead to an actual 35 per cent-45 per cent instead of the theoretical 35 per cent claimed.

"It is doubtful if executives can justify their salaries but it is certain that the salaries paid to actors are paid to compensate for peculiar talents which cannot be recruited at will or pleasure. Furthermore such salaries are not 'permanent' as the indirect labor costs of executives are, and they bear at least some relation to box-office receipts. The value of executive efforts cannot be easily appraised. Therefore, the suggestion is here made that Paramount give some thought to adopting the salary-bonus basis of compensation so happily employed in the motor industry; nominal fixed salaries to executives plus bonus payments when and if net earnings exceed certain agreed upon totals.

Calls Unionizing "Unfortunate"

"It is unfortunate that the 'talent' of the industry is organized and in consequence the actors and producers, writers, et al, are strengthened in their salary grabbing methods. Meanwhile, disunion, distrust and competition pervades management. As long as there is intense and uncontrollable competition among the executives of various companies for the services of the 'artists' of the industry, so long will all talk of lower salary scales remain mere pious gestures.

"There is no settled, dependable practice concerning film production costs and budgetary intentions to the countrary, probably never can be. Ever since the picture, 'Four Horsement,' booked over $4,000,000, producers have justified growing costs of making pictures by trying for another 'Horsemen.' Usually, and almost inevitably, they are doomed to failure but every once in a while a company picture 'rings the bell' with a 'House of Rothschild' or 'The Great Ziegfeld,' the pace of spending becomes furious and all budgets are disregarded. Recently Paramount's president returned from Hollywood with the announcement that thereafter all productions would have to be confined to budgetary estimates of around $500,000, and immediately impartial critics of the industry say maybe that is why the 'Ziegfeld' film which cost MGM $1,800,000, is packing houses at top prices while Paramount cannot earn its expenses. And MGM indicates $2,100,000 for 'Romeo,' and $3,000,000 for 'Good Earth.'!

Decries Financial Plunging

No matter that 95 per cent of all pictures will fall far short of the total predicted by the ruthless spending producer, the fact that the ace producers of the industry spend from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 on a big job is the yardstick for every small producer in the industry, most of whom never have, and probably never can produce a box office hit, regardless of expenditures. It is of no avail as argument that you can count upon the fingers the pictures costing over $1,250,000 that have made big money. Deferred hope makes the unsuccessful producer persist in his efforts for 'just one big hit,' but it makes the expense account look sick.

"This is the real danger to the industry.

"You are reminded by defenders of extravagance that Columbia Pictures Corp. was 'made' for all time through the good fortune of one picture, 'It Happened One Night.' The fact that the very next year the same company repeated with another prize picture, 'One Night of Love' suggests that its success was not just due to luck and a big expense. Twentieth Century Films owes its good start to Zanuck's luck with 'Rothschild,' and Warner Bros. were helped greatly by the lucky break of '42nd Street' making $1,500,000 for them just at the right moment.

Amortization Practices Futile

"And the fact that any company at any time is apt to 'strike gold' in a picture lends some support to this argument.

Citing the difficulties of applying ordinary business policies to the operation of the picture business, Kennedy says:

"Indeed, where business methods have been most rigorously adopted the best results have not necessarily followed. Take, for instance, the policy of amortization. For years auditors and accountants imbued with instructions from business men and bankers upon the directorates of picture companies have struggled with the problem of standardized and business-like write-off policies and a settled practice has been evolved.

"Paramount's practice for instance in charging off picture costs—amortizing 82 per cent in 20 weeks—has been commendably conservative, but it has not created profits. Thus far at least, settled amortization practices have resulted in little else than equitable distribution of costs over a period of time. Frankly, something more than business-like bookkeeping methods is needed to create profits and that 'something' is positively and definitely good pictures.

Foreign Restrictions a Danger

"Another serious threat to the industry should be pointed out before considering Paramount's particular problem—foreign quotas. Estimates of receipts from exhibitions abroad run as high as 30 per cent of all film rentals. If the current move to limit exhibition of films in England, largely to English made films is carried out, not only will it be imitated in other countries, but in some instances, it might make all the difference between profitable and unprofitable operations for American units.

"Some American companies, notably 20th Century-Fox, have been keenly aware of the danger and have made recent affiliations abroad to offset the consequences of an embargo. Paramount is thus faced with the necessity of further investment abroad as an additional operating expense, and a further threat to income.

"We think the danger is real. There is good opinion in London that the quota figure may be set as high as 35 per cent. Recent events seem to foreshadow a determination on the part of British authorities to take important action.

"Obviously the British Government is planning real regulation of the industry, but the thought is also sug-

Shows Losses on Unused Stories

Kennedy also points out that of th total overhead expense at the studi

Discussing sound equipment contracts, the report says:

"Paramount has a contract wit
Electrical Research Products whereby Paramount is licensed to recor sound pictures under patents owne by Electrical Research Products, fo a period ending December 31, 194 in return for which Paramount pay specified fees. Paramount guarantee that the fees so paid will amount t a minimum of $100,000 per year. I is estimated that for the 1936-37 program of pictures, Paramount will pa license fees aggregating $730,453.

Asks Savings on License Fees

"RCA Photophone on February 1, 1936, announced revised rates whic are much lower than the rates Paramount is now paying Electrical Research Products. Applying the revise RCA rates to Paramount's 1936-3 program, the total license fees woul amount to $366,862, or a saving $363,591. We suggest that a vigorou effort be made to get Electrical Research Products to reduce their rate to conform with the reduced rate published by RCA."

The report adds:

"So far this year the theatres as although not directly a part of th

Theatre Department, is being directl charged against their operations.

studio, insofar as pictures are concerned (box office values) and a reduction of management expenses, the theatres should show a net profit of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 annually."

In closing, the report says:

"Because there appears to be an irreconcilable conflict between certain of your directors which has resulted disastrously to the morale and efficiency of the entire organization, I recommend that steps be taken immediately to have those responsible for this irreconcilable conflict terminate their positions on the Board.

"I recommend that you elect for president, succeeding its present incumbent, a man of outstanding reputation from the industry—'a picture man.' I recommend that you appoint a chief of production with headquarters on the West Coast and that you permit him to run production without interference from the New York office, except the natural supervision of the president with whom he should be in sympathy."

Hull Regrets Dominica Part Of Time Reel

film which causes offense to any foreign government, Secretary Hull pointed out that "such actions sometimes occur, however, for the reason that in this country, unlike many other countries, freedom of speech and of the press is deeply imbedded in our tradition; is cherished by every citizen as part of the national heritage, and is guaranteed under our Constitution."

"Although appreciating your desire to prevent any occurences which might reflect upon your country's name," he said, "I am sure you understand that for the reasons just expressed this Government is not in a position to prevent the matters complained of by you."

March of Time will issue a formal statement today explaining its position in the controversy which has arisen over the sequence on the Dominican Republic in the current issue of the reel, C. D. Jackson said yesterday. Time's statement will be prepared following the receipt today from Washington of the text of the protest to Secretary of State Hull by the Dominican minister, and Hull's reply.

Jackson declared that no additional complaints have been received, that the sequence has been deleted in no theatre other than the Music Hall, and that no complaints were received following the opening of the reel in its complete form in Washington on Wednesday.

A special showing is to be held today for the Diplomatic Corps at the Alexandria Gardens, in Alexandria, Va., near Washington.

Reich Has Another Censor Restriction

is felt by Americans to be its underlying purpose, is mirrored in Article 15, which reads:

"Certificates (censors' permits) may be refused in the case of films which have been submitted by producers who persist, despite warnings from the German authorities, in issuing films whose tendency or effect is injurious to German prestige, or have been produced in a state where the distribution of German films is hampered by impeding restrictions.

"This regulation applies also to films in which actors participate who have previously appeared in pictures detrimental to German prestige."

With the interpretation of the all-embracing expression "German prestige" in the hands of Reich propagandists, it is felt that it will be easy for them to ban from Germany any films on the charge that producer or actors at some previous time, in some earlier picture, have given offense to Hitler's followers.

The implications of the law are recognized by American distributors in Germany who have been constantly at loggerheads with the Reich censors. Chief among these distributors are Paramount, M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Looking 'Em Over

"Anna"

(Amkino)

The Russian screen appears utterly unable to consider any subject worthy of attention as subject matter for the films unless it is considerably concerned with some aspect of the Communist Party, the current regime, or any one of its innumerable ramifications. This dramatic effort, most recent importation from the Soviet state, is no exception.

The story revolves about the love of a young feminine worker for a newly arrived Siberian in Moscow. She marries him, although it breaks the heart of the man who loves her, and who takes himself off to Siberia and its farms to heal his broken heart. Deviously it comes about that the stranger is in reality a traitor, bent on wreaking such damage as he may on the work of the Party and the workers. His destructive effort brings on his wife the ultimate disgrace. He steals her Party card, she believes it is lost, and as a result of that loss she is expelled from the Party.

Eventually, of course, through the research of the renounced lover in Siberia, the truth is discovered, and the traitor is led away to his reward.

In effect, and in part by reason of very ordinary achievement in performance and production, the film is adaptable only to those audiences for whom a film from Russia is an event. English subtitles are employed.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 95 minutes. "A."

"Early to Bed," now current at the Paramount, was reviewed from Hollywood on May 22.

"White Fang," last night's preview at the Roxy, was reviewed on June 26, from Hollywood.

"The Green Pastures," previewed from the coast on May 18, opened yesterday morning at the Radio City Music Hall.

Day, British Screen Historian, 63, Dies

London, July 16.—Will Day, managing director of Will Day, Ltd., an accessory company, and known for years as the unofficial historian of the film business in England, died early today at his home here. He was taken ill suddenly in his office on Monday. He was 63 years old.

Day was born in 1873, and was taught the use of the magic lantern at the age of nine. He later became a showman and first presented animated pictures in 1898. He founded various accessories firms, forming Will Day, Ltd., in 1913. He was a Fellow of the Royal Photographic Society and the Royal Society of Arts. He was president of the Kinema Veterans in 1929-30, and a vice-president of the Magicians' Club. He was the first patentee, with J. L. Baird, of television. Day owned a notable collection of historical film apparatus, which is housed in the London Science Museum.

Barney Balaban, president of Paramount and B. & K., yesterday stated nothing had been done so far. He also said that B. & K. would not make the move, but that if Great States did B. & K. would be interested because of its tieup with the Rubens company.

Y. Frank Freeman said yesterday he had heard nothing official other than the reports which have been published.

Add Two to W. E. Board

London, July 9.—W. A. Bach, managing director of Western Electric, London, announced today the addition to the board of the British company of H. C. Humphrey and J. H. Somake. Humphrey is technical director in succession to S. S. A. Watkins, who has returned to America. He was assistant director of engineering to Erpi before coming to London. Somake is a British lawyer who joined the W. E. legal department in London in 1929, taking over the department in 1935. In March, 1936, he was also appointed secretary of the company.

Kane Signs Donaghue

London, July 9.—Robert T. Kane has signed Steve Donaghue, famous English jockey, to ride the winner of the Derby in the all-Technicolor "Wings of the Morning," in which the big English race is a high spot. Donaghue has ridden the winner of the real Derby on four occasions. Also added to the cast is Harry Tate, famous variety veteran.

Ledger Changes Up At Hearing on Fox

party's books were admissible in evidence, this is. The first six items are cash that came out of the Fox safe deposit box. The first item admittedly is a payment on his obligation. The last six items admittedly now refer to a Fox transaction and admittedly the status of those items was changed after the filing in bankruptcy."

The last sentence referred to an admission by Herbert Leitsteen, Fox family bookkeeper, under questioning of David Katz of New York, that "at the time I had the wrong information. Now, since June 29, 1936, I have the right information."

This was in connection with numerous changes and later notations found in the books today. Many pages were found today on which the name "Belle" or the initial of "B. F." were written over an erasure. Katz tried in vain to make Leitsteen concede that the name originally erased after each of these items was "William Fox" or "W. F."

George Dix, another of the creditors' lawyers, offered to have these erasures photostated under infra-red rays to bring out the erased writing, but Murry C. Becker, Fox counsel, rejected the suggestion.

Leitsteen indicated that he, as the Fox bookkeeper, and Becker, as one of the Fox family lawyers, had consulted over items in the records recently.

Fox and Mrs. Fox and the daughters, Mrs. Schwartz and Mrs. Mona Tauszig were summoned to appear when hearings resume next Tuesday morning, but then will be excused again for several more days.

ITO Protests Warner 16mm. Picture Plan

Letter Declares Action Will Be Fought

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—The I.T.O. of Southern California has protested the entrance of Warners into the 16mm. production and distribution field in a formal letter addressed to Jack L. Warner by Harry Vinnicoff, I.T.O. president.

The protest is the result of a series of meetings held during the past two months by the directors of the exhibitor group. Contending that the exhibition of 16mm. films in homes and schools will hinder the industry through amateurish projection, Vinnicoff's letter declares that the I.T.O., joining with every other exhibitor organization in the country, will be obliged to take steps to fortify themselves and combat the use of 16mm. films.

The letter said in part: "Every ethical foundation that the producers in this country have built to make good pictures and distribute them to exhibitors throughout the United States cannot help but be broken down by such a policy on your part. We do not wish to insult your intel-

Spain Trade Again Normal After Strike

Employers Score Points In Settlement

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

BARCELONA, July 4.—The film business has returned to normal following the general mercantile strike, which virtually tied up the flow of product to theatres and made exhibition in certain chief cities a matter of considerable difficulty.

In Andalucia, of which Sevilla is the most important city, and in Catalunya, of which Barcelona is the capital, official intervention by the Government, invoking its power to force settlement by arbitration, was necessary before the strike was terminated.

In Sevilla, during the strike, two open-air theatres operated by the local branch there of the General Union of Workers, drew 2,000 patrons each night at an average admission of 40 centimos (slightly more than four cents). American, Spanish and German films were shown, while the city's 35 regular theatres, which operate during the summer, remained closed.

Pending final settlement and the

Springer-Bolognino Buy into L-M Group

Jack W. Springer and Laurence Bolognino have purchased a half interest in the Leff-Meyers circuit of nine local theatres. Although the Granada is one of the L-M group, Springer's deal does not embrace this theatre, the reason being that this unit is in opposition to the Springer theatres on upper Broadway.

L-M recently purchased a site at 170th St. and Jerome Ave., but no decision has been made whether a new theatre will be erected at this time.

Bolognino, Springer, William Yoost and John Bolte have formed a partnership for taking over the new 600-seat house to be built at 232nd St., east of Broadway. The new structure, which will be in the vicinity of Sam Cocalis' Marble Hill, is scheduled to be completed in November.

Korda Declines to Talk on G. B. Deal

LONDON, July 17.—Alexander Korda was non-committal today when questioned concerning reports that London Films is interested in the purchase by Loew's and Twentieth Century-Fox of control of Gaumont British, but authoritative sources here generally place little credence in the report.

There is little reliable information on the deal pending in New York to be had here, but there is considerable speculation about the future distribution arrangements of G. B., M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox product at present handled separately. A similar curiosity is evidenced in film circles concerning the British production of the two American companies, LONDON, July 17.—The Kinematograph Renters' Society and the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n are believed here to be getting together in order to devise a joint policy on the quota for submission to the Moyne Committee considering revision of the Films Act.

The plan is based on the renters' proposal of a cash obligation on distributors in place of footage. It is agreed the plan undoubtedly would impress official quarters in view of the recent demonstration of divided opinion among producers.

Cuban Reports Indicate End Of N. Y. Board

Fees to Be Eliminated, Word from Havana

The collapse of Cuba's proposal to censor American films in New York which are destined for exhibition in Cuba is foreseen in semi-official reports received here yesterday that the Cuban Government has eliminated the reviewing fee which the local board proposed to charge.

As the Cuban decree establishing the board provided no funds for the maintenance of the New York censor agency, observers here regard the elimination of its one apparent source of revenue as being fatal to the censor board's operations here. The local board had proposed a reviewing charge of $10 per reel, which would have returned it approximately $50,000 annually, it was estimated. Funds in excess of the amount required for the maintenance of the board were to have been used for the production of one and two-reel propaganda films for Cuban consumption, according to Roberto Hernandez, head of the local board. Hernandez is now in Havana conferring on the censorship procedure with Carlos Pelaez, Cuban Secretary of the Interior, who, according to the reports received here, issued the order eliminating the New York board's reviewing charges.

The elimination of the charges does

Screen Critics Unstinting In Praise for "Pastures"

An appraisal of an appraisal, or a roundup of New York's daily newspaper film critics, checking their printed reactions to "The Green Pastures," the stage miracle that Marc Connelly wrought, and Warners filmed, presents but one answer, competently expressed by the Times critic when he said: "That disturbance in and around the Music Hall was . . . the sound of motion picture critics dancing in the street." They were unanimous in their praise of picture and players, as indicated in the following excerpts, arranged alphabetically by name of paper:

American—A gently affecting film, amusing yet inspiring, has been molded from the unusual and imaginative translation of the Great Story into the charming and deep reaching simplicity of Catfish Row. . . . Now the tale is re-told, without the proscriptions and limitations imposed by the realm of backdrop and proscenium, to soar on cinematic wings to even greater glory. . . Played simply by a cast little short of inspired, the picture plumbs an emotional depth far below its surface entertainment. It possesses every element of drama, the laughs, the thrills.

Daily News—Faithfully adhering to the letter and spirit of the original "divine comedy of modern literature," the new "Green Pastures" may be regarded as not merely following in the successful footsteps of its legitimate sire, but stepping out on its own into pastures that are possibly greener. . . Rex Ingram picks up amazingly well where the venerable and venerated colored actor (Richard E. Harrison) left off.

Warners have wisely employed the talents and services of Marc Connelly in their production of his fable. A second wise choice was that of the Hall Johnson choir, which adds to the other excellences a superb musical quality.

Herald-Tribune—That assured classic of the modern theatre, Marc Connelly's Negro miracle play, has been transferred to the screen with care, taste and fidelity under the author's paternal direction and, in its new incarnation, it remains the beautiful moving and stirring work that it was upon the stage. . . It is a fine and distinguished portrayal that the excellent Negro actor (Ingram) provides. . . The less arduous roles are also managed with high and satisfying skill. . . The result is that the quality of simple magnificence that the drama possessed is never lost.

Mirror—With courage, taste and reverence, the Warner studios have made an impressively lovely and unusual film of Marc Connelly's "The Green Pastures." It is daring in its departure from Hollywood's standards. . . A sincere cast of colored players performs it splendidly. . .

Not an ordinary movie, "The Green Pastures" further enhances the mounting dignity of the screen. It is an impressive, charming and courageous production, sure to attract an audience not regularly addicted to the movies. The regular fan, too, will find it provocative, stimulating and memorable entertainment.

New York Journal—It is without condition and without reserve that we should like to report that on the screen of the Music Hall there is being presented one of the most charming. one of the most humanly inspiring photo-plays ever produced. . .

The performances of the entire colored cast are beautifully honest, and Rex Ingram as "De Lawd," and Oscar Polk as the Angel Gabriel give two of the best performances of the current, or for that matter, almost any other screen. . . The delightful imagery and artistry of "The Green Pastures" is an unprecedented achievement.

Post—Gentle, whimsical, scintillant with charm, and imbued with true religious spirit is Marc Connelly's "Green Pastures," unreeling as a throughly delightful, completely entertaining, excellently produced film production. . .

The play itself has been faithfully, fervently transferred to celluloid, gaining, if anything, in appeal, because of its superb performances and the clarity of direction. . .

"The Green Pastures" assuredly is worth all the effort expended on its behalf. It is 1936's greatest contribution to the screen.

Sun—If motion pictures needed any justification, the Music Hall's current picture provides enough to last for a decade or so. "The Green Pastures" arrived before a vast audience that cried and chuckled and somehow found the world a cleaner, happier place than it had seemed an hour before. . .

The cast is, as might be expected since most of the players appeared in the original play, a fine one. . .

Equally with the directors, they (the players) deserve all praise for the making of the year's most memorable film.

Times—That disturbance in and around the Music Hall yesterday was the noise of shuffling queues in Sixth Avenue and the sound of motion-picture critics dancing in the street. . .

And the direct exciting cause was the fact that no profane hands have been allowed, in the words of the Second Cleaning Angel, to "gold up" its marvelous and unforgettable felicities. It still has the rough beauty of homespun, the irresistible compulsion of simple faith.

World-Telegram—Once again the hat of the department goes hurtling into the air in honor of the Warner Brothers. For yesterday at the Radio City Music Hall they gave us a beautiful film—the screen version of that tender, gently pathetic, curiously touching Negro miracle play, "The Green Pastures." . . .

The film affords all an opportunity to renew acquaintance with a play that is profoundly moving, with characters, lines and situations that stir one to the point of exaltation and to remind all that as a film, "The Green Pastures" is as great as it was a play. . .

All the acting is good in the film, which, make no mistake about it, simply must be seen.

Seeks to Amend Suit

A petition for an order to serve an amended complaint was filed in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday by Murray Shewitt in connection with his $100,000 breach of contract suit against Erich Pommer of New York and Los Angeles. The complaint which Shewitt desires to file states that on June 26, 1935, Pommer agreed to produce two features for him in England and to finance them at an average of $300,000 and to pay Pommer $1,500 weekly with percentages.

On Aug. 6, 1935, according to Shewitt, they made another agreement and decided to produce four pictures instead of two. On Oct. 22, 1935, Shewitt charges, Pommer repudiated the agreement. Pommer has made a general denial.

Sol Lesser's program next season will call for nine features, six of which will be outdoor action films for Twentieth Century-Fox release, and three starring Bobby Breen will be distributed by RKO, according to Barney Briskin, newly appointed sales manager for Lesser.

Knickerbocker Bankrupt

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in U. S. District Court yesterday on behalf of the Knickerbocker Theatres, Inc., operators of 11 houses in Manhattan. The petition of Louis Schneider, president, states that at a meeting of stockholders, directors and officers on July 3, 1936, the corporation was declared insolvent.

Liabilities total $214,132. The chief liability is a debt for $100,000 owed to Max D. Steuer. Others include the S.F.C. MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"To Mary—With Love"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 17.—Keynoted with an atmosphere of convincing realism, this film tells a searching dramatic story of the problems of modern marriage. Continually human and believable in character, the plot is smartly contrived, intelligently directed and skillfully acted. Played with sympathetic understanding by Warner Baxter, Myrna Loy, Ian Hunter and Claire Trevor, principally, the film makes a direct appeal to feminine patronage, yet it is of compelling interest to general adult audiences.

It is set in New York. The time is topically visioned in the years of the past decade. Baxter and Miss Loy marry. The husband, inspired by high ideals and driving ambition, though subject to worldly temptation, aspires to business successes. His devotion to business affairs creates a domestic rift. Baxter seeks relaxation in the company of Miss Trevor. Miss Loy finds solace in the gay life of the teeming twenties and the companionship of Hunter, true friend of both. The death of their child, which, it was hoped, would cement the affection of husband and wife, widens the gap. As Baxter concentrates on a money-making career he slips from the straight and narrow path, while Miss Loy, fearful and suspicious, contemplates divorce. The market crash temporarily brings the pair together again. But in renewing his climb up the ladder anew, Baxter repeats the action that previously made Miss Loy's life a continual torment. Another crash and Hunter, who has watched the marriage going on the rocks, intervenes to effect an understanding and reconciliation between Baxter and Miss Loy that promises happier days for all.

The situations and dialogue are effectively blended and aim to stir sympathetic emotions. Devoid of anything that smacks of artificial theatrics, the human quality of the story is impressive. It gives Baxter, Miss Loy, Hunter and Miss Trevor many opportunities to contribute exceptional performances.

It is based on a story by Richard Sherman with the screen play by Sherman and Howard Ellis Smith. The picture was directed with a skill and precision that makes for good entertainment and effective showmanship possibilities, by John Cromwell.

Judel Will Manage Offices from Coast

Operation of the Ben Judel exchanges in Chicago, Milwaukee, Indianapolis and St. Louis will be handled from the coast after Aug. 8, the independent exchange owner stated yesterday prior to his departure for the Windy City.

Judel on Aug. 8 will celebrate his 32nd year in the independent exchange field by leaving for Hollywood to enter production on his own. He plans to make 10 exploitation pictures the first year, he said.

Gershwin-M-G-M Agree

An agreement was reached yesterday between George Gershwin and M-G-M whereby the composer will receive $2,500 for the additional use of the "Rhapsody in Blue" number in "The Great Zeigfeld."

Harms originally gave the producer a license to use the number in the musical film, but when the composer found that a greater use was made than provided for in the license he threatened suit. As a result of the settlement, no action will be taken.

Gershwin Starts Soon

HOLLYWOOD, July 17.—George Gershwin, who has been signed by RKO to write the music for the next Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers film, is due from New York on Aug. 10.

Spain Trade Again Normal After Strike

agreement on terms here, the parties involved have decided on a 44-hour week, instead of the 40-hour week originally demanded by the workers, and an average wage increase of seven per cent, the salaries not to exceed a maximum rate of 600 pesetas a month in any instance.

In general the terms are considered a somewhat doubtful victory for the unions and in many ways a triumph for the employer interests. One very important aspect, seen as influencing future relations of labor and employer in the country with respect to strikes, is the provision that employers withhold the accrued wages of the strikers which accumulated during the period of the walkout, until a definite settlement has been reached. If that principle is maintained, even in part, it is seen as acting as a definite deterrent to the Spanish labor "habit" of calling a strike at the slightest provocation.

A third point gained by the employers was the dropping of the strikers' demand that employers be prohibited from requiring them to handle any other duties except those specifically assigned to them.

The United Artists branch managers, representatives and salesmen throughout Spain and from the Canary and Balearic Islands, held their annual convention here despite the difficulties resulting from the general mercantile strike, then in progress. A feature of the meeting, under the chairmanship of William B. Morgan, managing director, was the screening of a number of new pictures.

Reactions Mild on Report by Kennedy little interest in the Kennedy observations. To most, Kennedy's findings, apparently, offered little more than what the trade in general already knew or sensed.

Kennedy's office here stated that the former Pathe and S. E. C. head had formally accepted the $50,000 fee yesterday which the Paramount board had authorized as compensation for his services. Kennedy, according to his associates, was undecided for a time as to whether or not he should accept the fee, presumably because of the reception it met after having been delivered to the Paramount board. The preliminary report was referred to a board committee which took no action on it and the final report was tabled by the board. Kennedy earlier had accepted $5,000 for expenses and his assistants had accepted fees totaling $24,000, and their expenses. No film officials could be found who were willing to comment on the Kennedy reports for publication. Those who offered any observations at all refused to be quoted.

As result, he said, the American di tributors now have stopped shippin films to Cuba while they await th final outcome of Washington inte vention in the matter. New Almanac, Issued Today Studded With Fact, Figures

The International Motion Picture Almanac for 1936-37, weighty with facts and figures, and with pertinent material concerning the world of the screen, here and abroad, will make its appearance today.

A year of preparation has gone into the compilation of the more than 1,350 pages between the new Almanac's covers, which combine to make the book definitely the reference work of the film industry in all its ramifications. In 66 topical divisions are explained, outlined, tabulated and described all varieties of facts, from the real name of an obscure featured player in Hollywood, to the financial status of the industry's largest company, with stops at all the way-stations in between.

Once again, as in past issues of the Almanac, the biographical section lends its weight and high value to the volume. Therein more than 13,000 personalities of and pertaining to the screen have had their lives cross-sectioned—and by their own hands.

Of especial interest, too, this year, is the section on "The Year in England," which is devoted to the affairs of the industry in the United Kingdom. With currents and cross-currents of interest and significance to the entire industry revolving about England's developments in the business, this outline takes on additional importance.

A partial listing of the 66 divisions of the Almanac serves to convey some impression of the breadth of the book's scope. We find:

Admission Levels Maintained in K.C.

Kansas City, July 19.—Admission prices in this territory are holding up. Compared to this season a year ago, the price level has changed very little. The range is from 35 cents top in the territory to a low of 15 cents. Children, as always, are a dime.

Only in a few spots have showmen cut the admission prices, these being smaller situations. In the city proper there has been practically no price cutting. In a few instances, it is stated cuts are only for the short summer season.

Both circuit and independent exhibitors are not inclined to juggle their admission prices at the present time. Despite intensely hot weather and dry conditions throughout this area, busi-

Justice Dep't Asks Detailed Questions

Lengthy questionnaires have been sent out to all major distributors and circuits by the Dep't of Justice, seeking detailed information regarding various properties held by the theatre interests and product deals made by the film companies, it is learned by Motion Picture Daily.

None of the recipients of the Government inquiries would part with a copy for perusal to outsiders, which leads to the belief that the questions contained in one company's letter may not be the same as that of another company or circuit.

The questionnaire runs five pages of typewritten copy, is signed by Assistant Attorney-General Dickinson, and

Fight Picture Turned Out Bit Bigger Than Colossal

By SHERWIN KANE

The Max Schmeling-Joe Louis fight picture ranks with exhibitors as something a trifle more colossal than the Yankee Stadium event itself. They're still talking about it—the film—at Ninth Ave. and 44th St. along Broadway, in herring parlors—wherever exhibitors gather; comparing it with their best money-makers of all time.

Most gleeful of all are those exhibitors who bought the picture prior to the fight, about the time the wiseacres were giving fancy odds that Schmeling would be horizontal before the opening of the fourth round. These were the exhibitors who really struck it rich. They bought a picture of a fight that all the experts agreed would be no fight at all and wouldn't last long enough to give the cameras a full reel, which would force them to give the last 200 feet of film to the stretcher bearers lowering Maxie out of the ring, a couple of the preliminary bouts or Herbert Bayard Swope's summer shirt styles. In reality, however, the fight picture, to these, was

Smaller Board Is Paramount Aim-Griffis

Vacancies Will Be Left Open as They Occur

A considerably smaller Paramount board than the present one of 15 members is the company's ultimate aim, Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee, advised Motion Picture Daily in stating that the board did not plan to elect a successor to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Floyd B. Odlum of Atlas Corp.

Griffis intimated that to achieve this end no replacements would be made in consequence of any vacancies materializing on the board for some time to come. In reply to a question he denied that any further resignations from the board were in prospect at this time. Indications are, however, that two withdrawals from the board at a later date, probably a matter of several months, would not be entirely unexpected.

The aim to arrive at a smaller board membership would appear to preclude for some months, at least, a design expressed earlier by another Paramount official to increase the representation on the board of management men by filling future vacancies with the election of vice-presi-

Cuba Censor Status Remains Unchanged

Roberto Hernandez, head of the Cuban censor board in New York, could not be reached for comment over the week-end on semi-official reports from Havana late last week that all charges for the reviewing of American films by the New York board had been eliminated by Carlos Pelaez, Cuban Secretary of the Interior. Hernandez, back in New York after several days absence, was reported to have been in Havana last week for conferences with the Cuban Secretary of the Interior.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Aboard the Normandie

LARGE and small, blonde and brunette, the page boys with their smart, bright red mess jackets and jaunty caps in identical hue total at least three hundred and forty on this giant of the seas. A fair enough percentage of them with regularity knocked on our cabin door the first day. They brought wireless tidings, some wisecracking, but all agreeable. . . .

Toby Gruen of National Screen radioed, "I hope the caviar comes up one at a time. Bon voyage." This is to tell him the caviar was very good and its conduct exemplary. "August too late, Rat. Cheerio," from Jack Levin, head of the Copyright Protection Bureau. He was referring to his own impending voyage out of New York on an Italian liner and our own inability to join up. Hy Daab of Columbia wired a "Bon Voyage"; Toots" Shor, impresario of The Tavern in New York, "Hope your European circulation will be taken care of," which was a slightly vague sort of message, and Don Mesereau, "In London don't order asparagus or strawberries." . . .

M. Villar, our introduction having been proper, telephoned the second morning out with word a more choice cabin awaited. Not that there was anything wrong with the first one. In large rectangular strips of natural leather, hand sewn together in thongs and with beds to match, it bowed sharply toward the luxurious in appointments and comfort. However, the chief purser had a better idea and transferred us to quarters finished in rosewood, highly polished lacquers, solid gray carpet and rose scatter rug. It was almost more than we could stand, but we stuck it out and chalked it down against experience. . . .

To more adequately survey the scene, we asked for and were given a table two city blocks down the line at the end of the glittering dining salon where our sole companions were three ancient Norman ladies, gold-painted and buxom, who rose high in fresco behind us. One carried a galleon, symbolizing the maritime prowess of the men of her race; the second carelessly pitched a jug on one shoulder representative of the vineyards, while on the extreme left an apparently somewhat bewildered young woman trailed what appeared to be a portion of grape vine. They were all right. While everyone chatted, these three said nary a word. That made them a trio of the nicest gals on the boat. . . .

Stewards almost outnumbered the passengers, or so it seemed. One dining room attache would take the order and rattle the cutlery. His assistant hustled in with the food and removed the remains. Neither one trespassed on the purlieus of the wine steward. The overseer was a head steward for that particular area, but he had a boss as well: the head dining room factotum. It was pretty much the same in the cafe grill, a takeoff on the Ritz restaurant idea where a collector's item, in favor of the French Line, was a couvert of one dollar, American. Breakfast was easier, on the other hand. Convenient telephones connected with room service and there was food. Scrambled eggs and thickly cut bacon, both fried soft, presented a minor crisis one early afternoon, but French ingenuity won out hands down. . . .

The Normandie is de luxe, very de luxe. So much gold paint and leaf were turned loose and in such profusion, it becomes a source of wonderment exactly how France continues to stick to the gold standard. Millions were spent on spacious public rooms, cabins, vast and roomy decks, but when the sea kicked up and this paquebot rolled, the individual ash trays conveniently placed all over the vessel were tied to their adjacent railings with matter-of-fact twine. Our thoughts were all for the twine; we pondered what it thought surrounded by such luxury.

Ellison Goes to DeMille

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—Jimmy Ellison, actor under personal contract to Harry Sherman, has concluded the first six Hopalong Cassidy stories on his ticket, which has an additional year to run, and has reported to the Cecil B. DeMille unit at Paramount for "The Plainsman."

Ellison, who will do another Hopalong story for Sherman after "The Plainsman," plays Buffalo Bill in the DeMille vehicle.

K.C. Variety Rooms Shut

To Open Florida House

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., July 19.—Jacksonville Beach's new theatre, which will be operated by the Sparks interests, will be opened July 22.

Skouras and Aides To Confer on Deal

Spyros Skouras, Jack J. Sullivan and Edward Zabel of Fox West Coast and John D. Clark and Herman Wobber, Twentieth Century-Fox sales executives, will meet in Chicago on Friday to iron out some unfinished problems of the product deal made some time ago on the coast.

Sullivan leaves the coast today for the Windy City. Due to illness, he may not come to New York after the one-day Chicago session. Clark is scheduled to arrive from the coast today.

Final details are being worked out on the F. W. C.-RKO deal between Harry Cohen, western division manager for the distributor, and George Balsdon, short subject film buyer, who is assisting Skouras on product negotiations. The terms have been set, but theatre adjustments are now being cleared up.

Bolognino-Springer Do Buying for L-M

Laurence Bolognino and Jack W. Springer will do the buying for the Leff-Meyers circuit in which they have just purchased a half interest, it was stated Saturday. Physical operation will be continued by Abe Leff and Louis Meyers.

Leff has been ill the last few weeks and is now recuperating at Sackett Lake, Monticello, N. Y.

Consolidated has no interest in the new 600-seat theatre which is to be built at 232nd St. and Broadway, according to an executive of the circuit. Other plans are being considered which, it is understood, provide for the acquisition of a number of houses this week.

Children's Sections May Start This Week

Operation of the new plan for admission of children under 16 with matrons supervising them in segregated sections of theatres probably will be put into operation this week. More than 200 matrons received their licenses last week after passing the required examinations.

License Commissioner Paul Moss says he expects exhibitors to get their special licenses from him in a few days.

Fox Midwest to Meet

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—Fox Midwest will hold its annual convention in Excelsior Springs on August 11-12. About 90 theatres will be represented. The program will include circuit business and a golf tournament. A banquet will conclude the convention.

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—Twentieth Century-Fox has added four writers to the scenario staff. They are: Charles Belden, Doris Anderson, Boris Ingster and Don Ettlinger. None has been given assignments as yet.

POWER FOR THE BOX OFFICE!

IT IS A FINE THING that new financial power has come to Universal, because it means more power for the box offices of Universal customers. In all my years with Universal I have never had more confidence than now in the company's ability to deliver the pictures that exhibitors want.

Exhibitors who buy Universal this year will get even more value in the way of box office power than our announcement indicates because we are not ready at this time to tell our whole story. As the worksheet goes to press we are in the midst of signing up several other mighty important picture personalities and properties. We will announce them as fast as they are closed.

The new Universal is backed up with what it takes to make money-making entertainment — stars, stories, players, producers, directors and technical experts.

In Charles R. Rogers and William Koenig and their staff of associates, the new Universal has one of the most alert producing forces in the industry – men who have proven by past performances that they recognize box office values, and know how to make the most of translating them into showmanship power.

With James R. Grainger and his aides continuing in charge of distribution, the new Universal retains some of its most valuable assets — men whose integrity, whose understanding of exhibitors' problems, and whose fairness in all matters pertaining to releases and bookings are well known to theatre people.

The new Universal will be in the foreground in 1936-37 and thereafter.

The new Universal will be the new power in the box office — and this means more box-office power for all exhibitors purchasing Universal.

Go with the new Universal — full speed ahead!

Committee to End Disputes In Australia acquired the Lyceum here under a leasing arrangement with General Theatres Corp. The deal adds another unit to the circuit which is becoming of increasing importance in the field of Australian exhibition.

Besides the Lyceum, the circuit now controls at least one theatre in every capital, in addition to an extensive circuit of country houses in New South Wales. Their ambitious plans call for still further expansion.

Assuming that the five-year period under which General Theatres Corp. is to remain the holding company for Hoyts and Union Theatres is not extended, and these two circuits return to open competition, the activity of Snider and Dean, Ltd., undoubtedly will be welcomed by the distributors, should negotiations with Hoyts and Union strike any snags. On the other hand, if Snider and Dean ally themselves with one of the circuits to form a buying pool, the circuit left out would be in a serious position.

In control of Snider and Dean are Sam Snider, former general manager of Hoyts, and recognized as one of the most capable showmen in Australia, and George Dean, who has operated city, suburban and country theatres for 25 years.

Associated Players is the most recent local production company to make an appearance here. Floated with a nominal capital of £40,000, the company plans films with Claude Flemming, Frank Harvey and Gladys Moncrieff, prominent stage players, as the chief attractions.

The first film scheduled is "Little Man," which will star George Wallace, who has enjoyed considerable success here in two Efftee productions. Miss Moncrieff, one of Australia's highest-paid stage stars, will be starred in the second film.

In an official statement, the M.P.D.A. here cited the film, "Magnificent Obsession," as the strongest possible industry answer to numerous attacks on the screen. Among the worst of the derogatory remarks made by critics of the film industry was the expression by a member in the South Australian Parliament that people "might just as well go into betting shops as to stuffy picture shows."

The Exhibitors' Ass'n in Brisbane plans to discuss a proposal that exhibitors emphatically refuse to book any picture on the basis of 50 per cent of the gross. The general opinion among the members is that such a rental prevents the showman from returning a profit on the season, but others contend that so long as there are exhibitors who are prepared to pay high prices for outstanding product, even at a loss, they will continue it, for the good will value involved.

The success of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" in Melbourne and in Sydney has revived the interest here in color, which for a time threatened to become a box-office liability.

like uncovering a poil the size of a Louisiana black-eyed pea while lifting run-of-the-mine ersters out of their shells in the Eighth Ave. seafood grille.

The Louis-Schmeling picture, however, turned June, and a part of July, into January for maybe every house that played it, even those which were so unfortunate as not to have booked it before the results were known. One local exhibitor with a string of neighborhood houses, for example, could have had the picture for all of them at $1,600 if he had signed on the day of the fight. He couldn't see such fancy prices for a wash-out match, so he paid $3,600 instead the following morning. The experience was duplicated all over the city.

Real showmen and smart circuit film buyers, knowing what a fickle lady Dame Fortune is, made sure from the start that they wouldn't be on the outside looking in, and paying through the nostrils for the privilege, just in case something did happen at the Yankee Stadium that would result in a real fight picture. They covered themselves both ways—making one deal on the basis of the expected flop and another, at a slightly tilted price, which would be invoked if the picture happened to turn out to be other than expected. At the top figure agreed upon in such deals, the picture came to the theatres at less than half what it cost others who would have no part of it until the fight was over.

Circuit bookers credit the picture with being a greater draw than any feature released during the first two weeks following the fight. It came to wilting box offices everywhere it played with a message of cheer emphatic enough to change the color of operating statements of even large circuits for the first six months of the current year.

The cost of the film to a first run neighborhood house which had booked it in advance averaged about $500 for a one-week run, with about twice that figure being asked after the bout. All deals were set for a flat rental, with the owners of the picture participating in gross receipts over a certain figure only in a few Broadway houses. The average grosses for the week in such houses were up $1,500 to $3,500 while the picture played. It had second week holdovers in numerous metropolitan and up-state houses.

Jack Dietz bought the film rights from Mike Jacobs, fight promoter, for an estimated $25,000. Four regular cameras and one slow motion camera were used. In addition, there were the expenses of technicians, electricians, prints and distribution. It is estimated that 800 prints may have been made in the three laboratories which were utilized, at a cost of about $40 a print, or $32,000 for that item alone. The total overhead may have run about $90,000. The average fight picture returns its owner a gross of $150,000 to $200,000. This one is expected to double the higher figure, due to the fact that so many exhibitors "laid off" until after the fight, by which time the rentals had been doubled.

Schmeling, himself, bought the exclusive rights to the picture for Germany at a reported $60,000 in American dollars.

The fact that the fight was a sensational upset with international interest attached was not the only explanation of its unusual drawing record. Cameramen and technicians collaborated to make it an exciting and dramatic 31 minutes of screen fare. Only one mishap occurred to detract from its maximum pictorial possibilities. The slow motion camera, which had caught Louis being knocked down in the fourth round, jammed while the twelfth round was under way, causing the picture its loss of slow motion shots of the knockout which followed shortly thereafter.

Cuba Censor Status Remains Unchanged

that an order eliminating the reviewing fee of the New York board would be fatal to its operations as the Cuban decree establishing the board specified that it would have to be self-sustaining and no other sources of revenue for the board are apparent. American distributors are still awaiting final results of the recent protest against the decree filed with the Cuban Government by the American Embassy at Havana. The Cuban Film Board of Trade is also seeking to register a protest directly with President Gomez and asserts that the impending stoppage of film shipments to Cuba from America would affect the livelihood of 6,000 Cuban families.

ness has held up. This is partly attributed to air-cooled houses.

Immediate prospect of any hike or slash in prices is slight. What will come after the new season's product is released was not made known because exhibitors have not yet made up their minds.

Stavos Trian on Coast

dents of the company to board membership. Neil F. Agnew is the only one of the present five vice-presidents of Paramount who is a member of the board. Of the present board membership of 15, four are recognized industry men. In addition to Agnew, they are, of course, Barney Balaban, president; Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board, and E. V. Richards.

The aim to realize a smaller board would seem to indicate at this time that there is little likelihood of additional industry or management men being elected to the board before the annual elections of the company next June, at which time the terms of six directors will expire.

Griffis confirmed MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S story of July 13 which reported the company's intention to dissolve its producing subsidiary, Paramount Prod. The move will be made in the near future, Griffis said, for purposes of tax economies under the new Federal provisions for tax-free consolidations of corporate structures. Similar action was taken by Warners recently in dissolving First National Pictures.

can, St. Louis, Sept. 27. On Oct. 4, the Erlanger, Buffalo, and Hanna, Cleveland, will inaugurate showings of the film and a day later the Royal Alexandria, Toronto, will begin an indefinite run.

Aug. 30, or Sept. 6 are the tentative dates scheduled for the Forest, Philadelphia; Erlanger, Chicago and an undesignated theatre in Boston. His Majesty's, Montreal, will open with the picture either on Sept. 20, or Sept. 27. The Los Angeles and New York theatres and dates have not been decided. Negotiations are under way for a coast theatre and the local date is contingent on the granting of an extension of the Astor lease by City Investing Co., owner of the property, which intends to demolish the house in the near future.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"My American Wife"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—Sparkling, fresh comedy, this picture stacks up as exceptionally pleasing all-audience entertainment. Based on Elmer Davis' amusing domestic comedy-western story, the light, gay screen play by Virginia Van Up provides Francis Lederer, Ann Sothern, Billie Burke and Fred Stone, especially, as well as the entire support, with an ideal vehicle to display their talents.

Built on the hokum premise and liberally interspersed with dialogue-action situation gags, Harold Young's direction keeps the show moving at a fast, interest-holding pace.

The yarn concerns the pioneer western Cantillion family grown rich and socially ambitious. Miss Sothern, the daughter, urged by her mother, Miss Burke, marries Lederer, a foreign nobleman. Lederer means much to the grandfather, an old Indian fighter, which annoys Stone. Then the situations are reversed. Lederer wants to be a typical he-man cowboy and in a series of hilarious gag episodes wins Stone's respect. Their antics are a sore trial to Miss Sothern and Miss Burke. Grant Mitchell and the rest of the family have gone social in a big way and precipitate a serio-comic situation as Lederer, after saving Miss Sothern's fortune from Mitchell's risky speculations, walks out and is reported to be in the company of a mysterious red-headed woman. Furious, Miss Sothern goes out to take her man away from the siren. But when she learns the girl is the daughter of Lederer's valet, played by Ernest Cossart, the way is cleared for a happy romantic ending.

The picture contains those elements which may mean a box-office surprise. Fun for any kind of patronage, it adds considerably to the prestige of Lederer and Stone. Sold as all-laugh amusement with many angles available for unique and effective exploitation, the picture certainly should click.

Production Code Seal No. 2,309. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"36 Hours to Kill"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—This is another in the G-Man cycle, which, because it is shrewdly directed by Eugene Forde, is played in a light vein with comedy the principal keynote.

Most of the action occurs on a train between Los Angeles and Topeka. Brian Donlevy, a detective, is pursuing Douglas Fowley, a crook, whose errand is to return to Kansas City to cash a winning sweepstakes ticket. Gloria Stuart is also a passenger and becomes involved in the chase when she hides in Fowley's compartment from a process server. As events, develop, Fowley learns Donlevy is after him and flees the train taking Miss Stuart as hostage. Special agents finally take the whole gang in their Kansas hideout in typical gunplay finish.

The well rounded supporting cast holds interest throughout with Warren Hymer and Stepin Fetchit supplying the comedy and Isabel Jewell contributing the best straight performance. The story is by Lou Breslow and John Patrick from the W. R. Burnett original. Sol Wurtzel produces as light entertainment with occasional tense suspense. The picture should please average audiences.

Bureau of Standards Studying Film Care

The U. S. Bureau of Standards, which has been engaged in studies relative to the protection of records of all kinds, has taken up the subject of preservation of motion picture films with special reference to their storage, preservation and stability as well as to physical and chemical changes resulting from atmospheric conditions.

The work has been made possible by a grant of $5,000 from the Carnegie Foundation to the National Research Council and by additional support in the form of $4,500 from the Division of Motion Pictures and Sound Recordings of the National Archives.

Films have been studied by subjecting them to extremes of temperature and moisture and by putting them through humidity and temperature cycles in order to establish ideal storage conditions.

Effects of temperature changes on the chemical and physical characteristics of film have been closely studied.

A report of the results thus far obtained is being prepared for publication as a bureau paper.

The present work was commended at a recent meeting of the Committee on Film Preservation of the Society of M. P. Engineers.

Under the heading Pertinent Statistics, it is learned that the weekly attendance figure has shown substantial gains, ranging from 80,000,000 to 85,000,000; that there are 11 seats to each one of the nation's population; that the U. S. supplies 65 per cent of the world's films, figured by volume, and 85 per cent by value; that the weekly Hollywood payroll is $1,500,000, divided among 28,000 of production personnel regularly employed, and 10,000 others, and on and on.

There is a deal of amusement and entertainment to be derived from a perusal of the biographical section, particularly when it comes to the revealing information of real names and screen names. Lyle Talbot, Rosita Delmar, Fredric March, Boris Karloff, Marlene Dietrich, Ford Sterling, all were given names which differed in more or less degree from those by which the screen public knows them.

A reference book for the editor's desk or the library's shelves, the new International Motion Picture Almanac emerges as a substantial contribution to the industry of the screen.

Native Films Are Gaining In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, July 5.—The Argentine public is receiving domestic product with increasing favor, and as a result Argentine producers are working at top speed, planning new pictures and reissuing old features. Indications are that during the 1936-37 season there will be produced in the country at least 20 features, an unprecedented total for Argentina.

It is pointed out that houses in the interior as well as the larger cities, are doing well with domestic product, and several pictures of native origin have been booked for 20 to 30 days at a single theatre. Some of the largest houses in this city have played more native product than ever before in their history.

Among the producing organizations actively engaged are: Argentina Sono Film, which has decided to send its latest film, "Amalia," to the International Exposition at Venice next month; the Rio de la Plata company, which recently completed "The New Sheriff"; Artistas Argentinos Asociados, a mutual company composed of directors and players, and Lumiton.

Gaucho Film Completed

Vaccari y Alonso Film has just completed a film based on the lives of the Argentine gauchos, or cowboys. Considerable interest attaches to this production, since it recounts the tragic history of Juan Moreira, one of the most popular figures in all South American dramatic literature. Three distributors of foreign pictures have entered the Argentine market as producers.

Adolfo Wilson, head of the Terra Co., distributor of German pictures, has formed Porteno Films. He already has signed Tito Lusiardo. The first production is expected to go into work shortly. Julio Joly, owner of Cinematografo Joly, distributor of French product, has entered production, forming Joly Co., and planning to begin with three comedies by the popular writer, Alberto Vaccarezza. The most recently formed company is Fotofono Argentina, formed by the American, Jack Lustberg. He plans to produce not only for the domestic market, but also for export to all Spanish-speaking countries. Associated with him is Andres Martini, scenarist. He plans to complete only one picture this year, but by March, 1937, when the South American season begins, he expects to have from four to six ready.

Leonardo Carman was signed by M. Goodman, Republic foreign sales manager, prior to the latter's departure for the United States, as head of exploitation of all Republic product in Argentina.

Curtis Frederick Nager and C. Palmer Miller of the technical staff of Color Classics, Inc., have arrived here en route to the Province of Missiones, as part of a camera expedition to film the scenic beauties of the country. The trip is sponsored by the Panamerican Union and the Touring Club of Argentina.

although the circuits and distributors received the letters about three weeks ago, it is understood none has answered. It is said the questions are broad and comprehensive in scope and require considerable thought before answering.

One company lawyer has found some of the questions involved and hence will ask the Dep't. of Justice to modify some of the wording. There is no must order attached to the questionnaires, the Government stating it would appreciate the answers to the questions without giving the purpose of the required data.

Among some of the questions asked are to give the relationship between the distributor and its circuit or other circuits, film deals made and being made, the exact location of theatres, seating capacity, interested partners and definition of run.

Goldwyn Sued By Paramount For 5 Million

Signing of Cooper Was Illegal, Says Zukor

Los Angeles, July 20.—Paramount filed a $5,000,000 damage suit in U. S. District Court here today against Samuel Goldwyn and his producing company, Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., Ltd., for allegedly inducing Gary Cooper to sign a contract with the Goldwyn company after Paramount says it had agreed with Cooper on the terms of a new contract.

The suit asks actual damages of $4,000,000 and additional punitive damages of $1,000,000.

Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board of Paramount and in charge of the company's production, in commenting on the filing of the suit said: "Our attorneys, after careful study, have advised us that such conduct as that alleged in our complaint is not only a breach of good morals and ethics, but is a violation of law and gives us a legal right of action against Goldwyn and his company for all

H. M. Wilcox Quits Post at Paramount

H. M. Wilcox, a former vice-president of Erpi who has been with Paramount on a special assignment for the past 13 months, withdrew from the latter company yesterday.

At the time Wilcox became associated with Paramount it was stated that he was being "borrowed" from Erpi by John E. Otterson for the purpose of making a complete organizational survey of Paramount. He was given a leave of absence by Erpi and his initial assignment took him to the Paramount studio, where he spent sev-

"Ziegfeld" $13,600 For 14th Week Here

"The Great Ziegfeld" tallied $13,600 for its 14th week at the Astor on a two-a-day policy. The musical is scheduled to continue at the Broadway house until the latter part of next month.

Provided Loew's is successful in securing an extension of the lease which ends Aug. 31, "Romeo and Juliet" will succeed "The Great Ziegfeld" early in September.

"The Green Pastures" garnered $56,000 for the first four days at the Music Hall.

M-G-M Buys Half of Fox Gaumont British Share

Deal Involves Transfer Of Trust Co. Shares; New Distribution

Plans for the purchase by M-G-M of half the Twentieth Century-Fox indirect interest in Gaumont British were made public yesterday by Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of Twentieth Century-Fox, Nicholas M. Schenck, president of M-G-M and Loew's, Inc., and Isidore Ostrer, president of Gaumont British.

Joseph Schenck acted as spokesman, but failed to go into some of the details, explaining that many points have not been cleared up and that it would take from four to five weeks before the final arrangements have been concluded. The deal came as a surprise to the industry, as it had been understood that M-G-M, or Loew's, Inc., was in the market for half of the Ostrers' interest in Gaumont British.

Nicholas M. Schenck would not reveal the price to be paid. The actual purchase of 50 per cent of the Twentieth Century-Fox 49 per cent interest is in the Metropolis & Bradford Trust Co., which owns 57 per cent of G. B. The Ostrers control 51 per cent of the trust money.

The impression prevails in the industry that the Ostrers will give up their exclusive management control of the film company in a forthcoming reorganization. Confirming this impression was the joint statement by Ostrer and Joseph Schenck that the Ostrers will make available to the public a portion of their stock in Metropolis & Bradford Trust so that their share will equal that held individually by Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M.

However, the new trust company

Hungary Will Get More U.S. Short Product

By ENDRE HEVESI

Budapest, July 11.—The new season in Hungary is expected to be characterized by a considerable increase in the number of short subjects American distributors will send here. The increase is due to the recent edict of the Hungarian Government prohibiting the showing of two features on any one program.

Releasing plans of several of the major American companies for next season include the following totals: Paramount, 50 features and 40 shorts; M-G-M, 25 features; Warners, six features and 40 shorts; Twentieth Century-Fox, 24 features and 18 shorts; Universal, 10 features. During the past season Paramount released 20 features, while Warners released 10 last year. However, Warners short subject output last year totaled 25, compared with 40 planned next season.

The end of June virtually ends the film season in this city. Budapest represents the only screen public of any consequence in Hungary. During the warm summer months theatres make no attempt to show the better product, exhibiting only the weaker features.

Indicating to some extent the types of film, and those players preferred by the Hungarian public are the results

Cuban Censor Back To Havana for Talk

Roberto Hernandez, head of the Cuban censor board in New York, returned yesterday to Havana for further conferences with Cuban officials on the operation of the local board. An order issued at Havana last week by Carlos Pelaez, Cuban Secretary of the Interior, eliminated the New York board's reviewing fees, thus shutting off its one apparent source of revenue.

Despite the elimination of the reviewing charge, however, American

MPTOA Aims At Action on Program Soon

The M.P.T.O.A. will make a final effort in August to obtain distributor action on the organization's 10-point trade practice program, it was learned here yesterday.

Unwilling to see the self-regulation program killed by distributor inertia, plans are now being arranged for further conferences with sales managers of national distribution companies and, indications are, that if favorable action on the program does not result the M. P T. O. A. may go directly to company heads in a final move to obtain the adoption of all or a major part of its 10-point program. In line with these developments, Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, is expected here about Aug. 10, following the convention of the Southeastern Theatre Owners at Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 2 to 4, which he will attend.

The failure of individual companies to take the initiative in granting outright any of the major concessions sought by the M. P. T. O. A. is held by spokesmen for the exhibitor organization to be the principal reason for the lack of action on the program. They believe that if a single company took the lead in definitely committing itself on each phase of the program others would be quick to follow.

The lack of distributor action up to this point, however, is not regarded as

Studios Start 12 Features in Week

Hollywood, July 20.—Twelve new pictures went before the cameras last week, making a total of 47 in work. Seven finished shooting and went to the cutting rooms where 53 films are being edited. The figures showed a slight decline in production under the preceding seven-day survey which showed 50 features in work. Twenty-eight pictures are scheduled for production within the next two weeks.

Short subjects registered a small gain with five before the cameras as of some of the leading American films during the past season at the box-office.

Among Paramount films, "Desire" and "The Last Outpost" were the most successful. "The Devil Is a Woman" started successfully but could not be properly exploited because of the intervention of the Spanish Government. "The Milky Way," Harold Lloyd comedy, was not received favorably here.

M-G-M's "Anna Karenina," "Mutiny on the Bounty" and "Broadway Melody of 1936" met with pronounced favor, while "David Copperfield" and "Naughty Marietta" were received indifferently. Eleanor Powell sprang into immediate popularity. The lack of success of "David Copperfield" and "Naughty Marietta" could not be attributed to the stars, since both Freddie Bartholomew and Jeanette MacDonald are very well liked by the Hungarian public.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Captain Blood" were the Warner films which ran high at the box-office, while "Gold Diggers of 1935" fell down.

Shirley Temple was the outstanding Twentieth Century-Fox favorite, her films, "Curly Top" and "Bright Eyes" being the two most successful films of the company.

The popularity of Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, especially the latter, was demonstrated in the box office results achieved by "Gay Divorcee" and "Roberta." "Becky Sharp" and "Last Days of Pompeii" met with a reception indicating that costume pictures are not appreciated by the public here.

Columbia's "Love Me Forever" did well. Universal had success with "Magnificent Obsession" and "Storm Over the Andes," but the biographical films, "Diamond Jim" and "Sutter's Gold" were poorly received.

The Hungarian censor board objects to all films with gangster themes on principle, and invariably bans them completely. Brutality of subject matter is another cause of unfavorable action by the board.

Clergy See "Pastures"

CLEVELAND, July 20.—"Green Pastures" was seen here at a private showing by 78 ministers of all denominations. Ben Atwell preceded the screening with an hour's talk on the film, and later held an open forum. The film will open locally at Warners' Hippodrome on Saturday.

Allied to Meet at Shore

Allied of New Jersey will hold its next session at the Berkeley Carteret, Asbury Park, on July 23. Plans for the annual convention scheduled for Sept. 10-11 at Atlantic City will be discussed.

Lane Making Survey

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Tamar Lane is making a survey of production here for the American Film Institute. The results of his work will be published by the institute.

Looking 'Em Over

"Satan Met A Lady"

(Warners)

With a slight revision of the basic legendary element about which the story revolved, Warners have taken Dashiel Hammett's popular novel of some time ago, "The Maltese Falcon," and from it have concocted a dashing, frivolous, almost amazing mystery film, with a wild sort of comedy predominating. It is a picture which, in all probability, will be called utterly insane by some persons, and completely entertaining by others. It would seem that halfway opinions by audiences regarding the film are impossible.

Warners, in screen fashion, virtually have out-Hammetted Hammett. Warren William is the unscrupulous, reckless and very likable Shane, the private detective extraordinary, and Bette Davis, Arthur Treacher and Alison Skipworth make up the capably-performing crooks with whom Shane deals.

In town are a number of crooks, including Miss Davis, Miss Skipworth and Treacher, all bent on finding—or recovering—a famous horn, which, according to legend, dates from the days of Charlemagne, and is stuffed with a fortune in jewels. Shane comes in on the case, and in a fast-moving concoction of murders, crossing, double-crossing and triple-crossing, plays his own game, out-smarting all the smart ones, to take possession of the horn and sees the finish of the gang. At the same time he takes the trouble to bring to book the murderer of his partner, for which the police are anticipating the pleasure of convicting him.

Brown Holmes did the screen play and William Dieterle directed.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,869. Running time, 74 minutes. "G."

"Border Caballero"

(Puritan)

Tim McCoy helps a medicine show elude a sheriff by hauling their stalled truck across the county border. This action gets him a job with the show. He strings along as an expert rifle and pistol shot. At one stand he meets a Federal agent, a former buddy, who is after a bank-robbing gang. The ramifications of the plot follow familiar patterns from that point, and when the Government man is killed McCoy gets permission from Washington to carry on. Using the disguise of a Mexican and with the aid of Lois January, he foils a final bank holdup for an exciting finish.

The film is fast and exciting. McCoy fans and western enthusiasts should be pleased. Members of the supporting cast include Ralph Byrd, Frank Glendon and Ted Adams.

Sam Newfield has done a creditable job of directing. Jack Greenhalgh's camera work, while sometimes leaning toward too much shade, is generally good. The story is from an original by Norman S. Hall.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,031. Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

automobile motors to run projection machines enabled 10 local neighborhood houses and one first run to operate. Two other local first runs remained open through the use of their own power plants.

Film circles yesterday were much less pessimistic than on Saturday. Reports indicate that the strike, now in its fifth day, will be settled in a day or two, although negotiations by leaders of employers and strikers are deadlocked.

O'Rourke Rejoins MPTO

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—Ray O'Rourke, operator of the Doris here, has rejoined the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware. O'Rourke, one of the organizers of the I. E. distributors still are declining to submit their films to the Cuban board here and are awaiting the final results of the recent protest to the Cuban Government made by the U. S. Embassy at Havana.

Hernandez is not expected back for a week or 10 days. The Cuban decree establishing the New York board specified that it would have to be self-sustaining. For this reason American distributors believe the order eliminating the reviewing fee is fatal to the board.

Skirboll Heads West

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—Joe Skirboll left Pittsburgh over the week-end with his family by auto for Hollywood, where, beginning August 1, he will be business manager for Frank Lloyd's production unit at Paramount. Skirboll, once an executive of First National, lately has operated an independent exchange here. He disposed of his interest in the exchange a few weeks ago to the Monarch office here.

MPTOA Aims At Action on Program Soon

being fatal to the exhibitors' program despite the fact that new season deals are being closed under contracts which incorporate none of the concessions sought by the M. P. T. O. A. Spokesmen for the organization point out that the cancellation and score charge concessions which have been asked can be either written into the contracts at a later date or appended to them by riders. Distributor approval of the local conciliation boards through which the M. P. T. O. A. hopes the balance of its program could be effected can be given independently of the contract, it is pointed out.

M. P. T. O. A. representatives here expect to see the final effort to obtain distributor action on the program launched toward the middle or latter part of August. Although somewhat discouraged by the failure of any distribution company to take action up to this time, they do not regard the situation as hopeless. They emphasize that no formal or final rejection of the program has been received from any company and that the present anxiety over the fate of the self-regulation plan arises solely from the lack of any action at all on the part of the distributors.

Studios Start 12 Features in Week

compared to three for the preceding week.

Among those which started during the week were Paramount's "Champagne Waltz," teaming Gladys Swarthout and Fred MacMurray; Radio's "Plough and the Stars," with Barbara Stanwyck and Preston Foster, and Warners' "Gold Diggers of 1937" and "The Green Light," Lloyd C. Douglas story. Other films to start were "Man Who Lived Twice" at Columbia, "The Longest Night" at M-G-M, "Oh Susannah" at Republic, "King of the Royal Mounted," Sol Lesser production, and "Ladies in Love" at Twentieth Century-Fox, "Casey of the Coast Guard" at Universal and "God's Country and the Woman" and "Mistress of Fashion" at Warners.

M-G-M had the heaviest production with 10 films in work.

Columbia had six features shooting, three preparing and two editing. 5,200 Houses Show "Time" Reel—Larsen

The March of Time is now showing in 5,200 theatres in the country, an increase of 500 per cent since RKO took over distribution of the reel last August, according to Roy E. Larsen, president of March of Time, Inc. Details have been completed for the 1936-37 season, he said.

The reel is being shown in 720 houses in the United Kingdom, 200 in Australia and 450 in 19 Spanish-speaking countries, through RKO Export, Larsen reported, bringing the world theatre total to 6,600. A new production and research office has been opened in London, with John Grierson as editorial adviser.

After starting with 1,000 theaters in the United States, "The March of Time" is now showing in 5,200 houses in this country, said Roy E. Larsen, president of the company, Saturday in announcing completion of details for the 1936-37 season in

THE DESK of one of 4,000 exhibitors—who watches reviews, follows box-office reports, realizes exploitation possibilities—and makes money each month on THE MARCH OF TIME.

THE MARCH OF TIME welcomes the seeming confusion of reports continually quoting new "highs" for the number of theatres showing the subject regularly each month. The variance of figures in advertisements, publicity stories, sales manuals and promotion material comes not from a lack of accuracy but from the sheer inability of the printing press to keep pace with exhibitor recognition and RKO sales reports. On July 10th, at 3 p. m., there were 6203 theatres in the U. S. showing THE MARCH OF TIME, 727 in the United Kingdom, 310 in Australia, 498 in Spanish-speaking countries and 51 in other parts of the world—a world total of 7789. By the time you read this advertisement even this total will have been topped.

M-G-M Takes Half of Fox G. B. Shares

which will replace Metropolis & Bradford will continue its 57 per cent interest in Gaumont British. Both Joseph and Nicholas Schenck yesterday stated they have asked Isidore Ostrer to become more active and assume the chairmanship of the board. Mark Ostrer now is chairman and managing director. He will continue in the latter post under the reorganization. Isidore Ostrer, who is president, said he will accept the chairmanship provided the new board is agreeable.

In announcing the deal, Joseph Schenck asserted that it is the intention of all interests to place a sufficient amount of stock on sale to the public so that no individual involved in the deal will have control of Metropolis & Bradford Trust.

Twentieth Century-Fox's investment in M. & B. is rated at $16,000,000, Ostrer said, but Nicholas Schenck would not reveal the price to be paid for half of the company's holdings.

Deal to Be Completed Abroad

J. Robert Rubin, general counsel for M-G-M, arrived in England yesterday and Richard Dwight of Hughes, Schurman & Dwight, attorneys for Twentieth Century-Fox, will sail the end of this week or early next week to complete negotiations in England. Ostrer and Beddington Behrens, stock broker, will sail Thursday on the Ile de France to participate in the final negotiations.

No change in the management of Gaumont or the company's theatres is contemplated, Joseph Schenck stated. Only where advisable will changes be made, he said.

Under terms of the arrangement, Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M will distribute G. B. films in all parts of the world with the exception of England where each company will have a representative in a central distributing office. In the United States, M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox will each distribute half of the G. B. lineup. When asked about the future of Jeffrey Bernerd and Arthur Lee, Ostrer answered: "We will protect everybody. That's one thing we can do."

Complete Co-operation Planned

All production facilities of the two American companies will be made available to G. B. M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox players and stars likewise will be available to the English company. As a result, M-G-M has abandoned its plan to produce in England, according to Nicholas Schenck. As soon as the eight pictures scheduled by two British companies for Twentieth Century-Fox have been completed, this plan will be dropped, Joseph Schenck said. The 24 features planned by G. B. next season will be increased. More money will be put into them than the three companies had contemplated spending in England next season, Ostrer said.

Joseph Schenck revealed that M-G-M's part in the deal is not new. He said he had discussed bringing this company into the deal when he conferred with Ostrer a year ago last June. Schenck added that the negotiations which will be completed shortly were essentially to increase the efficiency in G. B. production and distribution.

Half-Baked

Cincinnati, July 20. — One of the laughs of the week was provided by the well-intentioned remark of an out-of-town exhibitor who visited one of the local exchanges when the thermometer registered around 108.

"It's pretty hot," commented the booker, by way of conversation.

"Yes," replied the exhibitor, "you look as if you were half-baked right now."

Answering questions intimating that the new deal would transfer control of G. B. to American companies, Joseph and Nicholas Schenck said: "We don't want to have control in any company. We are acting as free agents."

Joseph Schenck denied that Alexander Korda was linked with the deal. He said Korda had nothing to do with it and "I very emphatically state he is not coming in and he in no way will be connected with the enterprise."

No plans have been discussed for Baird Television Co., of which G.B. is the "largest stockholder." Both Schencks denied that the G. B. interest in the company had any influence in the deal.

The Loew head said that "when the time comes we (meaning M-G-M) will pay in cash for the Twentieth-Century-Fox shares." Joseph Schenck called a halt to all questions by reporters and announced: "The deal I have made with my brother was concluded after conferences with S. R. Kent." Kent was not at the meeting, Schenck explained, because he was in Maine on a vacation.

Favor Ostrer as Chairman

Twentieth Century-Fox has three directors on the board of Metropolis & Bradford Trust. Although it is not known at the present time how many the company will have under the new setup, Schenck declared that "when our directors meet they will vote for Isidore Ostrer as chairman and we have no doubt the directors of Ostrer's company will follow our lead." The Twentieth Century-Fox board is expected to meet in two weeks, Schenck said.

"We are not prepared to give further details," Nicholas M. Schenck said in response to queries on the new stock setup and other matters that were vague. "Our minds have just met," he said, "and it's unfair to ask some questions." He emphasized that the deal would take from five to six weeks to complete and that it was now up to the lawyers to work out the details.

"I think it is a very good proposition," he added. "We will not have to produce quota pictures, but from now on we will get real good films from England." The deal, he said, will increase efficiency, stimulate production and effect considerable savings both in production and distribution.

From time to time, emphasis was placed on the fact that control of the reorganized Metropolis & Bradford Trust Co. would continue in British hands, Joseph Schenck, at one point, stated that the combined interests of the Ostrers, M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox will not give them control of the new trust company, but that the control will be with the public to whom new shares will be issued.

Joseph Schenck described A. C. Blumenthal as "an agent" in the deal, who did not represent anyone, but "will be compensated." Schenck went further and said Blumenthal "injected himself" into the deal. Ostrer claimed it wasn't Blumenthal's idea and he would not say whether he would pay a commission. Nicholas M. Schenck stated that as far as he was concerned, Blumenthal had nothing to do with the deal.

The anti-trust laws were brought up. Ostrer said: "We don't have anti-trust laws." Joseph Schenck stated that no monopoly angle could be injected into the deal. He said there were about 33 producing companies and if three were eliminated by a transaction this would not imply a monopoly.

The Twentieth Century-Fox chairman asserted he would not go to England for the final details. His brother also said he would stay here. Joseph Schenck is scheduled to leave by plane tomorrow for the coast.

Ostrer was questioned at length on the Baird Television plans. He said that in October regular broadcasting would be inaugurated in England.

Goldwyn Sued By Paramount For 5 Million

actual damages suffered and for punitive damages where the wrongdoing was willful and malicious."

Paramount's complaint said that the alleged "raid" was accomplished "by means of false and fraudulent representations." The brief said that Cooper's signing by Goldwyn was intended to be kept secret from Paramount executives until the expiration of his present contract, Dec. 4, 1936.

Zukor declared that negotiations for a new four-year contract were begun with Cooper last October and that an agreement on terms was reached with the star in January. The alleged interference by Goldwyn and his company occurred shortly thereafter and prevented the signing of the contract, Zukor said.

"In the making of motion pictures," Zukor added, "every producer realizes that any star has the right to better himself. But in the 25 years I have been in motion pictures I have never permitted our executives to interfere with the negotiations between a star of another company and that company for the continued services of the star. That has always been and always will be a matter of principle with our organization."

Zukor said that Paramount "at great expense" had developed Cooper into "one of the most important and highly paid actors in motion pictures" since Aug., 1926, when he joined Paramount.

Asked to comment on the suit, Goldwyn said: "I have a contract with Cooper effective upon the completion of his obligations to his present employers. I have not seen the complaint reported to have been filed. However, I do not understand the theory upon which any claim can be based."

It was intimated that Goldwyn will claim to have "discovered" Cooper when the actor was elevated from the extra ranks to a featured role in "The Winning of Barbara Worth."

The suit is the first of its kind known here and some Hollywood legal authorities believe it may prove to be a test case for star-raiding tactics of producers.

Jack Moss Reticent

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Beyond saying that there is a signed contract between Gary Cooper and Samuel Goldwyn, Jack Moss, agent for Cooper, would make no detailed statement regarding the Paramount suit.

B. I. P. Purchases Play

LONDON, July 20.—British International Pictures have bought the screen rights to the play, "Aren't Men Beasts," which has had a successful run at the West End Theatre here. The film will feature Alfred Drayton and Robertson Hare of the stage cast.

"Frisco" 86% Holdover

A check-up of the business done by "San Francisco" reveals that 58 of the 67 first run key theatre engagements, or 86 per cent, held the picture for extra playing time.

Revivals Lead in Providence Slump

PROVIDENCE, July 20.—Terrific weekend heat drove most of Providence to the beaches, but a subsequent drop in the thermometer helped grosses back to around the average mark. Loew's State with its revival of "Dinner at Eight" and "Chained," did fairly well with $8,600, though far below average.

The Strand had a good gross with "Early to Bed" and "Sudden Death," with $6,100, slightly below average. Clever exploitation of "Sudden Death" in the newspapers helped. Film Buying Control for Para. Urged

Kennedy Report Favors Group of Operators

The creation of a committee comprised of Paramount theatre operators and partners to direct film buying and booking operations for the 1,100 theatres in which the company has an interest was recommended to the company's board of directors by Joseph P. Kennedy, a further study yesterday of the Kennedy Paramount reports revealed.

The reports have been issued piecemeal, first in Wall St., then only for stockholders' inspection in the home office, and now for publication of the deleted versions prepared by Paramount.

The recommendation is made in consequence of an observation in the report that "while the principle of decentralized theatre operation may be good and the results generally satisfactory, it is quite evident that there is a very weak link in the setup inso-

Otterson Contract Talks Near Climax

Negotiations for the settlement of John E. Otterson's Paramount contract are nearing a climax and either an agreement or the cessation of negotiations are regarded as likely within the next few days, it was stated authoritatively yesterday. Failure to arrive at a settlement would mean the bringing of a breach of contract action against the company by Otterson.

The negotiations are being conducted by a committee of three Paramount directors on the one hand and Otterson and his attorneys, Schwartz & Frohlich, on the other. It was

English Fear Loss of G. B. Control to Fox and M-G-M

Quick, Henry!

It's just one picket after another in front of the Music Hall these days.

Last week Camden RCA strikers paraded. Yesterday the picketers' signs read: "Music Hall exterminators on strike."

Women patrons "Oh'd and ah'd" and giggled, "It was so new and beautifully cared for. How could they?"

"What are they striking for?" Gus Eyssel was asked.

"I don't know. Maybe they want flit guns. It's a contractor's service. I called up the Federation of Labor and they didn't know there was a strike. In the meantime business seems to be all right."

Lawyers Fighting For Fox's Records

Atlantic City, July 21.—A few more items from the books of All-Continent Corp., the $6,400,000 trust which William Fox formed for his wife and daughters, were admitted in evidence today as the hearing on his bankruptcy petition continued here.

It was a part of the continuing fight of the creditors' lawyers to bring the All-Continent transactions into the record piecemeal, as a basis for further efforts to win the right to inspect the books. Creditors' spokesmen alleged All-Continent, listed as one of the creditors, in reality is a disguised William Fox asset.

Negotiators Sailing for London to Complete Agreement Detail

With the sailing tomorrow of Richard Dwight of Hughes, Schurman & Dwight, attorneys for Twentieth Century-Fox, on the Europa, and Isidore Ostrer, president of G. B., and Beddington Behrens, British stock broker, on the Ile de France, negotiations for the reorganization of Metropolis & Bradford Trust Co. and G. B. will be conducted in England until all details have been worked out. J. Robert Rubin, legal head of M-G-M, has arrived in England.

Conferences among the lawyers are expected to continue for four to five weeks, it was stated by Joseph and Nicholas M. Schenck, before the results of negotiations are reduced to writing.

With the publication yesterday of the announcement by Ostrer and the Schenck brothers of the deal whereby M-G-M will acquire half of Twentieth Century-Fox's interest in Metropolis & Bradford Trust and the anticipated reorganization plans for that company and Gaumont British, gloom descended

Film Difficulties Increase in Reich

Washington, July 21.—American films are meeting with increasing difficulties in Germany, according to a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from its Berlin office.

The principal obstacle, it is pointed out, is the refusal of the German Propaganda Ministry to allow importation of particular pictures, chiefly on the ground that the cast is unsatisfactory or that the story is unsuitable.

Exchange difficulties have been fur-

Government Opposition May Develop Through Board of Trade

By RED KANN

London, July 21.—News of the Gaumont British, Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M developments created lively trade discussions here in which there was a note of alarm very evident, due to the prospect that the lumping of the three companies' product will absorb a large percentage of Gaumont theatre dates. The circuit may be expected to take the whole output.

Distributors regard this as a serious threat to other concerns, including Radio, Paramount, Columbia and other American companies.

Authoritative opinion inclines to the view that the Government is unlikely to accept nominal British control in the company organization unless definitely assured that the real control also is British. Supporting this view is the fact that following first circulation of rumors of the merger a leading British company was approached by the Government and asked to state its opinion of the effects of the deal.

The Government is in a position to control the situation through the Board of Trade licenses to distributors under the Films Act, or it might

Denies RKO Suit Request

Federal Judge Coxe yesterday denied the request of Samuel Shipman and Clara Lipman, playwrights, to be allowed to submit certain questions to executives of Radio Pictures and the RKO Distributing Corp. in connection with their $500,000 action for plagiarism. The plaintiffs charged the defendants had plagiarized their play "It Depends on the Woman" in the production of the film "I Dream Too Much." They sought the court's permission to question the executives as to who had written the film script: how much the picture had grossed since it was first exhibited and the cost of production. However, permission was granted the plaintiffs to submit several less important questions.

"Pastures" Dominion Showing Is Assured

Toronto, July 21.—The final acceptance by the Ontario censor board of "The Green Pastures" has assured the showing of the picture throughout the Dominion, since it is the invariable rule among exchanges that a release is withdrawn from the Canadian market if it is banned in Ontario, that province providing the greater part of the Dominion film revenue.

The action of Premier M. F. Hepburn of Ontario in announcing the ban on the film, then finally declaring it approved, has served as a remarkably effective bit of publicity for Warners on the exhibition of the picture in the Dominion. Canadian newspapers from coast to coast were filled with news regarding the ban. No deletions were made in the film as approved.

Set 94 "Pastures" Dates

"The Green Pastures" within the next 10 days will open in 94 new situations for special pre-release engagements, according to Warners.

Ask Melbert Bankruptcy

Amusement Securities Corp. filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal Court yesterday against Melbert Pictures, Inc., on a claim for $10,878, the amount of a judgment obtained by Amusement Securities in the N. Y. Supreme court recently. Besides the amount of the judgment, the petitioner also listed any profits that may have been made by Melbert during the exhibition of its film, "White Zombie." The original action was brought by Amusement Securities on the ground that the word "zombie" in the title of the film, "White Zombie," infringed the title of their picture, "Revolt of the Zombies." An injunction also was granted Amusement Securities restraining further showing of the picture "White Zombie" under that title.

"Scotland" Book in Box

S. Barret McCormick and his aides have turned out a press book on "Mary of Scotland" enclosed in a box like a rare edition. The box is covered with superimposed scenes from the film.

About nine patrons were injured by the explosions.

CERTAINLY IT'S TRICK PHOTOGRAPHY!

Please don't ask us how it's done on the screen! It's a secret! Just take our tip that this is the grandest novelty in many seasons and a real opportunity to profit!

We're thrilled about the success of "The Devil Doll" in all its opening engagements! We advised theatres to get behind this unusual film with extra advertising and peppy showmanship because we felt it had all the excitement and novelty of those good old Lon Chaney thrillers! M-G-M likes to step out of the beaten track of entertainment and we've been fortunate the way "THE DEVIL DOLL" turned out. It really merits the quick and active promotional attention of alert showmen!

A Reprint from SHOWMEN'S TRADE REVIEW

Product Analysis

MGM Should Maintain Lead

This analysis of MGM 1936-37 product is the second in a series which began last issue with a discussion of the Paramount lineup. The remaining majors and more important independents will follow.

A regular annual feature of Showmen's Trade Review these analyses are attempts to give our reactions to past performances and future possibilities with a weather eye to the box office. There is only one way to make these analyses mean something. You must compare our reactions with your own box-office statements and arrive at a happy medium. No observer can prophesy for each individual theatre. But we can tell you what's on our mind and how we feel about the various companies under discussion.

IN this analysis you will have to place yourself in one of two positions or classifications. Either you are now a customer of MGM, or not a customer now but expecting to be one next season

In the first classification we can discuss the current season and how it fared for you and your theatres STR, in the last listing of the Film Derby Chart on May 2nd, gave MGM a rating of 107% on 31 pictures listed up to that date. These 31 pictures consisted of 9 "A" pictures, 13 "B," and 9 "C."

Since that date four more pictures have been rated as follows. "Speed"—C; "Three Wise Guys"—C; "Fury"—B; "Trouble for Two"—B Giving them, to date, a grand total of 35 pictures and a rating of 102%. They still have enough pictures left on the current season's schedule to make a radical change, up or down, when the Derby Chart is published for the complete season.

Those who played the product most certainly know whether they made money or lost money with it. They also know full well whether they overpaid or underpaid or if they bought the product at fair and reasonable terms to both parties And we assume that if they found the product profitable, they contemplate signing a contract for the next season.

For the benefit of those who did not play MGM during 1935-36 but are interested in securing this company's product for 1936-37, we must go into more detail. Which brings us to the "A" pictures of the current season.

No theatreman, regardless of whether he played the MGM lineup or not, could possibly be ignorant of the box-office value of such pictures as "Rose Marie," "China Seas," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Night at the Opera," "Tale of Two Cities," "Ah Wilderness," "Small Town Girl," "Petticoat Fever," "Broadway Melody of 1936" No doubt such exhibitors envied the opposition when they were playing them As for the "B" pictures plenty of them were "A" in receipts in many a town throughout the country Without going into further listing of them or the "C" pictures which were spotty here and there, we suggest that you take your copy of STR of May 2nd and glance through them yourself

So much for 1935-36. Let's take a look at 1936-37 because it happens to be the important point of discussion at this moment and, no doubt, of vital importance to thousands of exhibitors who know the necessity of strong backbone product as the basis of their entire picture buy for the season.

We recommend that you secure a copy of "Leo's Candid Camera Book" right away. Then lock the door to your office and thumb through it slowly, digesting each little morsel of food for thought presented in its interesting and entertaining pages It will convey far more than any bare analysis could possibly hope to cover and will give you a closer insight into exactly what you can expect from MGM next season

What's To Come!

Heading the schedule for the new season is "The Great Ziegfeld," and of this picture we don't believe we need to say anything It is one of the highlight pictures of the whole industry and you can take that from the time of its inception An absolute box-office cleanup if ever there was one. "Romeo and Juliet," we pick no bones about. It appears from this observer's viewpoint to be a picture designed for the classes and not the masses, but that does not detract one iota from the fact that it s a grand picture and may fool all of us who harbor some fears about its appeal among the masses.

"Marie Antoinette," with Shearer and Laughton, ought to measure up to the high standards of box-office appeal demanded today "The Good Earth" features Paul Muni and Luise Rainer and has been so definitely pre-sold that it can certainly be counted upon to deliver high grosses. "Prisoner of Zenda," with William Powell and Myrna Loy, presents these two favorites in a vehicle that has much popular appeal and a story that has been proven in the dim and distant past as money material

The big following of Eddy and MacDonald will rejoice over the opportunity of seeing these two stars in "Maytime," and even though it has been years since this story first was presented on the stage, it has been kept alive with constant and regular revivals all over the country. Actually rated as the number one musical romance of the stage Marx Brothers will have a new one for 1936-37, and, following their last hit, ought to find the movie public keen to see more of them. Garbo fans will be able to get a heavy portion of her and her unique personality in "Camille" With a good supporting cast she might even pick up a few more fans

Another Garbo vehicle is "Beloved," in which she is scheduled to star with Charles Boyer, and here is one fan who thinks they will make a swell combination "Broadway Melody of 1937," with many of the outstanding stars of the '36 Melody. Our prediction is that it will top last year's by several heads and shoulders

"After The Thin Man," with Powell and Loy, ought to find favor with the masses who went for the first one in a big way. "Born to Dance" is a starring vehicle for Eleanor Powell and carries about the same cast set-up, writers, etc, as "Melody of '37," so we can't make out whether it is the same picture or not

"Kim," starring Freddie Bartholomew, sounds like an ideal picture for this ever-popular youngster A Cole Porter musical, "Easy to Love," with again the same Eleanor Powell and cast as previously announced for her other pictures. Clark Gable is set for "Great Canadian," "No Hero" and "Saratoga," the latter with Crawford Montgomery and Rainer are teamed in one or more

Hal Roach will contribute some features in addition to his short schedule Among the feature-length films will be "Girls Go West" with Patsy Kelly and Lyda Roberti, and we call this shot as being right in the bag That gal Kelly has no equal for real rowdy fun. Laurel and Hardy will head three of which the first two will be "Our Relations" and "You'd Be Surprised"

Backing Them Up!

We have jumped here and there through the book in picking the titles and material discussed above but we again recommend the Candid Camera Book as your best guide in getting the real lowdown on the MGM product

Say what you like about MGM, pro or con, about their sales policies or what have you, yet you cannot take away from them the distinction of being the one company that spends a fortune attracting attention to their outstanding pictures and actually getting patrons to your theatre through the medium of smashing ad campaigns in national fiction magazines, billboards, and other angles all designed to build up interest in the pictures and help you by starting the campaign ball arolling.

Smart theatremen gain the greatest amount of good from the MGM sales efforts by tying their own local campaigns to the national campaigns. And no small measure of credit goes to Howard Deitz's department for the ultimate box-office success of many of the MGM pictures

This sales effort, made to order for every theatre playing MGM pictures, costs plenty of money and unless the pictures return big grosses and returns to MGM they would be crazy to continue them. Their program for this type of activity for 1936-37 is even more elaborate than during the past year or two and ought to account for much of the business that will be attracted to the local theatres throughout the country

Sales Policies!

This subject has, for the past five years, been a tough nut to crack in any kind of a trade-paper discussion and to STR's credit is the fact that we dare to even make mention of it in these analyses. But whether the comment about sales policies has been favorable or unfavorable, MGM has been sport enough to "take 'it," knowing full well that it is meant in only the most constructive spirit.

There were fewer kicks about the company's sales policies last year than ever before, our contact with the field reveals. So we assume that those who bought the product were fairly well satisfied with the deals they made. But for 1936-37 you have probably all heard what they are asking

One thing stands out in all of MGM's trading with exhibitors: they are always willing to adjust a bum deal with any theatreman This even goes to their high percentage pictures, or, at least, has in the past; if that high percentage pic failed to deliver proportionate grosses at the b.o., it was adjusted so as to cost the exhibitor only a fair price This policy has won for MGM thousands of friends who are sports enough to play ball with a company that has been delivering the type of pictures that they have given you.

To boil it all down to a few words of conclusion: the terms are your worry. Ours is but to convey our candid opinion about the possibilities of the product, and that opinion is that MGM for 1936-37 ought to be a "must" in any representative theatre. We doubt whether any exhibitor will have cause for complaint about the quality of the pictures delivered.

Film Buying Control for Para. Urged

far as buying and booking of pictures are concerned."

"The New York office," Kennedy continues, "has no control over the buying or booking of pictures wherever management contracts are concerned. We feel that the problem of strengthening this weak link could be met to some extent by appointing a committee of which every operator of theatres under Paramount would have to be a member, this committee to classify the company's theatres for buying and booking. However, because of the intricacies of local conditions involved we feel that nobody outside of the committee such as recommended can satisfactorily suggest working methods for it."

John J. Ford, general manager of Maine & New Hampshire Circuit, which is affiliated with a Paramount theatre subsidiary, made the study of Paramount theatre operations which was the basis for the Kennedy report on that phase of the company's operations.

Management Pacts Approved

Of the 1,100 theatres in which the report says Paramount is now interested either through leases, fees, stock ownership or pools, and exclusive of the company's foreign theatre interests, 950 are operated under management contracts. The managers may be either part owners or simply contract managers. Of the 150 remaining houses which are directly under New York supervision, 90 are operated under individual management contracts.

The report recommends that "under no circumstances should any attempts be made at this time to change or modify the theatre management contracts in any way unless the request should originate with the manager." Since the report was made Paramount has renewed for one year its partnership operating deal with Karl Hoblitzelle on substantially its former terms and also has renewed the management contracts of Wilby & Kincey for one year and Lucas & Jenkins for three years on the basis existing at the time of their expiration, July 1. The recommendation not to alter the terms of operating contracts, is made, according to the report, because of a current "feeling of insecurity on the part of the contractors."

Office Expenses "Out of Line"

The report declares that general office expenses of some of the management contractors "appear to be entirely out of line" and indicate a possible saving on this item alone of $350,000 a year "without in any way adversely affecting the operation of the theatres." It urges that this item be "properly put up to the management contractors." The report also expresses the belief that "as conditions improve management contracts should be very carefully gone into and terms arranged that will protect Paramount's interests and at the same time be agreeable to the contractor."

The theatre report concludes that "with a good improvement at the studio, insofar as pictures are concerned and a reduction of management expenses, the theatres should show a net profit of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 annually."

Must See Films

San Francisco, July 21.—Police Judge Twain Michaelsen has tried a new slant in sentences for traffic violations by ordering defendants to see "And Sudden Death." It is now being shown at the Fox.

Offenders were required to prove later that they had actually seen the picture.

Kennedy's observations on Paramount's domestic distribution are favorable for the most part, with special mention being made of equitable salaries of branch managers and salesmen and the reasonableness of other distribution costs. He says, however, that "considerable discrepancies exist as to the sizes of non-selling staffs at the various branches" and believes that employment economies can be effected in some exchanges.

Asks Separation of Shorts

The report recommends the creation of a short subject sales department within the distribution department, pointing out that without one the sales department may tend to become "feature-minded" to the detriment of the shorts product. The belief is presented that "Paramount has more opportunity, perhaps, for single reel playing time than any other company due to the fact that it has such an extensive theatre circuit."

In the Kennedy study of Paramount's financial and accounting departments criticism is directed at a failure of the company to define "the lines of authority and responsibility of the financial vice-president, the treasurer and the general auditor" and points out that as a result the treasurer and general auditor "report independently of each other to the financial vice-president" who, in turn, reports to the president, whereas, the report says, "in practice, the general auditor has to work to a considerable extent under the treasurer, and the treasurer has to have direct contact with the president and board."

Home Office Costs Increased

The conclusion is made that the "financial department will function better when there is made and followed a clear-cut decision on its lines of control and responsibility."

Kennedy's report discloses that the weekly cost of operating the home office and branches for the first quarter of 1936 increased $21,000 a week over the 1935 average. It states that $13,000 of the increase was the result of an advertising program "adopted to help swell the 1936-37 program and to offset the adverse reports circulated throughout the industry about the company." The remainder of the increase was traced to executive and legal expense. "The increase in legal expense was largely due to payments to outside attorneys," the report further says.

The report on the Paramount studio consumes 20 pages of a 25-page summary of the Kennedy reports, which was prepared from them by the company for stockholder inspection. This phase of the report, already well publicized, presents a picture of operating confusion. Costly mistakes in production, conflicting authority or the absence of any authority, demoralized studio morale and a costly loss of production prestige are cited in the report. Responsibility for their existence is directly traceable, the report says, "to a lack of confidence in the management and direction of the company's affairs in the New York office."

Criticises Directors

"We are faced with the fact," Kennedy writes, "that the organization which you directors depend upon to make profits for your company is wholly without confidence in you. I have not succeeded in my attempt to find men of outstanding rank in the industry to recommend to you for executive positions with Paramount. Such men are urgently needed. Unfortunately, those whom I should recommend to you are not interested in considering positions with Paramount while directors believed throughout the industry and throughout your organization to be responsible for dissension and division in management policies continue as members of the board."

Kennedy recommends the withdrawal from the board of these "irreconcilables" and states that "it would be an irreconcilable waste of your money and a senseless waste of our time to proceed further with the work of survey unless and until such changes are made in management as I deem an essential preliminary to any continuation of my work."

Kennedy discontinued his work several weeks ago.

Points to Potentialities

The report declares that "it may take a year or more to overcome existing difficulties" in Paramount but adds that, with necessary improvement in product and other changes, "I feel that there is enough prestige still clinging to the Paramount name to restore it to leadership in the industry. It would be little short of criminal, if, on the threshold of a period of prosperity for the industry, this opportunity to eliminate waste and substitute profits were to be passed by without action. It might subsequently be difficult to explain such inaction to litigous stockholders or to enquiring Congressional committees," the report concludes.

stated that Otterson had been offered a settlement of $50,000 per year for the remaining four years of his contract and that this had been refused. The contract calls for $150,000 for one remaining year and $100,000 a year for the final three years. What settlement Otterson is asking was not disclosed.

Universal Signs Foster

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—Lewis R. Foster has been signed to a Universal contract as author-director by Charles R. Rogers. Foster is the author of "Two In a Crowd," which will be the first Universal feature for the 1936-37 season. His first assignment probably will be "The Case of the Constant God."

Lawyers Fighting For Fox's Records

Trust Co., again questioned Herbert Leitsteen, Fox bookkeeper, and sought to picture Fox as spending much time in brokerage offices in 1931, 1932 and later, buying and selling stocks.

He intimated that when the day's transactions showed a loss, they were credited to the William Fox account for income tax and other reasons, and when they showed a profit they were credited as made on behalf of All-Continent. However, Leitsteen did not concede that point. Late in the day a page of All-Continent stock market trading in 1931 was admitted in evidence.

Mrs. Eva Fox and the daughters, Mrs. Mona Tauszig and Mrs. Belle Schwartz, as owners of All-Continent appeared for questioning but were excused for another two weeks, as was Fox, who was unable to appear. Murray C. Becker, of Fox counsel, explained that his client fell asleep while sun-bathing and "his whole body is burned."

ther complicated by refusal to allow the transfer of German receipts to blocked foreign account, which completely prevents any possibility of getting even a part of the money out of the country, it was stated.

There is reason to believe, according to the report, that some of the large first run houses will be forced to close during the summer because of a film shortage. This situation may have some effect on the restrictive policy now being pursued toward American films.

At present, leading first runs in Berlin are showing films which are not up to their usual standard. Other houses are reviving old films. As the repetition of German films has not been favorably received by the public, Berlin theatres are now showing foreign, particularly American films, according to the report.

The local Warner office is trying to figure out a way to cut "Anthony Adverse" so that the inference regarding an illegitimate child is done away with, otherwise the picture gets a pink ticket. The return of Lieutenant Harry Costello, head of the censor board, next week, may help settle matters. No action will be taken until then.

Britain Fears Loss of G. B. To Fox, M-G-M

add a greatly increased duty on imported films, or increase or modify the quota.

It is certain that increased pressure will be brought on the Moyne Committee by British interests to strengthen the act in order to end the fear of American influence disclosed in the committee's minutes of evidence.

The Gaumont selling organization will be scrapped, it is believed, to leave Gaumont British films free for Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M, which will split the Gaumont product with the possible exception of the newsreel, but another story is that Gaumont will increase its output to 40, giving it sufficient product for the three organizations.

(Editor's Note: — Joseph M. Schenck said yesterday in New York that the G. B. selling organization would be "absorbed" in the United States and that a new distributing unit for the three companies would be organized in England with representatives of each company in it.)

Radical Changes Seen Likely

There is a possibility that this expansion will call for the taking over of the at present uncompleted Amalgamated Studios at Elstree and the ultimate scrapping of Shepherd's Bush.

Mark Ostrer still could not be reached today.

Next Monday J. R. Remer, M.P., will ask in the House of Commons whether the President of the Board of Trade "will take steps to see that this important company does not pass into foreign control."

Gaumont British shares sold today as follows: Ordinary, 13.4½; A ordinary, 6.3; preference, 18 shillings. On July 7 they were 9.6, 4.3 and 16.7½ shillings in the order named.

There is speculation here as to how the combined selling forces can handle 120 pictures. The individual selling organizations of Warners and First National here are cited as an illustration of the value of separate selling. Running as two distinct organizations here, the general impression is that the sales results have been comparatively better than in the States where a joint organization has been maintained.

Large Savings Possible

It is estimated that the scrapping of the G. B. selling organization in he United States will mean an annual aving of from $500,000 to $750,000.

Abandonment of quickie British production by M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox will save between $200,-00 and $300,000 yearly for each company.

The merger can start, therefore, with an approximate annual cash saving of between $1,000,000 and $1,500,-00.

An important feature is that Gaumont British productions have not reviously been used as a quota cover for American films and the company's utput of 24 to 30 yearly would cover the entire Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M outputs.

M-G-M, as was indicated in New York by Joseph Schenck, will give up its production plans immediately and Twentieth Century-Fox will probably scrap its Wembley Studio after Robert Kane finishes his four for the new season schedule and outside producers have made four, three by one and one by another.

The switch of Gaumont's list to the new company will have the effect of reducing the number of quota pictures available to exhibitors, although the loss may be more apparent than real because of the poor quality of a majority of the Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M quota films.

Duplication in Newsreels

The merger may also offer a newsreel problem, as Gaumont has its own successful reel and Twentieth Century-Fox its Movietone News controlled by a separate company in which the Harmsworth family with important associations in the Daily Mail newspaper group are interested.

On the theatre side the important angle is that the Gaumont British circuit, built originally chiefly from the old provincial Cinematograph Theatres Circuit, has still many obsolescent theatres and the probable results of the merger are the scrapping or renovation of many of these theatres with resources from new capital.

M-G-M Asks 65-35

M-G-M is asking for 65-35 percentage deals on "The Great Ziegfeld," the former figure to go to the distributor and the latter for the exhibitor.

It's the first time in years that M-G-M has sold a picture on these terms.

City to Appeal in Theatre Ban Suits

An appeal will be taken by the Corporation Counsel's office from a decision handed down recently by Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew granting an application to the estate of Henry Phipps for a license to build a theatre at Madison Ave. and 62nd St.

When License Commissioner Paul Moss refused to grant a permit for the erection of a theatre on the ground that it would be detrimental to the neighborhood, the estate brought the matter into court.

Robert Walton Goelet has asked Justice Valente to set aside a decision by Commissioner Moss denying the application of a license to build a theatre at 61 E. 52nd St. Justice Valente has reserved his ruling until later.

upon the domestic sales force and home office personnel.

The home office publicity and advertising department with the exception of A. P. Waxman, who holds a contract which expires in December, and his assistant, Al Selig, was understood to have been given notice yesterday. Efforts to check this with Jeffrey Bernerd and Arthur Lee were unavailing.

No instructions had been sent to the sales forces in the field by a late hour yesterday afternoon, but it was learned that both Lee and George Weeks will issue statements today regarding the selling personnel. Bernerd is understood to have a contract which has more than six years to run. Lee and Weeks are also said to hold term agreements.

Schenck to Leave for Coast

Ostrer yesterday tendered Nicholas and Joseph M. Schenck a luncheon at the Colony Club. Joseph Schenck, accompanied by Lew Werthheimer and three other persons whose names could not be learned yesterday, are scheduled to leave by plane for the coast either today or tomorrow.

According to the plans announced, the Ostrers, Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M will have an equal number of shares in the new company which is to replace Metropolis & Bradford Trust. The total interest of the three companies is to be less than 50 per cent so that control will be with the British public, stated Ostrer. The new company, however, will take over the trust company's 57 per cent stock holdings in Gaumont British, it was asserted.

Gaumont British's new production schedule of 40-48 will be distributed in the United States by Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M and these will serve as quota pictures for both companies.

Loew Board to Meet

Indications are that a number of the present G.B. sales force will be retained under the new setup. Twentieth Century-Fox exchanges in this country have been handling the physical distribution of G. B. pictures since the company formed an American organization with Arthur Lee at the helm. About 300 are employed in the 32 branches and the company's payroll is estimated at $20,000 a week.

The board of directors of Loew's, which controls M-G-M, is scheduled to hold its next meeting Aug. 5, when action is slated to be taken on the purchase of a half interest of Twentieth Century-Fox's holdings in Metropolis & Bradford Trust. The meeting may be put over until September.

The chairman of the Twentieth Century-Fox board asserted that his board will meet in about two weeks. Efforts to verify the date at the home office yesterday were unsuccessful.

No formal schedule of meetings with distributors such as was arranged last month for the presentation of the program is planned for August. See 25% Pickup for U. S.-Austria Sales

Washington, July 21.—Distributors of American films anticipate that their business in Austria this year will show a 25 per cent increase over 1935, according to Assistant Commercial Attache L. A. France, Vienna, in a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce.

This favorable situation is noteworthy, it is pointed out, in view of the fact that both German and French films in Austria are favored by trade agreements and other arrangements by which their importation is expedited.

Imports into Austria of French films are increasing appreciably, the report states, but the number is relatively small and it is doubtful if they will have any effect on attendance at American features.

Although German films continue to hold the leading position, it is reported that, from a box-office standpoint, they are gradually losing ground.

Withdrawal By Ascap Affects Canada Films

Agreement Is Sought to Avoid Litigation

The Canadian marketing of all pictures using Ascap-copyrighted music is affected by the impending withdrawal of the music licensing organization from the Canadian Performing Rights Society and efforts are now being made here to work out an agreement with Ascap which would permit the continued exhibition of such pictures in Canada even though the theatres in which they are played pay no music tax to Ascap.

Counsel for all major distribution companies met yesterday with E. C. Mills, general manager of Ascap, to discuss the situation which will be created by the music organization's withdrawal from Canadian licensing and to attempt to work out an arrangement which would avoid litigation over copyright infringement against Canadian theatres which bought and played pictures in which Ascap music is used.

Indications are that Ascap will not

Call Off Conference On Exhibitor Merger

Plans for a meeting this week of the T.O.C.C. committee, headed by Edward Rugoff of the Rugoff & Becker circuit, for working out details in connection with the merger of the organization with the I.T.O.A., have been called off and no definite date has been set for the conferences, Rugoff said yesterday upon his return from a four-day vacation at Lake Placid.

It is possible that a meeting will be held next week, Rugoff stated. The I.T.O.A. group, headed by Bernard Barr, has made no plans for calling a meeting, but it is understood the joint session will be held as soon as Rugoff sets a date.

Exhibitors in France Adopt 10-Point Plan

Course of Action Is Set To Govern Policy

By PIERRE AUTRE

Paris, July 12.—Three hundred French exhibitors have adopted unanimously a 10-point plan by which the future activity of exhibition in the country will be governed. The meeting was called to plan a course of action based on the new laws, rules and agreements affecting workers which were adopted following the recent French strikes.

Present were members of the two large exhibitor organizations, the Exhibitors' Syndicate and the Chambre Syndicale, as well as a number of exhibitors not affiliated with any organization.

The resolutions adopted by the meeting were:

1. Approval of the agreement signed between the two exhibitor organizations and the Cinema Workers' Trade Unions.

2. Expression of confidence in the exhibitor delegates who will work with

Film Business in Spain Is Halted

Barcelona, July 22.—All the theatres and distribution branches in this city are closed as a result of the military revolt which has swept the country from its source in Spanish Morocco. The Government is making drastic efforts to suppress the rebellion, with armed clashes resulting.

Sharp street fighting has made it highly dangerous for exhibitors to remain open, and although it is said order is being restored, it cannot be ascertained with any degree of cer-

BRITISH TO OWN 65% G. B. STOCK

Proposed Plan Is for 35% to 20th-Fox and M-G-M

Approximately 65 per cent of Gaumont British stock ownership will remain in the hands of the British public and the other 35 per cent will be owned by Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M, it is learned authoritatively here.

Under the proposed rearrangement the Ostrer brothers, Mark and Isidore, will retire from an ownership position, and the public offering will be under a contemplated underwriting, it is understood.

Cable advices indicate a growing excitement in England because of the prevailing impression there, based on lack of information on details, over the fear that control will pass to American interests. The Daily Film Renter carried a scare headline today typifying the British opinion that there will be a sequel to the negotiations in Parliament and predicting proposals for an ad valorem film duty and revision of the Films Act.

A Film Renter editorial asserted that there is uneasiness in official circles and questions are in prospect

Admission Tax at New High in June

Washington, July 22.—Collections of admission taxes in June reached the highest figure touched so far this year, $1,532,189, compared with $1,318,765 in May and $1,211,288 in June of last year, according to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Receipts for the fiscal year ended June 30 from this source totaled $17,112,175, the bureau reported, a gain of more than 10 per cent over the 1935 collections of $15,379,379.

Monthly collections have been on the up-grade since March, when they reached the year's low at $1,255,393. The former 1936 high was $1,459,694 in January.

More Books Figure In Hearing on Fox

Atlantic City, July 22.—A revised ruling by Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle, after an hour of argument between counsel for William Fox and his creditors, opened the way to a rapid new invasion of the All-Continent Corp. books as the Fox bankruptcy hearings continued today.

Tonight, 20 complete pages from the All-Continent stock transactions had been introduced in evidence in three hours despite the flat refusal by Mrs. Fox and her daughters, Mrs. Mona Tausig and Mrs. Belle Schwartz, controllers of All-Continent, to allow their records to be inspected.

Fox assertedly created All-Continent six years ago as a $6,400,000 trust for them. Later, creditors' attorneys assert, Fox borrowed heavily from All-Continent, posted collateral, defaulted and was sold out—and now All-Continent is listed as one of his larger creditors. But other creditors have been fighting to show it really

"We're going out to do a job—without talking about it," was his only comment today when asked about it.

The proposal to raise $250,000 was decided upon at the Cleveland convention in June.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Aboard the Normandie

WHILE ash trays abound, matches did not. They were available for the asking, of course, but never left about for passenger convenience. You get your light, but back into the steward's jeans went what was left. The impression that journeyed across with this traveler, furthermore, was that the idea behind the Normandie was to keep the ocean a secret. Others felt identically. But up on the boat deck, blanketed in steamer rugs where much of this patter is written, the Normandie became a boat, not a floating hotel. Under the captain's bridge where sky, water and a gently heaving bow sought to meet, we found our favorite spot. New York and the film business were further away than their actual mileage. . . .

Nunnally Johnson and his wife were aboard. This associate producer for Twentieth Century-Fox is on vacation, goes to England for a couple of weeks and returns to New York on the Queen Mary July 22. Zanuck wants him back in Hollywood by August 1. Considerable of their time was spent in the company of Mrs. William Morris, who told us toward the finish she left America for a rest. Then she met the Johnsons and parted company with the original idea. Arthur F. Driscoll of O'Brien, Driscoll and Raftery, goes over on business; his wife accompanies him.

New York sales managers who use the French Casino for entertaining visiting film buyers may be interested in learning they will have to look elsewhere for a few weeks. Louis F. Blumenthal, Jack Shapiro's partner, is heading for London, where the current New York show travels on the next eastbound trip of this ship. From Paris goes a new troupe on August 5 to open in New York a few weeks thereafter. Charlie Farrell, long Janet Gaynor's teammate, is looking toward a London vacation. Bill Levy, managing director of Wilbank Publications, Ltd., publishers of the Mickey Mouse Weekly, circulated to the solid tune of over 400,000 in Great Britain, returns with his wife, whose debut to America this had been. . . .

Big Bill Tilden, tennis ace whose work on the courts has been featured in many newsreels, makes this a quiet argosy and stays pretty much to himself. Harry D'Abbadie D'Arrast, a director who has worked long in Hollywood, is still another, as is Julian Bryan, who photographed sizable chunks of Russia a couple of years ago and thereafter lectured with his films in the States. Pete Mayer, son of Arthur, operator of the Rialto, New York and now in Paramount's short subject department in the East, then was Bryan's assistant.

International exchange is a serious business. American dollars shift to francs and English pounds go the same way. "Informations" is the clearing house. There go the stewards for the current rate, which was singularly lacking in consistency the long haul across. In the lounge and in the grand salon, the greenback was good for fourteen francs, ninety centimes. In the grill and the American bar, the rate stuck to fifteen. Maybe it was the distance from one point to another which was responsible. Maybe because Alsace was not on speaking terms with Lorraine. . . .

Typical of French boats and an integral part of the Normandie routine is what is vaguely described as individual service. Thus, a cocktail ordered en route from one table to our own and disposed of, until the final reckoning via the chit system was paid off to the steward who did the original ordering. Of course, he got his. Everyone turned extremely friendly toward the finish and there was much activity at our cabin, as elsewhere, no doubt, what with wine stewards and stewards from the grill and a bird who collected for radiograms among those who popped in and out. They had nothing to do with the chaps who really delivered service. Between all of this and diligent effort to appraise French currency in terms of American, it turned out to be a bullish market for the Paris Bourse. . . .

CEA Group Due Monday

A total of 40 exhibitors from England, members of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, will arrive in New York on the Queen Mary on Monday for a visit to this country. As part of the entertainment program planned, General Register Corp. will play host to the group at a cocktail party Monday afternoon at the British Club.

LONGVIEW, WASH., July 22.—Beverly Roberts, playing the lead in "God's Country and the Woman," which has a unit on location here, was badly cut and bruised when she fell from an embankment. Will Small, chief cameraman, suffered a broken ankle in the fall.

Schiller Bought 100 Loew Shares in June

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Acquisition in June of 100 shares of Loew's common stock by Edward A. Schiller, New York, bringing his holdings to 600 shares, was reported today by the Securities and Exchange Commission in its semi-monthly summary.

The commission also announced the receipt of a report for Aug., 1935, from Seton Porter, showing the acquisition of 250 shares of Twentieth Century-Fox common, the disposition of 1,001 shares of A common and the acquisition of 501 shares of $1.50 cumulative preferred.

A report filed by Joseph Bernhard, New York, director of Warners, showed his holdings last month to consist of 1,000 shares of common and 8,000 six per cent optional convertible debentures of that company.

"Pastures" May Be Held a Third Week

Move Trans-Lux Case

The suit filed by Abe Felt, a business agent, to recover $42,900 from Trans-Lux Daylight Screen Corp., the Trans-Lux Movies Corp. and Percy N. Furber, official of the two companies, was transferred yesterday from the N. Y. Supreme court to Federal court at the request of the defendants. Felt claims he is entitled to the amount in view of a contract he had with the defendants to handle all real estate deals in Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. He alleges the defendants entered into a lease for a Washington theatre site for 40 years, involving $2,400,000, and through manipulation he was deprived of his percentage.

Fox-M.H. Status Same

Nothing is new on the Twentieth Century-Fox Music Hall product situation, John D. Clark, general sales manager for the distributor, stated yesterday. "The Road to Glory" will open at the Rivoli the first week in August, according to Clark. The Twentieth Century-Fox sales head will leave for Chicago today for conferences with Herman Wobber, J. J. Sullivan, Ed Zabel and Spyros Skouras.

W. E. Sales Gain 31%

Exhibitors in France Adopt 10-Point Plan

the union representatives in the establishment of new employment contracts.

3. To seek to further the plan of a complete unification of industry activity, to include production, distribution, exportation and all technical phases.

4. To affect, immediately if possible, an affiliation of the Chambre Syndicale of French Exhibitors, the French Syndicate of Exhibitors and the regional federations with the Union of the French Chambres Syndicales of Motion Picture Theatres.

5. Adherence to this union by all exhibitors who are not members of any organization.

6. Immediate action looking toward equalization of taxation. Exhibitors demand tax rates which are no higher than those assessed on other types of business, and will fight for the elimination of special taxes on entertainment.

7. The formation of an "inter-syndical" committee which will be actively in charge of the tax reduction fight. The committee will be headed by Raymond Lussiez.

8. Promise by all exhibitors that admissions will not be increased if the fight for the elimination of special entertainment taxation is successful.

9. Confirmation of previous resolutions on admission prices and overbuilding.

10. Immediate elimination of the so-called "billets de faveur," tickets obtainable in various stores which entitle the bearer to a substantial reduction from the established admission price at designated theatres.

Another meeting of exhibitors is scheduled for the near future.

New Theatre Form to Be Ready Next Week

New forms of applications for theatres on the admission of children under 16 unaccompanied by guardians will be approved by the mayor and issued to exhibitors within the next week, it was learned yesterday following a meeting of a group of major and independent circuit executives with License Commissioner Paul Moss.

The theatre men objected yesterday to a number of provisions in the new forms, such as the fingerprinting of women attendants for wash rooms.

Attending the session at the commissioner's office were Leopold Friedman, Loew's; William Englander, RKO; Louis Weber, Skouras; Al Burns, Century; Louis Frisch, Randforce; John Manheimer, the I. T. O. A., and representatives of the Springer and Consolidated circuits.

in Parliament. Mark Ostrer is silent pending the return here of Isidore Ostrer.

As the situation stands at present, Metropolis and Bradford Trust, the holding company for Gaumont British, owns 57 per cent of G. B. Twentieth Century-Fox has 49 per cent of the trust company and the Ostrers 51 per cent. Under the intermediate plan 24.5 per cent of the trust company remains with Twentieth Century-Fox and 24.5 per cent with M-G-M. The 43 per cent of Gaumont British in the hands of the British public is understood to be held heavily by the Ostrers.

Under the proposed new setup a new holding company will be formed with a 35 per cent interest to be held by the American companies and 65 per cent in the hands of the British public, so that only about one-third of the directors will be chosen by the American firms.

Continue "Lab" Plans

M-G-M, Twentieth Century-Fox and Ben Goetz will go ahead with plans for the building of a developing laboratory in England, it is learned. Goetz has made several trips to London and is planning to make another crossing some time next month to complete details in connection with the construction of the plant.

Great States Signs For Universal Films

Chicago, July 22. — The Balaban & Katz Great States circuit today signed with Universal for the showing of all Universal 1936-37 product in the entire group of 60 theatres located in 27 cities and towns in the vicinity of Chicago.

J. R. Grainger, general manager of distribution, E. T. Gomersal and Henry Herbel represented Universal in the negotiations. John Balaban and Jules J. Rubens acted for Great States.

B. & K.-Universal Deal Near

Chicago, July 22.—Terms have been completed in the pending product deal between Universal and Balaban & Katz. Contracts are expected to be signed shortly.

Distributors here are allowing B. & K. the extra week of clearance demanded between C week and the first week of release. Double feature clauses on contracts are also being omitted since B. & K. plans to start duals in October when new product is available. Omission of the clause makes it impossible for independents to fight the dual policy and they cannot oppose the granting of extra clearance until bookings are set.

Indications are that no action will be taken since the circuit has protected itself from litigation by delaying its moves until the new season.

During the argument today Referee Steedle remarked at one point that "if I admit this page I might just as well admit the whole book," when All-Continent's records were before him. At another point, Murry C. Becker of Fox's New York counsel, maintained that unless David Katz is required to lay a foundation before reading any entry from the All-Continent records, "in his subtle way he will have a complete record of what is in the books even though the books be excluded."

Katz, of the New York firm of Proskauer, Rose & Paskus, represents a $1,500,000 claim by the Chicago Title & Trust Co. against Fox.

It is assumed that film activity in other major cities of the country also has been suspended, although accurate reports cannot be obtained. San Sebastian, the most important resort city in Spain, is understood in the hands of the rebel forces, and there has been armed conflict in Madrid, the capital, and Seville.

Spain's film industry has just passed through the general mercantile strike which had disastrous consequences for theatres in many sections of the country.

adopt any extreme policy insofar as Canadian theatres are concerned while the attempts to work out an agreement with the distributors here are underway. It is expected that no final understanding with Ascap can be reached for 30 to 60 days, due to the fact that many distribution officials are or will be out of town during the next few weeks.

In addition to the concern of all major distributors in the Canadian situation, companies such as Paramount and Loew's, which have important theatre interests in Canada, are also concerned from the standpoint of exhibition.

"Policing" Service Only

Ascap intends to withdraw from the Canadian society when its current contract expires within a few weeks because of the new rate restrictions on music licensing which are being imposed by the Canadian government. Mills stated recently that the new level of authorized rates no longer makes it worthwhile for Ascap to continue doing business in the Dominion. He said that in the future Canadian users of copyrighted music would have to make their own performing arrangements with individual publishers and that Ascap would serve only as a "policing" agency in Canada for its members. Evidence of unauthorized performances of copyrighted music would be gathered by agents of Ascap and turned over to owners of the copyrights for action, it was said.

A procedure which might possibly be adopted by American distributors to solve their problem might be to pay Ascap the music tax on their Canadian sales and recoup it through equal advances in film rentals derived from the Dominion.

F. & M. Men to Talk Plans in St. Louis

Harry C. Arthur, John Eberson, architect; Mitchell May, Jr., and A. Pelterson, insurance men, left for St. Louis yesterday to look over the F. & M. theatre situation.

Jack Partington plans to leave tomorrow, but this is likely to be put off until Saturday. William Raynor, formerly RKO and Fox Theatre district manager, may join the F. & M. group in the Mound City. Raynor will first look over the territory. Although reports have it that he has already joined the circuit, these are denied by F. & M. executives here.

Marco Wolff's departure from the coast for St. Louis is indefinite. All F. & M. executives are expected to confer on new policies to begin with Labor Day.

Looking 'Em Over

"Mary of Scotland"

(Radio)

Out of the fascinating and romantic history of Scotland, and via the highly successful stage play by Maxwell Anderson, Radio has taken a chapter, the stirring story of Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, and produced therefrom a splendidly powerful drama of the screen.

By reason of the superiority of the production in its technical phases and the high caliber of the interpretation, the picture must be reckoned an outstanding achievement.

In the romantically historical background and the intense human story of love and treachery in high places and political intrigue, the picture offers much for the exhibitor as a piece of screen merchandise. The angles of exploitation are many and potentially rich in box-office attraction, while the picture's thematic scheme contains a wealth of appeal for all classes of audience.

High praise must go to Pandro Berman, who produced; to John Ford, who directed; to Dudley Nichols, who adapted Anderson's play, and to a cast which performed in outstanding fashion throughout.

The looked-for portrayal of the tragedy-beset young queen by Katharine Hepburn will add immeasurably to her stature as a splendid actress. Her performance is sincere, intelligent and genuine, and compares favorably with the sterling work of Helen Hayes, who originated the role of Mary in the Anderson play on Broadway in 1933.

Of superlative quality are the pereformances of Fredric March as the Earl of Bothwell, lover and protector of the queen; Douglas Walton, as Darnley, the spineless dandy with whom she contracts a marriage of political expedience; John Carradine as Rizzio, her faithful Italian secretary and counselor; Florence Eldridge as the domineering, politically-minded and ruthless Tudor Queen Elizabeth of England; Moroni Olsen as the fanatical, towering preacher of a new religion, who contributed much to the eventual downfall of the Scotch queen; Ian Keith, as Moray, regent, half-brother of Mary, who sacrifices his sister that he may continue his rule of Scotland.

Tremendous audience appeal, feminine especially, but hardly less of the masculine order, rests in the story. When Mary, long a virtual exile in France, returns to her homeland, quickly she learns the true caliber of Moray and his council, and the obstacles she must face. To her aid comes the two-fisted, handsome Earl of Bothwell, first her protector, soon her lover. In this year of 1561, the fear of Elizabeth of England that a Stuart may ascend her throne leads her to plot the downfall of her rival.

Then the ill-fated marriage to Darnley, his inspired jealousy of Rizzio, the latter's murder as Bothwell leaves her in anger. She is able to save Bothwell from the trap set for his return; her son is born; Darnley is murdered, and John Knox, likewise inspired, loudly blames her and Bothwell. She succumbs to Bothwell's lover's pleas, marries him, and the hands of Moray and Elizabeth are strengthened. Bothwell agrees to leave the country, on condition that she be permitted to continue her reign. But treachery again brings her imprisonment. She escapes to England, where, expecting to find refuge with Elizabeth, she finds another prison. When Bothwell dies in a Danish prison, Mary is brought to trial and in a mockery of justice is condemned to death. When she learns of Bothwell's death, her will to live is gone and she marches to the scaffold in an impressive closing scene.

The photography of Joseph H. August, the art direction of Van Nest Polglase and the musical direction of Nathaniel Shilkret have added much to the warmth and strength of the picture as a whole.

McCarthy Objects to Shipboard Reviewin

Charles E. McCarthy, advertisin and publicity director for Twentiet Century-Fox, takes exception to Re Kann's criticism of "Poor Little Ric Girl." Red saw the film in the Normandie's theatre somewhere on th Atlantic and then rambled out to se whether there were any points of interest on the ship he had missed.

"While Red was worrying abou other people's affairs on the breeze swept deck of the Normandie," McCarthy writes, "the poor heat-slugge goofs back on shore were keeping 'Th Poor Little Rich Girl' two weeks a the Radio City Music Hall; thre weeks at the New Theatre in Baltimore; three weeks at the Fox Theatre, Philadelphia; two weeks at th Rialto in Louisville; two weeks at th Saenger, New Orleans, and wer crowding into other pre-release theatres around the country number greater than those attracted by an previous Shirley Temple picture.

"Reviewing pictures while at se probably has its difficulties, but, a that, it's a swell job if you can get it."

G.B.-Regal Canada Deal Not Disturbed

Reorganization plans for Metropolis & Bradford Trust and Gaumont British in no way will affect the seven-ear distribution deal recently completed between Gaumont British and Empire Films in Canada, according to a statement issued yesterday by Arthur Lee.

The statement is intended to correct the impression that the Gaumont British, Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M deal would encompass the world wide distribution setup of Gaumont British.

Await Final Agreement in Spain Strike

Arbitration Board Still Holding Meetings

[The following dispatch was mailed from Barcelona a few days prior to the sudden military uprising which has swept Spain, and it is impossible to ascertain at this time what effect that situation may have on the fulfillment of the terms of the settlement of the recent strike.—Ed.]

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

Barcelona, July 13.—The final agreement, which definitely will fix the terms of the settlement of that phase of the general mercantile strike which affected the film industry, is still awaited here. The committee of arbitration, which brought about the conclusion of the strike under pressure from the Government, is still engaged in day and night sessions.

The chief points gained by the strikers have been the 44-hour week, 15 days' vacation with pay (20 in the case of those newly married) and a seven per cent increase in salaries. The employers have agreed officially

New Reel Is Not Yet Approved in Chicago

Chicago, July 23.—The settlement of the 2,000-foot reel problem is still hanging fire here. The present city ordinance sets 1,000 feet as the maximum, but distributors are attempting to bring about approval of the new reel in the new fire ordinance which is now being drafted.

The distributors are asking for a 14½-inch reel while the city electrical department officials are demanding a 14-inch reel on a four-inch hub. If the distributor requests are not met, the matter probably will be taken directly to the mayor for action in order not to delay the use of the new reel here.

Minter said that the purpose of the organization would be to strengthen the buying and booking power of state independent theatres and to render a general theatre service.

No Detroit theatres will be admitted.

"Pastures" Pulls Big $94,000 Take

The Music Hall with "The Green Pastures" was by far the leader among Broadway theatres in the business parade during the last seven days. With $13,000 taken in the seventh day, the film transcription of the Marc Connelly play totaled $94,000 for the week. This is outstanding business for this time of the year and indications are that the second week's take will approximate $80,000.

"San Francisco" wound up a month's run at the Capitol last night with a total gross of $227,500. For the last seven days, the picture tallied

Lynch Takes Para. Florida Group in Deal

Signs Five-Year Pact; Anderson Resigns

S. A. Lynch, head of the former Southern Enterprises theatre holdings, returns again to theatre operation with the approval by the Paramount board yesterday of a five-year management contract under which Lynch will operate the company's theatres in Miami, Miami Beach, Coral Gables and Cocoanut Grove, Fla. Approximately 20 houses in all are involved in the operations.

Yesterday's board meeting also accepted the resignation of R. E. Anderson, financial vice-president of Paramount, who was a former vice president of Erpi.

Paramount's contract with Lynch fixes the latter's compensation on a percentage of the theatre's earnings, the company stated. The theatres being turned over to Lynch's management have been operated heretofore by E. J. Sparks, although they have not been a part of the contract operations which Sparks has with Paramount. With the exception of the four towns turned over to Lynch, the Sparks operations remain as is.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

Aboard the Normandie

IN this five-day world, apart from all else, including the ship's daily newspaper which imparts some information in French and some in English—much of it quaint — representative worries were typified by the woman who expressed concern over the possibility Paris might be reached too late for dinner. This was written about the time of delivery by Herr Greiser, president of the Danzig Senate, of his startling, Berlin-inspired address defying the League at Geneva when he struck for the return of his city to German sovereignty and thereby painted war clouds over Europe one shade blacker. . . .

Friday and Saturday turned out to be two choice days. It was carefully explained the starboard-port swing which this 82,000-ton mass developed was due to a following sea and heavy swell. Everything responded — dishes, cutlery, tables and chairs not screwed down and the dancers on the cafe grill. From that point, it was all water one minute and all sky the next. Even the orchestra called it a night; the roll was too much for saxophone and trombone. Busby Berkeley has staged his fantastic dance numbers in many settings, but a sliding, slithering dance floor on an ocean greyhound offers possibilities. The idea is his, Motion Picture Daily service. . . .

At any rate, the Normandie adhered to her fast streak, averaging slightly over twenty-nine knots an hour. The first day, in miles, 666; then, 685; then, 672; then, 675 by noon Sunday. The weather was tres beau temps calme—mer belle. Or beau temps nuageux—mer legerement houleuse. Also bonne brise de l'O. N. O.—mere houleuse, and grosse houle d'O. N. O.—temps nuageux. The printed log, handed out at the finish, certainly helped our French along.

Due in Southampton roads at seven o'clock Monday morning, a cute little fog slowed us down. It was a British ocean by that time and the Admiralty might have been putting it on for their French cousins. But the Normandie, snappy and up-to-the-minute in all respects, was that way with its fog horn, too. Very musical and dulcet, it aided sleep rather than retarded it. The ship almost ran down a cattle boat very early that morning, it developed. Known to only a handful, the news created something to talk about. That was nothing by comparison with the excitement which would have been created by the steward who told us it was cheaper to mail in England if his secret were to out. There's enough fuss in the French Chamber of Deputies without adding any. . . .

Interminable waiting while passports were cleared and baggage unloaded were next. Gracie Fields was there to greet us, not one of England's foremost stars, but a tender bearing her name. Sam Eckman, managing director for M-G-M in England, had wirelessed welcome; Percy Phillipson, managing director of Automaticket, Ltd., telegraphed he couldn't make Southampton on account of business. His wired greetings, however, were cordial and warm. Finally, the tender and another wait. Curious heads craned skyward to see what the Normandie looked like from the outside. It was a sight and a beauty at that. "A hunk of a ship, isn't it?" our remark to Nunnally Johnson. His rejoinder: "It's the biggest Stork Club I've ever traveled on." . . .

Lynch Takes Para. Florida Group in Deal

Enterprises circuit which dominated the south for many years and which was finally acquired from him by Paramount. Lynch then went into retirement and lived for a number of years on the French Riviera. He reentered Paramount following the company's bankruptcy in the capacity of adviser on theatre reorganizations to the Paramount bankruptcy trustees, a post which he held for more than two years. The present type of management and partnership operating contracts under which 950 of Paramount's 1,100 theatres are operated were devised by Lynch during the reorganization period.

He withdrew from Paramount about a year ago and lived in Miami where he is also interested in hotel operation. He has been here for the past two months.

Anderson Post Abolished

Anderson's resignation came as a surprise to the trade, inasmuch as he had been reelected financial vice-president of the company only three weeks ago. The post of financial vice-president will be abolished, it was stated within Paramount, with the bulk of the duties of the office being absorbed by Walter B. Cokell, Paramount treasurer.

Anderson stated that he has undisclosed negotiations under way which may be consummated in 30 to 60 days and which would involve his remaining in the film industry. He is not returning to Erpi. He stated that he "greatly appreciated" the confidence in him shown by the board in reelecting him to his post for another year, but felt that the resignation was advisable and that his leaving was an "amicable" one. He was not a member of the Paramount board.

Union Praises Studios

London, July 16.—The annual report of the National Ass'n. of Theatrical Employes states that labor conditions in British studios are "highly satisfactory," but attacks the attitude of exhibitors on wages and working conditions. "Behind the Union," says the report, "is the Trade Unions Council and every Trades Council throughout the country. If the C. E. reporter how much stock the Ostrers will have in the new company which is to replace the Metropolis & Bradford unit, holding company for Gaumont British, Ostrer replied he did not know and that this arrangement is to be worked out in London.

"The deal is very simple and I don't see why there is any speculation about it," he asserted. Ostrer stated he did not know whether he would make another trip within the year, but Mrs. Ostrer said she would "because I like to do my shopping in America."

Schenck was emphatic about retaining the G. B. sales forces in this country. He said "surely they will be continued for the present season."

Queried on the amount of stock Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M would receive in the new holding company for Gaumont British, Schenck answered it was impossible to tell at this time as the reorganization "is in the embryonic stages."

A. C. Blumenthal, who had been trying to book passage on the liner for "weeks," finally got a reservation last Tuesday.

Blumenthal and Schencks Meet

Arriving a few minutes before the Ile de France pulled out, Blumenthal missed the Schenck brothers, who had just left the boat after last-minute conferences with Ostrer and Beddington Behrens, British stock broker. Blumenthal then found Nicholas and Joseph Schenck near the gangplank on the crowded pier and engaged in a spirited conversation with Nicholas. Joseph Schenck tried to pacify the two. The entire conversation took about three minutes, following which Blumenthal, dressed in a light brown suit, made a dash down the gangplank.

Phil Reisman, foreign sales head for RKO, was among the passengers. He told Motion Picture Daily that he was sailing on his semi-annual trip and it had nothing to do with the Gaumont British, M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox deal. He asserted he didn't know how long he would be gone or what countries he would visit.

Other passengers included Edward Arnold, Lupe Velez, Deems Taylor, Madeleine Carroll, Morris Helprin and Mrs. Sol Brill and her daughter, Hortense. Miss Carroll said she was going abroad for a vacation, having just completed "The General Died at Dawn," and would return Sept. 4.

Jeffrey Bernerd and Arthur Lee were among those bidding bon voyage to the Ostrers.

Richard Dwight of Hughes, Schurman & Dwight, attorneys for Twentieth Century-Fox, sailed yesterday on the Europa. While in London he will represent the company in the reorganization of Metropolis & Bradford Trust.

"Pastures" Pulls Big $94,000 Take

$26,000, which is better than par for the middle of July.

About $24,000 was garnered by "Early to Bed" at the Paramount. This figure is considered good. The Strand on the second week of "Public Enemy's Wife" ended with approximately $13,500. "Meet Nero Wolf" at the Rivoli chalked up about $20,000 for the eight-day run.

The Palace with "Poor Little Rich Girl" and "Dancing Pirate" took it on the chin. The take was $200 less than $5,000. "And Sudden Death" at the Rialto was fair with $7,200, while the Roxy just covered expenses with $22,000 on "White Fang."

year. As a similar amount was credited to operations during the first quarter of 1936, the special reserve fund now amounts to $900,000.

The company's schedule shows that operating earnings for the second quarter amounted to $147,000 after applying the $800,000 of the inventory reserve and after provision for estimated normal income tax. Dividends received from non-consolidated subsidiaries amounted to $160,000 and profit on debentures of Paramount Pictures, Inc., purchased for retirement was $63,000, or an estimated net of $370,000.

Charges included $387,000 interest on Paramount debentures, $34,000 for foreign exchange adjustments and $425,000 for reserve for Federal undistributed earnings tax, foreign investments and other contingencies, a total of $846,000.

No Figures on Olympia

Operations of Olympia Theatres and its subsidiaries in receivership are not included in the schedule, and operations of partially owned companies not consolidated are included only to the extent that dividends were received, Paramount states. The company's net interest as a stockholder in the combined undistributed earnings of such partially owned companies amounted for the quarter to approximately $305,000, according to the schedule.

As Paramount was under court supervision until mid-year of 1935, no figures are available for the second quarter of last year. The company's annual statement at the year end, however, reported a profit of $653,167 for 1935 after the special inventory reserve of $2,500,000 and all charges. A profit of $718,921 was reported for the first quarter of 1936 after applying $800,000 from the special inventory reserve.

Fight on Ohio's Tax Amendment ITO Aim

COLUMBUS, July 23.—P. J. Wood, business manager of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, has issued a bulletin urging all theatre owners to oppose the circulation and signing of petitions designed to initiate constitutional amendments on the question of taxes and taxation in Ohio.

Strong theatre opposition to any such move is urged to prevent a return to the 12 per cent admissions tax which is threatened in the event of a proposed breakdown of the state sales tax. A petition is being prepared for circulation providing for the repeal of the state three per cent sales tax on all food consumed in the home, which will create a $12,000,000 shortage of revenue. The Legislature, Wood warns, will look to theatres to make up this shortage.

Court Tells RKO to Take Jersey Theatre

Federal Judge Bondy yesterday directed the Irving Trust Co., as trustee of RKO, to have incorporated the Rialto Theatre, Union City, N. J., and to purchase 1,000 shares of all outstanding capital stock of the theatre. The incorporation will make the Rialto a subsidiary of RKO.

At the same time the trustee was directed by the court to cause the Rialto Theatre Corp. to accept the assignment of a sub-lease of the Rialto Theatre from James B. Fields and to assume Fields' obligation to RKO, amounting to $14,600. Fields operated the Rialto. RKO controlled the two other theatres in that town and has been seeking control of the Rialto for some time.

Reade Strikes Gold On "Francisco" Runs

Walter Reade is in high spirits these days. One of the reasons is his citation of figures for the engagement of "San Francisco" at his Asbury Park theatres.

Reade says the city has a population of 15,000, and during the three-week run of the picture in the town, 75,000 people have paid admissions at the Mayfair, where it first opened; the Paramount, which followed the Mayfair, and the St. James where it begins a second week today.

Extended runs instead of three and five-day bookings will be given "San Francisco" at the Paramount, Long Branch; Carlton, Red Bank, and Strand, Freehold, according to Reade.

Overseas Preview

"The Man Who Could Work Miracles"

(London Films-U. A.)

LONDON, July 23.—This production, which opened tonight at the Palace, is a fantasy based on the idea of a whimsical god's granting to one man absolute power over nature. The choice falls on Draper's assistant, who, after the amusing use of his newly acquired powers in small things, creates a magnificent palace to which he summons, King, soldiers, statesmen and other world rulers, commanding them to reorganize the world with greater justice to the ordinary man.

An unwise boast leads the miracle worker to order the globe to stop revolving, which brings about world chaos and results in his asking that the miracle era cease.

The production is as impressive as "Things to Come," although on a smaller scale but stronger in popular entertainment value. The conventional love appeal is entirely lacking.

The work of Roland Young in the chief role is brilliant. Comedy notes are introduced, chief among which is the transference of a British policeman to the streets of San Francisco. The holding of the world gathering is an impressive example of screen craft.

ALLAN

"Thoroughbred"

(Cinesound-Wardour)

LONDON, July 16.—This Australian production, sponsored by Stuart Doyle, theatre magnate, has some very good racing scenes, taken on the Melbourne course, as its high spot.

Interesting also are scenes of pedigreed yearlings and colts on a stud farm. There is a certain amount of value also in the Australian atmosphere.

As a story it is very crude stuff, not helped by indifferent recording. Some of the episodes—as when a thug is held up in port as an undesirable alien and allowed to receive in his cabin unlimited visitors from the underworld—are likely to get the laughs where they are not wanted. It might have gotten by silent. Names are Helen Twelvetrees and John Longden with most of the cast Australian. Ken G. Hall directed.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Amo te Sola" ("I Love You Only")

(Nuovo Mondo)

A comedy drama of romance, melody and humor against a background of the liberal intrigue of Florence during the reign of the Grand Duke, this Italian importation appears to be entertaining fare, but with an appeal limited almost entirely to those audiences understanding the language. This is true since neither situations nor performances, although capable, are sufficiently outstanding to overcome the importance of the dialogue in providing the entertainment.

To Florence comes a young composer, who proceeds to fall in love with a girl at a concert at the Grand Duke's palace. Accidentally he becomes involved with a group of liberals, writes a song for them, and is arrested. Through the girl's intercession he is freed but forced to leave Florence. A year later, a famous composer, he returns to find her, stops at the home of her brother-in-law, and takes it for granted that she is married.

A series of fairly amusing incidents results in his understanding and their reconciliation.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 74 minutes. "G."

"U" Reissue Popular

Universal's reissue of "There's Always Tomorrow," starring Binnie Barnes with Robert Taylor and Frank Morgan in minor roles is being shown in many situations throughout the country.

The new popularity of the picture, Universal figures, is due to the fact that the three players mentioned, practically unknown at the time of release two years ago, are today headline names.

to pay salaries which accrued during the period of the strike. Film employes have agreed to waive their original demand that their claims be considered apart from those of the wholesale elements and that they will accept adjustment by arbitration. However, they have reserved the right to form a separate organization of film employes, to be constituted under the Labor Court and within the general scope of the Employes of Public Spectacles.

Fonoespana Studios, at Madrid, heretofore a dubbing unit, has become a producing plant, according to John W. The plant includes four stages. Ugo Donerelli is president of Fonoespana, which ranks as one of the better class permanent establishments in Spain.

The observance of Grand Spanish National Cinematographic Week here centered in the Cine Cataluna, generally regarded as the home of Spanish language pictures filmed in this country. First and second prizes for domestically-produced films went to "Morena Clara," produced by Cifesa, and "Don Quintin el Amargo," respectively.

Warners to Control Phila. First Runs

Philadelphia, July 23.—Complete control of the Philadelphia first run situation will pass to Warners July 31 when that company is scheduled to take over operation of the Fox. The deal, rumored for many months past and heretofore always denied officially, was confirmed today.

The change of operation will be marked by the first playing at the house of new season Twentieth Century-Fox product. Currently the Fox is playing reissues, such as "State Fair," while waiting for the deal to become effective. Other Warner first runs here are already playing Twentieth Century-Fox pictures.

Joseph Bernhard, Warner theatre head, is in Hollywood and home office theatre officials declined to comment on the Philadelphia deal in his absence.

David Katz of Proskauer, Rose and Paskus, New York, counsel for a major creditor, extracted the information. He was trying to introduce in evidence a page of All-Continent record that showed Mrs. Fox received $25,000 in salary in 1935 for services rendered. Murray C. Becker, Fox counsel, objected that no proof has been shown that William Fox had any connection with the matter, and was upheld. Federal Referee Robert E. Although it fell off about 50 per cent in its second week, "The King Steps Out" gave the Alvin what the management considered a satisfactory $4,000 in its holdover session and the Warner, in six days, achieved its summer average on "Dancing Pirate" and "And Sudden Death" at $3,900.

All other first runs fell short of par takes. "Counterfeit" and "Crime of Dr. Forbes" at the College grossed $2,400 against the usual $2,800. Minnesota Circuit Adding More Units

MINNEAPOLIS, July 23.—Expansion plans of the Minnesota Amusement Co. continue to develop.

John J. Friedl, president, has just made it known that a partnership arrangement has been made with the James River Valley Theatres, Inc., for the Star, Jamestown, N. D. The plan will be effective Aug. 8.

Booking and buying will be done from the Minneapolis office, but actual operation will be by Russell Joos and his associates.

An operating plan for the Jamestown theatres set up by Friedl will continue the Opera House as an "A" theatre. The Star will be a "B" spot with family and action type films at low admissions. Stage shows will be used at the Opera House in the fall.

This new deal is one of several recently consummated.

Friedl also has made it known that a new house is to be built at Austin, Minn. It will be a 600-seater. Other houses are to be built at St. Cloud and Rochester as soon as negotiations have been completed.

"Francisco" Tops Buffalo 3rd Week

BUFFALO, July 23.—"San Francisco" breezed through the hottest July days this town has ever known to give the Great Lakes the biggest grosses in a year. Its third week was worth $9,200, over average by $2,200, making a total run of over $42,000, the best gate since "Mutiny on the Bounty."

"Poor Little Rich Girl" weathered the torrid wave strongly, pulling $13,900 to the Buffalo, breaking par by $2,400. At the Century, a revival of "Dancing Lady," on a dual with "Call of the Prairie," took $7,100, topping normal by $1,500.

Total first run business was $41,500. Average is $36,900.

Single Week Policy Hurts Brazil Gross

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 13.—The unvarying policy in the exhibition of pictures here which makes it virtually impossible to hold a film at one theatre more than one week, is seen as seriously affecting the potential gross to be drawn. The Paramount picture, "Desire," was doing exceptionally fine business in its first week at the Palacio, yet was withdrawn to make way for "Mazurka," German film released by Cine Allianz. The same was true of the pictures of the Louis-Schmeling fight, which drew exceptionally well at the box-office, yet was withdrawn after one week.

Carmen Santos, president of Brazil Vita Films, which produced "Cidade Mulher," has decided to release the film directly throughout the country, following a difference with the Associacao Cinematographica de Productores Brasileiros and the Distribuidora de Films Brasileiros. By the move the company is saved 18 per cent of the 20 per cent which would have gone to the distributing organization if it had taken over distribution of the film.

Schlank Transferred

OMAHA, July 23.—Jacob Schlank, Universal southern Nebraska salesman, has been transferred to western Iowa by L. R. Miller, exchange manager here.

All the other first runs were in a bad way, with some weak attractions on the list.

Total first run business was $86,400. Average is $60,000.

Arbitrator Reports In Frances Day Case

LONDON, July 23.—A special case was stated by Walter Monckton, arbitrator, in the King's Bench division before Justice Porter today in the dispute between Frances Day and Gaumont British. The actress claims that her year's contract was servile, compelling her to accept parts in films made by the company to which G.B. loaned her without equivalent obligation on the part of G.B. to pay a salary as even the most trivial breach by the actress rendered the contract void.

The arbitrator had found Miss Day committed a breach of contract by refusing to work as a "jack of all trades." Her counsel argued that the contract raised the important question as to whether producers should be in a position to free themselves of obligation to pay salary while preventing the actress from earning a living elsewhere. The action is proceeding and is regarded as a test case, as the same form of contract is in general use.

Cantor Conferring With J. M. Schenck

HOLLYWOOD, July 24.—Eddie Cantor went into conference with Joseph M. Schenck immediately following the latter's arrival here this afternoon, relative to a Cantor contract with Twentieth Century-Fox. The comedian complains that Samuel Goldwyn's delay in preparing the story and setting the starting date of this year's picture has caused him financial loss.

Cantor has the current year's film and one other to make for Goldwyn under a contract signed in 1929, which calls for one a year starting within "reasonable time of notification to Cantor." Cantor declared, "Our time is very valuable and we are not going to allow Goldwyn to jeopardize any more of it. Sooner or later we must go to court to find out what is meant by reasonable time." Cantor's personal attorney, A. L. Berman, will arrive in New York from Europe Aug. 1, and is expected here immediately to confer with local counsel as to the best time to file a suit in California.

Canada Music Licensing Up Again Monday

Attorneys for Majors to Meet with Mills

Attorneys for major distributors will meet again on Monday or Tuesday with E. C. Mills, general manager of Ascap, in an effort to work out an agreement which will permit exhibition in Canada of pictures containing Ascap copyrighted music after the music licensing society withdraws from Canadian operation.

Mills met with the distributors' representatives twice last week but no plan for licensing of Canadian exhibitors was evolved. Ascap is withdrawing from the Canadian Performing Rights Society in the near future because, it asserts, the new regulations limiting the licensing rates for the public performance of copyrighted

Rebellion and Business Do Not Mix Well, Spain Finds

The Spanish managers of at least two American distributing companies in Spain, as well as the general foreign and European managers of another, were they to pool their experiences, might turn out a lively and invigorating scenario, based on their efforts to conduct business with a minimum of danger and a maximum of result, if any, in a country in the throes of an armed rebellion.

That scenario would tell of being marooned in the Balaeric Islands, off the east coast of Spain, of the discomforts of sleeping, of necessity, in a theatre for two nights, and of a hasty flight, without even a stop for a hello and goodbye, to a much safer port than is Barcelona today.

Out of cables from Harry C. Plummer, MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S representative in Barcelona, are herewith detailed the status at the mo-

Circuits Here Are Expanding In Fast Moves

Buying Problems Cause General Shakeup

With the new buying season presenting a difficult problem for the smaller unaffiliated circuits, expansion moves by the larger independent theatre groups are under way. Several deals strengthening the purchasing power of the circuits have been consummated and a number of others are in work.

Consolidated Amusements is stepping out as the leader in the new move. Within the past two weeks the circuit has bought substantial interests in the Leff-Meyers circuit and the Elite circuit. Another transaction is in progress whereby four to five more houses will be added.

In each instance Consolidated will do the buying and booking. The Leff-Meyers group has 10 houses, while the Elite, of which Abel Fanachi is head, operates the Morningside, Gem, Greely, Village, Chelsea, Annex, Chatham and Savoy. With the two music in the Dominion no longer make it worth while for Ascap to do business there.

Ascap's withdrawal makes it necessary for exhibitors who wish to play pictures containing the society's music to obtain their licenses directly from the individual owners of the copyrights unless a simpler and less costly procedure can be evolved by the distributors here. The individual licensing method is regarded by distributors as being so complicated that the sale of their musicals in the Dominion would be seriously affected unless other arrangements with Ascap are employed.

Rolsky-Fox Midwest Action Is Resumed

KANSAS CITY, July 24.—Judge Otis in Federal District Court today denied for the second time the application of L. Hazard, attorney for C. A. Schultz and other exhibitors, to intervene in the anti-trust suit of Emanuel Rolsky and other independents against Fox Midwest and major distributors.

During today's proceedings the plaintiffs reviewed the suit and the defense its answers. In his opening statements William G. Boatright, attorney for the plaintiffs, charged that independents last year were offered what was left after Fox Midwest contracted for pictures on its own terms. It was immaterial that the circuit didn't buy first runs in each zone, Boatright claimed, adding that the purpose of the buying plan was to give the circuit advantage over the independents.

E. C. Raftery, counsel for the distributors, maintained that the whole distribution system would be destroyed if Boatright's contention were upheld, since the right to play a picture exclusively, said Raftery, increases its value as a feature more than a thousandfold.

The methods of Elmer C. Rhoden, head of Fox Midwest, in dealing with distributors were described. Rhoden, it was said, offered to play after or before but not with other exhibitors. Rhoden is said to be still willing to cancel all contracts and renegotiate in order that independents may have an equal chance to buy but on a clearance basis.

Sam Sawyer, for Fox Midwest, stated that the circuit bought pictures last year without a general agreement.

ment of the industry in Spain, and sundry facts relating to the difficulties resulting from the sudden military uprising which, from its source in Spanish Morocco, has torn the country wide open and caused the spilling of considerable blood.

A reassuring note, however, for American companies, rests in the brief cable statement that the personnel of all distributing companies are unharmed.

It is interesting to note that tagging Plummer's latest cable is the advice that his temporary address is "Consulado Americano," which means, in English, that he has left his home and headquarters at the Ritz Hotel to find shelter and a typewriter at the American Consulate.

Business At a Standstill

The industry in Barcelona is completely paralyzed, Plummer reports, with business communication with the interior of Spain (Barcelona is situated on the northeast coast) entirely cut off. No specific information is available from the interior, but every indication points to a similar situation throughout the country.

Jacques Edelstein, managing director for M-G-M in Spain, is marooned at Palma de Mallorca, resort in the Balaeric Islands. Rene Huet, general manager for Warners in Spain, and M. J. Messeri, Paramount managing director in Spain and Portugal, are in a like position at Sitges, a seashore resort close to Barcelona. There is no indication that they are enjoying the bathing. At Sitges also are practically all the Spanish branch managers for Columbia, caught while conventioning, and unable—or unwilling—to leave. With them is Bernard J. Gottlieb, the company's managing director in Spain.

Columbians Sleep in Theatre

Then there is the saga of Joseph H. Seidelman, general foreign manager, and Joseph Friedman, European manager for Columbia, who, en route to Barcelona and the convention, got as far as a small suburban railway town. There they remained for two days, sleeping in the local theatre. Finally reaching Barcelona, and without contacting Gottlieb, at Sitges, the two boarded the Jeanne Landin and sailed away to Marseilles, in France. They were expected to reach Paris yesterday. For a week the London office had tried to contact them unsuccessfully.

Fox Movietone, Plummer reports, is hard at it in Barcelona, shooting with their cameras at the shooting with guns, the results eventually to reach the screens of this country, if all goes well.

Ruling Handed Down On Sunbury Theatres

SANBURY, Pa., July 24.—Bringing to an end equity proceedings filed in the Northumberland County court more than a year ago by G. A. Casari, J. J. McHale, J. A. Evert, Max Silverman, Joseph D'Angelo, John J. Barni, Frank Baker and others, against Victoria Amusement Enterprises, Inc., and J. A. Welsh, John L. Pipe and S. L. Gribbin, lawyers. Judge C. K. Morganroth has handed down a decree giving the preferred stockholders of Chamberlain Amusement Enterprises a final opportunity to join with Victoria Amusement Co., successor to that concern, and secure preferred stock by paying an assessment.

It was indicated an appeal will be taken from the decision, as John J. Barni, speaking for the plaintiffs, said the issue is just where it was prior to the filing of the suit and offers no satisfaction to the plaintiffs. Theatre properties valued at approximately $1,500,000 are involved.

Burr Coming for Deals of effecting tax economies under the Federal provisions for tax-free consolidations of corporate structures.

No action was taken by the Paramount board on either a settlement of John E. Otterson's contract or the cessation of negotiations of a settlement. Both Paramount and Otterson spokesmen said yesterday that a possibility of arriving at a settlement still existed and that a final development might be expected early next week in time for the Paramount board to act at its monthly meeting next Thursday on any settlement which might be reached by the board committee of three which is handling the contract negotiations.

Paramount yesterday dispatched to Joseph P. Kennedy a check for $50,000 in final payment for his services as an adviser to the company's board during May and June. The total of Kennedy's advisory services, which included fees for six assistants and expenses, was $80,000.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"I'd Give My Life"

(Rowland-Paramount)

Hollywood, July 24.—An emotion-stirring melodrama through which runs a strong thread of suspense, this makes for acceptable average entertainment. Forcefully preserving the dramatic elements of the H. H. Van Loan-Willard Mack stage play, "The Noose," the picture is soundly premised and presented in an atmosphere of convincing realism.

Though the principal cast names are of only ordinary value, impressive performances are given by Tom Brown, Frances Drake, Sir Guy Standing, Janet Beecher, Robert Gleckler and Helen Lowell.

The early sequences, graphically identifying the characters and establishing the plot, the poignant drama of the play ensues when Gleckler dies following a fight with Brown. As the audience understands that Gleckler is the boy's father and Miss Beecher, now married to Standing, is his mother, Brown willingly accepts conviction and a death sentence rather than talk and bring scandal to his mother. As an interesting love story involving Brown and Miss Drake carries through, the scenes in the death house featuring the pair are exceptionally well done. In the finale Miss Lowell, Standing's mother, prevails upon him to grant the boy a pardon on the grounds of self-defense to develop a happy ending.

The dramatic phases of the play are potent in their power to stir sympathies and the character of the romantic content is considerably embellished by the introduction of a musical number sung by Brown and Miss Drake.

Though serious in tone, the picture seems to be of a character that will appeal to general audiences and be of particular attraction to women.

Loew's Seeking New Lease on the Astor

Loew's is negotiating for an extension of the lease on the Astor which expires the end of next month. Circuit executives are anxious to continue operation of the house until the end of the year. The City Investing Co. plans to tear the house down along with the Bijou and Morosco where one theatre and stores will replace the present properties.

Protest to WPA on Film Specification

Washington, July 24.—A protest by Jam Handy Pictures of Detroit against a requirement that the successful bidder guarantee national newsreel distribution of one WPA story each month during the life of the contract marked the opening of bids today by the Works Progress Administration for the making of pictures of WPA activities.

Only five bids were received, Pictorial Films of New York being the lowest at $3,980 per 600-foot unit. Other bids were submitted by Amphilco, New York, $5,250; Mason Wadsworth, New York, $6,500; Pathe News, $4,280, and Jam Handy, $6,600.

Asserting that it is now distributing 10 one-reel pictures in 1,500 theatres through exchange contracts in 33 cities, the Jam Handy protest declared that the specification was "unfair" because "it automatically eliminates all but one bidder, this bidder being the only newsreel sponsor who also produces commercial film."

Court Rules Union Suits Must Be Tried

Supreme Court Justice Timothy J. Leary yesterday denied a motion made by Joseph Basson, president of Local 306, to have eight independent theatre owners amend their complaints in suits filed for an aggregate amount of $650,000 in damages. Justice Leary expressed no opinion, but decided that the matter should go to trial.

Recently temporary injunctions were granted to the plaintiffs restraining the alleged activities of members of Local 306. Among those who have filed suits are Helgus, Inc., operators of the Liberty, New York, $75,000; Joseph Sanders, Brooklyn Sanders Theatre, $100,000; Evadne, Inc., Colony, Jackson Heights, $75,000; San Glo Operating Co., Inc., Globe, Brooklyn, $100,000; Times Square Theatre Co., $75,000; the G-T Amusement Co., Inc., operators of the Park, New York, $75,000; Louis Brandt, Globe, New York, $75,000, and Amity Amusement Corp., Central, New York, $75,000.

These actions have been pending for several months, the plaintiffs claiming that officials and members of Local 306 have coerced patrons and damaged property in these theatres. The defendants, it is claimed, object to members of the I. T. O. hiring members of the Allied union.

Theatre Limit In Wisconsin Put on Ballot

Voters to Decide Upon Circuit Invasion

Oconto, Wis., July 26.—Whether theatre building can be limited by city ordinance is to be decided by voters here next April. In the meantime the ordinance is in effect.

The regulation is aimed directly at circuits. It is regarded as a precedent. No moves have been made as yet toward a court test.

Under the terms of the recently enacted amendment to the city ordinance covering theatres only one theatre license can be issued for each 5,000 of population, and erection of a theatre can be prohibited where the side walls of front entrance are within 150 feet of any gasoline filling station on the same side of the street.

The City Council may issue an additional license for the 5,000 unit of population where the licensee has expended not less than $25,000 for theatre and equipment.

Griffis Sees Film Niches Where Bankers Needed

BY SHERWIN A. KANE

Stanton Griffis

There are niches in the film industry into which bankers and big business men can be fitted without throwing a company's operations out of gear, Stanton Griffis, chairman of Paramount's executive committee, believes.

Griffis is a well known investment banker and industrialist, a founder of and partner in Hemphill, Noyes & Co., director of a dozen corporations and an integral part of two enterprises, other than Paramount, whose business is to purvey amusement to the public. He is chairman of the board of Madison Square Garden and treasurer of Cornell-McClintic Prod., which, of course, is the business name of that successful theatre family which consists of Katharine Cornell and Guthrie McClintic.

His opinion concerning the limitations of the banker's usefulness to a film company undoubtedly was confirmed, if it was not originally shaped, before his coming to Paramount, by his observations and experience in the two last named associations. It is reasonable to suppose that on more than one occasion he has seen profits returned on amusement investments which may have been regarded as doubtful, at best, and has come to acknowledge that nebulous essential of the trade known as "showmanship" and assays it at something near its market worth.

Thus, when asked if he believes bankers to be good for the industry, his reply is that he believes the industry to be good for bankers. And when he says it he doesn't mean that he regards the film business as a likely setting for a financial killing,

Key City Grosses Drop Off To $1,357,200 in Mid-July

Key city grosses went into another mild decline for the week ending July 17-18 and the number of first runs open in 29 spots also fell off slightly.

The total gross for 29 cities was $1,357,200, with 165 first runs open. This compares with a take of $1,431,650 in 169 houses for the previous week.

Key grosses have fallen to this ing of the current season last September. These low points were reached during the two weeks preceding Christmas, the week of April 9-10, when there were 177 houses open, and the week of June 19-20, when there were only 160 first runs in operation in the cities reporting weekly to Motion Picture Daily.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE tender, a mine sweeper during the war, took forty-five minutes to reach the dock. Off in one direction, the Isle of Wight; in the other, the mainland, another and considerable larger island. Seven hundred and fifty had deserted the Normandie for Britain. Many of them were busy with cameras shooting her from various angles. The harbor, one of the world's finest, was cluttered with shipping. There, the Aquitania, in two days before from New York with Ralph Hanbury; here, the Pennland, flying the Nazi standard; further in the distance, the Majestic, now about to be broken up. A few minutes later, English soil. . . .

Customs cleared, we bummed a lift with Bill Levy in his right-hand drive Packard. Through the charming town and into the country went the route, each turn and twist in the winding road a new and refreshing sight. The green that seemingly is to be found only in the English countryside was living up to its famous tradition. On to Winchester, the cathedral town with its twisting, narrow streets, its old structures, its many churches and through it to Basingstoke and beyond to the Baredown Hotel at Hook for the hot lunch travelers here must find by one o'clock or suffer without it. In red brick and with cream-painted windows, this was a pleasant retreat stuck away quietly from noise. . . .

The first thing to hit our eyes was a bowl of ice. Suspicious looks turned toward Levy; it looked like a gag. Ice in provincial England? "Oh, yessir, we make it in the 'frig'," volunteered the buxom waitress. "In the what?" we asked and were told off. It seems she was talking about a Frigidaire. Shortly thereafter came a salad with "spring onions." It may be scallions to you over there, but it's spring onions here. That gives you a faint idea of what goes on in England. . . .

Up through Bagshot and into Staines, then on the Great West Road leading into London through Chiswick and so finally to Claridge's with its very British Brook Street address, its bedecked flunkies and its dignified and somewhat overstuffed atmosphere. Letters and wires. Oswald Brooks, for years with Pathe in New York and now with British Paramount News, was driving to Paris; he wanted us to join and regretfully we refused. Arthur Dent, sales manager for Wardour, distributors of British International, suggesting lunch; Ernest W. Fredman, editor of The Daily Film Renter, extending greetings and voicing regrets over his departure for Karlsbad for the cure and then his sidekick, H. E. L. Woolf with a "welcome to the land of steak and kidney pudding"; Francis Meynell, new publicity and advertising head of Gaumont British Pictures, and Pat Dixon. . . .

Jovial Phillipson was on the phone in a couple of seconds, the heartiness of his reception matching the tenor of his wire. Later, in the lobby with him and his wife for a gin sour to be joined by Simon Rowson, one of the British industry's keenest analytical minds, bringing word war will break out in early September. He says he got it right from the inside or whatever the British equivalent for that may be. Still later, the phone buzzes again. It is Eddie and Etta Klein, worn out from scanning three boat trains at Waterloo for a sign of us—never a thrilling pastime—then Eckman, who likewise had gone to the station; Jack Mersereau of Gaumont British and Hopie Williams and Bruce Allan, standard bearers here for the Quigley papers. It was an embarrassing introduction to London. . . .

his staff. He recently returned from the coast where he spent a year as aid to Sullivan. His post in Los Angeles has been taken over by Larry Kent, brother of the president of Twentieth Century-Fox. Prior to his being transferred to the coast, Kent was assistant to Edward Peskay, who resigned July 1 as buyer for Skouras Theatres.

National Theatres and its subsidiaries operate more than 400 houses throughout the country. Among National subsidiaries are F. W. C., Evergreen States, Intermountain, Fox Midwest and Fox Wisconsin circuits.

Sullivan, who was compelled to return to the coast about two months ago due to illness, is back to resume negotiations on pending deals. Harry Cohen, RKO western division sales head, has been in the east since the company's convention working on final details of a deal with the circuit. The talks are expected to wind up in a few weeks, following which the National buyers will start discussing U. A. product terms.

Irving Barry, secretary to Skouras, has gone to Milwaukee on a three weeks' assignment.

Entered Industry in 1925

Powers has been in the business since 1925, when he joined Paramount's legal department on theatres. While with the company he also handled the contracts for talent in stage shows and music, later being switched to the Long Island studios.

In 1933, he joined F. W. C. and for a year and a half made his headquarters in Los Angeles where he had charge of financial and real estate contracts. He came east in the middle of 1934, when he was made eastern legal head for Wesco, now National Theatres. In addition to the legal work, Powers has been sitting in on product negotiations.

Skouras, as heretofore, will have the final say on all transactions.

Elmer C. Rhoden, operating head for Fox Midwest, and Rick Ricketson, Intermountain head, are due this week from Kansas City and Denver respectively to participate in negotiations on product. L. J. McCarthy is expected to accompany Rhoden.

Wisconsin Men Shifted

MILWAUKEE, July 26.—L. Roy Pierce, city supervisor for Fox theatres, has named Roland Douglas, at one time publicity director of the RKO northwest division, as manager of the Wisconsin. Gene Kilborg has been promoted from chief of service at the Wisconsin to assistant manager and William Howard has been named chief of service.

Ralph Nielson, formerly assistant manager of the Wisconsin, has been named manager of the Oriental, while Lowell Parmentier, former manager of the Venetian, becomes manager of the Paradise. Roland Koutnik has been placed in charge of the Venetian and Louis Nye, manager of the Riveria, succeeds Stanley Goodman, rebut rather that they can profit equally well by what the industry can teach them.

Griffis went to Hallgarten & Co. a few years after graduating from Cornell University in 1910 and has been a banker ever since. He left that organization during the war when he served as a captain on the General Staff at Washington, and thereafter participated in the forming of Hemphill, Noyes, in which he has been a partner since.

With this background it is not surprising that Griffis proclaims himself a banker. But when he adds that "I am not a picture man and never will be"—and add it he does—you are inclined to classify him with the type of financial man, such as Dr. A. H. Giannini, whom the industry elects to full membership and congratulates itself when he accepts.

Of his own choice, Griffis is receiving no salary from Paramount, although his predecessor was paid $52,000 last year for his services as chairman of the executive committee. He said he doesn't want to make money out of Paramount, but he does want to see Paramount make money. He has no illusions that he is a film executive. He says he has no desire "to run a film company," that he intends to confine himself to financial work at Paramount as he has been doing "10 hours a day for the last three months."

Friendship the Motive

Hemphill, Noyes owns a "small amount" of Paramount securities, Griffis said, but he ascribes his initial interest in the company and its recent difficulties to his friendship of long standing with most of the present and some of the former members of the company's board. He numbers among his closest friends Floyd Odlum of the Atlas Corp., and Percy H. Johnston of Chemical Bank & Trust Co., both of whom were Paramount directors until recently. It was at the invitation of the men on the board who knew him well that he entered Paramount as a director in May.

He occupies an 11th floor office at Paramount that has no feature in common with the latest trends in film executives' sanctums. No refrigerating system blows its cooling drafts over the box-like cubicle that encloses his desk and no interior decorator has ever crossed its threshold. There is nothing to do in that office except hang up a hat and go to work. It contains only a little-used conference table, an insufficient number of chairs and Griffis's desk in one corner and that of a secretary-stenographer in the opposite corner.

Griffis thinks that Paramount's biggest job was done when Barney Balaban was elected to the presidency. "It's the smartest, most intelligent thing the board has done," he observes. He thinks highly of Balaban and his capabilities. "He ought to make a great head of this company."

Won't Theorize

Griffis said he has been too busy since coming into Paramount to form even general opinions of the film industry. He holds no theories, he said in reply to a question, "of how a motion picture company should be run."

His only hobbies, he says, are working out industrial problems and his boats. He owns two of the latter—the North Wind and the North Star. He likes the first-named best. Lives on it all summer, anywhere on the Sound from Oyster Bay to Greenwich. His land and winter residence is at New Canaan, Conn.

Among the companies of which he is a director are the Lee Tire Co., Thatcher Mfg. Co., Shur-On Optical Co. and Lefcourt Realty Corp. He owns the Brentano book stores, the Manhattan Shirt Co., and is chairman of the finance committee of Cornell University. He has been on the board of Madison Square Garden for the past two years and has been its chairman for the past year. His association with Katharine Cornell and Guthrie McClintic dates back 15 years.

"No," he says with a certainty that suggests he once might have believed otherwise, "there is no chance of getting Miss Cornell into pictures."

Former U. A. Men to Become Exhibitors

Two former United Artists branch managers have entered the independent exhibition field with plans for building up small circuits in the Middle West.

Edward Grossman, recent manager of the Chicago exchange, on Thursday opened the first unit in his proposed circuit. It is the Mode, Joliet, Ill. The theatre, a first run, was built at a cost of $70,000.

Joe Cantor, who some time ago resigned as Indianapolis exchange head, is now operating the Rivoli, Indianapolis, a second run.

Short subject activity dropped down two notches under the former check up which showed five in work.

Warners continued to hold the lead for heavy production with 10 pictures on the sound stages.

E. C. Raftery, distributors' counsel, cross-examined Young who stuck to his point that as between houses with different admissions he disapproved day and date booking for equally priced houses. He said also that one theatre or group should not get all the first runs in a competitive area. Young suggested a stagger system with one theatre getting the picture of a certain producer first run; another, those of a different producer, and so on.

Short Subjects

"Music Hath Charms"

(Universal)

Oswald is a hill billy in this cartoon. His family is rehearsing their mountain tunes in preparation for a visit by a swarm of grasshoppers. He attempts to introduce jazz, but is roughly halted and leaves home with his saxophone. When the plague makes its visit it fails to stop for backwoods melodies and sets about the farm and even a house. At length, after some spectacular animation, the insects drive the people away. Oswald, however, becomes aware of the situation and charms the bugs into restoring everything. It is clever, full of novelty and should be well received. Production Code Seal, No. 2,267. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Moving Day"

(Disney-U.A.)

Walt Disney's rodent hero this time is forced to attempt a rapid job of moving when the unpleasant sheriff decides to sell his furniture for nonpayment of rent and the result is in the best laugh tradition of Disney and Mickey Mouse. When Horace Horsecollar has trouble making the piano cooperate in the effort, and Donald Duck becomes seriously, and physically, involved with a plunger and a fish bowl, the laughs fall thick and fast. The sheriff is outwitted, of course.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,674. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Kiddie Revue"

(Universal)

Oswald puts on a variety performance at his "Opry House" and the usual takes place. He introduces the few acts and is interrupted by an overenthusiastic child fiddler. The boy cuts up, bothering the other performers with some standard annoyances and finally when he goes on he gets a load of ants in his pants. His contortions spread the insects over the theatre and the house empties. It is rather standard cartoon fare, but it has some humorous moments. Production Code Seal, No. 2,197. Running time, 7½ mins. "G."

"Going Places No. 25"

(Universal)

The initial part of this number is familiar stuff, Evangeline country, the second taken in the Bay of Fundy region of Canada. The famous tide of the place is dramatically revealed by the camera. On the Avon River the ebbing and incoming tides are photographed to bring out their most interesting aspects. The rapid rush of water and the drop of shoreline is something that will be a distinct novelty to patrons. It winds up with scenes of tide and lobster fishing. It is fine material, well handled. Production Code Seal, No. 0999. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Girls' Dormitory"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

Hollywood, July 26.—This introductory vehicle for Simone Simon is a dramatic story of the love of an adolescent school girl for her adult teacher, which triumphs over the enduring devotion of a mature woman who loves the same man.

In the nature of a problem play, the film is skillfully performed by Miss Simon, Herbert Marshall, Ruth Chatterton, Constance Collier, J. Edward Bromberg, and John Qualen, who is especially effective in the support. Based on the play by Ladislaus Fodor, Gene Markey's screen play adheres closely to the spirit of the original, and Irving Cummings, director, handles players, situations and dialogue in such fashion as to make them believable.

Set in Germany, the film's initial sequences establish Miss Simon's infatuation for Marshall and Miss Chatterton's affection for him. An unaddressed letter is found by the puritanical Miss Collier, a teacher, and brought to the attention of the faculty. Through Marshall, Miss Chatterton seeks to defend Miss Simon, who is accused, calling it a childish whim. The girl is persecuted by Bromberg and Miss Collier.

Given into Miss Chatterton's hands for her counsel, Miss Simon acknowledges her love and later tells Marshall. Succumbing to Miss Simon's attentions, Marshall asks her to marry him. But Miss Simon, overhearing Qualen's conversation with Miss Chatterton, is conscience-stricken and shocks Marshall by refusing him prior to graduation, only to have him follow her to Paris and claim her.

Miss Simon shows exceptional promise and her debut is aided considerably by the accomplished work of Marshall and the sympathetic cooperation of Miss Chatterton. The scenes reflecting the life of the girls' school contrast pleasantly with the story's weighty theme.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,348. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Grand Jury"

(Radio)

Hollywood, July 26.—This is one for the Fred Stone fans who like his skittish brand of humor. He uses his opportunities well.

In an effort to help his granddaughter's sweetheart keep his job on a paper, Stone volunteers to get a statement from Harry Beresford, who is seeking a grand jury indictment of Guinn Williams for the murder of his son. A gang kills Beresford when Stone smuggles him out of prison and that determines the old gentleman to round up the gang.

The comedy is emphasized by Stone's efforts to evade his bodyguard, Moroni Olsen, and the excitement is supplied by a sequence in which he is discovered by Moroni after eavesdropping from a hideaway in a servadoor.

Owen Davis, Jr., scores as a dumb cub reporter who makes hilarious blunders in his efforts to impress a harassed city editor, Charles Wilson. The sequences have been smartly written. A good cast includes Frank M. Thomas, Harry Jans, Russell Hicks, Billy Gilbert, William Davidson, G. Pat Collins, Margaret Armstrong, Louise Latimer, Edwin Maxwell, Edward Le Saint, Thomas Jackson, Harvey Clark, Ed Gargan, Stymie Beard and Edward Price, under the direction of Al Rogell. Lee Marcus produced.

The story is by James Edward Grant and Tom Lennon and the screenplay by Philip G. Epstein and Joseph A. Fields. It has plenty of resourceful gags designed to give Stone full opportunities for his talents.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,369. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Guns of Pecos"

(Warners)

Hollywood, July 26.—This tale of the Texas Rangers in the early days, while a weak story, offers considerable gun play and hard riding. It also presents opportunities for Dick Foran to sing two numbers.

Foran renders his songs pleasingly and may build into a popular singing, action star with somewhat better story material. The plot concerns the roundup by the Rangers of a gang headed by Robert Middlemass, which terrorizes the country, rustles cattle and rules the community with an iron hand.

Anne Nagel in the feminine lead has few chances to impress, but makes the most of them. Eddie Acuff stands out in the supporting cast, which includes Gordon Hart, Joseph Crehan and Gaby Fay. Noel Smith directed from a screenplay by Harold Buckley. Anthony Coldeway wrote the original. Bryan Foy produced. The film appears destined only for subsequent showings.

Variety Club

Des Moines

Des Moines, July 26.—The excessive heat very nearly played havoc with the golfers attempting a tournament at the Hyperion Club. Ready to do battle for the honor of the greens were members of the Variety Club, exchange men and exhibitors from many parts of the state, but with the thermometer flirting with the 112 degrees mark, a few holes sufficed.

Some of the strong men actually engaged in match play, the winners running as follows:

Eddy Goldman won the first flight and a Gladstone bag as the prize. The second flight was won by C. F. Baker. F. R. Peake, Maquoketa, captured the third; Harry Frankel of United Artists, the fourth; G. R. Friedel, Twentieth Century-Fox, fifth, and Gordon Halloran won the sixth. Bob Watkins of Fairfield was runner up in the first flight and Lou Gaines of Fairfield was the low medalist with a qualifying 36. E. J. Tilton, Warner manager, won golf balls as a consolation prize.

Detroit

Detroit, July 26.—The second Variety Club golf tournament of the season will be held at Franklin Hills Aug. 19.

M. M. Gottlieb is chairman of the general committee, with the following in charge of sub-committees: Publicity, H. M. Richey; prizes, R. E. Moon; handicaps and scores, Max Smitt; clubhouse, Irving and Adolph Goldberg.

A dinner will follow a practice round in the morning and 18 holes of competition in the afternoon. There also will be a floor show following the dinner.

Philadelphia

Philadelphia, July 26.—The annual Tent No. 13 Variety Club Golf Tourney will be held Sept. 25 at Whitemarsh Country Club under the same auspices as last year. The peak social affair of the season, it is expected to surpass all those before.

The board of directors will meet Aug. 12, with a general meeting of the entire membership Aug. 26.

Main attention of the club is now directed toward the Showmen's Variety Jubilee at Atlantic City, Sept. 8-14, with a luncheon of the local tent at the shore Sept. 9. Kings for the day will be selected.

The local tent will contribute a float to the parade and a trophy that will be presented.

Plans are also being formulated for the annual banquet, to be held late in December or early in January.

Sept. 7, Labor Day, the local club will play host to the visiting beauties who will compete in the Atlantic City Showmen's Jubilee "Miss America" competition. The program for the day includes a luncheon, dinner and street parade as well as appearance at the Earle Theatre, followed by entertainment.

Night Shows Gain

San Francisco, July 26.—San Franciscans don't have to worry as to what to do with the early hours of Sunday morning. They go to the theatre.

Every first run in town except the St. Francis is staging "midnight matinees" which vary in starting time from the Orpheum and Embassy's 10:30 P.M. to the Paramount's 12:15. Average starting time for the others is 11:30.

All three burlesque houses play additional stage and screen routines starting at 11:30 P.M. every Saturday.

"Francisco" Washington's Top, $26,500

Washington, July 26. — Loew's Palace skyrocketed to the rarified heights of $26,500 last week as "San Francisco" attracted more money than any picture in this house since "Mutiny on the Bounty" last November. The week's take was $10,600 over average.

Business among the other mainstem houses was not good, with only the Metropolitan, with "Early to Bed," doing above-average business. This spot took $4,800 as against an average of $4,300.

"The White Angel," at the Earle, opened slowly but built as the week progressed, finally taking $18,000, under average by but $400. Harriet Hoctor, headlining the stage show, did not help much.

At Loew's Fox, the combination of "We Went to College" and a unit of the Major Bowes' Amateurs took $17,500, below par by $3,400. "Little Miss Nobody" drew $3,000 to Loew's Columbia, dropping under average by $600.

"San Francisco," in its third downtown week at the RKO Capitol, pulled $7,300, upping the weekly average by $800. It was held over. "Darkest Africa," with a holdover of the Schmeling-Louis fight pictures, brought the independent Strand a $3,950 week, which was $2,450 over the line.

The excessive heat, lasting more than a week, with the thermometer registering an average of 105 helped business at the air-cooled houses, to which the natives repaired to escape the blistering sun.

Montreal, July 26.—"The White Angel" led first runs with $10,500 at the Palace.

Warm weather put a crimp in all grosses. "The Lady Consents" rated second position, securing $6,500 at the Princess where it topped the double bill. "Dracula's Daughter," heading the screen-stage program at Loew's, was responsible for $8,500, as compared with $10,500 average.

St. Louis, July 26.—There seems to be no stopping "San Francisco." In its third consecutive week at Loew's it grossed $10,500, which was $1,500 above average. It was held over for a fourth week—a new record for this theatre. No other picture since Loew's was opened has ever played there three consecutive weeks.

"Earthworm Tractors" and "High Tension," playing together at the Fox. did $13,000, beating the house average by $1,000.

The week was one of real torric weather—the thermometer ranging above 100 degrees each day. However with cooling systems functioning, the heat probably helped rather than hindered business.

The exit of the guild comes as an aftermath of its failure to negotiate a pact with the producers and the subsequent split-up of factions within the organization.

Fligelstone, president of Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, through Arthur Taylor, heading the group of 40 exhibitors and their wives who arrived on the Queen Mary yesterday, extended felicitations to the various trade bodies and producing and distributing companies which will cooperate with the British visitors during their stay in this country.

In a statement presented by Taylor, Fligelstone said: "I bespeak for them that courtesy I know they will receive from our American cousins and will ask them to extend to all trade organizations with which they come in contact the heartfelt felicitations of the C. E. A."

Most of the exhibitors and their wives stated this was their first trip. Some found it difficult adjusting themselves to the U. S. monetary system.

At 5:30 P. M. yesterday, the British Club tendered the visitors a cocktail party at the Gotham Hotel. Representatives of practically all distributing companies were present in addition to Lee Newbury, president of Allied of New Jersey, and Sidney Samuelson, vice-president of the National

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

London.

THIS is a gay, exciting and always interesting city. The West End hotels and restaurants do a regular business which would drive hotel men in New York into a deep green envy. Strolling into any of the better places after one-fifteen anticipating a table will be vacant is no go here; you've got to book—make reservations, to you—earlier or take your chances. It's that way at luncheon, again at dinner and always so at supper. Midnight and later repasts are very much the rule here when theatre is encompassed in the same evening. There are reasons: the matter of dressing, the lack of desire to rush through a formalized meal and the necessity of seeing the play. . . .

Purely as a matter of convenience, then, the long-standing London custom prevails. It would be the buttery at the Berkeley or the grill at the Savoy or any one of a dozen smart places for a cocktail, an entree of Scotch salmon or potted shrimps, which are a rage here, a following dish, usually hot, topped off by a glass of champagne and thereafter a leisurely procession to the play. It is anything but hard to take. Supper, which is a ceremony at which much food and wine are disposed of, largely is a repeat of the luncheon places with particular concentration on the Savoy insofar as film and theatrical London is concerned. The cocktail interlude between tea and dinner provides a pretty good opportunity to continue the gastronomic rhapsody. In short, your average Englishman does quite all right by himself. . . .

This personal history went into its first chapter the night of arrival. Sponsors for the evening were the Kleins. "Where do you want to go" was the question. "London is what we want to see. Let's go all-British," was our decision. So off this threesome went from Mount Royal at Marble Arch, one of London's few American style flats (apartments), down Oxford Street to Regent at Oxford Circus and to Verrey's which is upstairs and Harry's which is downstairs for Pimm's No. 1, a prepared drink with a gin base, a bit of apple, lemon, cucumber and a couple of other ingredients we missed. The drink was all right and so was the effect. Dinner was at Hunindicates and the all-British first night was well under way. . . .

The Hungaria, an occasional haunt of Wardour Street, London's film row, has both a genuine and a phony air of Bohemia about it. Its two Tzigane orchestras proceed on the perpetual motion dictum and, from its tables without warning, local songbirds burst forth. The idea is that it exercises vocal organs, gives the customers a treat and cancels the warbler's dinner check. This night, a Hungarian pseudo-blonde, did the honors. Nobody knew who she was, but the management was suspected. Someone said she was probably a discovery of Korda's. At any rate, the food was genuine. We went for erdelyi fatanyeros which turned out to be a Transylvania mixed grill and exactly like any other of the same name and almas es Cseresznyes Retes. Reduced to simple terms, apple strudel. Water was supplied on request which is the only way to get it any place around town, but the serious end of liquid pastiming was devoted to a gin and French, meaning vermouth, another Pimms and a mixture, personally conceived, of half and half of both. The result was a concoction not calculated to be recorded in any recipe book. . . .

In friendly hands and feeling friendly, the next stop was the Monsiegneur, a newsreel theatre hard by in Piccadilly, operated by Jack Davis who runs others in the West End and who may yet be in America by the time the presses roll on this chatter. His Piccadilly house was formerly the site of a well known restaurant. It runs shorts and newsreels at one bob, or a quarter, has attractive tea rooms off the small auditorium where one may tea as he looks. At large, it is a small, but attractive house and acknowledged as one of the nicest here. . . .

A short walk back to Claridge's was a thrill. Along Piccadilly, past famous hotels, such as the Ritz, we were through Berkeley Square before realization came. Its glory is gone, many of its stately buildings are vacant and others converted into shops, nevertheless, here was an old and venerable spot which could not elude its charm, had it tried. Turning for another look, a hansom clattered by with oil lights

Fox Brokers Ordered To Produce Records

The U. S. Court of Appeals decided today that the five brokerage concerns which handled a great deal of financial transactions of William Fox must produce their books and records concerning these accounts in supplementary proceedings. Attorney for the brokers had appealed from a decision handed down several months ago by U. S. District Judge Patterson, who decided that they must abide by what the subpoenas called for.

Robert P. Levis, representing the brokers, had based his appeal on the grounds that the affairs between client and broker were of a confidential nature. Presiding Judge Learned Hand wrote the opinion, which was concurred in by Justices Augustus F. Hand and Harry B. Chase. The brokerage houses are H. L. Horton & Co., Loeb, Alsberg & Co., J. W. Sparks & Co., B. J. Kallen & Co. Berliner & Co., and Alexander L. Berliner, as an individual. The appeal rose out of the action brought by the Capitol Co. of California in an effort to collect a judgment of $245,000 which was obtained from Fox for default of theatre leases.

The stamp of exhibitors' approval

When we inaugurated the new Paramount Advertising Material Rental Service a few weeks ago, we thought we were on the right track. We believed this was more than an experiment, that it was the one efficient way to handle a major service problem.

But, frankly, we never had any idea that you were going to eat it up the way you have. Naturally, the only way we can tell you how delighted we are is by increasing the service, adding more features. And that we are doing right now. So get in touch with your local exchange and make certain you are getting everything that goes with the new Paramount plan.

Fligelstone Greets U. S.; Tour Is Begun

Allied organization. Among those who attended the cocktail party were Arthur W. Kelly of United Artists; Stuart Doyle, managing director of General Theatres, Australia; Jeffrey Bernerd, G. B.; Nate Manheim, Universal; Harold Auten, American representative for Greater Union Theatres; Albert Deane, Paramount; Morris Frantz, M-G-M, and Jack Alicoate, publisher of Film Daily.

The British group will be the guests of RCA today at a luncheon at the Waldorf. Following the luncheon, the guests will go to the Music Hall where they will be given a reception by W. G. Van Schmus and Martin Quigley. After this they will visit NBC and in the evening the party will attend a showing of "The Great Ziegfeld" at the Astor as the guests of Sam Eckman, Jr.

Leave for Coast Tomorrow

Wednesday will be spent visiting various points of interest. Tomorrow night the group will leave for the coast where they will spend four days at the various studios as the guests of Will H. Hays.

The good will tour was first mentioned to Taylor by two exhibitors last year, Taylor said, but it was too late in the season to do anything. However, when he was approached again this year the journey was arranged, the secretary of the C. E. A. stated.

Taylor said while it is probable an American tour of this kind may become an annual event, it was too early to forecast a definite position in the matter.

Asked to comment on conditions in England, Taylor asserted that they are slightly better this year, due entirely to bad summer weather. There are about 4,300 theatres in the United Kingdom and the visiting group represents about 500, he said.

Full Program to Be Planned

National Screen, Western Electric and G. B. have extended invitations to the C. E. A. members. A program to fit in these invitations will be set up when the group returns from its visit to the west coast studios, Taylor added.

When the group arrives in Chicago, it will be joined by Julius Rayman, theatre owner and producer, who preceded the party here.

Among those who arrived yesterday were: D. G. Bliss, M. E. and Miss E. P. Brown, A. and Mrs. Claff, A. and Mrs. Howie, Mick Hyams, W. C. and Mrs. Jeapes, A. Pidgen, Mrs. S. B. Prevezer, A. H. and Mrs. Reed, F. Reed, Arthur and Mrs. Taylor, all of London; Mrs. M. Johnson, Sheffield; Miss E. Levy, Brighton; T. and Mrs. McDermott, Bromsgrove; G. F. M. and Mrs. E. McDonald, Birmingham; C. W. Perry, Jersey, C. I.; Martin and Mrs. Myers, Brighton; S. T. Smurthwaite, Whitstable, Kent; Mrs. B. Stewart, Wombwell, Yorks; E. and Mrs. de Caux Tilney, Cardiff; Miss J. W. Tilney, Cardiff; H. Sees Renewal For 20th-Fox In Australia and to set the American distribution for "Thoroughbreds," which Cinesound Studios, a subsidiary of Union Theatres, has made in Australia with Helen Twelvetrees, Doyle declared. The picture cost about $150,000 to produce. Wardour Films have signed for the English rights and the rights for India and the Continent also have been disposed of, according to Doyle.

Cinesound in the future will aim for world distribution in the production of six to seven features annually, the managing director of the producing unit stated. While on the coast, Doyle will shop around for talent.

Says Depression Is Passing

"Conditions have vastly improved in Australia and the country is fairly out of the depression," Doyle commented. Theatre business is very fair, he said, and while the scale of admissions has not reached pre-depression days, the volume of patronage has come back to normal. Prices at the theatres are gradually being jacked up, but have some way to go to reach the pre-depression scale. "It's easy to knock them down, but it's mighty difficult to raise admissions," Doyle said.

"We are not planning to expand or develop the theatre situation," the managing director of General Theatres asserted. "Theatre development has reached its saturation point," he said, adding that many of the structures in Australia are comparable to the finest theatres in America.

Doyle is president of Commonwealth Broadcasting Corp., station 2UW, which is never off the air, he said.

Nunnally Johnson, writer, arrived on the same liner after two weeks in London and Paris. He said he visited Robert T. Kane and while in London saw the Denham Studios.

The writer recalled that his contract with Twentieth Century-Fox had just expired and expressed mild anxiety as to whether the two-year option had been lifted. He said he would call Joe Moskowitz the first thing after he reached the hotel. Johnson will leave Saturday by plane for Hollywood.

Johnson found England a bonanza for American writers and players.

Has a Longing

When Arthur Taylor, secretary of the C. E. A., arrived from London yesterday, he expressed a desire for one thing more than anything else in New York.

That was—a real Jewish meal.

Morris Sails Tomorrow

W. Southan Morris, general manager for Union Cinemas, fourth largest circuit in the United Kingdom, sails tomorrow on the Queen Mary after spending several weeks here. J. J. Broad of Compton Organ Co., England, will accompany Morris.

control would remain in British hands.

Captain Cruickshanks, Minister of Mines, speaking for the president, replied that full details in the deal are not available and that the Government at the present time is not in a position to confirm or deny statements in the press that British control has been maintained.

Spears asked: "Will every endeavor be made to keep this important means of propaganda under British control of British interests?"

Harry Day questioned the House, saying: "Will the Minister consider asking the president of the Board of Trade to refer these matters to the committee that is at the present time considering the amendment of the Films Act?"

No Definite Answers Given

Vice-Admiral Taylor asked if it was not a fact that "American interests are taking definite steps to obtain control of the film industry in the United Kingdom.

When no reply was given to these questions James Hall asked if the president of the Board of Trade was satisfied that the important American-British merger would not involve breaches of the Films Act. Cruickshank replied that he could express no opinion until further information is available and made a similar reply to a suggestion from Day that the question also be referred to the Films Act Committee.

HIGH INTENSITY PROJECTION

THEATRE patrons desire enough supplementary lighting for comfortable vision from the moment of entrance. They are annoyed when a dark theatre compels them to stumble and grope blindly for their seats.

High Intensity Projection permits ample side lighting for a comfortable level of general illumination. It improves the quality of black and white projection and brings out the full beauty and realism of color productions.

tends to build seven houses. Arthur said two of the seven would be built directly by F. & M. and five by affiliated companies.

Some months back Harry Koplar, who has figured in as many theatre battles here as there have been battles, let it be known that he would build four. So far only one has been started at Natural Bridge Ave. and Grand Boulevard.

In the near future Nelson Cunliffe, trustee, will put 52 per cent of the stock of the St. Louis Amusement Co., owners of 20 neighborhood and suburban houses, on the market.

Just how far plans will get for a total of 17 new houses when 20 are just emerging from bankruptcy is one of those things that start lively speculation in film circles hereabouts.

Great States, Paramount affiliate, has an eye on the field, it is apparent, but some observers agree that the maneuvers will develop into something besides a building spree.

Shift Philadelphia Fox Friday, Report

Philadelphia, July 27.—Warners will take over the Fox on Friday, it is learned on good authority here. The deal will give the circuit 100 per cent control of the first run in this city.

Papers will be signed tomorrow, it is understood. Herman Wittman, manager of the Earle, will be the new manager of the Fox under Warner management, it is said.

Whether Twentieth Century-Fox product will play the Fox could not be learned here. At the present time this product is getting first runs in the neighborhoods from independents, Warners only getting a split of the releases and seldom playing Twentieth Century-Fox in their own de luxe neighborhood theatres.

Efforts to secure confirmation of the Fox deal at the Warner home office were unavailing yesterday. No one would comment on the Philadelphia reports. Bernhard returned from the coast over the week-end, but was not available for comment.

Spitz Winds Up Shifts in RKO Circuit

Units Dropped and Pools Started in Some Spots

Realignment of the RKO circuit under the Leo Spitz regime has been completed, it was learned yesterday.

Several units have been dropped and pooling arrangements were recently completed in Des Moines, St. Paul and Kansas City. No new theatre acquisitions are contemplated. Among the houses lopped off the circuit were the Downtown, Detroit; Victory, Providence; Regent, Kearny, N. J.; Strand, Rutherford, N. J.

A. H. Blank and Ralph Bronton arrived yesterday from Des Moines to confer with RKO heads on final details of the pool in their city. They will remain in town for several days.

About $50,000 is being spent by RKO on alterations for the Orpheum, Des Moines, which is a part of the Paramount pool. Almost $75,000 will be spent for rehabilitation of Keith's,

Government Controls Barcelona Theatres

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

Barcelona, July 28.—Routine living conditions are rapidly returning to normal in this city, despite the fact that the Government loyalist forces are still engaged in sharp fighting with the rebel army. All the theatres in this city, as well as the large Ford and General Motors plants have been taken over by and are under the complete control of the National Confederation of Labor.

Aside from that situation, however, oreign interests and individuals are receiving the maximum of protection rom the Government. Indicative of he near return to normal are the restoration of mail delivery, both by rain and plane, and the urban transit acilities.

Radio City and Music Hall Amaze British Exhibitors

Radio City virtually swept the 40 British exhibitors and their wives off their feet yesterday, with many expressing amazement at the various features of the Music Hall and its operation. A tour through the theatre had been arranged by W. G. Van Schmus and Martin Quigley and the consensus of opinion was that the inspection "would not be missed for anything."

Arthur Taylor, secretary of the C.E.A., and heading the party, said "the impression leaves me with a desire to spend the necessary time which the theatre warrants. The backstage gadgets and layout of the theatre generally and the extraordinary wealth of exploitation and precision of the stage show are something I have never seen anywhere.

"One can't grasp the position of things in a short time. The perfect acoustics impressed me most," he stated, "despite the vastness of the building. The Music Hall is bigger than any theatre in the United Kingdom and by no means lacks intimacy."

Mick Hyams, who is affiliated with Gaumont British, used the word "terrific." He added, "We thought we had big theatres in England, but the Music Hall is in a class by itself." The auditorium struck him as "beautiful."

"Marvelous," is the way Alex Howie, advertising and publicity head for A.B.C., which operates 300 theatres in England, expressed himself.

"I've read a lot about the Music Hall and it has been described to me by many Britishers, but actually seeing it is wonderful," he said. The reception by Van Schmus and Quigley was marvelous, he added. "As a Scotchman I'm very susceptible to hospitality and from what I have seen and done in the past two days I'm afraid it is rapidly approaching the saturation point."

Sam Martyn, who has two theatres

Canada Gains Are Seen For British Films

Toronto, July 28.—While film distributors in Canada have not yet made their formal announcements regarding feature product which has been lined up for the coming season, there are assurances that British features will gain more exhibitor and audience attention than they have for any previous theatre year, for two reasons.

The first is that more productions will be brought into the Dominion than during the past 12 months, when the total from the English studios did not exceed 55. The second reason is that the British standard of production has

Brulatour and George DeFeo in connection with "Riptide" was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge Albert C. Knox. Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

London

ADVENTURES in London after nine years are plentiful. On the way to meet Percy Phillipson, who, as managing director for nine subsidiaries of Automaticket, finds his operations covering the United States, through General Register Corp., as well as France and Belgium and the Kingdom, the fire department got busy. There on Piccadilly, one of the great thoroughfares, was a sight. The engine snorted, the firemen in dazzling brass helmets clung to their posts while not too dangerously out one side, was the warden of the bell, hand-ringing as he went and making a helluva racket. You might imagine that in America, but it would require plenty of imagination. . . .

There was once a directory here which pointed out English traffic was always on the left; elsewhere throughout the world it was always wrong. Familiar with the regulations, not much by way of trouble developed until we landed at Piccadilly Circus and then we sighed and gave up. It was too much, but it is also usually too much for the average Englishman, as was learned later; comfort in that. Lunch was at the Berkeley, where a good deal of Mayfair and a sizable segment of the titled gentry hold forth. The legitimate theatre likes to foregather here and even an occasional film producer when he has a blonde on his hands; it's "posh"—very British for "swell." The art, or rather the business, of eating is serious stuff at this end of the pond. You start with a drink or two, go into hors d'oeuvres or a companion piece and wrap yourself around a steak or chops with salad and finish off with pastry and coffee or cheese. This has nothing to do with four o'clock and tea. And tea, of course, has nothing to do with the cocktail hour. Dinner has absolutely no connection with any of the others. Then, if you can stand it, supper after the theatre. It's a well-rounded day on a well-filled stomach any day in London. . . .

Into Soho and to Gennaro's, one of the best known Italian restaurants in town in the evening. Signor G. was on hand, as is his custom, greeting his guests with a smile and the women with a flower. A sort of English Henry Armetta, Gennaro maintains his histrionics as well as his kitchen and has appeared in many British pictures. "So She Won't Talk," "Lucky Ladies," "Secret Agent" and "Evergreen" are just a few picked at random. Spaghetti is that the world over, no doubt, its quality varying with the the place. Gennaro's was par excellence. . . .

Earl Tucker, attached to the Walt Disney-Mickey Mouse company, which specializes in accessories to the films, had us in tow. With him was Philip Melnitz, who is to be found in Kay Kamen's office in New York and who was about to return to New York after a visit with his father, Curtis, one time with United Artists in New York and now with the French company. Into the Tucker car, a British Ford about as big as a minute and noisier than an hour, we clambered for a whirlwind tour of the city. . . .

Up and down and across the town. The palaces, the West End first runs, the circuses—Piccadilly, Oxford and others—Trafalgar Square, along the Embankment and past the imposing London County Council building with its ghoulish, green floodlighting, Big Ben, through the City, solid in its financial assurance; Hyde Park, The Serpentine, the Bank of England, the National Gallery, Leicester Square, down Fleet Street—mixed up geographically, no doubt, but visited and etched eagerly, yet vividly, on the memory. . . .

Odds and Ends: Eric Blore, one of Hollywood's best butler-comic types, did the lyrics for "What a Lot of Time," one of the numbers in "Spread It Abroad," current revue at the Saville, a show which, when it's good, it's quite good but which applies in reverse. John Paddy Carstairs, now with Metro in Hollywood, did the newsreel skit. In the audience at the performance we caught: Lee Shubert. In the usual program credit: a line to Ramon Allones for furnishing the cigars; Herman Robbins and Jack and Charlie will please note. . . . Hunt Stromberg is back in France for a couple of weeks on Laudy Lawrence's horse farm; Laudy, of course, is Continental general manager for Metro. Hunt, weeks out of Hollywood, has been touring Italy by road; spent two weeks contemplating the English countryside, went to Aix for the cure and heads it for Hollywood any minute now. . . . "Going Places No. 26"

(Universal)

The making of golf balls, from the primary liquid core to the finished sphere, a camera trip up Canyon Lake in Arizona and Olvera St. in Los Angeles make up this issue. The first part should be generally pleasing for many people ponder how the liquid center got there. The other processes in the manufacture are also shown. The deep Canyon Lake is well photographed amid the most desolate surroundings and is something different. Olvera St., in the heart of Los Angeles, strikes a quaint note in the short. Rebuilt to the picturesque style of years ago and with its inhabitants carrying on old traditions, this original site of the city should be found enlightening. Production Code Seal, No. 01,003. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 25"

(Universal)

The six unusual topics of this number are a soup spring at Steamboat Springs, Nev., a collection of clocks owned by New York University, a blind man who chops wood and carves to earn enough to start his own shop, a meeting of the Ancient Order of Cavemen in Grant's Pass, Ore., the mysterious situation brought about by an Oklahoman who locked his car up 15 years ago, threw away the garage key and planted a tree in front of the door, and a Buffalonian who is called "Pocketbook Face" because of his ability to contract his countenance into weird and amusing grimaces. Altogether it is an interesting and informative collection of the strange and unusual. Production Code Seal, No. 01,004. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 26"

(Universal)

Containing eight topics, this one of the series jumps around the country and covers such oddities as the pass-passing family of Portland, Ore., who send the pass by carrier pigeon to members of the family at home, desert menace in Maine, a chicken pharmacy, and a rolling candy shop. This should be entertaining. Production Code Seal, No. 01,005. Running time, 9¼ mins. "G."

Williamson Seeks to Halt Australia Film

By CLIFF HOLT

Melbourne, July 13 (via Airmail.—J. C. Williamson, Ltd., stage producers, have taken out a Supreme Court writ for an interlocutory injunction restraining M-G-M from showing "Rose Marie." An appearance has been entered by the defendant company. The outcome of the action, which is in the nature of a test case, is being watched here with considerable interest, since the Williamsons own the stage rights for many of the stage plays already produced or planned for production in Hollywood.

The point at issue is whether a talking picture constitutes an infringement on stage play rights. M-G-M holds the view that the two are distinct and different forms of entertainment, that the stage rights were sold by the author only for Australia, and that the right to talking picture production and presentation remains with M-G-M as the owner of the film rights. The release of "Rose Marie" as a silent was not questioned by Williamson, but the presence of dialogue, in play company's opinion, alters the situation.

Lars G. Brundahl, representative here for the Leipzig Trade Fair, declared on his return here that German producers are anxious to renew distribution activity in Australia. He has been commissioned to investigate the possibilities of this market, and if the report is favorable, a releasing system will be set up, for importation of the more important German films later in the year.

More Fox Records Cited at Hearing been brought out by legal means. Accountants estimate this as a quarter of the total of All-Continent ledgers, journals and cash books, and the process is going forward.

The creditors' counsel force the introduction of the records by apparently showing in each case that most or all of the items on the page relate, directly or indirectly, to William Fox.

Summing up their progress at the close of today's hearing, attorneys declared that most or all of the All-Continent transactions were with Fox from 1931, when it became assertedly an irrevocable trust for the wife and daughters, up through 1935.

Herbert Leitsteen, Fox bookkeeper, admitted today that before 1936 all moneys disbursed by All-Continent Corp. to Mrs. Fox were charged to William Fox, an account in her name being started in the books last February. Evidence admitted included a page from the All-Continent minute book, said to show that at a meeting last Dec. 27, the directors voted Mrs. Fox a $25,000 salary for 1935. When asked what services Mrs. Fox gave to All-Continent in 1935, Leitsteen replied, "You will have to ask Mrs. Fox."

The examination will be continued tomorrow.

Blank and Ralph Branton of the Blank circuit in Iowa and Illinois. L. J. Ludwig and John Friedl of Minnesota are expected next week. Federal Board Will Take Trade Census

Washington, July 28.—A national census of employes in all branches of the industry, in the course of which each employe will be given the number by which he will be designated in future employment records, is to be made by the Social Security Board, probably in November.

The canvass is to be made in anticipation of the 1942 inauguration of the payment of retirement benefits to persons more than 65 years of age. At the close of that year it is estimated that the board will have accumulated from the taxes on payrolls a reserve sufficient to provide for the payments to eligible pensioners.

The census will provide the board with complete data on each employe eligible for pension listing, including name, address, sex, race, date of birth, signature and employer's name, all to be filed under a numerical system which the board believes will be necessary to prevent confusion arising from the frequent duplication of common names.

statutory committee on the Films Act.

Runciman replied: "I have no doubt they will take notice of what has been said in this House by you and myself."

Day persisted. "Cannot you give specific instructions"

There was no answer.

The colloquy is regarded as evidence of an intention on the part of British interests to bring pressure to force the Board of Trade to give special consideration to the Gaumont deal, or to have it support a demand for stiffening of the Films Act.

No G. B. Sales Shifts—Weeks

Chicago, July 28.—George W. Weeks, general sales manager of G.B., in an exclusive interview with Motion Picture Daily here today, declared emphatically, "There will be no changes in the G.B. sales personnel of any kind, despite reports to the contrary."

He said the company is in the midst of the selling season and the sales force is "hitting on high." He said any changes would be the same as would be made in the normal course of events, the merger having nothing to do with sales department changes.

Weeks will hold sales meetings tomorrow at the Blackstone Hotel with sales groups from Milwaukee, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Chicago. He will leave tomorrow night for Denver, then go to Kansas City, and will return here Saturday. He is now negotiating with B. & K. Great States circuit but no deal has been completed as yet.

A preview showing of the G. B. feature, "Nine Days a Queen," will be held at the Southampton Theatre, Southampton, L. I., Thursday, Aug. 13, for the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund for Crippled Children. Afternoon and evening performances are planned.

improved to such an extent that every feature released in Canada will enjoy a wider market. These are the arguments on which was based the recent announcement by J. J. Fitzgibbons, managing director of Famous Players Canadian Corp., that more British product would be seen in the company's circuit of more than 200 theatres.

Intimation has already been made by Empire Films, Ltd., here that it would release 30 Gaumont British features in Canada during the next 12 months. There will also be additional B.I.P. features on the booking list of this distributor.

Regal Films, Ltd., will feature the releases of London Film Prod., and will have numerous other British pictures which will shortly be announced.

It is anticipated that these two companies will have available for the 1936-37 season approximately 70 British features for the Canadian market and the expectation is that the bookings of these pictures will run 40 per cent more than during the past season. There are theatres in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver where British pictures have been popular, but they will be booked more freely into other situations, starting in September.

Say Monogram Will Resume Next Year

recently, has moved to 1776 Broadway. Because of the Monogram lease which has about two years to run, Johnston continues to make his office in the RKO Bldg. He also is president of Republic.

Johnston's contract with Republic expires the end of the year, and it is reported he will again become the guiding factor in Monogram under the rehabilitation plans. Financing is said to be set.

Trem Carr in all probability will again become production head of Monogram, it is said. His contract with Republic, which provides he cannot produce independently, has about another year to run. However, a Trem Carr unit now is producing six John Wayne westerns for Universal.

Johnston will not comment on the reports. When Carr recently returned from an European vacation, he would not commit himself when asked about the revival of Monogram.

Burroughs-Tarzan to Seek Outside Films

Hollywood, July 28.—Burroughs-Tarzan Pictures plans to release a total of 24 features during the coming season, with that total dependent upon production by various individual producers of half of the group. Burroughs-Tarzan itself will produce 12 features.

Negotiations are now under way for the outside product, which will be released by Burroughs-Tarzan and through its franchise affiliates.

Radio City and Music Hall Amaze British Exhibitors

and also is connected with the London stock exchange, asserted that the theatre simply took his breath away. "The stage presentation is the last word. It seemed unreal and I will always have it in my mind when I go back to London," he said.

"The lounge is very impressive and the color effects so restful that one cannot believe it. There is nothing like it in London at all. It's the first time I've sat in a 6,000-seat theatre.

"There are a lot of small cinemas in London that could be put into the generating room of the Music Hall," Martyn said.

According to Sidney Thornton Smurthwait there is nothing like the Music Hall. "I think it's just wonderful," he said. "It's an eye-opener and I don't think there's an adjective I can bring to my mind which can convey my impression. The theatre is run like an army on a truly magnificent scale. The care that is given to the staff and the kindness to visitors and the happiness that reigns are supreme."

Smurthwait described the tour as "swell." He said everything has exceeded expectations. "Nothing is overrated," he said.

"Amply Repaid for Our Trip"

"To me, Radio City is the last word," he added. "We have been amply repaid for our trip and I wouldn't have missed it even if I had not seen anything else." Smurthwait formerly operated 12 small theatres in England, but has an interest in Moss Empires, a variety circuit, which has been taken over by Gaumont British. One picture he wants to see before he returns to England is "The Green Pastures," he said.

Mrs. E. McDonald of Birmingham and Mrs. Blanche Stewart of Wombwell, Yorkshire, held that the tour "excelled anticipations." They said they have never seen anything like it. As for the stage show, the two exhibitors asserted that it was far better than any London show. "Those that did not come over with us will be sorry they did not make the trip," they declared.

Two members of the London Cinema Veterans were "struck stone cold." They were Max Raymond, ex-president of the L.C.V. and former treasurer of the C.E.A., and C. W. Perry, who has dropped out of exhibition and plans a comeback.

"The show is a revelation," they asserted. The theatre is wonderfully efficient and there is nothing like it in the world, they said. Perry said he was amazed at not seeing a motor accident during his two-day visit, despite the number of automobiles in the city.

H. A. Yapp has seen some of the large theatres in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Detroit, but none of them compares with the Music Hall, he said.

Cocktail Party Caps Day

The exhibitor said he has been having trouble with his appendix and when he went to the hospital recently for an examination he said the pretty girls nearly persuaded him to undergo an immediate operation. He decided, however, to wait until he gets back to London. Yapp sails today on the Queen Mary with Southan Morris, who has the fourth largest circuit in England.

Attending the cocktail party given to the British visitors at the Music Hall after the tour were many of the industry's leaders, among them M. H. Aylesworth, Barney Balaban, Spyros Skouras, Stuart Doyle, Jack Cohn, James R. Grainger, Sam Morris, Arthur W. Kelly, Maurice and Emanuel Silverstone, J. Walter Hutchinson, A. W. Smith, Jr., Jack Alicoate, Colvin W. Brown, Nate Spingold, William T. Powers, Karl McDonald, Ned E. Depinet, Nate Manheim, Jeffrey Bernerd, Arthur Lee, Richard Watts, J. J. McCarthy, Herbert Griffin, P. A. McGuire, Thomas Drew, Sidney Samuelson, Harry Thomas, Budd Rogers, Arthur Fisher, Norton Ritchey, Jr., Morris Frantz and a host of others.

Van Moss Phillips, export manager for RCA, was host to the British group at a luncheon yesterday at the Waldorf. Taylor expressed his thanks. In the evening the party attended a showing of "The Great Ziegfeld" at the Astor.

British Lion Wins Suit

London, July 28.—Justice Bennett in Chancery Division has given a judgment for British Lion in the action in which the latter was sued by Ronnie Munro and Ray Sonin for infringement of copyright on the song, "Big Chief," recorded in the British Lion film, "Soft Lights and Sweet Music." The court ruled that the plaintiffs' agent had sold the right to reproduce the song for £25.

Maxwell Denies Quitting

London, July 28.—John Maxwell denied reports printed here that he may resign the presidency of the K.R.S. because of the Schenck-Ostrer deal, which, it is claimed, threatens the disruption of the K.R.S. through the domination of the society by Gaumont British, Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M.

"Pastures" Preferred

Toronto, July 28.—Previous bookings were set aside at the Uptown here to make way for "The Green Pastures" in order to capitalize on the publicity developing around the ban and later approval of the film by Premier Hepburn. The film appears set for an indefinite run.

"Scotland" Dates Set

Pre-release bookings have been set for "Mary of Scotland" on Aug. 7 in the Hippodrome, Baltimore; the Byrd, Richmond, and the Warner, Atlantic City, on Aug. 8 at the Palace, Dallas. All are indefinite runs.

Withdrawal of Ascap Awaits English Group contract. Thus far, no such notice has been served on the Canadian organization, Mills declared.

Meetings of attorneys for major distributors, in an effort to work out an agreement which will permit the exhibition in Canada of pictures containing Ascap copyrighted music after the licensing society withdraws from Canada, have been set back to the middle of September, Edwin P. Kilroe, Twentieth Century-Fox attorney, said yesterday. At that time Kilroe will have returned from a European study of the copyright situation, for which he will sail today. Kilroe is also chairman of the copyright committee of the M.P.P.D.A.

Ascap's contemplated withdrawal from the Canadian Performing Rights Society is based on the legislation enacted at the recent session of the Canadian Parliament empowering the Government of the Dominion to determine the licensing rate which may be assessed on theatres and others for the use of copyrighted music controlled by the organization. Ascap contends it is not worthwhile for it to do business in Canada under those conditions.

Dominion Board Planned

The Federal Dep't of State at Toronto shortly will issue a schedule of fees which the Canadian Performing Rights Society may use. In the fall the Government plans to establish a permanent board to pass upon copyright fees, particularly when a complaint has been received concerning such fees. The board will have its headquarters in Ottawa, and will comprise a representative of the judiciary as chairman, and two civil servants.

Mills declared yesterday that Ascap intends to provide the distributors with plenty of time to arrive at a solution of the problem which confronts them. Kilroe declared that as yet distributors have formed no plan to be used as the basis of an agreement in the matter.

Browne in Toronto On Moves by IATSE

George Browne, president of the I.A.T.S.E., is in Toronto, reputedly in a move to have more Canadian projectionists affiliate with the international.

About 85 per cent of the operators in Canada are reported disorganized and attempts to round them up in one organization have failed from time to time, it is said.

Browne is reported surveying the situation with the hope of getting the Canadian independent unions into the I.A.T.S.E.

Brandt Urges N. Y. Houses Raise Prices

Tells ITOA Shows Here Sold Too Cheaply

Every theatre in New York, circuit and independent, should raise its admissions by five cents, Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., urged at a general membership meeting of the organization at the Astor yesterday.

Brandt declared that theatres in New York are selling their entertainment too cheaply, and expressed the belief that they should return, at least in some degree to the price scales which existed before the depression. He pointed out that the average admission price in New York theatres is 17¼ cents, which, he said, is the lowest average in the entire country, despite the fact that the houses here are the finest, on the whole, in the country, showing the best pictures. Also, he declared, New York is a double feature territory, which he implied as another reason for increased admissions.

The circuits, said the independent

"Beyond all other great industries the motion picture is interested in peace, international amity—no industry has so much to lose by wars. And yet those who would make war, foster bitter nationalisms, create hatreds and selfish causes, disturbances of organized society, are endlessly striving to make the screen an instrument in the service of dissension."

That in essence was the message that Terry Ramsaye, editor of Motion Picture Herald, delivered in a lecture in the course on "Propaganda" at the Bucknell University summer school at Lewisburg, Pa., Monday.

Ostrer Denies Change Coming In Distribution for Gaumont

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, July 29.—In spite of statements made in New York by Joseph M. Schenck to the effect that amalgamation of distribution of Gaumont British, Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M in England would be begun immediately, David Ostrer said today that changes not only were not planned, but had not even been discussed.

Isidore Ostrer and David Ostrer were in conference all this afternoon and Isidore Ostrer promised to make a statement to the press tomorrow.

Asked if British control would be affected by the deal, Ostrer said that not only was it unaltered, but it could not be altered.

British Group Off For Trip to Coast

After touring the city and visiting various points of interest during the first two days of their visit, the 40 British exhibitors and their wives spent yesterday "resting" and "packing," Arthur Taylor, heading the contingent, stated prior to the departure of the group for Hollywood last night.

At 7 P. M. last evening, the party left for the coast from Jersey City on the B. & O. They will arrive in Chicago at 5:10 P. M. today. They will spend a few hours touring the Windy City and then depart on the Santa Fe at 11:35.

Spain Confiscating Distributor Assets

Barcelona, July 29.—As a result of a legal survey urged here by Motion Picture Daily and Motion Picture Herald, establishing the status of Spanish affiliated companies, distributors have been given to understand that all of their assets are technically the property of the Spanish Anonymous Societies. The only exception to this ruling is seen in the case of unpaid film stocks. These remain the property of the American and European subsidiaries of the home organizations.

20th-Fox Six Month Net Is $2,769,190

Is Double That for Same Period in 1935

Profits double those for a year ago in the same period were reported yesterday by Twentieth Century-Fox for the 26 weeks ending June 27. The net operating profit after all charges, including Federal income taxes, except provision for surtax on undistributed profits, was $2,769,190. For the same period last year the net was $1,355,781.

For the quarter ending June 27 the consolidated profit from operations, after all charges, was $1,529,430. For the first quarter the profit was $1,239,760, and for the second it was $738,974.

This equals $2 per share on the 1,357,833 shares of $1.50 cumulative convertible preferred stock outstanding. After allowing for the preferred dividend of 75 cents per share for the half-year, there remains a profit equivalent to $1.43 a share on the 1,228,039½ shares of common stock outstanding.

No income was included from National Theatres in which Twentieth Century-Fox holds a 42 per cent stock

This year's 26-week net is equivalent to $6.60 per share on the cumulative preferred and compares with $1.75 per share for the same period last year.

Sennett Pays Judgment

Mack Sennett and Sennett Pictures Corp. yesterday satisfied a judgment of $10,238 obtained in Oct., 1934, by Louis N. Rosenbaum, an attorney. This was made known through the filing of a judgment of satisfaction in Federal court. The judgment was granted on Rosenbaum's claim that in May, 1933, he had made an agreement with Sennett to become the latter's financial agent for one year at a salary of $24,000 and 20 per cent of the capital stock of the Sennett Pictures Corp. Sennett paid him $500 and then broke the agreement, he charged. Rosenbaum orginally sued for $44,000, but the court awarded him only $10,238.

Newsreel Fined for King Attack Caption

London, July 29.—King's Bench Division Court has fined Gaumont British £50 and costs on a charge of contempt of court for supplying a newsreel of the recent alleged attempt on the life of King Edward which contained the caption—"Attempt on King's Life"—and a commentary stating that the revolver had been aimed.

The charge also included the supplying of a poster stating that assassination had been attempted.

J. H. Hutchinson and Hendon Central Cinemas, for showing the film and poster, were not fined after an apology, but were ordered to pay costs.

In the Gaumont case letters of apology were read from Mark Ostrer and David Ostrer and evidence was submitted showing that the caption and poster had been withdrawn from 26 theatres after a protest from solicitors for the accused man, but a letter to Hendon Cinema miscarried.

In similar cases against the Evening News and the Daily Express the editors and proprietors of each paper were ordered to pay £500 and costs.

Rolsky-Fox Midwest Action Is Resumed

Kansas City, July 29.—Continuing the anti-trust suit of Emanuel Rolsky against Fox Midwest and major distributors here today, E. C. Raftery, counsel for the distributors, continued his cross-examination of E. S. Young, plaintiff, submitting that Young's Central had in the past played pictures on a 1933 Fox Film contract behind equally priced houses. Young testified that he had signed the contract in blank lacking full knowledge of its stipulations.

Emanuel Rolsky substantiated Young's testimony that the independents could not negotiate last fall until Fox had bought. He further charged in his testimony that Frank Hensler, M-G-M branch manager, offered to iron out his difficulties for him if he would refrain from bringing the present suit. This, Rolsky says, he refused to do.

RCA Authorized to Watch Moves on RKO

Federal Judge Bondy signed an order yesterday permitting RCA to be represented in all of the reorganization proceedings of RKO in view of the $9,000,000 claim of Rockefeller Center. This claim is being disputed by other creditors of RKO.

In applying for permission to take part in these proceedings, RCA pointed out that it is one of the biggest holders of RKO stock. Holdings in debentures amount to over $11,000,000 and the company also holds 24 per cent of the common stock outstanding. An allowance made by Thomas D. Thatcher, referee, of $9,942,293 on the Rockefeller claim is still in dispute, Judge Bondy not having completed hearing arguments of both sides.

organization president, have not yet agreed to the admission increase he advocates. He describes a call from Charles Moskowitz of Loew's and a subsequent discussion relative to the elimination by the I.T.O.A. houses of "early bird" matinees, the differential in matinee prices, giveaways and like practices. Brandt said he told Moskowitz that last year a similar discussion was held, that as a result the I.T.O.A. passed unanimously a resolution looking to such action, that RKO had agreed, but that no complete deal eventuated.

Brandt announced the appointment of a committee of two, consisting of himself and Leo Brecher, each representing his own theatres as well as the I.T.O.A., which will meet next Wednesday with Moskowitz, in the latter's office at Loew's, in an effort to find a solution to the problem.

Resolutions Presented to Brandt

The feature of the meeting was the presentation to Brandt of an embossed book containing a set of resolutions, signed by all members of the organization, expressing the appreciation of the membership at his acceptance of the post of president.

Paul Moss, license commissioner of New York, made the presentation. In the course of his remarks Moss declared that the one respect in which he may have been "a little harsh" concerning theatres was in his insistence on strict adherence to fire safety regulations. He said he would offer no apology, and pointed out, in justifying his stand, the vital importance of guarding against injury to theatre patrons. The safety of patrons, he declared, is important to the entire industry.

Expressing his thanks for the token, Brandt declared, "I promise that the I.T.O.A. will go on."

The application for membership of the Rogers Theatre, Brooklyn, was referred to the membership committee.

Talks on Film Trucking

Brandt told the members that he had been approached by a trucking company which desired to handle the film carrying business of the I.T.O.A. An organization committee found the company to be a responsible organization, and its prices slightly lower than those of the units now carrying film for the I.T.O.A. Brandt said he suggested to the present carriers that they become associate members of the organization and that new contracts would be arranged with them. The units pointed out that their trucks are maintained solely for the business of the I.T.O.A.

It is understood that American News Co. was the company which approached the I.T.O.A.

The meeting took no action on the proposed merger with the T.O.C.C., details of which are being worked out.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"His Brother's Wife"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—The chief appeal of this handsomely produced film lies in the performances of Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck in essentially unsympathetic roles which somehow fail to gain the sympathy of the audience for faulty, but human, characters.

Taylor is a playboy-scientist determined to uphold the honor of his aristocratic family by dangerous medical research in tropical jungles. Miss Stanwyck is a model who spends her spare time in a smart gambling house. They fall madly in love, but through the intervention of Taylor's brother, John Eldredge, their marriage is prevented and Taylor leaves for the jungle.

Out of spite, Miss Stanwyck marries Eldredge, but leaves him on their wedding night, content to have gained his name. Taylor returns and tricks her into following him into the jungle. Eldredge obtains a divorce and Taylor springs a surprise on Miss Stanwyck, telling her he was merely paying her in her own coin, and casts her off. She has to inoculate herself with a deadly virus and give Taylor an opportunity to prove he has found the serum to cure spotted fever before the final reconciliation is accomplished.

There is splendid acting by the leads and Jean Hersholt, Joseph Calleia, Samuel Hinds, Phyllis Clare, Leonard Mudie, Jed Prouty, Pedro de Cordoba, Rafael Corio, William Stack and Edgar Edwards. There is considerable bright dialogue in the screen play by Leon Gordon and John Meehan from an original by George Auerbach. W. S. Van Dyke produced and directed.

Other speakers on the course include Elisha Hanson, attorney for the American Newspaper Publishers' Ass'n; Edward L. Bernays, of New York, public relations counsel; and Lawrence Westbrook, assistant administrator of the Works Progress Administration.

In his discussion Ramsaye pointed out that only in America is the screen even approximately a free medium, and that the pressures of strife-torn and dictator-ruled foreign states were exerting adverse influences even here.

"The international success of the American picture has made all the world problems also problems of the organized industry. What happens today in the Balkans or on the Bosporus is something for Hollywood to start worrying about tomorrow.

"Also with the eyes of the world upon it, the motion picture, international as an art, as merchandise, in its personnel and even to a growing degree in its corporate structures, the screen is made sensitive to and responsible to far too many authorities.

Film Aid Widely Sought

"A condition has developed under which we see the Secretary of State of the United States having to discuss the contents of a newsreel in terms of foreign diplomacy.

"Never before were there so many persons about, and some of them persons of power and influence, burdened with messages and special causes. Practically all of them want to enlist the motion picture and to get attention on the screen of the theatre because that is where the eyes of the millions are focussed. An even greater number of persons, while in doubt about what they want the screen to say, are very sure of what they do not want it to say. The result is a rising tide of restrictive measures in most every other civilized or semi-civilized land in the world. The screen has been made substantially an instrument of the government in all the dictator states.

"If the screen is to hold for itself what freedom it still enjoys in America it will have to defend itself with zeal—and that is a problem of its patrons."

Fox Appraisal Move Dismissed by Court

On motion of attorneys for Twentieth Century-Fox N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Levy yesterday dismissed an action brought several months ago by Munson G. Doremus and several other stockholders of old Fox Film Corp. for an appraisal of their stock.

No opposition to the dismissal was made on the part of the stockholders. Doremus and the other holders of stock had applied to the court for the appointment of three appraisers at the time of the reorganization of the firm. The stock in the organization having increased in price, the stockholders finally decided to drop the entire matter.

Hollywood, July 29.—Hunt Stromberg has returned here from a three-month tour of Europe accompanied by his wife and son. The M-G-M producer stated that big pictures aimed at international audiences will be Hollywood's watchword for the coming year.

British Group Off For Trip to Coast

mit's Rim Trail is scheduled for the morning and in the afternoon a drive to the Desert View is planned. On Monday afternoon the party will arrive in Los Angeles where they will spend the day without a specified routine.

Inspection of the various studios with the cooperation of Will H. Hays will take up all their time next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Aug. 7, a motor coach tour of the California Coast and a visit to Santa Barbara is scheduled. The following day, the tour will be continued to Del Monte where the party will spend the night. On Aug. 9, they will arrive in San Francisco and then spend the next two days visiting points of interest.

The return trek will start Aug. 12 from San Francisco. Three days later the group will hit Chicago again and spend the day there, leaving at night for Niagara Falls where they will arrive the morning of Aug. 16. The visitors will be met on the Canadian side of the falls by Canadian film men who will accompany the party to Toronto.

On Aug. 17, the British contingent will be back in New York where they will be free to take in as many sights as the time affords. The Normandie will sail Aug. 19 and on it will be the returning exhibitors. They will reach Southampton Aug. 24.

far Americans have not started to build," Kann asserted.

"There is great activity at the studios, particularly at Denham," the editor observed. As for theatre business, Kann stated that it is unusually good. He attributed this to the heaviest July rainfall on record. "London is very gay and filled with Americans." Among the many in England now are J. Robert Rubin, Helen Hayes and Charles MacArthur, John Hay Whitney and Irving Caesar.

"The English importation of American talent is continuing," Kann added, "and the English industry is daily getting more American."

The weather on his return trip was pretty bad. Tuesday was the only good day, Kann said. The sun came out that day and the editor has a nice rubric complexion to prove it.

The Motion Picture Daily editor went into a rave about the new offices of Quigley Publications in London. He said they are located in the latest and most modernly equipped office building in the town.

A. P. Waxman, with a police card projecting from the band of his felt hat, was among the group at the pier meeting the home-coming editor.

Fox—All-Continent Interchange Noted

Aronberg-Fried Co., Inc., a subsidiary of All-Continent, dated June 3, 1932, to the Maryland Casualty Co., New York, and signed by Herbert Leitsteen, Fox bookkeeper, as vice-president, was produced. The firm asked to be bonded in the sum of $2,700,000 on a $5,380,000 contract for erecting a U. S. Dep't. of Agriculture Building in Washington, and stated the Aronberg-Fried financial standing. William Fox was named as having contributed $450,000.

David Katz of creditors' counsel pointed out that "everything said in that letter that William Fox did in loaning money or receiving debentures is in no way supported by his books. All the entries that would support the statements in the letter appear in the All-Continent books. There isn't any doubt the payments were made by All-Continent," he said.

Fox Signature Significant

"Here we see an agreement with Maryland Casualty that moneys owing by Aronberg-Fried to All-Continent will not be paid back, and who signs the agreement but William Fox?"

Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle insisted it was possible that there might have been different transactions, by All-Continent and Fox, of about the same amounts and dates, and that the Fox signature on the agreement could not bind All-Continent. Katz, however, then produced the transcript of an earlier statement by Murray C. Becker, as counsel for Fox and for All-Continent, that this was the only transaction between All-Continent and Aronberg-Fried. The ledger account of Aronberg-Fried with All-Continent in the latter's books and 11 other pages were admitted in evidence.

Exhibitor Move Seen As Spreading Widely

Los Angeles, July 30.—The I.T.O. of Southern California and Arizona today dispatched to producers, studio personnel, exhibitor organizations throughout the country and newspapers, copies of a resolution demanding an end to the practice of permitting stars and directors to appear on the radio.

The move is a further indication of the spread of that movement on the part of exhibitor organizations over the country. The Connecticut M.P.T.O., with headquarters at New Haven, last week passed and sent to producing companies' home offices similar resolutions.

In the resolution adopted by the oast I.T.O. board of directors, and ent out by Robert H. Poole, secreary, the organization points out that tar name power has been built hrough the box-office and each radio ppearance decreases the star's popu-

British Silent On Gaumont's Transfer Move

Runciman Won't Reply; Ostrer Delays Talk

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, July 30.—Silence settled over the Gaumont British, Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M situation today both in the G. B. offices and in the House of Commons.

Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, refused to add anything to previous replies when questioned by a member of Parliament, although this was taken as an indication that Parliamentary opposition may induce the Government to take some action.

Color was lent to this belief by the fact that Isidore Ostrer did not keep an appointment with newspapermen to make a statement on the situation. He sent out word that a statement might be issued next Monday.

Runciman's refusal to talk came when E. Sorensen, member of Parliament, asked the Government's intentions about "the danger to the British film industry in the Schenck-Ostrer

Sheehan-Kahane Vague on New Firm

Hollywood, July 30.—Reports that Winfield Sheehan and B. B. Kahane were jointly discussing plans for a new producing company met with qualified denials from both today.

Kahane said: "I don't know anything about it."

Sheehan's reply to a query was: "All I know is what I read in the papers. I am not ready to discuss my plans yet."

Each refused to add anything to his remarks, and observers here are inclined to believe something may happen.

"Not Yet Closed"

New York financial tickers yesterday carried the following flash from London:

"Isidore Ostrer, chairman of Gaumont British, stated that the American deal which the company is negotiating has not yet been closed, but he was hopeful that it would be concluded next week. Ostrer definitely emphasized that in any case Gaumont British will remain an entirely British controlled company."

It is understood papers necessary to completion of the transaction have been drawn, although no signatures have been affixed. Reliable authority, however, was of the definite opinion yesterday that only technicalities stood in the way of actual consummation.

Film Shortage Faces Cuba in Censor Battle

An acute shortage of suitable product faces the theatres of Cuba as a result of the decision of major distributors not to ship any film to Havana until the censorship situation is cleared, it was indicated here yesterday.

Distributors have sent no film to Cuba since July 1, when a New York office was established for the censoring of all American product destined for Cuba. The office was placed under the direction of Roberto Hernandez, with a fee of $10 per reel imposed for review in this country. There was no fee for censorship in Havana before.

Major distributors are awaiting word from the State Dep't at Washington on the answer of the Cuban Government to the protest against the Otterson Pact Is Settled By Board of Para.

Former Head Plans Trip To Europe Shortly

The board of directors of Paramount Pictures, Inc., at a meeting yesterday, effected an "amicable and satisfactory" settlement with John E. Otterson, former president.

The statement issued following the regular board meeting included no details and gave no hint of the amount involved in the settlement, which has been the subject of considerable speculation since Otterson left the presidency. It was generally anticipated that he had intended bringing suit against the company for the unexpired portion of the contract if a settlement was not reached.

The contract was a five-year employment arrangement, stipulating the position of president for a period of one year. The pact still had four years to run at the time of Otterson's withdrawal.

Otterson, informed by Motion Picture Daily of the board's acceptance

Federal Amusement Levy Renewal Seen

Washington, July 30.—It was indicated today that Administration fiscal authorities plan to seek Congressional approval for a continuance of the sales and nuisance taxes which are now producing about $425,000,000 annually. Amusement levies fall into the classification of nuisance taxes.

Originally imposed in 1932, and renewed twice, the taxes are scheduled to expire next June and July. Treasury officials have decided that the reenactment of the entire list of taxes is essential, in view of the increase of the Federal deficit because of emergency relief expenditures.

Atlantic City, July 30.—The books of the Parkwood Corp., New York, All-Continent subsidiary, were admitted in evidence at the William Fox bankruptcy hearing today.

Ed Finney Is Made Associate Producer

With Edward Finney signed to produce eight westerns, six of the nine producers who will deliver Grand National's 52 features are set, E. L. Alperson, president, stated yesterday.

Finney is negotiating with a prominent radio star who will be featured in the outdoor pictures which John McCarthy will direct. The producing company name is Boots & Saddles Pictures, Inc.

In addition to supervising production, Finney will continue as publicity and advertising head of the company, spending a considerable part of his time on the coast.

Among other producers signed are Douglas MacLean, Boris Petroff, Frank Gay, George Hirliman and Ray Friedgen. The last named will make "Killers of the Sea."

Reports that Winfield Sheehan would produce a series for the company were denied by Alperson.

The Grand National head leaves for Quebec tonight and tomorrow will sail on the Empress of Britain for England to arrange for distribution of the 52 pictures in the United Kingdom. When he returns after a month, Alperson will go to the coast for a few months to oversee production.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

CONNERY CHAPPELL, critic of The Sunday Dispatch, has seen "The Green Pastures" in Hollywood. He praised the film, then cabled:

> "The Negro conception of heaven faithfully follows the distinguished play. To the American mentality, familiar with the Negro mind, the film presents no bad taste. The English mind is unable to understand the Negro attitude. . . . The film is, deliberately slightly grotesque, fitting with [Marc] Connelly's interpretation of the Negro heaven, which is unlikely to receive serious attention in England where audiences could not understand the primitive idea of the Deity. Hollywood is exasperated by the British refusal to show the picture, here considered an outstanding artistic achievement. The answer is that Britain is just not interested in Negro fables."

And thus it is very likely to be. Before we left New York and after a look at the film, we sounded off on a plea that special consideration be accorded this Warner attraction, pointing out that the British prohibition against visualization of the Deity was designed to avoid defamation or encouragement of the sacrilegious. It is to be hoped that such consideration will be forthcoming, but nowhere in the British trade is any such hope held out. Tradition and custom are uprooted very slowly in England, if at all. It is in the nature of the constituency to follow the course laid down by earlier generations and often it makes little difference if such procedure argues nonsense in the light of more modern times. . . .

Of course, in the instance of "Pastures" where religion enters, the circumstance takes on an even more delicate turn. In London, where cosmopolites abound, the sentiment might be less pronounced. Yet, that is a question. It was only the other day when the London County Council described "Dracula's Daughter" as "horrific," gave it an adult certificate and made it mandatory upon exhibitors to designate the film as unsuited for children in letters not less than one inch and a half high. There is also the case of Dwight Fiske, performer of risque songs at one of the town's suavest restaurants. His appearance has been under fire. . . .

In the provinces, matters pertaining to religion are rarely submitted to tampering. In some towns, theatres have been licensed to run on Sunday. In most of them, it is a six-day week with little indication of change. It would be unthinkable to seek alterations and, significant to note, almost invariably it is the exhibitor himself who is in the vanguard of opposition to an open Sabbath. This may be difficult to understand in the States. Here, where radios in many areas are kept silent on Sunday, it is not. . . .

One of the oddities of London night life is the bottle party. Designed to circumvent the peculiar and strict closing hours which first were enforced under the "Dora"—Defense of the Realm Act during the war and frequently referred to as late as now as "Dumb Dora"—the bottle party thrives all night, sans police interference, through the simple expedient of ordering a bottle of liquor a day in advance; five minutes are enough by slipping the doorman. Theoretically clubs and actually not, these holes in the walls of innumerable buildings shooting off Piccadilly Circus number about two thousand in a half mile radius. By general consensus of opinion, bottle party establishments and others subscribing to the legal closing hours do not interfere with West End theatre business, are an accepted part of the scheme and, in the main, are thoroughly respectable, although they sound not. In Mother Hubbard's, cuisine by "Louis, late Claridge's and Savoy," this happened: "Are you Mother Hubbard?" Answer: "Oh, no. I'm one of the dance hostesses here." . . .

Language, not trade alone, follows the films. Americanese, made familiar by Hollywood, is gaining a greater foothold on Britain's shores. While in the repeating, the slang is always exaggerated out of the corner of the mouth, considerable interest attaches to the fact that it is repeated. That brings this chronicle to a story which is tickling some of those along Wardour Street.

An English professor, discussing word usage in America, said he had been impressed latterly by several new ones which were swell and lousy.

"What are they?" called a voice from the rear. . . .

About those G. B. auto plates which, by law, must be carried on every British car which goes outside the land, temporarily or otherwise. When Bob Montgomery was here, he fell for a Rolls-Bentley, made his buy and shipped the car to Hollywood where it attracted considerable attention. Ultimately, Montgomery was photographed draped around it and the shot used in an American fan magazine. Gaumont British's publicity department in New York encircled the plate and sent over the clipping as further evidence of the publicity break it was getting in savage America. . . .

Checkers, in the American sense, are unknown here. Yet, proving that distributors view exhibitors in pretty much the same light, no matter what the particular scene, is the existence and the maintenance by the K. R. S.—the Kinematograph Renters' Society—of a secret force to keep a line on percentage engagements. K. R. S. members alone know the personnel. . . .

New York flash of the appointment of Dick Watts to succeed the late Percy Hammond as drama critic of The New York Herald-Tribune confirms the forecast of weeks ago in this very space, Winchell notwithstanding. Howard Barnes, new film critic on the same sheet, long has been in The Tribune's drama department. . . .

In various and rare moments of fidelity, we made effort to find Ballantine's Scotch. It may be the house whisky at "21," but nobody in London, including some of the town's best guzzlers, has ever heard of it. John Haig, Johnny Walker Black Label, Haig Dimple, Vat 69—now you're talking. . . .

Empey, Jack Alicoate's traveling bicycle, hasn't shown up and the curator of the British Museum is uninformed. Alicoate is expected over soon. They're waiting for him at Dorchester House. . . .

Friedlander Settles First Division Pact

Al Friedlander, vice-president of First Division, yesterday settled the unexpired term of his contract with the company. The three-year pact had a year and a half to run.

Friedlander within the next few days will announce his future plans. He has been anxious to produce on his own for several months and it is expected he will crystallize these plans shortly.

In 1927, Friedlander assisted Harry H. Thomas in organizing First Division. In addition to handling the expansion of First Division, he personally handled the exploitation for "The Road to Ruin," "Goona Goona" and "She Devil Island."

of the terms of settlement shortly after the meeting adjourned, declared he knew the board was considering the matter but had not known of its decision at the time he was called.

Asked concerning his plans for the future, he said he had decided nothing definitely as yet. He will sail for Europe within the next two weeks, he said, and will announce plans on his return.

Otterson at one time had seriously discussed with Paramount the possibility of undertaking foreign production for the company, probably in England, where, it is understood, he has long had a desire to live. Whether the fact that he sails within two weeks may have a bearing on a production venture, but on his own, was a matter of speculation last night, but was considered not entirely remote.

Herzbrun Elected a V. P.

The board authorized the merger of the wholly owned subsidiary, Paramount Prod., Inc., with the parent company, which means the elimination of the corporate name, Paramount Prod. Henry Herzbrun was elected a vice-president of Paramount Pictures, Inc., and Frank Meyer and Jacob H. Karp assistant secretaries.

Upon the completion of the merger on Saturday, all contracts with Paramount Prod., Inc., will be assumed automatically and carried out by the parent corporation, the statement added.

set, available toward satisfying the more than $9,000,000 in claims, rather than a separate $6,400,000 trust for his wife and daughters.

A further possible line of questioning was indicated when David Katz of creditors' counsel asked Herbert Leitsteen, Fox bookkeeper, to prepare an itemized statement of all Fox moneys handled by Hirsh, Newman, Reass and Becker, Fox attorneys.

Leitsteen admitted that Parkwood had no business or income of its own and that "every penny it borrowed or received was used in connection with disbursements of Fox" in 1934. Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle added that, "It is apparent that in 1935 the sole purpose was acting as a clearing house for the benefit of Fox." Leitsteen insisted, however, that in 1936 this was done also for Mrs. Fox. Outlays for Fox in the Parkwood books included a $5,000 check toward a $12,810 owed "the Kentucky Colonels."

local board made in Havana by the American Embassy.

More than a week ago, following the understanding that the fee would be eliminated for review in this country, Hernandez left New York for a discussion of the situation with the Cuban Secretary of the Interior, Carlos Pelaez. It was pointed out then that the elimination of the fee would make it impossible for the New York office to continue, since the fee revenue was to provide the running expense of the office, and no other source of revenue was apparent.

The Film Board of Trade of Cuba also registered a protest with the Government there, declaring that the stoppage of American product would affect the livelihood of 6,000 Cuban families.

Numerous telephone calls to the office of the censor here bringing the information from a general switchboard operator that there was no one in, a visit confirmed her response. Room 710 at 1775 Broadway was elaborately decorated with the legend, "Cuban Board of Censors in New York," and Hernandez' name was on the lobby directory, but the office was dark and locked, and inquiry revealed that no one has been in the office for some days.

No Sign of Hernandez

Apparently the Cuban censor board here is not functioning, and likewise, apparently, Hernandez has not yet returned from Havana, or if he has, has not made an appearance at his office.

Meanwhile, distributors are doing nothing pending a definite decision, and although presumably old product may be in use in Cuba, it is indicated here that, without the films of major American companies, the pinch must come within a very short time.

Early in July one or two distributors sent films through to Havana, only to be met with the necessity of shipping them back here, for review by the board in New York. Until official advice is received on the situation, therefore, none of them is undertaking to ship product to the island republic.

Malco Acquisitions Being Planned Here

Smith, Ark., and Memphis and Jackson, Tenn. The Saenger company is affiliated with Malco in Pine Bluff, Helena and Hope, Ark., and Tupelo, Miss.

Malco owns from 50 to 100 per cent of its nine subsidaries, Lightman stated yesterday. He is expected to wind up discussions with Freeman in the next few days.

Lightman said he did not know how many theatres would be acquired under the new arrangement. Tomorrow, the Malco circuit will assume operation of the Ritz and New in Russellville, Ark. Paramount's participation in future developments of the Malco circuit will be on a 50-50 basis.

Lightman plans to return to Memphis either Sunday or Monday. His larity, thus proving a detriment to exhibitors and producers alike.

The resolution also hits at newspapers, demanding that news representatives cease all broadcasts in connection with film personalities in view of the fact that newspapers derive revenue from the film industry.

Through a general bulletin circulated to all independent theatre owners in the country, it was learned that all groups are in harmony on the movement, and that other organizations are preparing similar action at an early date. It is indicated that some bodies are planning to contact the Producers' Ass'n in New York.

It is understood that some members of the board of the local I.T.O. desired more drastic action, but, following a board meeting, it was decided to await the results of the dispatch of the present resolution before making a stronger move.

that they have taken over foreign banks and confiscated their funds. All bank employees and all bank premises and operations are subject to the approval of representatives of the Generalitat. The Government insists there will be a continuance of overdraft discount facilities up to established limits for funds needed for the payment of wages. They are exercising strict supervision in the matter. Other banking activity and exchange operations are being maintained.

It is proposed to establish a new wage scale which would give employes an average increase of 25 per cent and more favorable working conditions. It is considered probable that a 36-hour week will be inaugurated.

combination." Runciman declined to add to his earlier replies.

This was the 10th question on the subject.

Geoffrey Lloyd, under-secretary of the Home Office, replying to a question from another member about the suggested disregard by exhibitors of promises of fair labor conditions under the Sunday opening act, said he had no reason to think the provisions of the act were not being observed.

In a debate on the Appropriation Bill, Major Procter, as president of the Film Artistes' Ass'n asked that cinema workers be brought within the scope of the compensation scheme. He alluded to what he termed the excessive hours of girls in theatres "under slave conditions and poor wages," and asserted that at a guinea a day studio extras had to bear their own expenses if injured, while the companies insured their expensive stars.

Statement Is Set Back

LONDON, July 30.—A statement on the Gaumont British, Twentieth Century-Fox, M-G-M developments promised today by Isidore Ostrer failed to materialize, and a new date for the announcement has been set for next week, probably Monday.

When newspapermen arrived for a 3:15 o'clock appointment they were met by A. E. Newbould, press director, who offered Isidore Ostrer's apologies for being unable to attend.

Newbould conveyed Ostrer's assurance that Gaumont would remain British.

Apparently Ostrer had phoned the cancellation at lunch time and some papers had received wire advices of the postponement, but a great majority of the trade and daily press men showed up. The incident has revived speculation about a possible snag in the deal, or the possibility that the principals may revise some details to meet the danger of intensified agitation in Parliament on the control question.

Plaintiffs Finish Rolsky Suit Pleas

Kansas City, July 30.—Plaintiffs in the suit of Emanuel Rolsky against Fox Midwest and major distributors today finished their introduction of testimony and evidence except for the totals paid by the circuit and independents on the contracts of the past two seasons.

Judge Otis told the defense attorneys that he preferred not to consider a motion to dismiss until he had heard all arguments.

E. C. Raftery questioned the accuracy of Rolsky's gross reports and asserted that while the independents claim they didn't have an equal chance with Fox Midwest to buy, the Lindbergh, a plaintiff theatre, bought first 20-cent run in Kansas City. Rolsky said he sought to buy the run prior to the Fox Gladstone but the distributors did not have the run for him to bid on.

Rolsky Adamant

Rolsky refused to admit that the circuits are entitled to prior runs because they have the best houses.

Sam Sawyer, for Fox Midwest, showed that Rolsky purchased a home at the time his petition said that he was losing money but Rolsky replied that no money was involved in the transaction.

Harry Taylor, Columbia's district manager, maintained that the prior run basis is better for business than day and date. He did not agree with W. G. Boatright, plaintiff's attorney, that the feasibility of prior run depends upon all distributors using it but admitted that if all distributors sold prior runs the exhibitor would be forced to buy that way.

Information Through Hearsay

Taylor also agreed that it was important for him to know how others were going to sell and that he did know through hearsay and from exhibitors but not from distributors.

"Why didn't you ask the distributors?" Judge Otis asked Taylor. "Was it fear of the law?"

Taylor answered in the negative and continued his testimony, admitting selling day and date runs and saying that he didn't sell pictures for less because they played subsequent to a Fox house.

Charles Potter, president of the Salina Theatre Corp., a plaintiff, was called by the defense and testified to the collection of money for this lawsuit from members of the I. T. O.

fering with the film industry. They are trying to run it in every country, and that applies to Australia as well.

"The industry should arm itself," he cautioned, "against anything of this description and it should get together in such a way so that it can run its own business rather than to let its Government do it.

"I am opposed to Government interference, regulation and quotas of any kind," he declared. "Let us work out our own problems among ourselves. Surely the industry is big enough to do it.

"Quotas are generally not constructive," Doyle added, "and the industry should be left alone to work out its own problems. In Australia, laws are being enacted to control some sections of the picture business, particularly production."

Australian Quota Law Futile

Doyle pointed out that Australia today has a 5 per cent quota act which "has fallen down of its own weight." Instead of 40 pictures which are supposed to be produced locally according to the provisions of the law, said Doyle, it looks as if only five will be made.

"Simply enacting a law," said the visitor, "cannot assure the condition which it seeks to create. I believe the industry should be permitted to steer its own course in its own way."

David Dow, official secretary in America for the Commonwealth of Australia, presided. He spoke briefly, as did Karl Milliken of the Hays office. The speeches were preceded by a toast to President Roosevelt and King Edward.

Doyle said later that he would leave for Hollywood Aug. 9 and will spend two weeks visiting the studios before returning to Sydney.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"They Met in a Taxi"

(Columbia)

Hollywood, July 30.—Fashioned of tried and true material, this makes the grade as better than average audience entertainment. Well directed, nicely produced and acted with enthusiasm by feature and supporting plays the film has a popular appeal that presages mass appreciation. Moving to the tune of light comedy, romance, mystery, drama, intrigue and suspense, the surprise dialogue tells the story, although there is sufficient action to hold attention.

One main situation accounts for the film's enjoyable entertainment. Fearing that he may be leading with his chin, Chester Morris, taxi driver, decides to help Fay Wray, a mannequin, when she convinces him that she is the innocent accomplice of a jewel thief. Calling upon the aid of his ex-pickpocket pal, Lionel Stander, and Raymond Walburn, society reporter, in returning the stolen pearls, various engaging comedy situations are interspersed before Miss Wray sets Morris on the trail of Henry Mollison, a society pauper.

Mollison is taken for a ride and is knocked out as he makes advances to Miss Wray. A fruitless search is made of the suspect's apartment, and the mystery character of the film turns comic when Officer Ward Boid clamps Mollison's hat on Stander's head and the pearls fall from the hat. With the thief discovered, the way is cleared for the romance of Morris and Miss Wray.

The material and situations provide opportunity for the two to give good performances. Adapted from an Octavus Roy Cohen story, Howard Green's screen play blends entertainment and exploitable material.

"Yours for the Asking"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, July 30.—Producer Lewis Gensler herein surrounds George Raft with such capable performers as Ida Lupino, Reginald Owen, Dolores Costello Barrymore, James Gleason, Lynne Overman and Edgar Kennedy, and the result is a light comedy drama which moves swiftly and smoothly.

Cut to fit the Raft pattern, the story has the star as a gambler operating an establishment with Overman, Gleason and Kennedy as his chief assistants. After meeting Miss Costello, an impoverished society girl, Raft decides to expand, opening a swank club with the girl as his partner. His three helpers resent the step into society and employ Miss Lupino and Owen, adventurers, to act as a counter-irritant. The pair are to pose as society folk and swindle Raft.

The plans go wrong when Owen and Miss Lupino work too well and take Raft for more than was arranged. After further misunderstandings, the situation is clarified and Raft is finally reunited with Miss Costello.

Alexander Hall directed skillfully and there is sparkling dialogue in the screen play by Eve Green, Harlan Ware and Philip MacDonald from a story by William Lipmand and William Wright. The picture should please the Raft following and satisfy generally.

20th-Fox Answers Suit

Attorneys for Twentieth Century-Fox yesterday filed an answer in Federal Court to the suit brought by the estate of Ray Long and R. R. Smith Corp. for infringement in connection with "Judge Priest." The plaintiffs claim the material in the picture was taken from short stories which Irvin Cobb had put into book form and which they had published and copyrighted; also that the defendants had used the material without their consent.

The answer admits Twentieth Century-Fox got the film rights of short stories entitled, "The Tree Full of Hoot Owls," "Brier Fox" and the "Briar Bush" from Cobb and combined them into the picture "Judge Priest" with the full knowledge and consent of the plaintiffs.

Looking 'Em Over

"Gypsies"

(Amkino)

There are elements of interest in this latest importation from Russia, in its picturization of the life of the nomadic gypsies of the country, but again the Soviet state cannot refrain from injecting into its screen material pointed implication of the good life which is to be enjoyed under the kindly guiding hand of the collective state.

In this instance that reference lies in the difficult, but eventually successful effort to persuade the gypsy band to settle on the collective farm. Intervowen is the romance of one of the Russians with the attractive daughter of a gypsy, and a highlight is the fight with whips waged between the girl's father and the gypsy leader, who, resenting the attempt to persuade his people to settle, stabs the girl and accuses the Russians of the crime.

With occasional flashes of good photography, the film as a whole appears to have little outstanding appeal for any but those patrons who are particularly drawn to Russian films. The performances are capable, and are characterized for the most part by that overemphasis of physical expression which seems to be a part of all Russian performances.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 83 minutes. "G."

The Mirror commented that Rembrandt probably would never have been able to use a camera as an art medium had they existed in his day. The World-Telegram said Sidney Howard had done a fine job, despite the fact that dramatized novels almost always made poor pictures.

Settlement on Gemma Debts Being Studied

Settlement of claims totaling $30,000 by 11 major and independent distributors against the Gemma Amusement Co., which recently purchased the Gem and Majestic in the Bronx from the Jaydo Amusement Co. and Fairdeal Amusement Co. are being worked out by Louis Nizer, attorney for the 11 distributing companies, and Connolly & Thieman, attorneys for Gemma.

A preliminary conference was held yesterday by the lawyers and another is scheduled within the next few days.

At a meeting before Referee Joyce in Federal Court yesterday it was decided to postpone appointment of a trustee for the Jaydo and Fairdeal companies until Aug. 13. About 25 creditors were present at the court hearing.

In the negotiations for a settlement Nizer is insisting that all outstanding contracts of the two theatres be assumed by Gemma, that all "n.g." checks be paid in full and that $3,500 be paid for counsel fecs in addition to the playing or paying for pictures which were not lifted according to schedule.

Andrew W. Smith Jr., Resigns From Warner Bros. Sales Post

Andrew W. Smith, Jr., eastern and Canadian general sales manager for Warners, was reported yesterday to have resigned from the company.

Smith, with Gradwell L. Sears, western and southern general sales manager, shared the executive direction for the company of distribution in this country and Canada, acting under Major Albert Warner, vice-president.

Smith was also a vice-president of Vitagraph, Inc., the distributing corporation.

RKO to Drop All Theatres In Dominion

Going to Famous; Radio Film Pact in Deal

RKO is about to withdraw from theatre operations in Canada under terms of a deal, pending but nearing consummation, which will turn over its properties in five major Dominion cities to Famous Players Canadian Corp.

The arrangement ends a pool between the two theatre companies, but, as part of the consideration, involves a long-term franchise on Radio Pictures' product over in the Famous Players chain.

Various members of the old Orpheum, Keith and Albee circuits, the theatres which are about to change hands, are located in St. John, Montreal, Ottawa, Vancouver and Winnipeg.

Legitimate Theatres Cut in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—Legitimate theatres will offer less competition for films next season, at least so far as the number of theatres is concerned.

The 100-year old Arch St. Theatre is now being torn down. The lease on the Garrick will not be renewed and the house will be turned into store fronts temporarily. The Broad St. gives way to a parking lot and the Adelphi and Lyric, idle for the past few seasons, will be razed next fall.

The only legitimate houses left for the fall will be the Erlanger, Forrest and Chestnut St. Opera House, with the latter, which usually houses roadshow pictures, rumored to go in the not-distant-future. So far, "Romeo and Juliet" (film) is booked at the Forrest which is not yet equipped for sound. The booking may later be switched to the Chestnut.

All Studios, Labs Get Sample Prints

HOLLYWOOD, July 31.—All studios and commercial printing laboratories today received sample prints from the Research Council of the Academy of the new standard release print leader which has been revised to meet the requirements of the 2,000-foot reel. See "Scotland" Take As $100,000 at Hall

With more than $29,000 taken in for the first two days, "Mary of Scotland" is headed for a $100,000 week at the Music Hall. The first day's take was $14,500, which represents the second largest opening day's gross for the house since the first of the year.

There is a strong possibility that the Katharine Hepburn-Fredric March picture will be held for three weeks. RKO theatres throughout the country have dated the film for extended runs.

Tri-States Controls Sioux City Theatres

With the exception of the Orpheum, a Mort Singer house, Tri-States now has control of the Sioux City first and second runs, it was stated yesterday by A. H. Blank, head of Tri-States.

The circuit recently pooled with five subsequent runs in Sioux City, Blank said, which virtually gives Tri-States control.

Blank, who is here with Ralph Branton, his assistant, and Joe Dietz, booker, is negotiating a number of product deals with Paramount home office executives. The Paramount product deal is the first one completed. Blank expects to conclude negotiations on the other deals next week when he will return to Des Moines.

The Des Moines pool with RKO yesterday went into effect. Three Blank houses and one of RKO are involved.

Warners Plan 16th Washington Theatre

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Plans have been completed for the construction of a new theatre here for Warners, which will bring the circuit's total in this area to 16. The Globe Amusement Corp. will build the house, to be called the Calvert. The negotiations were completed by John J. Payette, general zone manager.

Warners now operates 13 houses, including two first runs and 11 subsequents, and two others are in the course of construction. The Calvert will be the second in the area not directly owned by the circuit. The other is the Sheridan, under long term lease. It is expected construction will start within six weeks.

Ostrer Denies Deal on G. B. Has Hit Snag

Refutes Rumor; Changes In Setup Likely

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, July 31.—Isidore Ostrer, personally and officially declared this afternoon:

"The rumor that the deal [with Loew and Twentieth Century-Fox] is off is completely untrue."

This came on the heels of most persistent reports that the transaction had snagged on the probable difficulty entailed in reconciling formal retention of British control for show window purposes when it is popularly believed here it is control which actually will change hands.

It is construed in reliable quarters that the Ostrers are faced with awkward circumstances, such as the agitation in the House of Commons and the possibility of opposition from the City, London's Wall Street, which conceivably might affect the stock flotation planned in connection with the new holding company designed to replace Metropolitan and Bradford Trust.

It is, therefore, felt that reconstruction of the deal on a basis designed to meet the political angles will be necessary, although there remains

Protests Scenes of Intoxicated Drivers

CHICAGO, July 31.—J. J. Cavanaugh, general manager of the Chicago Motor Club, in a letter of protest to Will Hays, rebuked the producers of pictures which left the impression of condoning scenes in which drunken and reckless driving is pictured. Referring to a drunken driving sequence in the picture, "Small Town Girl," Cavanaugh said:

"It is probable that these scenes could have been managed without the popular hero, Taylor, being shown actually driving a car while drunk. Properly looked upon, such an act is not to be considered a boyish prank. It is a thoroughly despicable act. It should not be glossed over. It should be represented in all its hideous reality.

"We emphatically protest against a continuation of such things in pictures, and we hope that we shall have your cooperation in an effort to eliminate it, by bringing to bear the power of your office in the industry, upon the producers."

Melbert Asks Jury Trial

Melbert Pictures yesterday filed a petition in Federal court here to have the involuntary bankruptcy action against them tried by a jury. The petition in bankruptcy was filed recently against Melbert by the Amusement Securities Corp. Melbert claims Amusement Securities has full security to cover the $10,878 judgment which it recently obtained against them in N. Y. Supreme court and that the two other companies named in the bankruptcy petition, Producers Laboratories, Inc., and the Ameranglo Corp. have filed a surety company bond sufficient to cover the judgment. Melbert also points out that an appeal from the judgment is now pending.

Protest Queries in Suit

Attorneys for Morgan Wallace and Lawrence Shubert Lawrence yesterday filed a protest in Federal Court against the list of questions demanded to be answered by Twentieth Century-Fox in their action for an injunction to restrain the film company from continuing to show the picture, "Thanks a Million." Wallace and Lawrence claim the picture is based on their original story, "On the Missouri Shores and How." The film company has submitted questions. In objecting to them, the plaintiffs claim that they are not material and are only inquisitory. The motion will be heard on Monday.

Judge Valente upheld this stand, declaring Park Ave. is one of the finest residential avenues in the world.

Wm. J. Kupper Heard At the Rolsky Trial

KANSAS CITY, July 31.—William J. Kupper, western division manager of Twentieth Century-Fox, took the stand today in the suit of Emanuel Rolsky against Fox Midwest and major distributors and testified that exchange managers did not discuss Fox deals last year with any other distributors they sold. Furthermore, Kupper stated, prior runs were offered to independents in some cases before the Fox Midwest deals were completed and they stated that they thought prior runs the only sound way to sell and play pictures.

"We've been definitely instructed," said Kupper, "not to talk clearance or zoning with competitive distributors and have particularly warned representatives to have nothing to do with other distributors, to avoid suspicion and lawsuits."

"How did you know that another theatre charging the same price as Fox wouldn't pay more than E. C. Rhoden (head of Fox Midwest) since you closed the Rhoden deal before approaching the other exhibitors?" W. C. Boatright, plaintiffs attorney asked.

"Because Fox houses produce mor revenue," replied Kupper.

"Day and Date Continues"

Ward Scott, Fox Film divisio manager, testified that there are almost as many playing day and dat today as heretofore, whereupon Boatright stated that the prior run pla was not established for the purpos of eliminating day and date. Scot and William Warner, Vitagraph manager, said that they are committed t the plan for the coming season an have sold Fox Midwest that way.

E. C. Raftery, for the distributor tried to show that the independent were actually conspiring last fall t retain day and date bookings but th court maintained that there is no suc charge being brought against th plaintiffs.

Minutes of a meeting of last Oc 11 at which the independents discussed plans for bringing the preser suit were read into the record by H. Potter, a plaintiff and treasurer the I.T.O.

Ostrer Denies Deal on G. B. Has Hit Snag

shrouded in some doubt the City's attitude, which looms as a threatening factor.

There apparently is little doubt that many details have to be clarified, audits made and papers prepared for signature. It is understood here that Sidney R. Kent plans to come here shortly on what is described as a combination business and health trip, but which easily may go beyond. It was recalled today and cloaked with some significance that when Kent was here on his last trip he had hoped to negotiate a sale of Twentieth Century-Fox's interest in G. B. to Lord Portal and had had no dealings at that time with the Ostrers.

News to J. M. Schenck

Hollywood, July 31.—Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of Twentieth Century-Fox, told Motion Picture Daily today he had not been notified of any hitch in the G. B. deal. He pointed out that the attorneys were still in England handling detail.

Snag Talk Discounted Here

New York insiders close to the G. B. negotiations yesterday completely discounted reports from London that the deal had been, or would be, called off.

Audits are being prepared in London and a vast amount of detail remains to be checked over. Final preparations of the necessary documents also impends with the probability that, at its earliest, final signatures could not be affixed to the necessary documents in less than four or five weeks.

Kent Still in Maine

Sidney R. Kent is resting and vacationing in Maine and is expected to remain there for another month.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

(Paramount)

Hollywood, July 31.—The presence of 25 former film stars and the background of the film capital combine to make this picture an exploitation natural even though the story drags and is never as interesting as the shots of the Brown Derby, Sardi's, the Trocadero and other spots which are shown.

John Halliday, as a star of the silent screen who sells his memoirs to a scandal sheet to save himself from starvation, bears the brunt of the story with a minor plot carried by Marsha Hunt as his daughter and Robert Cummings as her fiance. Halliday's writings bring trouble to women who figured in his past and the resultant complications are not overcome until Frieda Inescort, the wife of C. Henry Gordon, a publisher, becomes involved and seeks to silence the actor with a badly aimed bullet. The attempted murder clears the air and enables Miss Hunt and Cummings to culminate their romance.

Robert Florey gives splendid direction to the scenes of Hollywood life, which are also well handled in the screen play of Marguerite Roberts, although her story slows perceptibly in the romantic interludes. The production of A. M. Botsford is tastefully conceived and a musical number by Boris Morros is well spotted. The supporting roles are well played by Esther Ralston, Oscar Apfel and Esther Dale. The contingent of old time stars is headed by Maurice Costello, Mae Marsh, Bryant Washburn, Jack Mulhall and Francis X. Bushman, all of whom are not readily recognized.

From nine films produced by the Postoffice Film Unit and publicly released the Government receipts were £692.

Phila. Fox Will Use All Companies' Films

Philadelphia, July 31.—While no policy has been announced for Warner management of the Fox, which will take effect tomorrow, the booking of "To Mary with Love" for the Boyd to follow "The Green Pastures" indicates that the Fox no longer will show Twentieth Century-Fox product exclusively.

"To Mary with Love" was originally scheduled for the Fox before the deal was concluded. It is believed that the theatre, like all other Warner first runs except the Aldine, which is operated in partnership with United Artists, will show the product of all companies.

The latest revisions include the written-out figures six and nine in appropriate footage frames in order to assist the projectionist to distinguish the frames quickly. At present, when viewed in inverted fashion through the projector, the figures are sometimes confused. A wrap-around protective leader has been attached to the beginning and end of each reel to protect the film, which has been increased to a length of six to eight feet instead of the former four to six feet.

Six to eight pictures are planned by Selznick International next season, Whitney said. Half of the number will be made in black and white and half in color.

Cooper is due from the coast Tuesday or Wednesday to confer with Whitney on the picture he will make in England.

Asked if the company had any plans to produce in Rome, Whitney declared he did not contemplate Italian production as "Hollywood and England are enough."

Selznick, who is vacationing in Honolulu, is due back in Hollywood Aug. 15 to start work on "Tom Sawyer." Whitney plans to remain in New York about a month before heading for the coast. He will leave today for Saratoga and the races.

Denies Hart Request

A request by attorneys for William S. Hart to compel United Artists to pay him interest on the $85,000 which he had been awarded by a jury in April was denied yesterday by N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Phillip J. Mc Cook. The court in denying the motion stated that it would be speculation to fix a date from which interest could be calculated. Attorneys, in making application for interest, fixed the amount, covering a period from November, 1925 to April 24, 1936 when the verdict was returned, at $53,417.

MPPDA Check On Complaints By Exhibitors

Plan Seen Eliminating Inquiries by U. S.

In an effort to make unnecessary further investigation by the Dep't. of Justice into complaints regarding alleged monopolistic practices of major distributors and circuits, the Hays organization has adopted a checking system of its own.

With the arrival of an important major circuit partner this week from the midwest, the Hays office called the exhibitor in for questioning on details of a complaint made by a competing exhibitor in one of the small towns where the circuit is represented.

The small theatre owner complained he could not get sufficient major product to operate his theatres, it was said, but upon investigation it was learned that the major circuit has for 15 years purchased the product he was showing. The circuit operator stated that if he has to give up a portion of the films to his competitor, the only thing left for him to do would be to sell the theatre and get out of the town.

Product Bar Planned To End Overbuilding

London, July 21.—The special committee on redundancy appointed by the C.E.A. states in its interim report that it has "discussed all phases of the problem and has reached a conclusion" on which it has approached the K.R.S. for cooperation, but that it has received no reply from the distributors' body. No details of the proposals are published, but it is understood to be reviving the suggestion that distributors should refuse product to any theatre defined as redundant by a joint exhibitor-renter committee, or refused admission to the C.E.A. on the same grounds.

Thomas Ormiston is chairman of the committee, which is preparing a full report for the next meeting of the C.E.A. General Council.

Cleveland to Talk Higher Admissions

Cleveland, Aug. 2.—Ernest Schwartz, president of the Cleveland M.P. Exhibitor's Ass'n., has called a special meeting for Tuesday to discuss the possibility of an increase in subsequent run admission prices.

Federal Query Cost Placed At $1,000,000 by Industry

More than $1,000,000 is expected to be expended by the major distributors and circuits in getting up the information sought by the Dept. of Justice in a five-page typewritten questionnaire sent out recently, it was estimated by an executive of a major company.

It will probably take about six months to secure the data asked for, it was said. Some of the companies have figured it will cost them from $200,000 to $300,000 in time, effort and additional help, it was stated.

Among the questions asked are the listing of specific theatre properties, type of run, seating capacity, partners and cost of the buildings. Distributors are required to name the various product deals made this season and the length of time franchises in effect, have to run.

Copies of the questionnaire are being guarded by attorneys for the various companies.

Distributor and circuit heads are at a loss to explain the reason for the questionnaire, but several have opinions which they are not voicing for publication.

Barcelona Business Returning to Normal

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

Barcelona, Aug. 2.—Business is gradually returning to normal here as a result of the excellent Government control. The properties of all distributors in the city are intact and the personnel unmolested.

There was a definite indication here yesterday that the distribution offices might open for business tomorrow. Such a move was approved yesterday at a meeting of the film and other labor groups and awaits the decision of the General Workers' Assembly. Paramount still is lacking executive supervision.

A move has been started to urge the protection of the exchange rates

Lombard Trouble

Hollywood, Aug. 2.—An open break is looming between Carole Lombard and Paramount. Mills stated that he could conceive of no obstacles which might stand in the way of reaffiliation.

U. S. Firms' Foreign Revenue $85,000,000

Washington, Aug. 2.—Receipts of American film companies from business transacted abroad are estimated last year to have reached a new high of $85,000,000, according to the annual report on the balance of international payments issued tonight by the Dep't. of Commerce.

The $85,000,000 figure is $10,000,000 above the 1934 estimate of $75,000,000, while expenditures in this country for foreign pictures are believed to have remained constant at $5,000,000. The net balance in favor of the United States, therefore, was $80,000,000 against $70,000,000 in 1934.

Gradwell L. ("Grad") Sears has been appointed general sales manager of Warners re-creating in that organization a post which has been non-operative since the regimes of Sam E. Morris and Edward L. Alperson.

For a number of years, Warner sales have been split between Sears as general sales manager for the west and south, and A. W. Smith, Jr., in charge of the east and Canada. Smith, as reported on Saturday, has resigned, plans a trip to Europe as his first immediate step and will talk about a new affiliation on his return. His name is being linked with that of another major company, although Smith is refusing to answer telephone calls seeking to learn exactly what his plans may be.

Sears now has all of the United States and Canada under his supervision. He is one of the best known sales executives in the industry. Born in Hannibal, Mo., on Jan. 30, 1897, he was educated at Shelbina, Mo., public

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

IF a Congressman in Washington, for whatever reason, asks a question about a development or a trend in the American film industry, the chances are no great convulsions will follow. In England where "letters to the Times" are part and parcel of the existence and their subject matter often reaches Parliament, where the apparent failure of Sir John Simon to report to the police the crank-like grievance letter which presumably led to the recent attack on the King might easily shake and may yet change the cabinet; where the nationalistic spirit runs high on the "Rule Britannia" doctrine and the Government's course is not always or easily fathomable, it is not the same. Not by a very long shot. . . .

These English are a proud race, steeped in their tradition, in many ways old-fashioned, not easily susceptible to pressure and emphatically less prepared to make changes. Things are "done" in Britain because they always are. The Englishman jealously and zealously safeguards that which is his or what he regards as his, not always taking into account how he got it. He is bull-headed and stubborn and from all of these characteristics, the results are apt to be many. This, however, is designed as no discourse on British character, but merely outlines quickly surface markings for a specific purpose which is the impending deal of the Schenck brothers for Gaumont British. Many in London, and not all of them in the trade, are speculating at length over the consequences, immediate and far. Speculation, being what it is, leads into many channels which is where they are floundering here at this exact minute. . . .

C. M. Woolf of General Film Distributors which is in on the Cowdin-Universal purchase and now sells for the latter in the Kingdom will not like it. John Maxwell of British International and Associated British Cinemas, second to G. B. in the theatre field here, will not like it. At various times, each, on his own, was after that which Nick and Joe Schenck are about to acquire and that may explain their pardonable lack of enthusiasm. Exhibitors at large, knowing little but recognizing vaguely the impact of the transaction, express early concern over intense competition to come in the theatre field for one thing; for another, they ruminate over higher rentals and even more percentage when Metro, Twentieth Century-Fox and G. B. should combine distribution in one company, as the brief, official announcement a handful of days back indicated was the intention. . . .

It is very likely and already accepted as inevitable in several thinking quarters that the G. B. shift will bring about a general realignment of the British business. If, for example, Paramount and Radio and Metro, which is mixing them up pretty well, should combine in America, the concentration of power obviously would compel Harry Warner to do something about it to protect his own position. England has its Woolf and its Maxwell and it also has its Paramount, its Radio and its Warner and First National maintained as separate distributing companies. United Artists has a working agreement, and some say an investment, in Oscar Deutsch's Odeon circuit, very actively building new theatres everywhere and one of the principal targets of redundancy, or overbuilding, charges. It is entirely unreasonable to imagine they will remain quiet. . . .

In the States when Adolph Zukor and Bill Fox began to step for theatres, Warner and Loew's followed suit, the reasons, of course, being quite apparent. In England, aside from certain frills, the complexion of the business is similar. As it went in America, so has it gone and so will it go here. The G. B. deal, therefore, sooner or later will witness other American distributors penetrating exhibition where they have not already. Paramount now is in the key cities—Leeds, Birmingham, Manchester, Liverpool, Glasgow and others—and would have backed these first runs with about thirty subsequents if bankruptcy of the parent company had not intervened. The sites are ready and so are the plans. The capital is not far behind and the execution of the scheme may not be. Maxwell, with his approximate two hundred and fifty A. B. C. theatres, may find himself tying in more tightly somewhere if only to feed backbone product to his houses. . . .

So much for early manifestations and speculations within the trade. Politically, a fuss over the Schenck purchase is taken for granted as early as this. Questions already have been asked in the House of Commons. There will be more with what ultimate action is impossible to foretell. The Government here is very conscious of the power of the screen. Behind the enactment of the quota law which had as its intent the establishment of a production industry was this realization. Not without concern, if it should prove to be without action, will the change in G. B. therefore, be looked upon. Parliamentary powers in England are genuine. Trunk, or through, roads were annexed by the nation very recently when Parliament voted it and that's all there was to it. There are instances, also, when industry and even specific corporations have been told they could not go through with their planned procedure. And they didn't. . . .

Half of Twentieth Century-Fox's 49 percent in the Metropolitan and Bradford Trust which controls G. B. to the tune of 57 percent has gone to Loew-Metro. That was announced. Twenty-five percent of the Ostrer's 49 percent in M. and B. is reliably reported to have been purchased by Loew-Metro in another transaction. That was not announced; it also has not been denied. Technically, there will be no control. But the Schencks naturally and patently will cooperate, which is one way of putting it, and, in combination, say it in holdings of about 34.91 percent of the whole—Twentieth Century-Fox, 24.50 per cent of M. and B.'s share, or 13.96 percent of the whole; Loew-Metro, 24.50 percent again of M. and B., or likewise 13.96 percent of the whole and 25 percent of the Ostrers' 49 percent in the holding company, which is 6.98 percent of the whole. . . .

The swing in the balance is further interesting in that Twentieth Century-Fox drops from 27.93 percent of the whole to 13.96; Loew, never before in the picture, in one fell swoop jumps to 20.94 and the Ostrers, by all indications, shrivel from equal partnership with Fox to 20.94 which places them on a parity with Loew. The remainder apparently will continue to be held by the Ostrers or sold to the public through the new holding company which is to replace M. and B. Then so far as any individual coterie is concerned, there will be no domination, but anyone at all familiar with corporate operations understands quite readily that the group or groups representing as much as 34.91 percent of total outstanding stock call the shots on management. As a matter of fact, far less than anything approaching such a high bracket actually or at all is necessary. . . .

There is, however, a job of diplomacy and tact to be undertaken in this impending situa-

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sing, Baby, Sing"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2.—"Sing, Baby, Sing" merits top rung on the filmusical ladder. Its dialogue is witty, sparkling and smart and its tunes exceptionally good for exhibitor plugs, particularly "Sing, Baby, Sing" as well as "You Turned the Tables on Me" and "Love Will Tell."

The performances by the entire cast are smooth and ably executed, guided by directorial tempo and gusto which kept a preview audience roaring throughout from footlights to the rear of the balcony.

The picture introduces the Ritz Brothers, song and dance team, widely known when vaudeville was something. Their comedy routines single them out as definitely box-office. The story has a natural laugh plot, dealing with the thinly disguised exploits of an actor Romeo who finds his Juliet in a night club with a cross-country chase resulting in banner lines across the first page of every newspaper in the country.

Adolphe Menjou is Hollywood's famous Shakespearian actor and Alice Faye the aspiring singer who falls into Romeo's clutches through the conspiring of booking agent Gregory Ratoff, comic magician Ted Healy, and Ratoff's secretary, Patsy Kelly. Michael Whalen plays the smart reporter who starts the ball rolling by getting newspaper art spreads of Alice watching Menjou drink bay rum out of a hot water bottle and execute Hamlet in a knee-length nightshirt.

This brings about romantic tension between Whalen and Miss Faye. The publicity, however, gets Alice a job on a national hookup and Whalen smooths the ruffled feathers by getting Menjou to make a statement placing Miss Faye in a favorable public eye. Menjou is excellent as the dizzy Romeo and Miss Faye's performance is quite likely to increase her popularity. Ratoff, Healy and Miss Kelly provide a series of laugh riots; Whalen is effective as the reporter as is the remainder of the cast.

Sidney Landfield did a splendid job of direction, spacing the chuckles and keeping the film moving swiftly. Peverell Marley's photography is outstanding, especially in the dance ensembles and closeups. Milton Sperling, Jack Yellen and Harry Tugend penned a genuinely funny script from a Sperling and Yellen original. Lew Pollack and Yellen, Louis Alter, Sidney D. Mitchell, Richard A. Whiting and Walter Bullock share the song credits. Buddy De Sylva produced.

"Everything Is Thunder"

(Gaumont British)

LONDON, July 22.—Constance Bennett, Douglass Montgomery, and the Continental character actor, Oscar Homolka, are the leads in a thriller set against backgrounds of a German prisoner-of-war camp, of Berlin in war time and of the German-Dutch frontier. The atmosphere is convincing, suspense value is great and there is a convincing emphasis upon action as contrasted with dialogue.

Montgomery is a Canadian officer who, in making his getaway from the detention camp, kills a sentry trying to double-cross him after conniving at his escape. Getting to Berlin in disguise he is sheltered by a girl of the streets, who thinks him a wounded German soldier, but finally discovers the truth. In love with him, she protects his secret from a detective who is one of her admirers, and finally arranges to have him smuggled into Holland. Pursued, she is wounded and he returns from safety to her side, but the detective lets them go, paying the penalty for this act of disloyalty.

Undoubtedly, this can be sold successfully to American audiences which liked "Secret Agent." With a somewhat similar atmosphere it has greatly superior story values and the dramatic tension of the escape scenes, of the efforts to keep the hero undiscovered in the girl's flat and of the final night break through the barbed wire of the frontier must be highly praised. Characterization is all good and the acting of Bennett and Homolka in particular is excellent. Milton Rosmer directed from a story by J. L. Hardy.

See Warners' Ascap Return In Few Days

oint of virtually official confirmation y Ascap officials. Ascap officers have eclared that they would like to see e Warner music companies back in e fold.

The Warner music firms, which ave been operating under the Music ublishers' Holding Corp., include arms, Inc., M. Witmark & Sons, Reick Music Co., T. B. Harms Co., d their subsidiaries, together formg one of the strongest music units in e country.

Indicative of the imminent return of arners to the society was the withrawal by the company two weeks ago infringement actions filed against umerous radio stations for the unli ensed broadcasting of certain songs. he suits were filed by Warner fol wing the withdrawal from Ascap. arners, at the time of the with rawal of the suits, declined to say hether the move had any bearing on e discussions relative to the return f the company to the society.

Warners stepped out of the Ascap icture last January because, they con ended, they were not receiving a re urn from their music companies, rough Ascap, commensurate with hat they felt they should be getting, onsidering the strength of the music rms operating under the Warner anner.

It is understood that behind the arner willingness to return to Ascap the fact that, since the withdrawal, arners have not received a return on eir music companies equal to that hich they were getting through their embership in the society.

Little Opposition Within Ascap

Recently it was indicated that there as some sentiment within the society posed to the return of Warners, but at that sentiment was being ex essed by a minority of the group, d that there was a sufficient ma rity to insure acceptance of the arner bid to rejoin the group at any ne.

It was understood that, on its part, scap was ready to act favorably on return, since the organization's aim to give the maximum amount of rvice to licensees, an aim which uld be only partially realized with t the membership of the Warner mpanies.

and high schools and the University of Missouri. He served during the war, leaving the service with the rank of first lieutenant. After demobilization, he joined World Film as salesman, first in New York, then in St. Louis. Later he joined Republic—the Lewis J. Selznick company—and Selznick and Vitagraph long before Warners acquired it. In December, 1930, he joined the old First National as a Chicago salesman, later becoming branch manager in that city and in Cleveland. In 1929, he was appointed southern and western sales manager, continuing with First National after its purchase by Warners, when he was appointed western and southern general sales manager. He was elected a vice-president of Vitagraph in 1935 in Los Angeles.

In His New Office

W. Ray Johnston, president of Republic, has moved his office from the RKO Bldg. to the company's headquarters at 1776 Broadway. Monogram still maintains an office in the former building, but Johnston does not make his office there, as reported.

Selznick Back on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2.—David O. Selznick has returned here from Honolulu, and plans to put the Selznick International film, "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," into work the first week in September.

Shields in First Role

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2.—Francis X. Shields, tennis star, has been assigned to a role in "Come and Get It," Goldwyn-U. A. film. Shields has been on the coast for more than a year and this is his first role.

What, No Films

Mexico City, Aug. 2.—The importance of the screen to the average American is indicated in the following conversation between two women from north of the Rio Grande, overheard during the recent strike of electrical workers which forced film houses to close:

"The movies are out," said one, and explained the reason.

Said the other, "Oh, shoot, why did we come down here, anyway?"

years," the Wall Street Journal continues.

"The public is spending money freely again and the industry has pretty well worked out of its financial worries and now has ample product to bring to the box-office," the publication states.

"One factor which may be of considerable benefit to producers is the policy of reviving old successes. Many of the older films which have been entirely written off the books are being re-shown with profit to the exhibitor, and may be a minor but unexpected source of revenue to the film companies."

Effect N. O. Tax Cut

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—Theatre owners and other amusement operators have been advised of the reduction in amusement taxes. The former tax of two per cent on admissions starting at 10 cents has been cut to two per cent on admissions over 15 cents.

Insiders' Outlook

tion which ties the British and the American industries closer than any previous transaction in either's history. From observation, in part, and from conversation, in plenty, it is our opinion that the new interests would cover ground faster in the long view by taking it slower at the outset. Any fanfare about violent changes in policy would be resented. Any effort to create publicity by sounding off at large about theatre plans would be worse. The trade is looking askance. The Government is not far behind. . . .

Yet, things to come are earmarked by genuine potentialities. While Metro and Fox here will turn to G. B. production for quota purposes, the elimination of G. B. distribution in America divides that product between the two American companies. It will be to their interest there and also here to lend production experience to G. B. for reasons which need no further explanation except to point out that by so doing the opportunity to improve British standards must not, in fairness, be overlooked. Ben Goetz has been ferrying back and forth for almost a year while Metro has been trying to determine whether or not to produce in England. The studio has been talking about sending over Shearer and making product on a Hollywood basis. Pursuing such a plan, but through G. B. since there will no longer be need for Metro to produce here to meet quota, would add tone which the English industry needs, emphasize the values of the transfer in control and give to the purchase an aura of benevolent, but dominant guidance. . . .

any films to Cuba. There had been no fee for examination by the Cuban censor here before. Roberto Hernandez, in charge of the New York bureau, has been here conferring with the Secretary of the Interior on the situation.

Cuban theatres were faced with an acute shortage of suitable product as a result of the decision to abandon shipments to that country until the Cuban Government had come to a final decision. Protests were made to the Government here by the American Embassy on orders from the U. S. State Dep't.

It is expected here that major distributors will immediately resume activity in Cuba following the abandonment of the New York bureau of the Cuban censor board by that country's Government.

Morgan, general manager for United Artists in Spain, and the only American executive remaining, be granted power of attorney to represent all distributor interests here and act as the liaison officer with the consulate and the American embassy.

Shift Denver Managers

DENVER, Aug. 2. — Managerial changes in the Civic Theatres group have been made by A. P. Archer and Joe Dekker following the resignation of C. G. Doty as publicity manager and manager of the Granada, to take over the Washington Park.

Clyde Anderson is the new publicity director, and editor of Civic News, weekly paper published by the theatres for the public. Anderson has also been moved from the Jewel to the Oriental, replacing Jack Davis, who will be at the Granada. Si Gertz will act as assistant to Anderson.

The managers of the Jewel and Santa Fe, Dick Dekker and E. J. Ward, have been swapped. Jack Kramer will fill the vacancy at the Egyptian, left vacant by the moving of Harold Shalla to Fort Collins to assume a new position.

Youngclaus Files Suit

KEARNEY, Neb., Aug. 2.—W. N. Youngclaus has filed suit in District Court here to oust Louis Heal from the Pastime which he purchased outright, though Heal claimed he had a lease that has another year to run.

Youngclaus is building up a circuit. He bought the equipment in the theatre which Heal also had leased. The lease on the equipment, however, will expire Aug. 1, and it is understood Heal has already concluded arrangements for new seats, sound and booth equipment.

“Pastures” Is Philadelphia Hit, $25,000

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—Backed by heavy exploitation and good reviews, “The Green Pastures” proved a box-office knockout, getting $25,000 on its first week at the Boyd. The film had the largest opening day of any film in four years except the holiday opening of “Little Women.”

“San Francisco” held up until the end, getting $14,000 in its abbreviated fourth week at the Stanley. The figure warranted holding it but with “Suzy” ready for opening and the need of a hit in the subsequent runs, Warners sent it over to Keith’s for a second run.

“Spendthrift” and the Benny Davis revue at the Earle beat the average with a $13,500 week. “State Fair,” revived at the Fox did about $14,500 in eight days, a good figure for a reissue.

The critics hailed “Crime of Dr. Forbes” as an outstanding “sleeper” but the public didn’t go very heavily for it. $5,200 was its figure at the Stanton. “Trapped by Television” was off at Keith’s and was pulled after five days.

Total first run business was $78,400. The average is $70,650.

“Tractors” $6,700 Hit in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 2.—“Earthworm Tractors” was a particularly bright spot in an otherwise dull week, and successfully combatted the high temperatures for a record gross of $6,700, over average for the Mary Anderson almost 100 per cent.

“Poor Little Rich Girl,” on its second week at the Rialto, continued to ring the bell, taking $5,900, over the line by $1,400. The take was somewhat below previous Shirley Temple films, but nevertheless put enough in the till to overcome a bad week or two.

The twin bill revival of “State Fair” and “There’s Always Tomorrow” at the Strand pulled good business, and wound up the week in the neighborhood of $3,700, a good $200 over the usual gross.

Warners Back In Ascap; Out Since Jan. 1

Society Board Approves Return Application

The board of directors of Ascap yesterday unanimously passed a resoution accepting the application of Warners for reinstatement in the society as of Aug. 1. E. C. Mills, general manager of Ascap, declared Warners' music companies are reentering the organization with the same seniority rating they had on Dec. 31, 1935, at the time of their withdrawal from the society.

The Warner music companies, operated under the Music Publishers' Holding Co., are Harms, Inc., M. Witmark & Sons, Remick Music Co., T. B. Harms Co., New World Music Corp. and several subsidiaries.

Negotiations have been carried on, for some time, looking toward the renstatement of Warners. Representng Ascap were Mills and Charles Schwartz, of Schwartz and Froelich, Ascap attorneys, and Joseph Hazen, Warner attorney, acting for that company.

Warners immediately will with-

First National to Stay as Brand Name

The First National brand name will not be affected by the recent dissolution at Wilmington of First National Pictures, Inc. Robert W. Perkins, Warner general counsel, said yesterday the dissolution was merely a legal action taken with respect to an old corporation which had been completely inactive for five years. Perkins declared that that company had nothing to do with the current First National, which "is just as much in business as it ever was."

Just Imbeciles

Oscar Hanson last week got a report from one of his theatre managers that imbeciles attended the showplace. An addendum read:

"Anyone who visited the theatre during the week must have been crazy."

The manager referred to the picture and the humidity.

London Speculates if G.B. Control Clause Still Holds

London, Aug. 3.—Perpetual British control of Gaumont British was originally stipulated in the company's articles of association. Whether or not this clause has subsequently been negatived is the outstanding mystery note in that entire situation. Answers to it are not forthcoming.

The stipulation traces back to a move initiated by the Bromheads immediately prior to the original 49 per-cent purchase in the Metropolis and Bradford Trust by William Fox on behalf of the then Fox Film Corp. M. and B., as reported, controls 57 per cent of G.B.

Rumors have been current on and off in London for some time that the two per cent first set aside and held as the balance of power between Fox on the one hand and the Ostrers on the other by Lord Lee of Fareham were later purchased, presumably by the Ostrers, thereby giving them the largest individual block in G.B. and management, if not actual, control. This, however, has never been confirmed.

Whether or not such a shift is possible without a general meeting of stockholders also appears to be a moot point, but there are those in the British trade who believe such a step could have been determined without the necessity for a general meeting. On the other hand, any word seeping through, provided the action has been taken, is construed as potentially troublesome in that it would obviously advertise actual or potential intention of rearranging the G.B. picture for a sale at some time of the dominant interest in Metropolitan and Bradford and, therefore, in G.B.

Film Buying At Low Ebb In N. Y. Area

Big Circuits' Hesitancy Holds Up Others

Film buying in the local area is at low ebb, according to a majority of branch managers in the Greater New York area.

The principal reason for the slack at this time is attributed to the apparent hesitancy of the major circuits over closing deals. With the exception of franchise deals made previously, Loew's and RKO have done practically no buying of new pictures. Terms on the franchises are now being worked out.

As a result, exchanges have been reluctant to negotiate with independent circuits and subsequent runs. With RKO already signed for Warners, Universal and RKO product, and Loew's tied up with M-G-M, U.A., Paramount and Columbia, executives of Twentieth Century-Fox have yet to negotiate a first run outlet for their product.

Skouras and Randforce, which control about 100 neighborhood houses, have Twentieth Century-Fox films on 10-year franchises. A deal with the Music Hall has not been made as yet with the first of the company's releases on the new schedule already booked

Report B & K to Dual Starting Sept. 11th

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The report here tonight is that B. & K. will start their dual bill policy in their B houses Sept. 11. The story is unconfirmed at the moment, but a meeting of circuit heads and distributors this week is expected to result in confirmation.

It is understood that if dualling is put into operation Allied will start legal action immediately against circuit and distributors in Federal court, basing its action on the clearance consent decree handed down several years ago.

$65,000 in 4 Days

The first four days gross for "Mary of Scotland" at the Music Hall ended with $65,000, indicating that the Katharine Hepburn film will approximate $100,000, or over, for the first week.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

REGARDLESS of what changes are to follow on the heels of the Schenck-Gaumont British transaction, production is proceeding as usual at the latter's plant with its picturesque English monicker—Lime Grove studio, Shepherd's Bush. The premises are old, full of odd and abrupt corners; it is said one set has to be struck before another can go up which is one reason why G. B.'s production costs are high. At any rate, and whether or not this has any bearing on the matter, here, nevertheless, is the home which fathered "Power," "Evergreen," "Rhodes" and "Transatlantic Tunnel," among other attractions flying the G. B. standard. . . .

To get to Shepherd's Bush fastest meant a first venture into the Tube, or Underground, which is London's name for subway.

On to Hammersmith we traveled and smoked, then a wait in the rain, which is not explained away here as it is in Hollywood, and finally one of those high-boxed taxi affairs to the plant. There Mickey Balcon, nattily outfitted in slacks, was on hand with cheery greetings. In quick array, came introductions: Victor Peers, who handles production estimates and generally lightens Balcon's burden; Otto Ludwig, an American and chief cutter; Robert Stevenson, young Englishman who directed "Nine Days a Queen"; Harold Boxall, sort of "trouble buster" for Mickey with labor a particular forte. By this time, Mark Ostrer had finished his telephone conversation with Jeff Bernerd in New York and lunch time, important to your Englishman, had struck. . . .

It was the Royal Palace Hotel, Kensington, in the shadow of the birthplace of Queen Victoria. Someone once had said about this hotel, "the food was the best in London served in the most refined surroundings." On both counts, it occurred to us there might have been no exaggeration. Neighbors included Ted Husing, the C. B. S. sports announcer; Marcelle Edwards, still without a bodyguard; Hugh Findlay and Jimmy Campbell, who never gets much out of sight. The peerage was shoved into the background, but nobody cared. . . .

The guide for the studio tour which followed several hours later was Ostrer, in person and in the flesh. To the "Head Over Heels" set first where Jessie Matthews, G. B.'s ace, was appearing in a story adapted by Dwight Taylor, who worked on the script of "Top Hat" and who next will do an original for Jessie. Having completed lunch, a handful of minutes earlier, it was time for tea, of course. Everything in England stops for tea, including production. Jessie had hers on a bed tilted almost at right angles with the floor, bringing all the comforts of home to the lot, sheets and pillows not excluded. . . .

The Matthew film has a Parisian background. Its director is Sonnie Hale, whose first of such jobs this is and it so happens the star is also his wife. In its cast is Whitney Bourne, American actress, not working on the day of our inspection, and at the camera, designated with the fancy description of "lighting expert" is Glen MacWilliams, a Hollywood product now here about four years, liking it and tickled that a recent boat deposited on these stores Charlie Rosher, long a lens expert on the West Coast, and Lee Garmes, cameraman and of late associate producer with Ben Hecht and Charlie MacArthur. As we get further into this quick survey, it becomes more apparent all steamship lines lead to London. . . .

"Ah, a breath of America," remarked George Arliss as we shook hands; what could he have meant? His "East Meets West" is awaiting release. In it, Arliss goes back to an Eastern potentate role of "The Green Goddess" school he has essayed a number of times, not only for Arthur S. Friend but years later for United Artists. Currently, his vehicle is "The Nelson Touch" with a dual role of British foreign minister and his mercurial brother. "Jim, the Penman," to come, will mark the completion of Arliss' contract and probably severance of the association with G. B. . . .

Sylvia Sidney's end of "Sabotage" is washed up. Robert Donat, once slated for the male lead, has been replaced by John Loder; Alfred Hitchcock, the "39 Steps" man, is director. Raoul Walsh is over to direct "O. H. M. S.," a yarn about an American who joins the British army. Albert de Courville is making "The Northing Tramp" with Connie Cummings and Noah Beery, Americans both, while another Cummings film, "Seven Sinners" with Eddie Lowe in the support, is awaiting release. Bill Beaudine, American-trained, is directing "Where There's a Will," starring Will Hay, who has nothing at all to do with the man of almost the same name in America. . . .

On schedule and probably to undergo no change, deal or no deal, are "King Solomon's Mines" for which Paul Robeson and Roland Young have been designated as leads; Kipling's "Soldiers Three" with Vic McLaglen and perhaps Maureen O'Sullivan under Walsh's direction; "The Dark Invaders," the story of Von Rintelen, German spy during the war; "Shadow of the Wing," an air story; "Next Stop Canada," a tale built around the development of a North Atlantic air route, and "Brave and Beautiful," starring Anna Lee and directed by Stevenson, her husband. . . .

G. B. plots twenty-four this new season. Sixteen are to come from Lime Grove and eight from Gainsborough, a subsidiary which operates from the Islington studio, built by Paramount years ago when that company embarked on British production with a vengeance and a bang. Average negative costs run about $300,000. "America must be included in figuring budgets for production in England," Ostrer declared on query, admitting readily enough that the level was too high. "But the G. B. chain will not book poor pictures, its own or anyone else's. We are in production chiefly to supply our own theatres." . . .

Firms in Barcelona To Reopen Tomorrow

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

Barcelona, Aug. 3.—The offices of distributors and all theatres here were still closed today, but it is understood only the minor demands of a small group are standing in the way of a reopening, which is expected on Wednesday at the latest.

The Commissioner of Spectacles of Catalonia has ordered the inspection of all film establishments in the region, including studios and laboratories. The inspector will be empowered to intervene in the activities of the organizations relative to the conduct of business and internal phases, and in exceptional cases, will have the right to place in the company a permanent delegate "for the proper functioning of the house."

Bank accounts are still closed for the payment of all bills except wages. This is designed to "avoid panic."

Gero Circuit Gains Power In Budapest

By ENDRE HEVESI

BUDAPEST, July 28.—The recently completed reorganization of the Gero circuit, most important theatre organization in Hungary, which was expected to result in a loss of part of the holdings, actually has made the unit more powerful than before. The circuit included six first and second run de luxe houses here, all managed by Istvan Gero. At the close of last season it was reported the first run Forum and the second run Capitol would operate independently. Such a situation was regarded hopefully in film circles, since it would tend to open the way for more general activity on the part of distributors here.

However, although he did lose the Forum and Capitol, Gero succeeded in obtaining control of six other Budapest houses, which will be booked entirely by him. Thus he will have complete control over the product shown in 10 of the city's 16 leading houses, making the position of distributors still more difficult.

Studios Being Erected

The improved condition of native Hungarian production is indicated in the fact that Hunnia and Filmiroda, two of the leading plants, are building new studios adjacent to the present plants. A second reason for the expansion lies in the low production costs in this country, which often leads foreign producers to use Hungarian studios.

French product in Hungary is enjoying a new popularity with the Hungarian public since last season, when several French films were received with unusual favor by the native audiences.

German films, on the other hand, have lost the small market they had here. Last season several independent distributors handled the product, although it was not popular. This season, however, there are no Hungarian companies handling German films.

The six film theatres in the town of Saint Quentin, in northern France, which has a population of 50,000, have closed in protest against the refusal of the town council to reduce the municipal taxes assessed on theatres. The decision was reached unanimously at a meeting of the theatre owners. Posters were placed everywhere in the streets of the town, informing patrons of the closing, and the reason for it.

Distributors Await Cuba Censor Decree

Major distributors here are awaiting the receipt of the official Cuban Government decree placing in effect the abandonment of the New York censoring office of the Cuban censor board, which was voted by the cabinet in Havana late last week. It is anticipated that immediately the decree is received, distributors will resume shipments of film to Cuba, which they ceased July 1, following the establishment of the office here. The decree is expected momentarily.

Distributor objections to the reviewing unit here were based on the assessment of a reviewing fee of $10 per reel. Under the former system, which will be resumed, all American films are shipped to Havana, and examined by the censor body there, with no reviewing charge.

Hamlin Slightly Better

The condition of Tom Hamlin, editor and publisher of Film Curb, who has been seriously ill at the Post Graduate Hospital during the past few weeks, has improved slightly, according to reports from his bedside.

PREVIEWED . . . REVIEWED .

TRADEVIEWS by W.R. WILKERSON

●UNTIL yesterday preview cards have never meant anything to this reporter and, we feel certain, have never given the producer a true index to the value of a picture. If the cards were great, the producer flourished them before every news hawk, heralding that picture as a production achievement. If the cards were bad and a news hawk happened to know they were bad, the producer invariably replied, "They don't mean a thing.,,

But we saw a set of preview cards yesterday that meant a lot to us, not on the quality of the picture or the value of the opinions of that preview mob which always grab the cards as it leaves the theater, but an audience reaction to a new star and the interest of an audience to a new personality. The star and the personality was Simone Simon.

After seeing a good part of "Girls' Dormitory" the other day we sat down at this desk to report the creation of a new box office bet. We had to yell into the next office for the proper spelling of Simone Simon and we should know how to spell the name. Accordingly our first interest in looking over about 120 preview cards was the fact that on NOT ONE of those cards was the name Simone Simon misspelled, indicating that preview audiences are up on their spelling in their knowledge of this little French girl.

Our next interest was to find a reaction to the Simon accent. Most of the fans reporting their reactions suggested "Don't permit her to lose her accent"—"Don't let her go Garbo and try to talk English"—"Her accent is her greatest charm," etc., etc., etc.

We then became interested in the general raves for this girl, raves above the picture, above the rest of the cast that spotted such names as Ruth Chatterton and Herbert Marshall.

All indicating the rapidity with which an audience can spot something new, something good, something out of the ordinary. That's a tip how quickly the fans build a star, how easy it is for a company to jump a player into a money attraction, IF it has the right player. Also indicating how hungry ticket buyers are for new faces, new personalities.

TRADEVIEWS by W.R. WILKERSON

●ALONG the thoughts of new personalities and boxoffice draws, we believe Zanuck will have the top new bet for this year in Simone Simon. This little French girl,is getting a development with Zanuck that will zoom her to the absolute top in two, maybe three pictures. We have seen a lot of her footage in "Girls' Dormitory" and the girl is great; she will definitely become an important boxoffice attraction.

Simon has everything required of a star. She is good to look at in both face and figure, and has a distinctive personality unlike any other person on the screen; she can act and has just enough temperament to make her intriguing. She has a decided accent, but that reacts to her favor.

So watch Simone Simon and watch her handling by Zanuck, who has always been rated as top developer of male talent, but has been given the finger in discussions on the discovery and advancement of feminine players, a reputation born of Zanuck's story mind rather than lack of ability in handling women. His yarns, for the most part, have been virile vehicles for men, with the girls just playing feminine leads. He knows he has a great possibility in Simone; he knows he has to develop several feminine names for his Century-Fox banner. And he will.

"Simone Simon . . . Everything desirable in a young screen star. With an impish naivete that is refreshing and ability way above the average and looks that are compelling, she should reach the top in a few strides . . . Though surrounded with the toughest opposition, she comes through with all honors."

Twentieth Century-Fox may make a deal with the Roxy for "Pepper" and "Charlie Chan at the Racetrack." Howard S. Cullman, trustee, is anxious to have the duo, but the distributor has turned down the rentals offered. The Rivoli, or some other Broadway house, may spot the pictures.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Piccadilly Jim"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Aug. 3.—Possessing all the ingredients necessary for comedy-romance with a real sock, this film should prove a delight to exploitation-minded showmen and audiences. The motivating story, productive of numerous comic situations, moves merrily under the impetus of sparkling and witty dialogue and intriguing action.

The gay, airy tone of the yarn makes it possible for Robert Montgomery to turn in his most pleasing performance in months and also permits Cora Witherspoon, Frank Morgan, Robert Benchley, Madge Evans, Eric Blore, Billie Burke, Grant Mitchell, Tommy Bupp and Ralph Forbes to be exceptionally effective. The happy combination of story quality and skillful individual and collective player performances gives the picture an appeal that should insure all-audience popularity.

The story opens in London where Montgomery, a caricaturist, is engrossed in his main problem of exercising paternal influence over Morgan, his ham actor father. The playboy sire's attempt at romance with the willing Billie Burke is blasted by her domineering sister, Miss Witherspoon. Montgomery, by way of revenge, lampoons the Witherspoon family to make it the laughing stock of Europe.

Meanwhile, Montgomery waxes romantic on his own hook with Miss Evans who, unknown to him, is the neice of Miss Witherspoon. She is being pushed by her family into a match with Lord Forbes. Meanwhile she is hoping to see something terrible happen to her cartoonist suitor who is responsible for the Witherspoon ridicule.

In the course of time Miss Witherspoon and family leave for America where Montgomery later follows them to find his father masquerading as a Swedish count very much in the Witherspoon favor.

Twisting the characters of his cartoons to make Miss Witherspoon appear as a Pollyanna beloved by everyone, Montgomery then admits his identity to be forgiven by his victim and to make possible a happy ending with Miss Evans rushing into his arms.

Though the theme is carried principally by Montgomery, Miss Witherspoon and Miss Evans, Blore's butler specialty characterization is a gem of whimsical humor. Similarly, Morgan, Miss Burke, Mitchell and Benchley account for considerable laughter while Bupp's appearances as a razzing family brat form delightful byplay.

Wisely, the screenplay of Charles Brackett and Edwin Knopf sticks closely to the original of P. G. Wodehouse, adding to it some additional smart dialogue. The direction of Robert Z. Leonard will please both showmen and audiences and makes the film a sure box-office clicker anywhere.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,456. Running time, before cutting, 90 minutes. "G."

"The Road to Glory," which opens at the Rivoli tomorrow, was previewed from Hollywood on June 1.

Virginia Bank Night Test Action Dropped

Richmond, Aug. 3.—Prospects of a test of the application of the state's lottery laws to Bank Night and other giveaways seem remote, it is agreed, as a result of the dropping of a case against Charles A. Somma.

Judge John L. Ingram in Hustings Court accepted the recommendation of Commonwealth Attorney T. Gray Haddon that the case be dropped. Somma agreed to pay the costs. The case was up on appeal from the District Court where Somma had been fined $25.

F. & M., St. Louis Deal is Due Today

Grand, representing the bondholders committee for Central Properties, in New York on the deal which was tentatively set at the time.

F. & M., which intended to bid for the neighborhood circuit at a public auction in St. Louis, has withdrawn the plan for the management contract. Leto Hill, supervisor for the 22 theatres, will continue in that post under the new arrangement. Two houses are closed.

Reinstatement of stage shows in some of the downtown first runs has not yet been decided due to a temporary delay in negotiations with the musicians' union. The stagehands' deal has been set and it is expected that a contract with the musicians will be worked out by Labor Day.

Two St. Louis neighborhood houses will be built by F. & M. and local real estate operators will construct five others.

Arthur Office at Fox

In most situations, the new structures will replace obsolete buildings. The Ambassador is now being remodeled without interruption of shows. New quarters are being added to the Fox, where Arthur will make his offices. William Raynor is now managing the Fox.

The Missouri, Fox, Ambassador, St. Louis and Orpheum will be first run houses, while the Shubert-Rialto and Hi-Pointe will be second runs. The Guild Cinema will play foreign pictures and revivals. The Orpheum, Fox and Ambassador are the only first run F. & M. theatres now open. A shift in personnel is scheduled as soon as the dark houses are relighted on Labor Day.

Kansas City's Pool Starts Functioning

Kansas City, Aug. 3.—The previously announced pool of the RKO Mainstreet, B. & K. Newman and Fox Uptown, got partially under way over the week-end when the Mainstreet began showing "To Mary—With Love" from Twentieth Century-Fox and the Newman went to double bills with one from Paramount and one from Twentieth Century-Fox.

This is taken to indicate that Fox Midwest, under Elmer C. Rhoden, will place the No. 1 pictures from the group of producers now available for pool handling in the 3,100-seat Mainstreet and others in the Newman, probably on a continuous double bill policy. The policy of the Uptown is still to be settled. It is now playing "Poor Little Rich Girl" and when this run has been completed, it will do a return engagement of "State Fair."

Available to the pool are the pictures of Paramount, RKO, Universal, Warners, Twentieth Century-Fox, G. B. and Republic.

One of the objectives of the pool plan is to be able to adopt a definite policy for each theatre and be able to maintain it consistently over a long period in order to convince the public and sell it on that policy.

The pool is regarded as a solution to the long failure of first runs to show a profit. Theatres can buy to fit their policies and show that way.

raw the large number of infringe-nent suits they instituted against arious Ascap licensees following the vithdrawal. A number of the legal ctions have been withdrawn during he past few weeks, a step which was aken at the time to be indicative of he approaching reinstatement.

Mills declared yesterday Ascap vas "glad to have Warners back in he society," calling their return an pportunity for greater organization ervice to its licensees and the pro-notion of greater harmony within the ndustry.

A meeting will be held today be-ween representatives of Warners and scap, and a joint statement will be ssued, it was said at the Warner of-ce yesterday.

Shifting of Contracts Expected

It was explained that the many ontracts, signed by Warners with mall radio stations for the use of ne Warner music, following the vithdrawal and the subsequent re-usal of the National Broadcasting o. and Columbia Broadcasting Sys-em to sign Warner agreements, vould be shifted to the present Ascap ontracts with those same stations. he contracts originally were writ-en with that possibility in view, it vas indicated.

Warners withdrew from the society t the end of last year because they ontended they were not deriving suf-cient revenue from their music com-anies through the association with scap.

Groucho and Harpo Argue Over Economy

Douglas Churchill, Hollywood orrespondent for the New York imes, has dug up a new Marx story. Here it is:

One of the better stories of the eek concerns the Marx Brothers. nspecting some props to be used n their forthcoming "A Day at the aces" they came across one which ney didn't like. After pondering ver it for some time Harpo said, Throw it out." "But it cost several undred dollars," protested the prop nan. "We can't do that." Groucho epped into the argument. "No, you an't waste money like that, Harpo," e said. "Have it silver-plated and nen throw it out."

Looking 'Em Over

"Second Wife"

(R*adio*)

A more or less routine effort revolving about the theme of a remarriage and the misunderstandings which result through the presence of a first child, this picture is satisfactory entertainment, of the type which usually has its greatest appeal to the feminine contingent.

In the leads are Walter Abel as the widower and Gertrude Michaels as the new wife, while in chief supporting roles are Erik Rhodes as the avid pursuer of Miss Michaels and Emma Dunn as the old family servant who contributes common sense to the marital problem which is the film's theme.

The selling should concentrate on the thematic material and be designed to attract women specifically. There is comparatively little comedy and a definite lack of action, yet the film has the definite appeal which often lies in a picturization of a common problem. The performances are wholly capable. It is, in effect, a stage play transplanted to the screen, and is, in fact, taken from the play by Fulton Oursler, "All the King's Horses."

Abel, with a young son, marries Miss Michaels and fearing the youngster will not understand, sends him away to school in Switzerland. She is about to have a child when word comes of the boy's illness, and he, without thinking of his wife, goes to his son's bedside. Her bitterness, with Rhodes taking advantage of the situation, results almost fatally for their married life until she, realizing the problem, contrives to effect a reconciliation by bringing the boy home from his military school.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,998. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Accused"

(Criterion-United Artists)

London, July 28.—This is unlikely to help the reputations either of the producer Marcel Hellman, the director Thornton Freeland or the chief players, Dolores Del Rio and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. The story of a Spanish dancer accused in Paris of the murder of a revue star who has tried to steal her husband, looks outmoded and conventional. The big trial, conducted by what purports to be French procedure is an amazing free-for-all, with the prosecuting and defending attorney getting very near farce in their mutually abusive cross talk.

Florence Desmond, a good British comedienne, is miscast as the vicious stage star. Bright spots are Roland Culver's work as her jailbird husband and Edward Rigby's old actor study. There is some back-stage appeal and some originality in the ending, the "reconstruction of the crime" permitted by French law, but the effect is lost in the general atmosphere of unreality. It seems doubtful that even violent editing can make this acceptable in the States.

Running time 70 minutes. "A."

Rolsky-Fox Decision Likely on Wednesday

Kansas City, Aug. 3.—After plaintiffs and defense rested today in the suit of Emanuel Rolsky against Fox Midwest and major distributors, Judge Otis indicated that he may able to hand down a decision in the case on Wednesday following the summing up by the litigants.

On the stand during today's proceedings were: William Benjamin and E. T. Gomersall of Universal, W. E. Truog, western manager of United Artists and Elmer C. Rhoden, president of Fox Midwest. These witnesses for the defense gave substantially the same testimony as their predecessors.

The Fox City Theatres, Rhoden testified, lost over $500,000 prior to last year. He added he insisted on buying clear runs last year because his experience had shown him that he could gross more if he did not play simultaneously with a number of competitive houses, but he denied that he told distributors that he wouldn't buy for the remainder of the 97 Fox theatres under his control if they didn't sell him prior runs here.

Judge Otis denied the distributors' motion to amend their answer to include a charge of conspiracy against the plaintiffs.

Benjamin's Testimony Logical

Benjamin of Universal testified that he didn't offer the independents the same run at the same time as offered to Rhoden because he was figuring how to get the most out of the entire situation rather than to consider just individual theatres.

Gomersall took the stand and said that he assumed last fall that other exhibitors would sell Fox prior runs but that he did not get this information from the other distributors.

Truog of United Artists testified that on pictures which the circuit did not take this year, and which he sold to independents, the revenue was far less than on the films which Fox bought. He tried to sell Fox first, he said, because he could get more money that way.

The plaintiffs introduced the respective amounts paid by Fox and the plaintiff theatres for films of the defendant distributors during the past two seasons.

Capitol's 35-Week Profit Is Greatest in Last Seven Years

Profits of the Capitol for the first 35 weeks of the year are greater than for any similar period in the last seven years.

Stage shows will not be reinstated at this New York first run, it was learned yesterday, inasmuch as it has been shown that the current all-film program returns a better profit than the combination of presentations and pictures.

Operating overhead at the present time, including rent, film rentals and advertising, averages about $21,000 a week. The cost of stage shows is figured at an additional $20,000.

"Suzy," which has just completed a first week and started its second last Friday, grossed approximately $37,000 for the first seven days.

Reels Get Wider Latitude In Shooting the Olympics

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—A new decision, changing the restrictive regulations relative to the filming of the Olympic Games here by American and other newsreel companies, has been made by the German Government.

Previously the regulations permitted the filming of only 125 meters of film per week. The new rule allows the shooting of 250 meters (approximately 750 feet) daily, which indicates a definite relaxation of the stringent regulations originally applied and gives the newsreels considerably wider latitude in filming the games.

The new regulations climax a long battle over the rights of the reels in the matter. It is understood that the same conditions exist for German newsreels as for American. Several of the American reels have installed special news services.

However, strict censorship rules still prevail. All film taken of the games must be reviewed and approved by the German Government film censors, and strict supervision is exercised concerning the placement of cameras at the stadium.

Feature rights to the filming of the games are owned by a company controlled by Leni Riefenstahl, German

Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board, Twentieth Century-Fox, arrived by plane from Hollywood last night to sail at noon today on the Normandie for London where he will hasten details in the Loew and his company's deal with Gaumont British.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Delay in the consummation of the G.B. deal with Loew's and Twentieth Century-Fox is believed attributable to questions by members of the board on certain aspects of the deal.

Sheldon-Barnes Win All "Lynton" Profits

In a statement yesterday awarding legal victory to Edward Sheldon and Margaret Ayer Barnes, playwrights, in their suit against M-G-M charging plagiarism, Federal Judge Knox ordered the defendants to deliver to the writers all profits of the film "Letty Lynton," the plot of which, the plaintiffs claimed, was taken from their "Dishonored Lady."

Plaintiffs were also awarded all costs of the suit.

N. Y. Theatres Owe $400,000 In U. S. Taxes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—More than $400,000 in unpaid admission taxes has been assessed against New York city theatres by the Treasury Dep't, as a result of an investigation of tax returns inaugurated a year ago with funds appropriated by the W.P.A., it was made known here today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Additional assessments of taxes on admission and club dues in New York, not including Brooklyn, amounted to $465,621 up to June 30 last. It was said 90 per cent of the figure is attributed to admissions.

These totals were cited as an indi-

Study Angles of Stand On Questionnaire

Some of the major companies are considering the advisability of not answering the lengthy questionnaire sent out recently by Assistant Attorney General John Dickinson.

No decision has been made, but it is learned that the attorneys of all of the film companies have held at least three meetings at the Hays office to discuss the questionnaire.

Although the impression at first prevailed that the questions asked were limited to distribution and theatre management, it is now revealed that more than half of the queries concern production in Hollywood, salaries of production executives, contracts of stars and also include agreements between producers on exchange of players.

Other information sought includes provisions for corporate structures of all companies, holding and subsidiaries, leases and contracts as well as long term franchises and partnership arrangements.

Because of the wide scope of the questionnaire, an attorney for one of the companies yesterday stated that if all the information were given the Dep't of Justice, the Government

Hollywood, Aug. 4.—Jack L. Warner leaves for New York shortly. He is due to arrive there Tuesday.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

METRO and Twentieth Century-Fox will get plenty of first run leeway as one aftermath of the G. B. deal, the ramifications of which become increasingly difficult to escape in any discussion of what goes on currently in the British industry. For G. B., in preponderance of numbers, at least, dominates London's Times Square and its holdings now supply the two American companies with any sort of a show window display they may care to arrange. It's merely a matter of figuring it out as this whirlwind tour will demonstrate.

We had an idea matching up London's West End with New York's Times Square might square off. It does not. Times Square, with its north and south course but with its very important excursion to the east which is to say the Music Hall, is much smaller in point of size and is shy the other directional areas encompassed by its British cousin. The downtown section here branches into a number of particular designations, such as Leicester Square, the Strand, the Haymarket, Marble Arch, Piccadilly Circus, Victoria and others. Each might be described as a sort of town pump for its own theatre hustle and bustle. . . .

The top house of them all is the Empire, 3,100 seats strong and the citadel of Metro product. In Leicester Square and operated by Sam Eckman as one facet of his variegated activity which is chiefly the sale of M-G-M in the Kingdom, the Empire, by and large, week in and week out and by dint of product, of course, does the best gross of any theatre here—England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales and the Orkneys thrown in. Ninety-five per cent of its playing time goes to Metro, the general policy is a weekly change, single, unless a Metro quota picture has to see daylight. Then it goes double. The Empire also is the only West End house which throws open its doors at ten and locks them at midnight. All others start grinding at noon. Why, we don't know except—and this is a constantly good reason to fall back on—that this is Britain. . . .

Paramount runs two. The Carlton, in the Haymarket and seating 1,120, proceeds on the plan of the old Criterion in Times Square, which, you will recall, was long runs, if you can remember the halcyon days when Paramount made them. Occasionally, outside product is booked; there were "One Night of Love" and "Top Hat," for example. All of this, incidentally, is on a single basis. The Plaza on Lower Regent Street off Piccadilly Circus is the No. 2 house, playing Paramount regularly on a weekly change, but committed to duals. It seats 2,000. . . .

John Maxwell, the canny Scotchman, has the 2,100 seat Regal at Marble Arch, functioning under the aegis of Associated British Cinemas. A dual first run, it formerly was pre-release outlet for Warners, but that arrangement has run its course and the theatre now looks weekly to Maxwell's own British International Pictures, an occasional Radio or Columbia and whatever appears likely. The London Pavilion at Piccadilly Circus is the United Artists outlet. It has remained single, seats 1,200, regularly forces runs on U. A. product with a usual minimum of four weeks regardless of gross and, from time to time, looks over the field for attractions when the U. A. release system shows gaps. That happens here as well as in the States. . . .

Jack Buchanan, the musical comedy star and a first-rate display of how one can look in white tie and tails, is also a property owner. The Leicester Square is his. Its capacity is 1,900; its film supply an occasional United Artists, with much more dependence on General Film Distributors, meaning Universal and C. M. Woolf's own; its policy is singles and its runs extended. This inspection now sneaks up on G. B. through a reversed geographical approach. . . .

Once the home of Leo, the Tivoli—capacity 2,100; address, the Strand not far removed from the Savoy—is the leader of the G. B. contingent. The best efforts of the Lime Grove studio and Gainsborough as well seek shillings from the public here on a run basis, single. The choice of Twentieth Century-Fox does likewise, but, as Arthur Jarratt handles his bookings, this does not bar off attractions like "Modern Times." Second is the New Gallery on Regent Street. Until recently, this 1,350 seater was an all-British theatre. That idea has been thrown out; G. B.'s lesser stuff, Fox "B" and an occasional First National, have been brought in. Duals there. . . .

Then there is the Capitol in the Haymarket. Once seating 1,500, a rehabilitation scheme is under way which will reduce capacity by two or three hundred and perhaps convert policy into a permanent home for Twentieth Century-Fox. The intention, however, was not definite as this was written. The Empire, Carlton, Plaza, Regal, London Pavilion, Leicester Square, Tivoli, New Gallery and Capitol thus aggregate a division of their own. They are the Grade A prereleasers. . . .

Here you have part of the picture. The rest of it is composed of second pre-release houses of which the tally is seven of which G. B. has four. Quickly (1)—the Dominion, Tottenham Court Road; capacity, 2,800; policy, stage shows and duals on a weekly change; control, G. B. (2)—Astoria, Charing Cross Road; capacity, 1,700; policy, duals on a weekly change; control, G. B. (3)—Paramount, Tottenham Court Road; capacity, 3,000; policy, stage shows and duals on a weekly change; control, Paramount. (4)—New Victoria, Victoria section of the West End; capacity, 2,000; policy, stage shows and duals; control, G. B. (5)—Metropole, Victoria; capacity, 2,000; policy, duals on a weekly change; operated by the Hyams brothers solo and not part of their partnership deal with G. B. (6)—Marble Arch Pavilion; capacity, 1,200; policy, runs; control, G. B. (7)—Rialto, Coventry Street; capacity, 700; policy, stunt films, "Ubangi" type, and B. I. P. lesser lights; control, A. B. C. . . .

In the West End, a recap reveals, that there are sixteen theatres, seating 29,770 in bulk. G. B., on its own, has seven, seating 12,650. Throwing in the Empire, which is logical since the interests are about to become identical now, the combination chalks up eight houses with 15,730, or fifty-two per cent of all the seats. Of the major West End spots, there are nine with 16,370 seats. G. B. alone has three, combined capacity of 4,950, but with the Empire, the dominant group jumps to four, seating 8,050. Or forty-three per cent, plus a fraction. If the consolidated distribution scheme, viewed as highly impracticable here, should go through, the merged Metro, Twentieth Century-Fox and G. B. systems will have about one hundred and twenty pictures a year to handle. Not enough to furnish all of the West End properties and that means dependence on other sources, but enough to revamp the first run picture here in a fashion quite apt to get the Britisher excited. And that is no mean feat. . . .

"PICCADILLY JIM" IS GREAT!

FLASH REVIEWS FROM THE COAST!

"Whatever it takes to make a fast-moving comedy click, PICCADILLY JIM has it. From start to finish it is a polished, fast-moving, entertaining picture that is sure-fire box-office anywhere. The kind of picture that can be safely ballyhooed and then reap profit through word of mouth appreciation. Robert Montgomery was never a better playboy. The directing talent of Robert Z. Leonard is at all times in evidence. From the viewpoint of audience and theatre PICCADILLY JIM is just what the doctor ordered." Daily (Coast) Variety

"PICCADILLY JIM comedy hit for all type audiences. Will prove continuously hilarious entertainment for all classes and be a box-office asset everywhere. Robert Montgomery is at his best."

—Hollywood Reporter

"Hilarity is efficiently struck in PICCADILLY JIM gauged by the reactions of the audience which attended the showing. It is clever in incident and affords Robert Montgomery the chance to demonstrate that lighter ability for which his name seems synonomous in a new environment." —Los Angeles Times

"Comedy-romance with a real sock. A delight to exploitation-minded showmen and audiences. Sparkling, witty dialogue and intriguing action. The gay, airy yarn makes it possible for Robert Montgomery to turn in his most pleasing performance in months and also permits Cora Witherspoon, Frank Morgan, Robert Benchley, Madge Evans, Eric Blore, Billie Burke, Grant Mitchell, Tommy Bupp and Ralph Forbes to be exceptionally effective. The happy combination of story quality, and skillful individual and collective player performances gives the picture an appeal that should insure all-audience popularity. A sure box-office clicker anywhere."

Steelman used these arguments and a review of the testimony up to now to show it is "impossible to trace all of the William Fox acts, conduct and property" without the All-Continent books.

It is expected that if Steedle orders the records turned over, an appeal will be taken to Federal Judge John Boyce Davis in Camden. The Fox forces have been insisting that All-Continent is a separate corporation belonging to Mrs. Fox and the daughters as a trust, and have refused access to its books to creditors' counsel.

Clevelanders Favor Five-Cent Increase

Cleveland, Aug. 4.—Owners of higher bracket theatres in the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n today unanimously favored an increase of five cents, provided all houses in the Cleveland area will raise prices, at a meeting here today.

The consensus of opinion was that the move must start with theatres charging 10 and 15 cents, since these classifications offered opposition because of some highly competitive situations where a 15-cent house follows another theatre with the same admission in the same zone.

Failing to reach an agreement, the matter was put in abeyance until another meeting scheduled the end of the month. During the interim an effort will be made to have the bad spots ironed out of their difficulties. In a previous meeting with the association officers of the first run affiliated houses suggested the boost from 42 cents to 55 cents, provided the increase goes down the line.

Legal heads of the film companies cannot understand what the purpose of the questions is, and since the Government does not "demand," but "request" the data there is a tendency on the part of some firms not to "disrupt" legal staffs for the next six months digging up information, supplying photostats and copies of contracts unless there is a specific purpose in mind which must be made clear to them.

Since there is no deadline for answering the questions, none of the companies has started ferreting out the information.

It is understood that Herman Starr, Warner vice-president, who was a member of the Ascap board before Warners left the society last Jan. 1, will be replaced by the head of one of the Warner music subsidiaries when the Ascap board meets again next month.

The Warner companies are Harms, Inc., T. B. Harms Co., New World Music Corp., Remick Music Corp., Victoria Publishing Co., M. Witmark & Sons, and several of their subsidiaries.

A joint statement issued following the meeting yesterday revieved the withdrawal and the reasons for it, stipulated the terms of the reinstatement and cited the value to both parties of the return of Warners.

"Pastures" Is $18,000 Hit In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Aug. 4.—The heat of last week couldn't stop "The Green Pastures" and it went on to a fancy $18,000 at the Penn. This was considered strong enough to send the picture into the Warner for another week at the same price scale.

The only other house in town to overcome the climbing mercury successfully was the Alvin, where "The Crime of Dr. Forbes" and "Little Miss Nobody" managed to roll up a very satisfactory $5,600. Elsewhere, however, things were pretty dull. The Stanley couldn't better $14,500 with "Public Enemy's Wife" and Jimmy Wallington's NBC "Radio Jamboree" while the Warner fell off to $3,800 with "Half Angel" and "Girl of the Ozarks."

Quite a Worry

Cheyenne, Aug. 4.—Adjutant general of the Wyoming National Guard, Lieut. Col. R. L. Esmay, is worried for fear he may mave contributed $1,000 to the filming of "The Plainsman" by Paramount, quite involuntarily. He received a check for that amount from a Paramount representative and proceeded to pay members of his encampment who had participated in several sequences of the picture. Later when it was found that some of the costume equipment used in the filming had not been returned Paramount stopped payment on the check.

In the meantime search for the missing costumes has been speeded.

"Suzy" on a Dual Louisville Leader

Louisville, Aug. 4.—Downtown airconditioned theatres successfully combatted the heat last week, and managed to hold their own on the strength of product. Loew's State made the best showing with "Suzy" and "Final Hour," getting around $8,000, a good $2,500 over average. The pace was strong over the weekend, after an extreme drop in temperature on Wednesday.

Also coming in for some important attention was the dual bill, "The Crime of Dr. Forbes" and "The Bride Walks Out," at the Rialto, where the take was $5,500, just $1,000 over par. "Three Cheers for Love" and "M'Liss" at the Strand also were in the profit column, taking $3,600, an even $100 over the line. Midwest Moves Offices

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 4.—Fox Midwest Theatres, Inc., has completed the job of moving into its new offices on the third floor of the Uptown Bldg., which houses its first run in Kansas City, the Uptown. The offices, much larger than those occupied for several years on the Country Club Plaza, are completely air conditioned. Each executive has a conference room which overcomes an inconvenience at the former offices.

On the second floor a screening room is being completed, and here also are supply rooms.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Postal Inspector"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4.—Routine melodrama heroizing the U. S. postal inspector in his work against mail robbers, this is nothing to get extremely excited about. The motivating story is rather thin; it is helped but slightly by a triangular romantic conflict seasoned with dabs of comedy and the interspersion of a couple of song numbers. What strength the film has is imparted by the inclusion of several spectacular flood scenes.

For exhibitors there is the possibility of exploitation contact with the postal service itself, although the theatrically artificial quality of the production scarcely justifies cooperative contacts.

As for the story itself: Ricardo Cortez, a postal inspector, is attracted to Patricia Ellis, a cafe singer, during a plane trip in which the pair avert a panic. The trace of romantic conflict is suggested when, upon landing, Cortez learns that his brother, Michael Loring, is in love with Miss Ellis. To impress the girl with his own importance Loring tells her that he is to superintend the shipment of a large sum of money.

Innocently, she speaks of the money shipment to Bela Lugosi, her employer and night club owner, who uses his club as a front for crooked schemes. He stages the theft of the money in such a manner as to cast strong suspicion on Loring.

Here again Cortez and Miss Ellis team up and in motor boats they dash over dangerous flood waters in a thrilling action chase. Lugosi and his mob are finally captured, the money is saved and Loring is exonerated. As Cortez moves in to other duties the young lovers are left with each other.

Cortez, Miss Ellis and Lugosi are effective in their roles, and Loring, a newcomer, shows real promise but the material provided is hardly worthy of their talents and their efforts. Robert Presnell produced and collaborated with Horace McCoy on the story. Otto Brower directed. The appeal of the film seems limited to those who like melodramatic thrill action.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,380. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"I Was a Captive of Nazi Germany"

(Malvina Pictures)

With the aid of screen technique and a number of performers, all unidentified and none of them recognized, Isobel Lillian Steele tells the story of her arrest and imprisonment by the Nazi Government of Germany. The reenactment, as motion picture, is straightforward, for the most part, its drama only that inherent in the occurrences pictured, with Miss Steele reenacting the role she played in a drama of real life.

Actually, the film is neither more nor less than a pictorial record, and, as such, must be reckoned of limited appeal for general audience consumption. For those who feel strongly on the situation which exists in Nazi Germany the film offers something definitely of interest. For all others interested in the extent to which a political dictatorship may carry the exercise of absolute power, the picture likewise should be worthwhile. Viewed entirely in the light of screen entertainment, there is no general appeal.

Recounted, with occasional explanatory dialogue and considerable use of stock newsreel material, is the manner in which Miss Steele, American writer, became involved in the writing of a scenario which concerned dominant figures in the German Government. Her arrest, imprisonment, the refusal of the authorities to permit her to communicate with friends, and her eventual release, which followed the intervention of Senator Borah, make up the story.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 89 minutes. "A."

"Rich Girl" On Dual Top In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, MO., Aug. 4.—"Poor Little Rich Girl," on a dual with "White Fang," at the Fox proved the outstanding box-office attraction of the week with a take of $19,900, which was above par by $7,900. As a result, the bill was moved into the Ambassador.

"The White Angel," showing at the Ambassador also proved very profitable, grossing $14,550 and beating the house average by $4,550.

"San Francisco," in its fourth and last week at Loew's, finally surrendered the weekly top honors, slipping down to $8,500, or just $500 below par. Only "The Birth of a Nation," which holds the record, has had a longer run here.

The weather continued extremely warm. This aided first run business because many dropped into theatres to cool off. The Municipal Opera in Forest Park continued the chief opposition.

Total first run business was $50,150. Average is $39,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending July 23:

See American Firms Making Austria Films

By HANS LORANT

Vienna, July 29.—The production of musical films here by American companies and the expansion of the American market for Austrian pictures of high quality were negotiated by Dr. Lanske, president of Austrian Filmkonferenz, during a recent trip to the United States, Dr. Lanske reported on his return here.

The company which he heads is the most important film organization in the country. He pointed out in a radio speech that while American product gained in the Austrian market during the past season, Austrian films showed no improvement in the U. S. market. The negotiations he undertook, he declared, were in line with the Government's plan to improve that situation by agreement rather than by the imposition of more stringent regulations regarding the import of American films into Austria.

American Films Popular

While German product in Austria during the past season declined heavily in popularity, American pictures enjoyed almost unprecedented favor from native audiences, which was reflected at the box-office.

The biggest grosses among M-G-M films went to "Anna Karenina," "Broadway Melody," "Bonny Scotland" and "The Painted Veil." Twentieth Century-Fox owed the greater part of its box-office gains to Shirley Temple, "Curly Top," "Bright Eyes" and "The Little Colonel" all bringing high grosses. "George White's Scandals," on the other hand, was not popular.

Warners opened an office here about a year ago, and officials have expressed themselves as well pleased with results. They scored heavily with "A Midsummer Night's Dream," partly by reason of the fact that Max Reinhardt, its director, worked in Vienna for many years. "Captain Blood" was successful, while "Caliente" was not.

Deletions Hurt Chaplin Feature

"Monte Cristo" and "Les Miserables" were the most successful United Artists films. "Modern Times" was somewhat of a disappointment to local audiences, which may be accounted for by the deletion of important parts.

"No Greater Glory" and "It Happened One Night" were the winners for Columbia, which has no branch here but sells through several independent Austrian distributors.

Max Havas, central European manager for RKO, has declared that he is satisfied with the results shown in the first two months of the company's newly opened office here. "Top Hat" and "Roberta," both released during the two months, drew extremely well and established Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers high in the esteem of the Austrian film public. The Louis-Schmeling fight film, released by RKO as a feature, drew enormous crowds wherever it was shown.

Overseas Previews

"Gypsy Melody"

(British Artistic-Wardour)

London, July 28.—A light romance in a Ruritanian setting, featuring Alfred Rode and his Tzigani band, and Lupe Velez in song and dance. Plenty of comedy is supplied by Jerry Verno and although it is forced at the beginning of the film, it works up into real laugh-making. Rode lacks personality as a screen lover, but the music of his own violin and his gypsy orchestra is entrancing and the playing of the Second Hungary Rhapsody brought the house down.

The story is entertaining. Rode, of gypsy extraction, is captain of the guard and in a duel wounds the referee and is imprisoned. Escaping with Verno, who has sworn to follow him to the ends of the earth to collect a debt, he joins a gypsy camp. Falling in love with Miss Velez, he is driven away by the gypsy chief who is also in love with Lupe. Taking charge of a biergarten orchestra they are engaged by an American impresario and taken to London where the hotel scene gives scope for excellent comedy relief. On a subsequent Continental tour, the aeroplane in which they are travelling makes a forced landing in Ruritania and, having put his home town on the map by his successes abroad, Rode is welcomed back and the picture concludes with his marriage to Lupe at a gypsy ceremonial wedding attended by all the court entourage. The gypsy atmosphere and the music will put this picture over. Fred Duprez is fine as the American impresario.

Running time, 70 mins. "G."

"Guilty Melody"

(Franco-London.—A.B.F.D.)

London, July 23.—This is a romantic spy drama with Gitta Alpar as the operatic heroine, John Loder as the intelligence officer in love with her and suspected because of his association with the wife of a known spy and Nils Asther the spy, supposedly dead and returning to act as impresario for the opera star and, through her, sending information. Miss Alpar is arrested after the Covent Garden performance of "Rigoletto" and the best scene in the picture is her singing of Gounod's Ave Maria in prison on Christmas morning.

The villain is unmasked and shot while posing as a member of the intelligence corps in a raid on his own apartment leaving the way clear for a happy ending for the two stars. Unrelieved by comedy and appealing only to music lovers.

Running time, 77 mins. "G."

Hope Williams.

In the event exhibitors are found violating the law, Moss said their regular operating licenses will be revoked and fines imposed. The commissioner stressed the fact that now that the law has been passed for admitting children under certain conditions, exhibitors should cooperate with the department by securing the necessary licenses for theatres and matrons.

See New Unit Replacing Two Local Groups

Plan May Be Solution To Exhibitor Problem

Discussions between committee members of the T.O.C.C. and the I.T.O.A. on the merger of the exhibitor units are expected to result in the dissolution of the two organizations and the formation of a new association comprised of all exhibitors in the local area.

While it is generally agreed one strong organization is needed to combat inimical legislation and other adverse matters which come up from time to time, it is said that the setups of many important independent circuits will not permit them to join a combination of two units. Some of the circuits are tied up with major affiliations. Others are linked with associates who have no use for one of the exhibitor groups.

However, to eliminate the objections which may prevent a merger of the T.O.C.C. and I.T.O.A. from going through, members of the commit-

No U.S. Film Confiscation By Spaniards

Assurance Is Given to Writer for Daily

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

BARCELONA, Aug. 5.—"You may assure MOTION PICTURE DAILY and Motion Picture Herald that there will be no socialization or confiscation of the American interests in the film group here," Jose Carner Ribalt, newly appointed Commissioner of Public Spectacles of Catalonia declared to this correspondent today.

"We propose to rebuild on the old structure, not tear it down," Ribalt continued. "There will be regulation and intervention only in the sense that the Interstate Commerce Commission regulates American railways, and undoubtedly the establishment of quotas and the enactment of contingent laws will follow as in other countries."

"The production by the American group may prove the solution to the frozen money situation," he said.

Ribalt went on to say that the position of the native Spanish film industry is bad, since its backers, adherents of the old regime, have fled, leaving the companies virtually bankrupt.

"Certain studios, like theatres, may

Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of Twentieth Century-Fox, sailed on the Normandie yesterday for London to expedite consummation of the Loew-Fox deal for G.B. "I am going so that it won't take too long," he said in reply to a query, adding he had no idea exactly how long he would be on the other side.

His brother, Nicholas M. Schenck,

Court Clears Fox Midwest Of Conspiracy

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 5.—Judge Otis late today found for the defendants in the suit of Emanuel Rolsky charging conspiracy against Fox Midwest and major distributors. The court held that the facts and circumstances brought out at the trial were as consistent with innocence of conspiracy on the part of the defendants as with guilt.

Judge Otis held that the methods followed in drawing up contracts between Fox Midwest and the distributors was fully and satisfactorily explained and that it was to the pecuniary interest of each distributor to contract with the Fox circuit because its business was worth all the combined business of subsequent run exhibitors.

It was pointed out by the court that

Johnston Pact With Republic Is Terminated

Settlement Reached and He Studies New Plans

W. Ray Johnston

W. Ray Johnston's contract as president of Republic, an outgrowth of Monogram, has been terminated, leaving him free to pursue other plans which, by persistent report, provide for a re-entry into the industry of his former company under its former name.

His pact, which had until Dec. 23, 1936, to run, has been settled following discussions with Herbert J. Yates, president of Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., and chief financial factor in Republic. For several months Johnston's sphere of active duty as head of Republic has been curtailed. For that length of time it has been more or less taken for granted in the New York trade that severance of his relations with the company was

By RED KANN

While in London

HAND-PUMPING at the Cinema Luncheon Club, monthly or so function at the Trocadero sponsored by the London and Home Counties Branch of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association, of which Ken Nyman is chairman and whose guest this day we are: W. A. Fuller, general secretary of the C. E. A.; George Archibald, secretary and a director of United Artists; Arthur S. Moss, general manager of John Maxwell's A. B. C. circuit, 245 or more strong; Arthur Jarratt, booker of the G. B. string which totals about 350, a director of Provincial Cinematograph Theatres, Ltd., which led into the G. B. chain and an extremely important executive of England's largest circuit; David Ostrer, general manager of Gaumont British Distributors; Phil Hyams, first run operator whose properties include the Trocadero, theatre not restaurant, at Elephant and Castle, which is a street address; the Troxette and Troxy, all in the Greater London area and associated with the Ostrers and now the Schencks in what is known as G. B. Super Cinemas; Mickey, Phil's brother, manager of the Troc and now on his first visit to America with other members of the C. E. A.; Alfred Davis, who runs the 4,500-seat Davis at Croydon, Britain's chief airport; Major Arthur Gale, the "G" in H. (for Hyams), and G. Kinemas, Ltd.; James Montgomery Beck, Hays office representative here; Bob Cheatham, independent whose holdings are small theatres immediately outside London. . . .

Lou Morris, whose chain is growing steadily, also among the new and among those known over the years or met here earlier; Theodore H. Fligelstone, president of the C. E. A.; Cecil Bernstein of the circuit bearing that name; Bill Gell, managing director of Pathe, a distributing subsidiary of B. I. P.; Arthur Dent, managing director of Wardour, second of the separately maintained distributing units controlled by B. I. P. which is the same as saying Maxwell; and Simon Rowson. Sellers and buyers mixing freely, all apparently well fed and happy, bearing the earmarks of one big, understanding family which they are not. On opposite sides of the fence, one damns the other. Just like America. Or France. Or any other place. Geography has nothing at all to do with it. . . .

More of the same thing, but all of it pleasant, this occasion being the luncheon following Ambassador Bingham's presentation of the Quigley Grand Award plaque to John Armstrong, neé the Paramount, London, neé publicity director for Radio; Ralph Hanbury, managing director for Radio on our right, and G. W. Dawson, a director, also secretary of the same company; Neville Kearney, secretary of the Film Producers' Group, Federation of British Industries and a pleasant chap even if his principals do want a fifty percent quota on foreign, including American, distributors, on our left; D. C. Dobie, sales manager of First National, but now representing D. E. Griffith, F. N. head and also president of the K. R. S.; Frank Hill, secretary of that distributors' association; Arthur Taylor, secretary of the C. E. A.'s London and Home Counties Branch, obviously its biggest and most influential; Eddie Klein and Percy Phillipson, the one Englishman who never carries an umbrella or wears rubbers. Not that the climate tells him nay. . . .

And still more: Julius Hagen, boss of Twickenham; Bert Mason, finishing "The Nelson Touch" with Arliss, but not always a director. Mark Ostrer informs he once produced revues for Andre Charlot and Charles Cochran, then stage shows for G. B. theatres, now pictures for G. B. theatres and others. Roy Kalino, "lighting expert" here, cameraman in America, married to one of Ostrer's nieces; Dillon Damen, one-time publicity director for Warners, now, like many others, about to forage in production as the Dillon Damen Production Corporation, Ltd., with the Hon. John Benson on his board; sounds all right, supposed to be formidable and probably is. Everybody has a title in England, it seems. . . .

Many send their regards to Doug Leishman, former managing director for Radio, now in New York. . . . Harry Woolf asks to be remembered kindly to Harry Bernstein; this does that. . . . Mrs. Morris charges Billy with sending "enigmatic cables" and fails to go beyond. "Have you met any Britishers here?" she inquires. "You have? Isn't that quaint." . . . Jack Barnstyn, lunching at the Troc and now in Holland for a three weeks' holiday. Which reminds that we failed to have dinner at the Savoy after all. . . . Morris Gest without tails and white tie, but back to his black one, plus the rumpled shirt—the accepted Gestian equipment. . . . Kent and Hampshire strawberries are peerless. As we discover that, we also discover Don Mersereau's ship wireless for what it was—gag value only. . . . La Cava, startling some of his neighbors, by yelling "What! No hamburger?" across the Savoy Grill which you always get back to, no matter what the intermediate stops may be. . . .

Eugene Pallette in the same hostelry. In the grill on one occasion, Bob Kane in charge of production here for Twentieth Century-Fox—it's called New World Pictures, but won't be called anything when the G. B. deal gets working—entertaining the Nunnally Johnsons, ex-shipboard mates and now back in Hollywood. Monta Bell, ex-Paramount director, another there. Dudley Murphy, ex-Hollywood director, among the flock of former Gold Coasters in London, looking better than ever we have seen him and liking life as it is lived along the Thames. . . .

Are any film people left in Hollywood or New York? London is choked with them. These roving eyes have caught Bob Rubin, ensconced in our own hotel and due to return to New York about Labor Day; Helen Hayes and Charlie MacArthur touring the lobby at Claridge's; Irving Caesar, on a table-to-table tour at the Savoy Grill shaking hands; Lou Holtz, with a tall, blondeful; Irving Berlin and his wife, Ellin Mackey; Bill Howard, directing "Fire over England" for Pendennis Prod. which is Erich Pommer which is London Films; Walter Futter, geared in high, marveling at picture house business in the West End and talking about producing a picture here, as who isn't?. . . . Thornton Delehanty, critic of The New York Evening Post, reporting he's having a whale of a time and looking for Tay Garnett, who is interrupting his around-the-globe cruise to direct "High Treason" for Doug Fairbanks, Jr., and Criterion Films after a trip to Norway. It'll pay expenses anyway. . . .

Jessie Matthews goes to New York in September, there to holiday and do four air shows over Columbia Broadcasting. It will be her first visit since '29 when she did "Wake Up and Dream" on the stage. Music from her current film, "Head over Heels" will get the ether plug. Trust Jimmy Campbell.

Dismissal Denied in DuArt Contract Suit

Judge Robert Patterson in Federal Court yesterday signed an order denying a motion to dismiss an amended complaint in a $1,000,000 action brought by DuArt Film Laboratories, Inc., and Arthur Gottlieb against Consolidated Film Industries.

The new complaint charges that Universal made arrangement to lease the laboratories and equipment of DuArt and to employ the plaintiff, Gottlieb, as operator, but after negotiations had been completed, Universal advised the plaintiff that a subsidiary, "U" Film Laboratories would execute the agreement in its behalf. The complaint charges that Consolidated Film Industries in order to get Universal's business for itself persuaded that company to break the agreement. The original complaint was dismissed as insufficient.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"China Clipper"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5.—Splendid team work by director, cast and producer turns this aviation saga into gripping entertainment that should hold any audience.

Pat O'Brien, portrayed as the guiding genius who conceives the idea of spanning the Pacific, gives a performance which arouses sympathy despite the nature of the character which he interprets—a man with a fixed idea for whom every personal feeling must be sacrificed.

O'Brien splits with his wife, Beverly Roberts, and his co-workers, Humphrey Bogart and Ross Alexander. He finally drives Henry B. Walthall, an inventor, to his death in order to realize his ambition.

Throughout these stirring incidents the creation of the Clipper constantly shadows the background and reaches a climax when, after intense and concentrated labor, the giant ship is finally brought forth and takes off on its maiden voyage.

Raymond Enright, director, blends incidents with strong dramatic effect, pausing only occasionally for comedy relief introduced by Marie Wilson. Frank Weads' story, while admittedly fiction, may eventually be accepted as the true story of the Clipper, so powerfully is it written.

Production values are good and the photography by Arthur Edeson is outstanding. The supporting cast, carefully chosen, includes Addison Richards, Carlyle Moore, Jr., and Joseph Crehan.

The picture offers endless exploitation possibilities and should satisfy all classes of audiences.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,227. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"A Son Comes Home"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5.—A seriously toned character drama, this seems destined to be appreciated by patrons liking and understanding solid, substantial entertainment. Keyed to a sympathy-stirring pitch, the heart-tugging story is exceptionally well acted by Mary Boland, Donald Woods, Julie Hayden, Wallace Ford and Anthony Nace with the entire supporting cast contributing convincing performances.

The plot is powerful and appealing. Taking an unusual situation, it treats it in straight-from-the-shoulder fashion and preserves its dramatic quality, resulting in legitimate sentiment which endows the film with gripping, human interest.

Miss Boland is very effective in her first dramatic film role, an angel of the San Francisco waterfront. John Wray, a gas station attendant, is killed and Woods, innocently implicated, is arrested. Looking for help, he tries to pass himself off as Miss Boland's runaway son, but the mother quickly detects the ruse. Believing the boy innocent, she starts a search for the real killer, aided by Ford, a reporter befriending Woods. Through Woods' recognition of the resemblance of the killer to a picture of Miss Boland's husband, Nace, the real son, is trapped on a ship. In a vivid, climactic sequence with tense drama motivating the scene, Miss Boland refuses a frantic and brutal appeal of her own son. Her sense of justice prevails and permits Nace to die that the innocent Woods may live.

A drama predominates, there is little comedy relief and only a meager suggestion of romance between Woods and Miss Hayden. However, the work of the cast endows the picture with believable realism that held a preview audience in hushed silence. As adapted from a Harry Hervey story from a screen play by Sylvia Thalberg, directed by E. A. Dupont and produced by Albert Lewis, "A Son Comes Home" is a sincere blending of fundamental dramatic elements supplying showmen with something legitimate to sell and patrons with a story to enjoy.

Short Subjects

"March of Time No. 8"

(RKO)

The March of Time continues to rove about the world, and returns each time from its wanderings with material which emerges from the hands of editor, cutter and studio in a fashion to engage the attention and interest, and often enough, gain applause.

If somewhat less replete with dramatic episode than have been other issues, this latest, nevertheless, is of live and lively interest and a real measure of significance. And behind the subject matter, perhaps as vital to the appeal of the subject as a whole, is the manner of its presentation.

Political, economic and social phases are treated in this issue, with Albania, the south's cotton industry and the rapid rise of the trailer, respectively, the focal points.

The high importance of Albania, strategically located 40 miles across the Adriatic from Italy, south of Yugoslavia, west of Greece, and the man who rules the country, Zog I, a king of his own making, form the backbone of the episode.

The manner in which the southern people, landowners, tenant farmers, share croppers and negro laborers alike, have become the victims of the one-crop tradition of the south is told in an episode which makes the point that in view of the depletion of the world market for southern cotton, the surpluses which have piled up in warehouses, the south faces a serious economic situation.

The trailer, says Roger Babson, may be the only home of half of the country's population within 20 years, and March of Time details, in interesting and occasionally, amusing manner, the growth of the trailer, first as a simpler and more substantial camping home, then as an industry, which in the past year, more than taxes the facilities of 300 manufacturers. Camp site facilities and the range of comforts provided in the trailer of today present an enticing, and perhaps significant picture.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Two in a Crowd"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5.—An interesting comedy-romance for audiences and offering exploitation material for showmen, this film is light and airy with considerable fun in the romance situations, hints of melodrama and plenty of excitement.

The engaging quality of the story by Lewis Foster has been maintained in the screen play by Foster, Doris Malloy and Earle Snell. Alfred Green's direction is smart and the result is an entertaining picture.

Joel McCrea, horse owner who is broke, and John Bennett, similarly situated, each come into possession of a torn half of a $1,000 bill. Neither trusts the other and they jointly buy a horse. There is lively action as they try to stay out of the clutches of Nat Pendleton, detective, and keep out of the way of gangsters Bradley Page and Tyler Brooke, the bill being a portion of their loot.

With the assistance of Andy Clyde, they finally get the horse ready for the big race. It wins and Miss Bennett and McCrea complete their romance while the gang lands in jail.

Name values are important, with the support featuring Reginald Denny, Alison Skipworth, Henry Armetta and Donald Meek. Comedy is the element to be stressed in the selling.

and signing of this agreement, which is dated Jan. 28, 1931.

Leitsteen testified that Daniel G. Rosenblatt, attorney, dictated the wording of the first draft and that Leitsteen personally did the typing. When Rosenblatt expressed amazement over this, the bookkeeper explained that it was "very confidential." He said he delivered the agreement to Fox at his apartment.

He said he saw Fox indorse the stock certificates. When David Katz of creditors' counsel asked that the agreement "be turned over to the trustee temporarily for thorough examination," Murry C. Becker of Fox counsel flatly refused, declaring that it belonged to Mrs. Fox.

The books of Home Pictures Equipment, Inc., American Tri-Ergon Corp., and other Fox concerns were ordered turned over to the trustee.

VOL. 40. NO. 32 NEW YORK, FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 1936 TEN CENTS

End "Early Bird" Prices; Night Scale On at 5 P. M.

N. Y. Major Chains and Independents Agree To Standardize

"Early bird" admissions in the metropolitan area will be eliminated and evening prices will uniformly begin at 5 P. M. at all major and independent theatres starting Sept. 4 and Sept. 5, it was decided yesterday at a special meeting at C. C. Moskowitz's office in the Loew Bldg.

The agreement is the first of its kind reached by major and unaffiliated exhibitors in this territory in years. While the major circuits have from time to time cooperated with the independents on adverse legislation battles, the unanimity on the question of admissions is the first in the last 10 years.

As a result of the agreement, all theatres which usually open with a low admission in the morning and early in the afternoon change to an intermediate figure before putting the evening price scale into effect will do away with the in-between price. In other words, if a theatre usually opens in the morning with a 10 cent admission and around one or two in the afternoon another five cents is added, the new understanding is that the 15-cent figure will be the opening price. The only other hike in the admission for the day will be the 5 P. M. tariff, which virtually is the evening charge.

Al Lichtman, assistant to Nicholas M. Schenck, and representing all the distributors, told the circuit and independent theatre men that every company would cooperate 100 per cent with the idea.

Last year, the same theatre men met at the Astor on discussions along the same lines. No one would agree to Legality of Zoning Seen Established

K. C. Decision Viewed as Clearing Issue

The affirmation by a Federal court, of the legality of the principle of clearance was seen here yesterday as the factor of paramount importance which came out of the decision on Wednesday of Federal Judge Otis in Kansas City in dismissing the action of Emanuel Rolsky against Fox Midwest and major distributors.

It was pointed out that the Kansas City case was the first in which the particular question of the legality of clearance was decided by a court aside from the factor of conspiracy. In this instance, Judge Otis' decision declared that all evidence brought out at the trial was as consistent with innocence of conspiracy as with guilt, and thus dismissed the action relative to the alleged conspiracy as charged by the plaintiff.

However, on the pure question of law, Judge Otis determined that a distributor controlling a copyrighted film has the privilege of selling to an ex-

Hess Hails Verdict In the Rolsky Suit

10th Year of Sound

Warners will celebrate the 10th anniversary of sound films today at the home office and in the coast studio. The anniversary is based on the first public showing of "Don Juan," which had a synchronized musical score, and an accompanying short in which Will H. Hays predicted a revolution in screen entertainment.

The following October "The Better 'Ole" was released with a synchronized score, and in 1927 Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer," with a few words of dialogue and singing, appeared. Dialogue increased thereafter.

Johnston's Plans Not Set, He Says

W. Ray Johnston, who yesterday retired as president of Republic and immediately moved into the offices of Monogram, of which he is head, in the RKO Bldg., hasn't any definite plans for the future, he said yesterday.

Cullman to Stay in Plan For Roxy Reorganization

Howard S. Cullman, trustee, and Harry C. Arthur will continue to operate the Roxy under a plan of reorganization unanimously approved by the bondholders' committee, it was learned yesterday. The plan will come up before Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey on Oct. 9.

A letter is being sent out to the bondholders of the Roxy this weekend by the committee. In it will be contained a statement of operation of the theatre since the corporations went into reorganization under 77B. The plan of reorganization, including a management contract with Cullman and Arthur, will state that the RFC has promised to make $750,000 available for reorganization purposes.

The usual procedure in cases of reorganization requires from 90 to 120 days from date of application to effectuate the plan.

According to a report by Amott Baker & Co., the Roxy earned 4.78 per cent on approximately $3,500,000 first mortgage bonds for the year ended June 11.

Under the name of Artco, Arthur today has a management contract with Cullman as trustee to operate the Roxy for the bankruptcy period.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

IT may be the lure which is in celluloid. Maybe, the realization of the propaganda power of the screen. Or merely the unromantic business of increasing profits. Perhaps it is a combination of several, but the fact is there, indisputable and clear, that some of England's wealthiest interests are actively in the film business. The story of the Pinewood studio, now building with a rush at Iver, Bucks, less than twenty miles from the heart of London, supplies proof. . . .

Lieutenant-Colonel W. Grant Morden died a couple of years ago. He was at one time politically allied, and importantly, too, with David Lloyd George. The stories are several as to how Morden acquired his vast wealth and they have little to do with this account. However, he did purchase Pinewood, submitted it to a Croesus-like application of furnishings and art treasures and proceeded to inhabit it. The house with its forty-odd bedrooms; its indoor swimming pool lapped by heated water; its Turkish baths, ballroom, silver services, knee-deep rugs, statuary, formal gardens and pomp is a flagrant display of wealth on a rampage. Subsequently, it passed into the hands of Charles Boots of Henry Boots and Son, Nottingham, one of the nation's biggest builders with 250,000 structures to his record and realtor extraordinary.

J. Arthur Rank is the so-called "Miller King" of England. Flour gave him his money and made him a millionaire—not in dollars, but in pounds which can make quite a margin of difference. Lady Yule is doing quite all right on her own. Both of them, for some time now, have been the bankroll behind British National Films. Both of them are ardent Methodists, so ardent that their fervor is apt to break out in the form of production for their church almost any moment now. Rank, it should be pointed out further, is in on the Woolf-General Film Distributors end of the Cowdin-Rogers-Ramish-Universal purchase. . . .

Now the threads join together. The initial step was purchase of Pinewood by Boots. Later, a coalition with Rank which is definite and perhaps with Lady Yule which is not quite so certain. From it came the decision to build a $3,750,000 studio around the house with one wall of the plant, as a matter of fact, kissing a convenient end of the former Morden country home. Shortly thereafter and probably through Woolf of G. F. D., British and Dominions, which has not had the smoothest of sailing these last few years, entered the studio picture. Captain, the Honorable, Richard Norton, associate of Herbert Wilcox, in B. and D., became managing director of the proposed plant. . . .

Nine hundred men were actively on the job the day we visited. Norton had a meeting in the City, which is London's Wall Street. He talked while we did the eating, interposing a question or two between gulps of roast beef; then he bowed out and turned us over to Jimmy Sloan, general manager of the plant and at the same time production manager of British National. We learned about Pinewood from Sloan. Work was launched in December; Wilcox is expected to start the regime with an Anna Neagle film some time late in this month. Three stages, each 165 by 110 by 35 feet, modeled generally after the RKO layout in Hollywood, are planned. Two are finishing, while excavation for the last of the trio is under way. Additionally, two smaller stages, each 110 by 85, will swell the total to five. More can be added whenever necessary. . . .

This elaborate venture, not far from Alex Korda's new plant at Denham, has forty-five acres over which to spread its wings. The buildings for the usual purposes will total twenty-five, all permanently covered by glass roofing; nobody knows when the next rain will fall in Britain, or how much. The back wall of the power plant—Pinewood will generate its own—having been completed is being kicked out at once, which apparently is normal tactics in London as well as in Hollywood, to make room for a generating system twice the original in size. This is to assure adequate juice in the event color, suddenly and without warning, should smack its way into British production.

The sound will be Western Electric. The dressing rooms will lead directly onto the various stages—the rain again. No Margaret Sullavans will trip, break an arm and cost a Paramount a couple of hundred thousand in this plant, for no electrical and sound cables will clutter the studio floor. Between the shooting height and the actual stage ceiling, quarters for electricians have been worked out. The idea may have been applied before, but we think not. It appeared interesting and utilitarian and, therefore, perhaps a pointer for Hollywood when new stages are blueprinted. Novel and clever, too, is "Sloan's Ramp." Excavation mud and muck were turned into the back lot, instead of carted away, and from the pile Sloan built a long approach rising about a dozen feet over the ground and heading into the sky for future horizon shots. . . .

Set as occupants are British National and B. and D., naturally. Norton stated Bob Kane, who is competing his first New World effort at Denham, comes here for his second and may be others beyond, the G. B. deal permitting. But Pinewood is designed as well as a studio available for all comers, provided they fulfill the obvious requirement which is price. The original house is to be operated as a club by a separate company for the convenience of units occupying the stages. Thus, Pinewood is to become a film manufacturing plant as well as a hotel. Time will tell whether one or both or either proves successful. In the meantime, the countryside adjacent to the studio development is pleasant and eye-filling. One of these days, the expectancy is that Boots' bungalows will become part of the landscape. . . .

Rugoff's office in the RKO Bldg. As soon as this group formulates a plan, it will be submitted to the original committees which will pass on it before it is put up to the general membership of both organizations.

The new organization will not be an outgrowth of the two local units, but an entirely new association. Several independent circuit heads have already stated they will not join the new outfit unless it is free of some of the obligations and by-laws of each of the existent associations.

Major circuits will not be represented in the new body. The personnel will be decided upon by the general membership of the T.O.C.C. and I.T.O.A. The final draft is not expected to be ready until after Labor Day. Sessions of committees will be held at least once a week, under the present plan, until the job is completed.

Wm. Fox Hearing to Resume on August 18

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 6.—After another halting exploration into a maze of interwoven smaller corporations, the William Fox bankruptcy hearing adjourned today until Tuesday, Aug. 18.

Meanwhile, the arguments over producing the All-Continent Corp. books, planned for next Tuesday, were postponed a day until Wednesday, Aug. 12. At that time, W. Elmer Brown, Jr., counsel to Trustee Hiram Steelman, will represent the latter, who asks an order turning over to him the All-Continent records for examination and auditing.

Former Circuit Judge Clarence L. Cole, also of this city, and Murry C. Becker of New York, will represent Mrs. Fox and her two daughters who, as officers of All-Continent, have refused to reveal its affairs. Under the present order by Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle, All-Continent must "show cause" why it should not open its books.

The argument is expected to reemphasize the assertion by one side that Fox transferred All-Continent outright five years ago to his family, and by the other side that the $6,000,000 transfer was not genuine.

Mrs. Fox to Appear Aug. 18

The resumption Aug. 18 of the examination of assets is the next date at which Mrs. Fox and her daughters, Mrs. Mona Tauszig and Mrs. Belle Schwartz, are summoned to appear. Whether they will be excused again for another two weeks or submitted to questioning may be determined by the outcome of next Wednesday's argument.

Corporations mentioned today, mostly asserted to have once been owned by Fox, but to have passed to All-Continent, include: Dougmilt Realty, Mitchell Camera, 455 W. 56th St. Corp., America Tri-Ergon, Home Pictures Equipment, Fox Chicago Realty, Namtaw Realty, Georgetown Holding, Transient Garage, Consolidated Geological Products, Hald Grandeur and William Fox Holding Corp.

Bookkeeper Herbert Leitsteen was instructed to bring all their available books to the next hearing.

Atlas Pays 40c. Again

Because of improvement in business conditions over a two-year period, Atlas Corp. has gone on a semi-annual dividend basis, according to Floyd B. Odlum's report. The latest payment is 40 cents on the common, the same amount that was voted in February. It is payable Sept. 5 to holders of record Aug. 15.

Asset value is given as $11.08 a share on June 30, 1935, and $16.01 per share at the end of June this year.

The corporation also has declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the $3 preferred payable Sept 1 to holders of record Aug. 15.

Circuit Creditors Meet

DENVER, Aug. 6.—The creditors of the bankrupt Mountain States Theatre Corp., the old Colorado Publix unit, will hold their last meeting on Aug. 19, when several claims will be considered, including those of attorneys for $5,500 for services, and of J. F. Welborn, Stockton Lowndes and L. J. Finske for $3,504.74, an amended claim for services as trustees during the bankruptcy.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Stagestruck"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6.—Substituting comedy and fast tempo for the extravagant production numbers formerly used in this type of Warner musical, this picture emerges as satisfying entertainment. Although essentially a backstage story, director Busby Berkeley has restrained production massiveness to concentrate on swift comedy punches which are expertly delivered by Joan Blondell, Frank McHugh and Warren William with hilarious moments injected by the Yacht Club Boys, who panic with two numbers of their own. Beautiful girls in large numbers are constantly in the background but are shown principally in rehearsal.

The plot concerns the romance between Dick Powell, dance director, and Jeane Madden, a country girl who rises from a chorus job to play the star part on the opening night. The theme is trite, but is softened by incidents played for laughs which have Miss Blondell as the star who vacates her part, William as the producer and McHugh as Powell's assistant, all involving themselves in trouble of every sort before the climax is reached.

Miss Madden, making her debut, has a splendid voice and a charming personality. Tom Buckingham and Frank Flick have written a good screenplay from the Robert Lord original while the tunes by E. Y. Hayburg and Harold Arlen are catchy. Craig Reynolds, John Arthur and Spring Byington are best in support. When tightened to program length the film should please.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,074. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

"Star for a Night"

(Wurtzel-20th-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6.—An appealing combination of sentimental drama, gay comedy and lively backstage action, this should be enjoyable entertainment for any kind of audience. The film contains familiar elements, which are nevertheless presented in novel fashion and offer wide opportunity for exploitation by the showman.

The cast, as a whole, turns in an excellent set of performances. Serious in part, but largely light comedy, the picture has good pace, with numerous clever situations and engaging dialogue, and a musical show touch or two thrown in.

In Austria, sightless Jane Darwell believes that her children in America are personages in the arts and business. Actually, Claire Trevor is a chorus girl, Evelyn Venable a 10-cent store song plugger, and Dean Jagger a taxi driver. Without warning them, Miss Darewell arrives, and led by Miss Trevor, the children attempt to maintain the deception.

An eye specialist, J. Edward Bromberg, attracted to Miss Venable, starts to treat Miss Darwell. Miss Trevor, with the help of showgirl friends Arline Judge, Susan Fleming and Joyce Compton, conspire to arrange it so that Miss Trevor will succeed the star, Astrid Allwyn, in Alan Dinehart's musical. Their plan works, in a hectic stage scene, and Bromberg's operation is successful. The happiness almost turns tragic as Miss Darwell disappears, only to be found in a walk-up flat, where she shows her appreciation for the efforts of her children.

The screenplay of Francis Hyland and Saul Elkins, from a Continental play, gives the film a typical American atmosphere. Lewis Seiler, in the direction, made the most of his material.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,420. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

RKO Asks a Dismissal

Counsel for RKO Pictures Corp. filed a petition in Federal Court yesterday asking dismissal of the $500,000 defamation suit brought against the company by Claire H. Davis, also known as Cassandra. Her complaint charges that "Bunker Bean" portrayed her as a fake clairvoyant. RKO Pictures Corp. asserts that the suit fails to state a cause of action.

"Scotland" Grosses $100,500 1st Week

"Mary of Scotland" was the best bet on Broadway last week, garnering $100,500, as expected, in the first week at the Music Hall. "The Road to Glory," which opened big at the Rivoli, will do better than $40,000. The second week of "Return of Sophie Lang" ended with around $5,000.

"Rhythm on the Range" at the Paramount tallied approximately $35,000 for the first stanza. Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra are helping the gross, too. "Three Cheers for Love" at the Roxy got about $25,000. "The Final Hour" at the Rialto ended with about $6,000.

"Bengal Tiger" at the Strand was mild at $11,000. After one week, it was replaced by "Jail Break." "The Bride Walks Out" and "Grand Jury" at the Palace wound up with about $8,000.

Big Italian Firm Formed as Producer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—With the participation of American interests, a new Italian company, capitalized at 100,000,000 lire (approximately $8,000,000) has been formed for film production, according to a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from Commercial Attache C. A. Livingood in Rome.

The interests sponsoring the enterprise, the report points out, are not planning to build studios, as they will use the Italian plant in the proposed Cinema City, near Rome.

It is understood locally, the report states, that production is not expected to begin before next spring. Plans are said to contemplate the engagement of an American star for the company's first venture. According to the managers, the product will be designed for the international market.

He said he would talk over a new arrangement with Walter J. Hutchinson, head of foreign activities for Twentieth Century-Fox, when both sail from the coast on the Monterey on Aug. 19.

Looking 'Em Over

"La Cieca Di Sorrento" (The Blind Girl of Sorrento)

(Nuovo Mondo)

Adapted from a popular Italian novel written in 1875 by Francesco Mastriani, this latest importation is an entertaining, well-produced drama. The use of English subtitles makes for ready understanding of the story, and yet, not strikingly outstanding, it is perhaps suited only to audiences who understand the Italian language.

Set in Naples in 1834 and 1844, the film tells the dramatic story of political conspiracy, murder, the blindness of a girl and the eventual uncovering of the guilty man as he is about to marry the daughter of the woman he murdered.

The film appears indicative of a trend in Italian production away from the costume type and historical material toward more active and truly entertaining subject matter. The film is technically of good quality.

When the small girl's mother is murdered by a burglar, an innocent man, circumstantially involved, dies rather than reveal the identity of fellow conspirators in politics. His son leaves the country, while the girl is stricken blind. Ten years later the young man, now a surgeon, returns and falls in love with the blind girl. Eventually, when he restores her sight, she recognizes the murderer, clearing the way for their romance.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

"Idaho Kid"

(Colony Pictures)

Routine western material, this should be found satisfactory, especially among the weekend patrons, meaning the youngsters, and those adults who find entertainment in the fast action of the hard riders and two-gun gentry of the screen's perennial west.

In this case, Rex Bell has the lead, Marion Shilling takes care of the romance with him and Dave Sharpe, Lafe McKee and Earl Dwire are among the supporting players.

The story finds Bell returning to the home which he left 20 years before when his father refused to have anything to do with him. He discovers that the feud between his father and the man who raised him as a boy when he was turned out, is as bitter as it ever was. Their fight is taking the form of attempts on the part of Bell's father to drive the other out of business.

Bell goes to work for his father, who fails to recognize him, and with plenty of action, hard riding and shooting before the conclusion, succeeds finally in bringing the two together, while he and Miss Shilling complete the film in expected fashion.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,386. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Overseas Preview

"The Amazing Guest"

(Garrett Klement-United Artists)

London, July 29.—This second Garrett Klement production, like the first, "A Woman Alone," is an efficient piece of production, moving smoothly, maintaining interest by a blending of comedy and sentimental values, and wasting no footage. A highly experienced Hollywood team could have handled the material no better.

Sentimental comedy, it has a good plot foundation in the E. Phillips Oppenheim story of a rich young man stung by a doctor's sarcasm into a year of voluntary poverty and working for his own living as a salesman, porter, chauffeur.

There is some real funny stuff in the employment of the good looking chauffeur to impersonate himself for the purpose of helping two crooks to rifle his own flat; comedy types are good all through and the dialogue is bright with a strong London flavoring.

The "fairy godfather" theme is appealing and not over-labored and the whole film is handled with a light hand. Cary Grant and Mary Brian owe much to the support of Marie Wright, Alfred Wellesley and Buena Bent and to the director, Alfred Zeisler and adaptor John L. Balderston. It is in fact well-written, well-cast and well-produced and the London accent should not stop it in America.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G." ALLAN

Seattle Bank Suit Settlement Allowed

Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe yesterday authorized settlement of a claim of the First National Bank of Seattle. The bank originally asked for $1,420,000, as trustee of the Paramount Theatre Bldg. in Seattle against the Paramount Publix Corp.

The terms of settlement allowed the claim at $60,000, and also the Evergreen State Amusement Corp., a subsidiary of F.W.C., to take a lease on this theatre for 10 years at $54,000 a year plus 15 per cent of the gross receipts in excess of $350,000. F.W.C. is to reimburse Paramount by the payment of $7,500 and $42,500 over a period of five years.

On Nov. 1, 1926, Seattle Theatre Corp., a subsidiary of Paramount, made a lease on this theatre for 25 years, beginning Feb. 1, 1928, at $116,000 a year. In 1930 F.W.C. subleased it at $120,854 a year. Then F.W.C. defaulted in 1932 and the lease fell back on Paramount, which also defaulted.

hibitor in a given area and giving to him the right to show it exclusively over a long or short period of time regardless of the admission charged at the theatre.

The plaintiffs had contended that, since they charged the same admission as the houses of Fox Midwest, which were competitive situations, they had the right to play any film day and date with Fox Midwest theatres. It is the privilege of the circuit to buy clearance over its competitors, the court ruled.

If the decision is upheld on review by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, to which W. G. Boatright, counsel for the plaintiffs, said he would take the case, it is expected to set a precedent in similar actions in the future, becoming thereby a ruling case, it was pointed out.

It is expected that the case will not be taken to the U. S. Supreme Court if the appeals tribunal sustains Judge Otis.

upheld what distributors long have contended to be their right in the distribution of films. The decision settles the much disputed question of law.”

In the opinion delivered from the bench after the close of the case, Judge Otis dismissed the plaintiffs’ complaint upon merits and upheld the legality of the practice of distributors in granting priority of run and right to license exclusively. He also stated that mere uniformity of action on the part of distributors in such a situation as was disclosed in the case did not establish conspiracy.

The exhibitors had claimed that the zoning and clearance granted to Fox Midwest eliminated day and date showing in subsequent runs and was a violation of the Sherman Act.

Producers May Act On Star Broadcasts

Hollywood, Aug. 6.—Action may be taken by the Producers’ Ass’n on exhibitor complaints that broadcasts by film stars are hurting box-office.

Two protests have been made recently, one from the Wisconsin I.E.P.A. and the other from the Southern California I.T.O.

It is understood that the subject was discussed at length at the producers’ meeting this week and that a committee was named to study the problem.

Oberon, Niven Teamed

Morris and Jessie

For a long time Morris Kinzler, publicity and advertising head at the Roxy, has wanted to meet Jessie Matthews—alone.

He confided this longing to Howard Cullman before leaving for Europe.

A few days ago Kinzler was ushered on the studio set where Miss Matthews was working in “Head Over Heels.” As soon as she heard his name she ordered all work stopped and asked everybody to leave the set—except Morris.

Then she turned those glowing orbs in his direction.

“Pull up a chair, Mr. Kinzler, I understand from Mr. Cullman that you want to be alone with me.”

And there they were!

Chicago Operators’ Pacts Up for Talks

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Contract parleys for the coming year between local exhibitor organizations and the Operators’ Union are slated for some time late this month.

For the past eight months the operators have been running under the agreement made in Jan., 1935. This arrangement was made in order to bring the Chicago contract expiration date up to the time of the other I.A.T.S.E. contracts throughout the country, which is Sept. 1.

Last winter the union asked for a 20 per cent increase. It is expected to make the same demands this fall, but exhibitors are understood to be against any raise at this time.

I. A. and R. & R. in Talks

Los Angeles, Aug. 6.—Negotiations have finally been opened between Robb and Rowley, subsequent run circuit in Pasadena, and Projectionists’ Local 150, I.A.T.S.E., following almost a year of picketing.

The picketing, which resulted from the circuit’s alleged hiring of non-union labor and payment of an unfair wage scale, was the longest in the history of the local I. A., and involved a court test in which a newsboy was cleared of Pasadena law violation for selling the union’s papers in the vicinity of the theatres.

A break in the situation is expected in a few days.

Ohio Cuts Only 20 Reels During July

Columbus, Aug. 6.—Of a total of 470 reels reviewed in July, the Ohio censors ordered eliminations in only 20 of them. For the week ending July 9, there were but two eliminations ordered in 131 reels.

The above figures compare with a total of 390 reels reviewed in June, in which 15 eliminations were ordered.

No Standard Sale Policy Survey Shows

Wisconsin ITPA Reports Questionnaire Results

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 7.—Results of a product questionnaire conducted by R. A. Tesch, business manager of the Independent Theatres Protective Assn. of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, among its members indicated that no one company has a standard sales policy, either national, state or local.

The questionnaire sought information from exhibitors on product bought, companies assessing score charges, on percentage pictures, preferred play dates, obligation to purchase shorts, trailers or news to get features and companies specifying block buying.

In addition to showing wide variations in the sales policies of the eight major companies treated in the questionnaire, M-G-M, Twentieth Century-Fox, Paramount, RKO, Columbia, Warners, United Artists and Universal, the survey indicated that every company makes some selective deals and that some exhibitors are given special cancellation privileges.

Exhibitors replying in the survey were not obligated to identify themselves or their situations.

Asks Cohn to Lead Broadcasting Drive

J. A. Davis, executive secretary of the Independent M.P.T.O. of Connecticut, has addressed a letter to Jack Cohn, vice-president of Columbia, asking the executive to take leadership in the exhibitor organization drive against the appearance of film stars on radio programs.

Davis, in the same letter, suggested that theatres and exhibitor organizations throughout the country send telegrams of protest directly to the stars at the broadcasting studios when they appear. Davis expressed the belief that the method will be more effective than protests to producers.

Enthusiasm and Amazement On Broadway 10 Years Ago

By CHARLES S. AARONSON

One warm evening in August, 10 years ago, an interested, smartly dressed crowd, buzzing with curiosity, moved slowly into the Warner Theatre on Broadway, and found seats for which they paid $10 each, a $10 which was possible only because people were curious, anxious to see what would happen when a pair of dice were rolled.

Figuratively standing behind the green-velvet-covered board were four men, the brothers Warner—Harry M., Major Albert, Sam and Jack L.—who for many a day had been shaking the dice, rolling them between their collective hands. The dice first had been prepared by the Western Electric Co. and the Bell Telephone Laboratories, which had learned many vital lessons from earlier failures.

The brothers Warner rolled the dice that night in August, the 7th to be exact, in 1926—and, snap, they made their point.

The audience sat spellbound at first, then applauded. Amazement was mixed with enthusiasm—and a new era had dawned. The screen had given voice. It was a revelation—and a revolution.

Many times, since first, out of the experiments here and abroad and the many trials and many failures, the motion picture came into being, there had been visions of a mechanism

Admiral Ginger

Dallas, Aug. 7.—She's Admiral Ginger Rogers down here—admiral in the Texas navy, whatever that is.

Barney Oldfield piloted her into town in a big way and she was almost swamped by autograph hunters.

Tomorrow she'll give out five commissions to commodores, the first since the Civil War.

And in the meantime—purely by chance, of course—Radio seems to be doing quite well with "Mary of Scotland."

Roxy 12-Month Net Up to $172,254.28

Net earnings of the Roxy for the year ended June 11, 1936, were $172,254.28, in comparison with $136,066.62 for the year previous and $54,453.32 for the year ended June 14, 1934, according to Amott, Baker & Co. This report will be sent to the bondholders of the Roxy on Monday in addition to a plan of reorganization which provides for a management contract with Howard S. Cullman and Harry C. Arthur for a number of years.

Included in the Amott, Baker report of July 7 are the figures for the assessed valuation of the property for the last four years. Each year the value has decreased, the 1936 figure being $3,500,000; for 1935, $3,650,000; for 1934, $3,850,000; for 1933, $4,300,000.

Studios Hold Pace With 48 Shooting

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 7.—All branches of studio production continued at high speed here last week with 48 features in work, the same as during the previous week. Twenty-four films were scheduled to go before cameras within two weeks, indicating no slackening of the fast production pace.

Seven new features started shooting. They were "Winterset" and "The Big Price Change Is Sought in B'way Houses

Operators to Be Asked To Join Movement

Operating heads of the Music Hall, Paramount, Roxy, Strand and Rialto will be contacted next week by exhibitor leaders to join in the plan to eliminate early bird admissions and to have all theatres put evening prices into effect at 5 P. M., it was learned yesterday.

No one connected with these theatres was invited to the parley held at C. C. Moskowitz's office in the Loew Bldg. last Thursday, the reason being that the sponsors of the move first wanted to have all the independents on record as in favor of the plan. It is scheduled to start Sept. 4 and Sept. 5, when program changes are made.

With C. C. Moskowitz, Al Lichtman, Marvin Schenck and Eugene Picker representing Loew's; Harry Brandt, the Brandt circuit; George Skouras, Skouras Theatres, and Nate J. Blumberg, RKO, the Capitol, State, Mayfair, Palace, Rivoli, and Globe automatically will do away with the in-between admission change duing the day and adopt the 5 P. M. price hike.

Work already has begun on contacting neighborhood theatres which are in competition to exhibitors who attended the conclave Thursday. Another meeting of the theatre leaders will be held next week to discuss progress of the movement. The I.T.O.A. at its next meeting Wednesday at the Astor will which could bring voice to the actors on the screen.

On that August night success had come at last, and the Warners, who had dug down and grasped the dice, took their chance—and won.

Yesterday, across a span of 10 years, Warners celebrated that August night in 1926, when those first words issued, though imperfectly, from the screen, and, amazingly enough, in synchronization with the movements of the lips of the screen's speakers.

The celebration yesterday was simple in the extreme, which is perhaps indicative of how readily we come to accept as ours, by some dower right, that which has come to make life more livable, more pleasant.

In New York, just a mention over a radio hookup from the lobby of the Warner Strand on Broadway. On the coast, at the seat of production, a few minutes' respite at midday on the sound stages at the Warner studio, a few quickly spoken words, then the control room, the sound mixers, the engineers resumed where they had left off, setting microphones—just making talking pictures.

During the 10 years, from the jumping off point that August night, there has arisen a newer and greater motion picture, one which dominates the entertainment media of the world; dominates it so completely today that its figures representing costs, admissions, attendance, grosses, are set in terms of millions and occasionally, billions.

Rise Meteoric

From "Don Juan" of Aug. 7, 1926, to "The Green Pastures" of August, 1936, was a period which brought the talking picture to the point of development where it has well nigh usurped the place of the spoken stage. In 10 short years was accomplished in the new technique far more than the screen had wrought for itself in the 30 years previous.

Permitting comparisons with the screen of today to develop obviously, let us step back 10 years to August, 1926, and see what happened then, and what the reactions were.

Although the feature picture that evening at the Warner was "Don Juan," with John Barrymore, and sound synchronized with the moving film, but without spoken dialogue, the piece de resistance of the program were the single reels which preceded it.

First was Will H. Hays, four years before elected to the presidency of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, who appeared on the screen and spoke briefly. It wasn't what he said that impressed the audience so much as the fact that they could see and hear him say it in shadows. He declared that "the future of motion pictures is as far-flung as all the tomorrows," and, viewed from today's standpoint of one of those tomorrows, he was right.

Michael J. Pupin, great Columbia University scientist, declared of Vitaphone, "No closer approach to resurrection has ever been made by science."

Other shorts on that program included an overture by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, appearances by Mischa Elman, Roy Smeck, Marion Talley, Harold Bauer, Efram Zimbalist, Anna Case and the Metropolitan chorus with the Cansinos. Giovanni Martinelli sang "Pagliacci," which reel was the sensation of the evening, bringing the audience to its feet.

Importance Apparent Immediately

The press was more than enthusiastic. Almost to a man or woman, the critics grasped the significance of what had been accomplished, greeted the inaugural program with hozzanahs, made wide and reckless use of adjectives, and predictions of a "new era," which, unlike most such prognostications, came true.

Entertaining were some of the reactions of leading showmen of the day when first they saw, and used in their theatres the new Vitaphone.

"The coming thing," said one. "We have made six separate installations," said a second. "It is not necessarily a big-town proposition," declared a third.

Warners prepared a "prospectus and work book" for Vitaphone, therein noted its branch offices and shipping points, listed four offices, mentioned two others "to be established" and noted that "other branches are to be established as required."

It would seem that those other branches were required.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Follow Your Heart"

(Republic)

Hollywood, Aug. 7.—Here is Republic's most lavish offering to date. The real showmanship employed in its production makes it a class attraction that will hold its own with all but the most elaborate specials. The story, cast and presentation are all of the big league variety, while the musical numbers, logically introduced, include both operatic and popular selections generously delivered by Marion Talley, late of the Metropolitan Opera Co.; Michael Bartlett and others. Additionally, there is splendid choral work contributed by the Hall Johnson Choir.

The plot concerns the adventures of a mad theatrical family. Nigel Bruce is the father, Luis Alberni the uncle and Margaret Irving the aunt of the children, Miss Talley, Vivienne Osborne and Mickey Rentschler. Of this group, Miss Talley seems to be the only person approaching normalcy. Betrothed to John Eldredge, she has difficulty in carrying on her romance because of frequent demands made on her by her kinfolk.

When Alberni returns home with a stranded show troupe Michael Bartlett, manager of the company, literally drafts the girl for a special performance given to raise funds. Eventually he wins her heart and persuades her to continue with the company as prima donna.

Nat Levine and his associates, Albert Levoy and Leonard Fields, have utilized their production expenditure to maximum advantage and the film should show a profitable return on the investment. The direction of Aubrey H. Scotto keeps the story moving swiftly after the basic elements have been established. The screen play is the joint work of Lester Cole, Nathaniel West and Samuel Ornitz from the idea of Dana Burnet. The new songs are by Victor Schertzinger and the dance numbers by Larry Ceballos. Endowed with both mass and class appeal, the picture should click generally.

Republicans Attack WPA's Film Program

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, Aug. 7.—The WPA contract for the making of films, awarded to Pathe News, and carrying a clause that the contractor shall give national newsreel distribution to one WPA film a month, last night was thrown into the Presidential campaign as a major issue by the Republican Committee.

The committee made public a report by Sydney MacKean, former director of the WPA film record division, disclosing that the Comptroller General had refused to approve expenditures for film until President Roosevelt sent him a letter authorizing Harry Hopkins, chief of Federal relief work, to make a picture record.

Limited to 12 "News Items"

Efforts by the WPA to get theatre publicity failed, MacKean said, only 12 "news items" being used in 10 months out of more than 170,000 feet of negative film used by WPA cameramen.

At the present time, WPA is said to have only about $26,000 for the making of pictures, which will carry the work through February, in which time six films may be made. The organization originally planned to spend about $90,000, which amount was refused by the Comptroller General. The contract was awarded to Pathe News at a price of $4,280 per 600-foot film, over the protest of Jam Handy Pictures that the distribution specification was so written as to make it impossible for the great majority of producers to make a satisfactory bid on the work.

be apprised of the development and each member will be asked to adopt the plan.

Some of the managing heads of the Broadway theatres which did not participate in the conference will not talk about their plans until they are approached in a formal manner. A spokesman for the Roxy stated that he had not been advised of the developments other than what he had read in Motion Picture Daily. That being the case, he said, the other theatres could do as they please, but the Roxy in no way would want to act in concert with others in any move. He said he did not know whether his business or show would warrant dropping the early bird price and instituting a 5 P. M. evening scale.

Weitman Non-Committal

Bob Weitman told Motion Picture Daily he did not know whether the Paramount would go for the idea and that he first would have to discuss the plan and find out what it's all about.

The Brooklyn downtown first run situation will present no problem. Si Fabian, who operates the three houses under a pooling arrangement, attended the exhibitor meeting and consented to adopt the move.

Lichtman yesterday denied he represented all the distributors at the session, declaring his job only permits him to act for M-G-M and Loew's. He did admit, however, that he was asked by Max Cohen about the distributors' attitude and he answered: "They will cooperate 100 per cent."

"Rich Girl" $10,000 Hit In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7.—It was the Fulton, reopening for the first time since the flood last March, that stole the spotlight here last week. In a non-refrigerated house, the only one downtown, "Poor Little Rich Girl" rolled up a sensational $10,000 and was held for a second week, with the possibility of a third.

The Warner, taking "The Green Pastures" after a profitable week at the Penn, did very nicely in six days, getting $5,850, while the Alvin continued to get a healthy boost from the weekly Bank Night and turned in $5,500 with "Secret Agent" and "Human Cargo." At the Penn, "Rhythm on the Range" was a disappointment at $8,500 and the Stanley couldn't better an ordinary $15,500 with "Three Cheers for Love" and Cab Calloway's band. This was $1,000 under par.

Theatre Deal In Australia Hanging Fire

So Says Doyle Prior to Departure to Coast

"The final determination of the future of General Theatres in Australia is not likely to be arrived at immediately," Stuart F. Doyle, managing director of Greater Union Theatres and associated companies which are pooled with Fox-Hoyts, statcd prior to his departure for the coast yesterday.

Doyle will sail from San Francisco on the Monterey on Aug. 19. On the same boat and headed for Australia will be Walter J. Hutchinson, head of the Twentieth Century-Fox foreign department. Preliminary discussions for extending the present five-year arrangement, which expires the end of next year, will be held on the boat with the ultimate decision to be left to the boards of Hoyts Theatres, Ltd., and Greater Union Theatres, Ltd.

See Long Delay for Fox Theatres' Plan

Although reports are current that a number of attorneys are working on plans of reorganization for Fox Theatres Corp., those close to the situation contend that the current financial condition of the corporation precludes furtherance of such plans for some time to come.

Fox Theatres has substantial interests in the Academy of Music and Fox, Brooklyn; Fox, Detroit, and a few other houses scattered in various key cities. Practically all theatres are leased to independent operators.

Milton C. Weisman, receiver for the circuit, some time ago said he would file a plan in the Federal court here, but it is believed that the matter has been set back until theatre conditions take a decided upturn.

Chance Games N. Y. Houses' Next Problem

Plans in Work to Drop Practice Entirely

With the major circuit and independent theatres definitely slated to drop early bird admissions and adopt a 5 P. M. evening price scale starting Sept. 4 and 5, the next important problem to be tackled by local theatre men will be chance games, it is learned.

Several of the independent circuits already have started to drop the practice in some of their units with plans on foot to do away with them entirely within the next few months, the head of one of the circuits told Motion Picture Daily over the weekend.

Cooperation of both affiliated and non-affiliated theatre men in sponsoring a law for the admission of children unaccompanied by guardians and the recent move to end early bird prices and further increase prices by moving up the evening change of admissions hour to 5 P. M. has heartened important theatre men that in time most of the current exhibition evils will be eliminated.

All of the exhibitors contacted agree they will give up chance games provided the others do likewise. The only way a unanimous move can be

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

THE Prudential Life Assurance Company is Alexander Korda's backer and his new studios at Denham his pride and joy. A tour of this very modern and up-to-the-minute plant, not far from the Pinewood studios and so about twenty miles from London makes the producer's glow of accomplishment entirely and readily understandable. For Denham, by all externals, ranks up well with any comparable studio in any land and that means Hollywood, in particular. . . .

All sorts of stories may be heard about Korda and London Films. As a matter of fact and obviously because of the vital spot he fills in the British industry, the difficulty is one of escaping them. Even before this overseas argosy had gotten under way, New York had heard he was spending too much money on negatives, that is, in proportion to return, and that Prudential was no longer quite so free in untying its money-bags. The same yarn is in circulation here, but to counter it is an ambitious program, under way and planned, and no apparent concern on Korda's part about the finances required for its making. Competitors and critics explain this by pointing out Prudential is in so heavily it is not easy to pull out and that one way to retrieve is to keep going. However, these are competitors and critics sounding off. . . .

However that may be, some detail about Denham is, of course, quite essential in view of what it represents—the magnitude of the plant, the investment which makes it mandatory to keep going, the program it is setting out to meet, Korda's partnership in United Artists, the position of London Films and allied units in the British industry and, not at all last on the agenda, the fact that what this producer turns out will reach the American exhibitor sooner or later, but probably sooner. . . .

It was Jack Okey, an American so far as we know, who did the supervisory construction job; a similar task for Paramount and First National in Hollywood qualified him. Equipped with Western Electric sound are the seven separate stages bulking 120,000 square feet of space available for catching whatever may be caught on celluloid, by no matter whom. Each of two are 250 by 120 by 45 feet high; each of two more, 125 by 120 by 45; each of the remaining three, 120 by 80 by 35 from floor to shooting ceiling. This gives a slant of the scope with which they were constructed. . . .

The physical accoutrement necessary in modern production, of course, is there in the one hundred and sixty-five acres which comprise the total area. For instance, a scene dock, dressing room, covered by glass and leading directly to the stages; two previewing theatres, a commissary, shops—machine, foundry, metal, blacksmith, tinsmith, plumbing, woodturning, modelers', plasterers', sign, camera repair, drapery, properties wardrobe, makeup, paint—a laboratory, artesian well—the studio publicity department asserts 70,000 gallons can be mustered for pumping here and there per hour, and a power plant, which not only makes Denham self-contained on that score, but is large enough to supply the entire county of Buckinghamshire at the same time. They went to it. . . .

Denham is still raw. The actual job of throwing up the concrete stages was launched as recently as last autumn and between then and now Stages 6 and 7 were damaged by fire. Repairs, however, have been completed and, where the flames once raged, Miriam Hopkins and Conrad Veidt will play out "Dark Journey" under Victor Saville's direction for London Films, and Lothan Mendes, director of "Power" ("Jew Suiss") will pilot "Paderewski" for Pall Mall Productions, which is a very good name indeed for a British film unit. The star and executive restaurant already is outgrowing its requirements, so heavy is the production schedule now under way, and something will have to be done about it. Korda is concerning himself with that detail. We asked him why. He said, "Because sooner or later, it will come to me anyway." . . .

Alex has far too much to do; at least, he realizes it. Not only is the job of running production for London Films his, but the plant, which leases space to all and sundry properly equipped financially, as well. Additionally, he is directing Charles Laughton in "Rembrandt" under the mandate of the contract by which this brilliant English actor agreed to play the part. In a couple of hours on the day we saw him, Korda (1) rehearsed a scene for the picture; (2) interrupted that job to attend a directors' meeting in his office; (3) extended us the courtesy of watching us struggle through one of those light British luncheons while he confined his activities to black coffee and nursing a bad headache; (4) took us back to his office for discussions about this and that, of which more later; (5) returned to the "Rembrandt" set. As we left he (6) had again cut into direction to talk earnestly to a studio attache about something of another nature entirely. In his spare moments, he smoked long, black cigars. . . .

Max Schach, all-British producer from the Continent operating a number of companies, including Capital and Trafalgar, is now making two at Denham. One, "Land Without Music," stars Richard Tauber, which at once patently makes it a musical. The other is "Dishonor Bright," starring Tom Walls, the well-known English comedian directed by Tom Walls with Eugene Pallette, once of Hollywood, in the usual sort of comedy role. Bob Kane, expected to make his second New World at Pinewood down the road a spell, has "Wings of the Morning" well along. Starring Annabell, the French player, with Henry Fonda of the U. S. A. in the lead and Glenn Tryon, once a Hollywood actor, directing, this is the first all-Technicolor feature to be essayed in the Kingdom. Natalie Kalmus is sticking around to see that all goes well—with the color, at any rate. . . .

Fred Zelnik, another all-British producer who, memory insists, is an ex-patriate from Berlin, is finishing "Southern Roses" for Grafton Films with George Robey, Gina Malo and Neil Hamilton in the leads. Eddie Robinson, who by legend, drew a thousand quid ($5,000 a week) for some weeks after arrival from New York while a story was ferreted out for him, will star in "Thunder in the City" for Atlantic Films as producer and Columbia as distributor in the States. Marion Gering, long with Paramount in Hollywood, is directing. Then, Bob Flaherty and Zoltan Korda are back from Mysore where they made exteriors and background shots on London Films' "Elephant Boy," interiors to be matched here. But wait, there is more. . . .

William K. Howard is around, just about under way with "Fire Over England," an Elizabethan story with Flora Robson, Raymond Massey, Laurence Olivier and Vivian Leigh, young West End actress over whom the studio is slightly gaga; this is her first

Denver's Giveaways Competing Heavily

DENVER, Aug. 12.—With the addition of a Thursday night cash giveaway by the seven Harry Huffman theatres here, the giveaway situation is beginning to look like a local fight. Since the awarding of the Huffman Cinderella $25,000 home in June, Huffman had offered nothing to buck the Lucky Seven Bank Night. Now he has a Triple Cash Night offering three cash awards of $500, $300, and $100. The idea is to call one ticket each for the two top amounts, and give the $100 away every week. If the winners are not present the amounts will be boosted to $700 and $500.

Lucky Seven has two Bank Nights, one the same night as Huffman's cash awards and the other as competition to the Huffman Ford giveaways. Recently knocked down for $2,400 the one Bank Night is starting again at $500, while the other is up to $1,600.

Trips Thrown In

As an added inducement with his Ford giveaway, Huffman has added two all-expense trips to Glenwood Springs, Colo., to each of two winners. How long this vacation special will be continued is not known.

The Huffman group has seven houses, with four first run, the Lucky Seven has one first run house, and the third group to carry on giveaways is the Civic Theatres, including eight houses, with no first runs. The Civic houses have Bank Night.

More than $200,000 in money and merchandise has been given by Denver theatres to their patrons in the past two years, and it looks like that much more will be given away in less time if giveaways keep up as they are going now.

They are the National, Washington; Nixon, Pittsburgh; Hanna, Cleveland; Cass, Detroit; Geary, San Francisco.

On Sept. 13 the Shakespearean film will start an indefinite engagement at His Majesty's, Montreal. The Maryland, Baltimore, on Sept. 20 will be the next, to be followed by the American, St. Louis, on Sept. 27. The Erlanger, Buffalo, is set for Oct. 4, and the Royal Alexandria, Oct. 5. MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Gentleman From Louisiana"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Suggested by the early career of jockey Tod Sloane, this story offers entertaining excitement played against the background of the sporting world in the "Gay Nineties."

Eddie Quillan, in the title role, is pictured as a farm hand who conceives a new system for riding a race horse. At the track he is given opportunity to demonstrate his method by "Chic" Sale, an impoverished owner, who is unable to hire any other rider. Success leads to a racing partnership between Quillan, Sale, John Miljan and Marjorie Gateson. When Miljan becomes pressed for cash he persuades Quillan to accept a mount from a rival owner, Pierre Watkin, using the jockey's affection for Charlotte Henry, Miss Gateson's daughter, as a wedge. Complications follow when Quillan is barred by the Jockey Club through further villainy of Miljan and not cleared until the final sequence, when all the difficulties are straightened.

Throughout the story such characters as "Diamond Jim" Brady, played by Charles Wilson; Steve Brodie, played by Matt McHugh, and John L. Sullivan, portrayed by John Kelly, enter the background adding to the picture's appeal.

Irving Pichel's direction confines the action almost entirely on the tracks and offers few letdowns. The story and screen play are the joint work of Jerry Chodorov, Bert Granet, Gordon Rigby and Joseph Fields. Colbert Clark supervised the production.

The picture has wide appeal and should fit happily on most programs. Production Code Seal, No. 2,331. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

Talk Operation at Fox Midwest's Meet

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Aug. 12.—Fundamentals of theatre operation rather than the exploitation of new product will keynote the Fox theatre management during the coming year, Elmer C. Rhoden, president of Fox Midwest, and other management executives told more than 100 managers and district managers at the fifth annual two-day convention which closed here today with a banquet. The speakers also stressed the fact that less ballyhoo is necessary because pictures are steadily improving.

The actual value of the past year's exploitation campaigns is debatable, said Rhoden, who is inclined to believe that too many dollars have been wasted on them.

The convention devoted itself to the study of fundamentals, especially service to the patrons such as a reliable list of nursemaids to stay with children while the parents go to the show and a stamp and mail service for patrons with letters. Such cooperation, said Lon Cox, district manager, builds added popularity for the theatre adopting it.

Printed Manual Prepared

Other phases of the convention theme which were developed at the meeting were: civic contacts, staff meetings, judicious use of purchased newspaper space, achievement of economy by the control of controllable expenses and the proper balancing of shows by careful booking. These talks were printed for distribution to over 900 Fox employes who thus for the first time get the full benefit of the convention in what Rhoden considers the most valuable theatre manual available.

The only piece of exploitation is the "Screen Forecast" booklet describing briefly a dozen outstanding pictures of the next three months with a check list on the back for the patron who will subsequently be notified of the picture's playdate. If successful, the book will be issued quarterly.

The managers voted to hold next year's convention in Wichita.

Will Head West on Warner Music Plugs

Edwin H. Morris, vice-president of the Warner music companies, is scheduled to leave for the coast shortly with Arthur Schwartz to confer with Harry M. Warner on the exploitation of musical numbers in the company's pictures.

Schwartz also will act as contact man between the music companies and production units. He originally came from the coast and has been in town for a visit.

Morris is slated to be named to the Ascap board at its next meeting. He will take the place of Herman Starr, who resigned the post when Warners withdrew from the association last January.

Lenarch Takes Theatre

Jean H. Lenauer, president of Lenauer International Films, Inc., has been elected secretary of the newly formed Lenarch, Inc., which is headed by Archibald E. Lewine. The firm has leased the 58th St. Theatre, which will be opened in September and will show foreign films. Herman Weinberg, former manager of the Little in Baltimore, will manager the house.

Looking 'Em Over

"Two-Fisted Gentleman"

(Columbia)

With some slight but effective changes from routine formula, this melodrama of the prizefighting ring manages to be entertaining fare. A genuine atmosphere of the ring and the fighting game pervades the story. Good type casting lends a realistic air to the story. It should be reasonably successful.

Opening in a small Massachusetts town, the story, in its early sequences, concentrates on the enthusiasm of James Dunn to become a leather pusher. His opportunity comes when June Clayworth's father, a promoter, is killed in an automobile accident and his stable of fighters deserts her. Miss Clayworth becomes Dunn's manager and under her guidance achieves some fame. A quick romance follows and they marry. Dunn aspires to the big time in New York and the pair are soon almost starving in a furnished room while waiting for a bout. His reputation is not unknown in the big city but he refuses to sign up with a promoter.

After many discouraging attempts he finally is started when he appears for charity and is offered an engagement which leads him to the top. Success follows success in the approved fashion and, still in the approved fashion, he becomes involved with Park Ave. society when his charity acquaintance with Sara Edwards causes him to follow the expensive life. High living causes him to take on setups, which weakens him professionally and softens him. His wife tries to open his eyes, but he won't see her way and they part. Without Miss Clayworth he is merely a pug and down the ladder he goes. There follows the usual degradation and later, by harping on his pride, Miss Clayworth effects a reconciliation and his regeneration.

The cast includes George McKay, John Gallaudet, Victor Kilian, Arthur Loft, Thurston Hall and Harry Tyler. The story is from an original by Thoms Van Dyke. Gordon Wiles' direction is well paced and effective.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,360. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Walking on Air"

(Radio)

This is a light farce-comedy which at times attains hilarious moments. although it follows a somewhat familiar pattern. Portraying youthful romance, it also includes a few musical numbers.

Ann Sothern, against the wishes of her father, Henry Stephenson, wants to marry Alan Curtis, a playboy. Through personal ads in newspapers the aid of Gene Raymond and Gordon Jones is enlisted and the fun begins. Miss Sothern hires Raymond to impersonate a French count who, as a guest at her home, makes himself obnoxious. Jones is employed by Stephenson to prevent Miss Sothern and Curtis from eloping. Raymond, meanwhile, has a radio engagement pending. As events develop Miss Sothern falls for Raymond, whose identity is revealed by a French-speaking butler and he is at the same time befriended by Stephenson. Affairs become upset again with Miss Sothern running off with Curtis and Raymond going on to fame on the radio.

But Miss Sothern has a change of heart and returns to Raymond only to be misled by Jones when Raymond is being congratulated by his sister-in-law at the station. She goes off in a huff and Raymond disrupts the program to broadcast that he is not married and still loves her—on the sponsor's time—finally winning her. Through it all there is a delightful thread of lunacy.

The able supporting cast includes Jessie Ralph, Anita Colby, George Meeker, Patricia Wilder and Charles Coleman. Raymond sings two numbers by Kalmar and Ruby which should interest his followers. The screen play was prepared by Viola Brothers Shore, Bert Kalmar, Harry Ruby and Rian James. Joseph Santley did well with the direction.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Paramount Pictorial No. 1"

(Paramount)

The latest in milady's footwear from the shoes she dons in the morning to her dance slippers is the first part of this short; "Golden Acres," the second, is a collection of fine Technicolor views of the natural scenic beauty of California. The last sequence is devoted to the art of Don Baker, the organist, who offers a demonstration of his skill at the keyboard of the instrument in the New York Paramount. The three items are good novelty and should be well received. Production Code Seal, No. 01076. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Lulu's Love"

(Paramount)

A new idea in animating puppets is the reason for this. Called "plastic puppets"—which provides flexibility and facial contortion—a musical romance is made to act as the story of Pugsy, a romantic pup, his sweetheart Lulu and the Pomeranian Princess. Pugsy prefers to woo Lulu and the princess' advances cause him to flee to the moon with his true love. When the moon gets full they fall into a dwarf's cave, where they are married. It is mediocre stuff at its best. Entertainment value is quite limited. Production Code Seal, No. 01124. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Popular Science No. 6"

(Paramount)

Another fine issue of the series. Superlatively filmed in Cinecolor, this number offers demonstrations of a highly sensitive microphone that picks up imperceptible sounds which, when amplified, will be found startling, the evolution of exercising machines, new gardening aids, improved forest fire fighting apparatus and a camera tour of the Max Factor makeup factory in Hollywood. The last sequence will be of especial interest to women. Altogether it is a worthy adjunct to any program. Production Code Seal, No. 2,336. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Neptune's Scholars"

(Paramount)

This film should cause most audiences to gasp. A "Sportlight," it concerns a group of girls who, for the theatrical novelty, go to school beneath the waters of Silver Springs, Fla. Routine school stuff is gone through in submarine surroundings and Ted Husing handles the narrative. It is a good, different short and should be enjoyably received. Production Code Seal, No. 0969. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Hills of Old Wyomin'"

(Paramount)

Starting with some burlesquing slants at newsreels, this Screen Song manages to make the grade. It should be pleasantly received. Louise Massey and The Westerners render the number. The camera illustrates with some fine landscapes. The animated part which illustrates the newsreels is clever. Of course the bouncing ball is present. Production Code Seal, No. 0939. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Beano Object Of Thorough Boston Study

when it actually pays only $7,000. The statement was denied, the manager declaring that an agreement existed whereby 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the game was to go to the owner as rent.

City Censor McNary recommended that Beano be placed under the supervision of the state, as is horse racing. Local legal authorities determined that there is nothing in the law that permits Beano operators to deduct expense or profit from the proceeds of the game. Applying the law strictly, any promoter taking any profit from the game is violating the law.

It was revealed that there are approximately 75 Beano games in operation, 50 operating one night a week, and 25 six nights weekly. The daily patronage in Boston alone has been estimated at 20,000. The operation is said to have a daily revenue exceeding $50,000, the fee amounting only to $2 for a license.

Decision Tuesday on All-Continent Books

trust for his wife and daughters it was a sham.

"We are not asking your honor," Brown said, "to determine that All-Continent is the bankrupt or that it is Fox's alter ego or that its books are those of Fox. We are asking you to treat All-Continent as a separate entity which ultimately acquired the entire wealth of Fox through numerous transactions. The question of whether All-Continent is a separate entity is not before you; that issue is not here raised; we are not in a position to determine that issue. We are not alleging anything. We simply ask the privilege of examining into the facts."

Leitsteen Testimony Recounted

In arguing for the Steelman petition, Brown rehearsed again the testimony thus far extracted from Herbert Leitsteen, Fox family bookkeeper, to show that the William Fox and All-Continent finances have been interwoven for more than five years. He repeated that transactions in the All-Continent cash book totaled $13,100,000 and that "$12,115,000 of this went either to the benefit of Fox directly or on his account directly or indirectly. The trustee can only fulfill his function of discovering assets and determining whether the charges against the estate are legal by checking over the All-Continent books."

Former Circuit Judge Clarence L. Cole, for All-Continent, insisted that all of its transactions relating to Fox have already been brought out.

RKO Team Wins Again

"Rhythm" on Dual Leads New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 12.—"Rhythm on the Range" and "Girl of the Ozarks" took the lead in a week in which grosses exceeded the $4,800 normal by $2,000 and the temperature exceeded normal by too many degrees. The program is being held over for a second week. Poli's missed the usual $7,000 by $700 with a dual program which featured "The Devil Doll" and "And So They Were Married." The Roger Sherman revived "There's Always Tomorrow" and "Taxi" in a five-day run prior to a short closing for repairs, and tallied $2,700 against the average $4,700. "Trouble for Two" and "White Fang" at the College dipped $1,400 under the $2,800 par.

Drop Efforts For Settling Center Claim

which the Rockefeller Center claims will be allowed. To do so might entail a delay of the better part of a year in reorganizing RKO. Judge Bondy left yesterday on a European vacation and his decision on the amount in which the claim should be allowed is not expected now before early October, as a result. His decision is almost certain to be appealed.

Atlas, which owns one-half of RCA's holdings in RKO and has an option to acquire the remainder, is not considering in its current discussions with Rockefeller Center any specific amount in which the latter's claim against RKO may be allowed, it was stated. Thomas D. Thacher, as special master, recommended that the claim be allowed at approximately $9,100,000 and RKO, in appealing from this recommendation, contends that it should not be allowed at more than $2,862,000, representing three years' rent on the Music Hall and Center.

Center the Largest Creditor

If Atlas and Rockefeller Center succeed in agreeing upon the amount of stock or debentures, or both, of the reorganized RKO company which shall be paid to Rockefeller Center for each $1,000 of the amount in which the claim is finally allowed, a reorganization plan for RKO could be brought to conclusion without waiting for the courts to decide what the amount of the claim is to be, it was pointed out. Rockefeller Center's claim makes it the largest unsecured creditor of RKO and if an acceptable treatment for the claim under a reorganization plan is worked out, the same treatment would apply to all other general claims against the company.

The discussions now proceeding could result in an agreement under which Rockefeller Center would receive from the reorganized RKO a $500 debenture plus an agreed upon number of shares of new stock for each $1,000 of its claim as finally allowed. On that basis a reorganization plan for RKO could be completed which provided for the issuance of new debentures and stock in an amount sufficient to pay off the Rockefeller Center claim at the maximum amount at which it could be allowed, in addition, of course the new securities required for the settlement of all other claims against the company on the basis agreed upon. The reorganization plan could then proceed to its consummation without the Rockefeller claim having been decided by the courts. When decided, and if in an amount less than the maximum provided for, the unnecessary new securities reserved for it merely would remain authorized but unissued, it was stated.

Reorganization Could Be Speeded

This procedure, if Atlas and Rockefeller Center succeed in arriving at an agreement, stands to advance the reorganization of RKO by approximately six to nine months in comparison with the time required to complete a plan which was held up for a final court decision on the Rockefeller claim, it was said.

His Hair Down

Hollywood, Aug. 12. — On the point that silent stars were routed out by sound, Bryant Washburn, who was one of them, remarks:

"The truth is that talking pictures just happened along at about the time we stars were beginning to show our age and our glamour was beginning to fray a trifle."

There should be an Academy award for such frankness.

Court Reduces RKO Interim Allowances

at $50,000, and a final petition for $3,308 by Price, Waterhouse & Co., accountants, was allowed in full.

In addition, Judge Bondy yesterday revised his previous allowance of $231,500 on a claim filed against RKO by the late S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel in line with petitions made by the RKO trustee following Roxy's death. Roxy's claim was based on his management contract for the Music Hall and it had been allowed by Judge Bondy just prior to Roxy's death. Thereafter, the RKO trustee objected to the allowance on the grounds that it was based on the full term of the contract, whereas Roxy's death would have terminated the contract in advance of its expiration. Judge Bondy agreed with this contention and reduced the Roxy claim to $179,271, allowing it in that amount. Roxy has an additional claim for 10,000 shares of RKO stock allowed him under the contract.

Brecher and Bernard Barr, who acted on the committee representing the organization at the meeting of circuit heads last week at C. C. Moskowitz's office. The membership endorsed the plan as agreed upon and starting Sept. 4 and 5, independent exhibitors will comply with the agreement.

A preliminary discussion was held on the dropping dual feature policies in the local area. The matter was not gone into in detail due to absence of Harry Brandt, president, who is scheduled to return from Canada on Monday. It is understood this topic will be given serious consideration within the next few weeks.

Hawaiian Firm Sues Warners For $300,000 of $500,000 and has already spent $175,000, the complaint sets forth. It is charged that the defendants showed the Franklin contract to Consolidated in order to induce the latter to pay more for the pictures so that the plaintiff might be excluded from getting them altogether.

The suit was filed here by Charles Franklin, attorney for the plaintiff. He is a brother of John J. Franklin, vice-president and general manager of the Hawaiian firm, and of Harold B. Franklin, former major company executive, who is said to have no interest in the theatre company.

The Warner legal department declined to comment on the suit saying it would answer in due time.

Seek Governmental Action

Franklin, the plaintiff's attorney, said that he had forwarded verified copies of the complaint to the Dep't of Justice in the hope that the Government could be induced to bring an action for injunctive relief against all major distributors servicing Hawaii, except Paramount, along the lines of the Government's recent St. Louis action. He alleges that the Franklin theatres are unable to obtain sufficient suitable product because of a conspiracy in restraint of trade. He said that Paramount was not involved because it had supplied films to the Franklin houses.

The attorney said that he had been advised recently by John Dickinson, assistant to the Attorney General, that the Dep't of Justice is continuing its investigation of the Hawaiian situation requested by Franklin and started 20 months ago.

Summer Grosses Seen 10% Over Last Year

Business so far this summer has been about 10 per cent better than the last, according to a leading independent circuit operator in the local area.

Two reasons are given for the improvement. One is that the summer has been fairly mild. The second is that the pictures released have been of a better quality than in previous warm months.

Every Broadway theatre, from the Music Hall down, is said to have been operating on the profit side of the ledger during most of the weeks so far.

Central Properties holds 80 per cent of the claims against the neighborhood circuit. A public sale was scheduled to be held in the Federal court, St. Louis, the latter part of July, but as yet no definite date has been set for the auction. However, it is expected that Central Properties will be the highest bidder at the sale.

Arthur will leave for St. Louis in two weeks to confer with the musicians' union on a term contract for stage presentations in a number of first run St. Louis houses. An agreement with the stagehands already has been completed and the only matter holding up a definite date for stage shows after Labor Day is the pending agreement with the musicians.

Study State Aid for Industry in Mexico with producing experience, and one who is versed in international film distribution.

Reachi contends that the industry's slow progress here is due to the lack of technical and professional material for making good pictures, the few really competent directors of varied experience; ignorance of the best methods of making films commercially profitable, and lack of contact for large scale international distribution. More attention must be given to film stories and public desires, he says, and insists the industry here needs Government technical and financial assistance.

The Mexican Congress is considering a measure which would provide for the production of a film history of the revolution, covering a period from 1910 to today. The picture would touch on all phases of the situation and be completely accurate. The measure provides that a Mexican company produce the film, which would have wide distribution abroad.

Congress also proposes to arrange state aid for companies which produce films designed to make the truth about Mexico better known abroad.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Last of the Mohicans"

(Reliance-United Artists)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—A great story, excellent acting and impressive production combine to give this picture wide audience appeal and consequently high showmanship value.

James Fenimore Cooper's story may be a tradition-encrusted literary classic, but the entertainment it provides is just as modern and as compelling as tomorrow's headlines. The first attraction of its kind to come to the screen in some time, "The Last of the Mohicans" is a thrill-action drama, rivalling the most vividly conceived gangster film in excitement-provoking quality. Yet, at the same time, it depicts heart-touching dual romance, spirited adventure and a starkly melodramatic story of human courage, treachery, sacrifice and tragedy which was the theme of Cooper's saga of colonial British-French-Indian frontier warfare.

The generally familiar highlights of this version which swept a preview audience into enthusiastic applause were many and varied. First was the treacherous Magua's betrayal of Alice, Cora and Major Heyward into the hands of the Hurons and their rescue by and over the rapids under the guidance of Hawkeye, Chingaghgook and Uncas. Second, the sensationally produced siege of embattled British colonials in Fort William Henry by the French and Indians, followed by Munro's capitulation to Montcalm had the preview audience standing and cheering.

The grisly massacre of the soldiers by fanatical Indians and the capture of the girls leads to the film's sock anti-climax in which Magua kills Uncas, Cora chooses death rather than dishonor and Chingaghgook slays Magua.

The drama of this episode is intensified as Heyward in order to save Alice's life, dons Hawkeye's deerskins to offer himself as a sacrifice in return for her life. As the savages dance around the fire with the hero tied to the stake and Hawkeye seeks to save a friendly enemy, the colonials come up in rescue and provide a romantic ending for Hawkeye and Alice.

Seldom has a screen actor so emphatically interpreted a menacing character as does Bruce Cabot the role of the treacherous Magua. It is a personal achievement for him. Robert Barrat as Chingaghgook, Randolph Scott as Hawkeye and Philip Reed as Uncas contribute realistic and believable performances that should considerably increase their screen importance and name value.

Henry Wilcoxon, fearful and jealous rival of Hawkeye, performs spiritedly and the two girls, Binnie Barnes as Alice and Heather Angel as Cora, work in a manner that greatly enhances the sympathetic and human interest quality of the story, since practically all of the action centers about this group and Robert Buckler as Colonel Munro. The supporting cast, while worthy, is of little significance.

John Balderston, Paul Perez and Daniel Moore are credited with the adaptation and Philip Dunne with the screenplay; they have faithfully preserved the full dramatic qualities of the original, but have also endowed it with modernized dialogue that gives the attraction an up-to-date flavor. The direction by George B. Seitz is excellent and attains a maximum of movement.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,345. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

head. "Forgotten Souls," the second on the list, is in production. The first action picture, "Pilot X," now completed, is soon to be released.

Short Subjects

"Mickey's Rival"

(Disney-U. A.)

Mickey takes Minnie out for a picnic in the country all on a summer's day, but along comes Mortimer in his snappy roadster and well nigh ruins the day for Mickey with his Rotarian tricks. That is, until Mortimer gets funny with the bull in the pasture and Mickey has to swing to the rescue, aided no end by his faithful auto. Clever animation and fast-moving, but there have been better Mickeys. For instance, "Alpine Climbers." Production Code Seal, No. 1,676. Running time, 8¼ mins. "G."

"Toby Tortoise Returns"

(Disney-U. A.)

In which Toby and Max Hare stage a return bout in the squared ring with results most fantastic and highly diverting. Max, the bully, knocks the stuffings out of Toby, but tries one trick too many when he packs the tortoise full of firecrackers and Roman candles. Toby zooms, ricochets and flies all over the place in a blaze of Technicolor, eventually to knock out Max and win the day. The pace is furious, the color work outstanding and the entertainment content very high. Production Code Seal, No. 2,206. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

standing of our problems by the foreign departments of various film companies."

The executive stated he had completed details for refinancing his group of companies on the London market. Several of his companies will be merged into one unit. The extent of the financing will be £750,000 Australian, which will supply adequate capital for the purposes required. On his return to Sydney, the proposal will be submitted to the boards of his companies for ratification.

Norman Rydge has replaced H. Y. Russell as chairman of the Greater Union board.

Discussing quotas and production in Australia, Doyle said that Cinesound Prod., his producing company, has completed "Thoroughbred" and "Orphan of the Wilderness." "Robbery Under Arms" will go into work soon and releases on the British market have been assured. It is hoped to interest an American distributor in handling the product here.

Clarifies Quota Law

United Artists will be interested in the production of "Half Caste." There is a likelihood American talent will go to Australia for the picture. Clarifying the Australian opinion on quotas, Doyle asserted, "My legal advices from Australia state that the best constitutional lawyers consider the Australian quota law does not impose on American distributors the necessity to produce pictures, but only to distribute such pictures as may be produced by local producers."

The General Theatres' executive has been in New York two weeks renewing acquaintances and negotiating the release of "Thoroughbred."
